Austin Wickens Named QCBPA Executive Secretary

The Quincy Center Business and Professional Association has appointed Austin Wickens of Quincy as executive secretary and promotions coordinator for the organization.

Announcement was made Wednesday by QCBPA President Bernard Reisberg.

Wickens, a lifetime resident of Quincy, and retired Sears Roebuck sales executive, will be responsible for special sale promotions and member recruitment for the QCBPA.

"I am quite familiar with downtown Quincy," Wickens said. "I feel the downtown area has a tremendous future and I am looking forward to working with the downtown business and professional people to keep the downtown area moving ahead."

As part of his 40 years with Sears Roebuck, Wickens spent 18 years in the Quincy store as specialty sales manager and was group merchandising manager in Boston.

He and his wife, Mary, live at 11 Mortimer Terrace in Quincy. He has been active in many Quincy and South Shore organizations. He is a Past Commodore of the Quincy Yacht Club, a member of the Commodores Club of America, the Rural Masonic Lodge, Taleb Grotto, and is a member of the 100 Century Club.

Wickens pledged his full cooperation to the QCBPA membership after his appointment and said, "I know together we can keep downtown Quincy healthy and active and a leader in the retail and professional fields."

Cleanup Ordered At North Quincy Gas Station

By TOM BRADY

The Quincy Licensing Board, Tuesday, suspended the license of the Mobil Oil Station at 767-773 East Squantum St., for three months and then suspended the suspension for six months, after complaints were received about the condition of the station.

The action has the effect of putting the station owner on probation for six months.

Joseph Gaudet, the station owner was warned to clean the station up and to limit the numbers of cars on the lot for repairs after Anthony J. Graceffa, who lives near the station complained about those conditions to the board.

The board told Gaudet that, if the conditions at the station were not corrected or if any further complaints were received in the six months period, his license to operate the station could be revoked.

City Councillor James Sheets attended the Licensing Board meeting to discuss with the board the problems of two businesses in his district.

He told the board members that P.D.M. Inc., would move out of their 53 Intervale St. branch and consolidate the business into their 175 Intervale St. plant. Sheets said he was upset about P.D.M.'s practice of washing trucks outside in a residential area and other problems.

He also spoke with the Board and Dennis Lane, owner of the 7-11 Quik Mart at 678 Adams St. about the gangs of youths which loiter in the lot adjacent to the store at night in and around parked cars.

Lane and Edward Zimmerman, representing the 7-11 chain, offered to install barriers to the entrance to the lot, preventing passage to the street through it.

In other action, the Licensing Board continued a request from Mrs. Suzanne Dixon for a license to operate antique and furniture refinishing shop at 144 Franklin St. in South Quincy.

Mrs. Dixon told the Board that the current owner of the building was operating a refinishing shop and, when the board discovered that no license was granted for that purpose, they continued the hearing on the new license to investigate the current owner's operation.

The board also postponed indefinitely a request from Thomas Dunphy, manager of the Furnace Brook Golf Club for permission to open at 11 a.m. instead of 1 p.m. on Sundays.

Board Chairman John Gillis said the board wanted to find out what hours were kept by other area golf clubs and to discuss the effect of the earlier opening before voting on it.

The board also granted permission for the Quincy Point Congregational Church to hold a "prefair project" on June 5 at 10 a.m. in the church parking lot. Activities will include games and a snack bar.

QHS Band, Color Guard Winners At Ontario Festival

"Marching Presidents", the Quincy High School band, has won another award, this time in international competition.

The Band took second place in a field of 56 entrants from 10 states and provinces in the "over 100" class at the recent Blossom Festival at Niagara Falls, Ont. The winner was from Cape May, N.J.

The Presidents' color guard also captured the runnerup trophy in the color guard contest.

The competition took place on River Rd. in Niagara Falls which runs past the famed Horseshoe Falls. It was televised nationally throughout Canada.

Band Director Mike Cahill called it "an unforgettable experience".

Besides a busy rehearsal schedule, the youngsters from Quincy did extensive sightseeing, touring both the American and Canadian Falls and the town of Niagara Falls, Ont.

The prizes and trophy winners were announced at a dance run by the Greater Niagara Promotion Association at Niagara Civic Arena which was attended by nearly 6,000 high school marchers.

Friends Of Library Organization Meeting Sunday

The Thomas Crane Public Library will host its newly formed Friends of the Library organization Sunday at 2 p.m. in the main library, Quincy Sq.

Purpose is to create a broad base of community support build upon an informed public, said

Warren Watson, library director.

He envisions a public support group that will serve as a liaison between the library and neighborhoods, as a participant in outreach, hospitality, and fund raising efforts, and as the basis for a library mailing list.

Sunday's open house will bring adults and children interested in joining the Friends together with library staff members for informal discussion. The library is interested in people who are interested in the library.

Bryant School To Hold Mini-Fair Saturday

The Gridley Bryant School, Willard St., West Quincy will hold its annual Mini Fair Saturday, from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. at the school.

There will be a bicycle and doll carriage contest, games, prizes a craft table, refreshments and fire engine rides for children.

In the event of rain, the fair will be held Sunday.

MONEY TALKS

Keeping Alive The American Dream Of Home Ownership

By Philip J. Lawrence, President

Colonial Federal Savings And Loan Association of Quincy, Holbrook and Wareham

8 - 6 Weekdays

8 - 7:30 Thursdays

Americans used to be proud of the fact that we are a nation of home owners. Noting that the percent of owner-residents in the United States had grown from 43% to 63% in the preceding 25 years, the senior editor of Look magazine commented that the house-with-mortgage was the surest way to translate current income, before it evaporated, into a family financial base. He described rows of development houses as "long lines of house-sized piggy banks, set upon dollar-strips of green."

We used to be proud of another fact about home ownership—that the average home buyer was getting younger than he used to be. Directors Digest happily reported in the 1960's that the first home was being purchased at age 31 instead of 48 a generation earlier.

The American dream of home ownership is becoming less realizable. Despite the growing obsolescence of housing and the increase of new family units, the national construction pace of two million new homes a year that was typical of 1971, '72, and '73 plunged to about a million units in 1974 and will not be much higher in 1975.

Construction costs in the past ten years have risen sharply; so have maintenance and repairs, property taxes, and utility bills. The inflationary impact on the cost of money has forced up mortgage rates.

According to a government survey, less than one family in five can now afford to purchase a home, whereas two out of every three could do so in the 1950's.

This is far more serious than a choice between renting or buying. As Senator Hubert Humphrey well stated in a recent speech, "Home ownership is one of the answers, if not maybe the best answer, to the instability that prevails in this country. The more people there are who have a stake in their community, the more people there are who own a little piece of that property, the greater will be the political stability of this country, and the economic stability of this country, and the moral tone of this country."

If a young couple's desire for home ownership is to be fulfilled, new construction must be increased to meet the potential need. This is important not only for housing but for the nation's total economy. As Senator Humphrey observed, "until we get the construction business of this country back in force, there will be no real recovery...Housing simply has to be made a priority item in the economy."

Money to purchase homes must be readily available—at low cost. This means that the savings and loans, the principal suppliers of funds for housing, must be permitted to do what they were established to do in this country. It requires an interest rate differential over commercial banks that will encourage people to put their savings into the S&Ls so that more money will be available for homes.

It also requires that the Federal government refrain from periodic raids into the S&Ls by offering higher-yielding Treasury notes to pay its bills.

City Delaying 400-Car N. Quincy Parking Area, Says MBTA

The MBTA says it is ready to provide 400 more parking spaces at the North Quincy station but the city of Quincy is dragging its feet in transferring title to the land for the site.

Warren J. Higgins, director of construction for the MBTA appealed to Rep. Joseph E. Brett [D-Quincy] for help and Brett promised to do what he could. Higgins told Brett:

"The Authority has prepared plans and specifications to build a 400-car parking lot and as the Authority has federal funds available, it is prepared to commence the work during this construction season.

"The only item left to be resolved is transfer of title of the land, which is the proposed site, from the city of Quincy to the MBTA. There have been several attempts to resolve this issue with city officials but to date we have not been successful."

In a letter to Mayor Joseph J. LaRaia, Brett pointed out:

"For some time we in North Quincy have been concerned over the serious shortage of parking spaces in the vicinity of the North Quincy MBTA Station.

"I heartily suggest that arrangements be made as soon as possible for transfer of the necessary property to the MBTA so they can quickly proceed with providing the additional 400 spaces at the North Quincy station."

Conway New England's No. 1 Executive Real Estate Relocations

The Jack Conway Co., South Shore real estate firm, has been cited as the No. 1 executive relocation real estate firm in New England and ninth on the East Coast according to figures released by William Ellis, President of RELO/Inter-City Relocation.

Ellis also said that the RELO network of 921 relocation firms coast-to-coast has increased relocation activity by 52 percent in sales and 63 percent in dollar volume over the same four-month period of a year ago. Ellis attributed this growth to more confidence by major companies who are the backbone of the RELO market and to higher new home prices.

Peggy Hall of Jack Conway Company reports the transferee market has increased to about 25 percent of the total sales volume at Conway Company, which is a 17-office chain based south and southeast of Boston and on Cape Cod.

Quincy Firm Awarded $632,000 Contract

The Board of Directors of the MBTA has awarded a $632,000 contract for the modernization of Auditorium Station on the Green Line to Patrick F. Walsh and Sons, Inc., of Quincy.

The base bid was the lowest of seven the Authority publicly opened March 23.

Under the contract, the station platforms, mezzanine, lobby and station facade at Massachusetts Ave. will be renovated; bullet proof booths and new fare collection equipment will be installed, and an escalator will be installed to connect the north platform with the station lobby.

Auditorium Station is one of seven being modernized under the Authority's $14.3 million Station Modernization Program-Phase II. Two-thirds, or about $9.6 million, of the cost of the Program is funded by a capital grant from the Urban Mass Transportation Administration [UMTA],

Little Loop Presents Trophies

Gus Andrews, former North Quincy High basketball star, presently head basketball coach at Catholic Memorial High School and a member of the Quincy Bowling Little Loop for four years, was the guest speaker at the recent 22nd annual dinner of the Little Loop at North Quincy K. of C. Hall.

The former Little Loop star was selected this winter as schoolboy Coach of the Year in Division One.

Trophies were presented to the members of the championship team, the second and third place teams and the individual leaders.

Mike Regan of Granite Lodge 1451 IAM AFL-CIO had the high average of 109.9. Joe Piazza of the championship Richard M. Morrissey Club rolled a record high three of 401 and Brian O'Toole of the George G. Burke Club had high single of 156.

Morrissey accepted the James M. Carey Memorial Award for his championship team. The Rep. Joseph E. Brett Club was runnerup and the Atlantic Fuel Oil third place team.

The Max Zides Memorial Award for good sportsmanship went to Peter Martin of the Brett Club and the "Pop" Hatfield Memorial Award for the most improved bowler went to Richard Hallberg of the Montclair Men's Club.

Rules of the league prohibit a boy from winning more than one team or individual award with the exception of a special memorial trophy. Piazza had high single of 162 but waived to accept the high three award.

Morrissey Club rolled a high team three of 1487 and single of 552 but waived for the first place trophies. Granite Lodge therefore is winner of high team three with a 1450 and Hutchinson Oil's 521 became a winner.

A moment of silence was observed for the league's treasurer, Jim Carey, who died last summer.

President Joe Gildea expressed his appreciation to the league sponsors and to Henry Bosworth of the Quincy Sun and Ken Fallon of Station WJDA for their coverage during the season.

Stanley E. Kovalski is league treasurer and the directors are John Mullaney, James Vey, David Brodie, Web Ellis, Richard Post and Richard Morrissey.

A-N Track Team Eyes City Crown

The Atlantic-North junior high school track team has two easy victories under its belt and is setting its sights on the city-wide championships June 3.

A-N breezed past Broad Meadows, 94-54, in its opener and followed up with a 97-51 romp over Central.

Brooks Maloof, assistant to North Quincy High Coach Lou Tozzi for the past two years, has taken over the Atlantic seventh and eighth graders working with Dave Hourin of North's ninth graders.

The top scorers for Maloof's eighth grade team are Leif Thornton in the 100 yard dash, long jump (he set a 7th grade city mark last year with a jump of over 17 feet) and the relay; Richard Panarelli in the shot put and Tom Pound in the half-mile and high jump. Other 8th grade returnees are Steve Mastorilli, Dan Micelli, Bob McCarthy, Kevin Doherty and Marvin Santos.

Rounding out the eighth grade team are Jay Boyle, Joe Cremin, John Fitzgerald, Martin Gray, John Green, Paul Murphy, Danny Rowley, Kenny Watt, Bob Pimental, Rodger Blanchette, Bill Timmons and Pete Rizzo.

There are several outstanding athletes among the seventh graders led by Clark Cranston, shot put, 440 and relay; Mike Bradbury, 50-yard dash, long jump and relay; Joe Toomey, 440, high jump and relay, and Jimmy Gates, high jump.

Other seventh graders are Pete Alibrandi, Paul Burke,

"The boys have a great attitude towards the sport and are eager to improve their skills which makes for a strong team with good team spirit," Maloof said. "We are looking forward to the city championships on June 3."

Atlantic-North was due to face Point yesterday [Wednesday] and will meet Sterling next Tuesday at Cavanaugh Stadium.

Tennis Clubs In 'Ace Cancer' Tourney

"Ace Cancer" is the slogan being used by South Shore Indoor Tennis Clubs to raise money to benefit the Cancer Fund in the towns and cities in the South Shore Area.

Participating are the Boston Harbor Marina Tennis Club of Squantum, Brockton Tennis Club, Hanover Racquet Club, Mill Pond Tennis Club, and the Suburban Indoor Tennis Center.

"Everyone can compete or contribute," said Wayne Schell of the Boston Harbor Marina Club. "If you cannot play, then take an ad in the program for as little as $10 and also contribute your services to help make this activity a success."

Friday, Saturday and Sunday men's B singles and doubles championships will be played at the Boston Harbor Marina Club.

June 5 and 6 there will be junior vets [sanctioned] singles and doubles at the Hanover Racquet Club.

On June 11, 12 and 13 men's A championships [sanctioned] singles and doubles will be played at the Suburban Indoor Center and B mixed doubles at Mill Pond Club.

The program will end on June 19 and 20 with a recap of champions at the Boston Harbor Marina Club.

All tournaments will start at 4, 5 or 6 p.m. on Friday except the junior vets, which will start at 11 a.m. Saturday. They will be run in two flights [split the draw] with prizes for each flight. The finalist and winner of each flight will then play for the grand championship and grand prizes on June 19 and 20 at the Boston Harbor Marina Club.

Entry blanks are available at any branch of the South Shore National Bank or any indoor tennis club. The South Shore National through its many branches is helping to sponsor the events.

Entries close 10 days before the start of each tournament. Entry fee consists of a tax deductible check of $12 for singles and $10 per player for doubles made payable to American Cancer Society and mailed to the South Shore National Bank, 1400 Hancock St., Quincy 02169, attention Corporate Dept.

On the day of the finals all advertisers will have a chance to be one of 10 winners with a drawing for tennis prizes.

● Baseball*Quincy Tourney Hopes Bright, North Drop 6th By 1

Two weeks ago no one would have given a plugged nickel for Quincy's chances of making the state baseball tournament as the Presidents struggled along with a 4-5 record.

However, the chances of making the tournament now are bright after Bud Mosher's team nipped hard-luck North Quincy, 2-1, under the lights Monday night for its seventh straight win and an 11-5 overall record (10-4 in the Suburban League).

Quincy is battling Waltham for second place in the league behind Brockton and an automatic invitation. If they fail to make second place, the Presidents needed two wins in their last four games. The first of these was yesterday [Wednesday] against league-leading Brockton and the second is tonight [Thursday] at 7:15 at second place Waltham. Quincy will host Weymouth North Monday and finish up the regular season Wednesday at Newton.

By losing Monday North Quincy dropped to 4-11 overall and 3-11 in league. The Raiders have lost six games by one run. The Raiders host Brookline Friday at Adams Field, will meet Milton there Saturday night at 7:30, will be at Brockton Monday and wind up at home against Weymouth South Wednesday.

Dave Raftery, fastballing righthander went the route against North Quincy before a large crowd. He allowed five hits, struck out five and walked five.

North starter Pete Fallon was bothered by wildness as he wild pitched in Quincy's first run in the first inning and forced the second in with a bases loaded walk in the second.

John Earle and Mike Halloran pitched brilliantly in relief as Quincy was held to just three hits, including a double by Paul Vespaziani.

Jim McGinley had two of North's five hits and singled home the only run.

Both teams sparked on defense and Quincy shortstop Lou Fishman and second baseman Eric Carrera started big double plays with excellent plays with men on base. Carrera made another outstanding stop of a bad-hop grounder.

For Raftery, who suffered a pre-season leg injury in practice and only recently got off crutches, it was his second rout-going win in as many starts.

Quincy made it six wins in a row last Friday with an 11-3 romp over Brookline combining a fine pitching effort by Steve Infascelli with a 14-hit attack sparked by a home run and triple by Fishman, who drove in three runs to raise his total of

RBI's to 18; a double and two singles by Mark DeLuca, three singles by Vespaziani and two singles each by Carrera and Infascelli.

Earlier in the week Quincy topped Rindge Tech, 4-2, behind the five-hit pitching of Fishman. The Presidents scored all their runs in the first three innings.

In its previous game, postponed earlier, Quincy had walloped Cambridge Latin, 14-4.

North Quincy walloped Newton for the second time, 12-5, as Cooper Jordan paced a 12-hit attack with four hits and four RBIs. Tony Alessi had a three-run homer and single. Winning pitcher Earle, who hurled a six-hitter, also had two hits.

In its next game North was nipped by Cambridge Latin, 3-2.

Rose LaHive Shoots Low Net

In the weekly women's tournament, this one a flag tournament, at Furnace Brook Golf Club, Rose LaHive shot low net, followed by Pat Tehan, Priscilla O'Neill, Joyce Serafini, Rena Roche and Mary Morrissey. Mrs. Robert Roche and Mrs. M. Harris were the tournament leaders.

In the weekly mixed Scotch foursome Joyce Serafini and Henry Barry and Mr. and Mrs.

Dick Corbin tied for low gross of 43.

Ed O'Neill and Mary Donahue had low net of 31, Tony Spinello and Pat Tehan had second net of 32 and there was a five-way tie for third net between Matt Smith and Amy Stearns, Quentin McCaffery and Eds Plate, Jim Morrison and Eileen Clifford, Roy Christensen and Dot Smith and Lee Purpura and Priscilla O'Neill.

● Quincy SoftballRouillard's, County Line Takes Division Leads

Rouillard's, with a big win over defending champion Well's Grille last week, has taken over the American League lead in the Quincy Softball League with a 5-0 record.

In the National League County Line leads with a 6-0 mark but the defending National titlist, Mr. Kelly, won four games during the past week to move to within one game with a 5-1 record.

Rouillard's topped Wells, 9-4, in the battle of the unbeaten, with Joe Petite saving the game with a spectacular leaping catch of Chuck Gosselin's towering fly with the bases loaded.

County Line nipped the Quincy Eagles, 10-9, after winning by forfeit over Red Carpet. It also topped Palmer, 10-7, paced by John Moriarty's two doubles and a single. For the Put Bruce Forsythe had a double and single and drove in two runs.

Mr. Kelly's big week included wins over Quincy Point Cong. 23-3; Wheeler-Dealer, 5-2; Alumni Cafe, 8-5, and Bill's Texaco, 21-4.

Beau's Place walloped Palmer Pub Hotshots, 13-3, with Buster Loub the winning pitcher. George McCall had a three run homer and single and Bill Troppe and Jim Cronin had six hits between them.

● Junior BaseballRemick's Defeats Keohane's, 1-0

A heartbreaking 1-0 loss to Remick's is all that has kept Keohane's from being unbeaten in the Quincy Junior Baseball League.

Remick's run was unearned to spoil an outstanding pitching performance by John Balzano, who gave up just one hit and struck out 10. Danny Dunn was the winning pitcher, giving up only four hits and displaying excellent control.

Keohane's, which had won its opener, 3-1, over Kiwanis, came back to wallop Boston Gear, 9-2, behind the pitching of Balzano and Brian Reale. Tommy Kowolis had two doubles. Trailing, 2-0, Keohane's exploded for six runs in the second inning. Losing pitcher was Greg Campbell.

Keohane's followed up with a 10-3 romp over Colonial Federal, with Reale the winning pitcher. He struck out 13 in making his record 2-0. He also had two hits, while Kevin Chase, Jimmy Jaehng and Kowolis also had hits. John Stocker was the losing pitcher.

In its latest game Keohane's belted the Elks, 9-1, with Pat King picking up his first pitching win, striking out six. Scott Thompson had five runs batted in and Balzano and King also drove in runs. Balzano was outstanding at third base, making a sparkling catch of a drive which was ticketed for at least a double. Vinny Whelan was the losing pitcher.

Rotary defeated Stars, 7-4, in another Junior League game, to remain undefeated in four games, as Steve Pecovich allowed six hits and struck out 11 for the winners.

Steve also had a three-run homer and Dan McInnes and Scott Matthews also had big hits. John Keough and Steve Sacchetti sparked defensively.

singles 1976 MBA championship held at the Crowell Bowl in Stow and has been invited to compete in the official World Invitational Candlepin tournament sponsored by the State Associations of Massachusetts, Maine and New Hampshire at Pilgrim Lanes, Haverhill, Saturday.

Hallberg, 13, who lives at 63 Vassall St., Wollaston, had a 100.7 average during the Little Loop season and was captain of Montclair Men's Club team.

The Little Loop junior boys' team also has been invited to compete by virtue of a fifth place finish in the MBA state championships also at Stow and will bowl Saturday at 4 p.m. The team includes Chris Butler, Fred Norton, Joe Crifo, Hallberg and Paul Anastas. Norton, who finished ninth in the state junior singles, also was invited individually.

Quincy's Mike Regan, who rolled a five-string total of 593 to finish seventh in the Senior Boys' singles event at Stow will be the only Little Loop to bowl in the Senior Boys' event at Haverhill.

Mike, who set a new league record during the past season with a 109.9 average, will bowl at 4 p.m. on Sunday.

All boys competing are asked to call Little Loop President Joe Gildea before Friday at 328-5525.

Raiders, Presidents Meet In Windup

The North Quincy track team, which won its first six meets including four in the Suburban League, has fallen on hard times with three losses in a row but hopes to finish up with a win Friday over Quincy at Veterans Memorial Stadium.

Although they lost all hopes of a league title, the Raiders will be trying to add the state Class B crown to their state titles in cross country and winter track. The state trials will be held on May 29 and the finals on Memorial Day, May 31.

The all-league meet will be run next Tuesday at Brockton at 2:30.

Last Friday Newton North handed the Raiders their third loss in a row, 92-53.

North's Dave Lorman broke the school record with a 15.6 in the high hurdles but he had to be satisfied with second place. Lorman also won the discus.

Other Raider winners were Brian Doherty in the 100, Bart Petracca in the half mile, Bob Levenson the mile and Pete Hemphill in the javelin. The 440 relay team of Matty King, Matty Constantino, Paul McGuiggan and Doherty also won.

Earlier in the week Lou Tozzi's Raiders were defeated by unbeaten league favorite Weymouth South, 93-52.

Petracca was nipped by South's Mark Hoffman in the half-mile. Raider winners were Doherty in the 100, Constantino in the 220, Bob Levenson in the mile (teammate Mike Morin was second), Steve Bonoli in the pole vault and Doherty in the shot put.

Joe Wessling's struggling Quincy team notched its second win of the year Friday, easily topping Brookline, 93-52.

President winners were Harry Williams, 220; Paul Ladas, 440; John Saville, half mile; Don Jones, mile; Kevin O'Brien, two-mile; Bill Shea, low hurdles; Arunas Simkus, tied for first in the high jump; Jim Oriola, triple jump; Bob Varraso, shot put; Bill Popsie, discus; Charlie Gaziano, javelin, and the mile relay team of Oriola, Ladas, Saville and Fran Yee.

Earlier in the week Quincy was defeated by Waltham, 78-66. Winning for the Presidents were Popsie, who set a league record in the discus of 143 feet, 2 inches; Ladas in the 440 and long jump, Williams, 220; O'Brien, mile; Saville, two-mile; Leo Barron, high jump; Sam Gravina, pole vault, and Gaziano, javelin.

● Basketball

Hotshots Win TARO Division Title

The Palmer Pub Hotshots of Quincy swept CCAC of Milton in two straight games last weekend to win the TARO winter Basketball League's Russell Division title.

It marked the Hotshots' fourth straight league crown. They had previously won the Cranberry, Quincy YMCA Businessmen's and TARO

Summer League championships.

In the first game Palmer won, 95-87, overcoming a deficit of 13 points in the final period. The Hotshots won the second, 107-93.

Terry Walker had 34 points and Ken Boyd 26 in the first game. In the second Boyd scored 38 and Ron Bradley 24.

The Quincy Nets won the Sanders Division title for their first league championship ever, defeating the Shamrocks, 90-78, to sweep that series in two straight. Kevin Gibson and Steve Martinelli paced the Nets.

In the Cousy Division the Palmer Pub B team lost the third and deciding game to the 76ers, 87-78. Roy Nagy sparked the winners with 34 points.

downs, had one of their better days last week, walloping Cambridge Latin, 14-4.

The Quincy girls, still hoping for a state tournament berth, were due to play Weymouth South yesterday (Wednesday), will play at Weymouth North Friday and will host Brockton Monday at Faxon Field.

The North girls will play at Weymouth South Friday and will be home to Brookline at Atlantic Junior High field Monday.

In the previous game the Quincy girls nipped rival North Quincy, 14-13, barely holding off the Raiderettes, who erupted for seven runs in the sixth. Kelly Sparks and Peg Thorley hit homers and Rosemary Pestilli, Tozzi, Mary Ann McCarthy, Rosie Maloney and Oliverio had doubles. Tozzi again was the winning pitcher.

Earlier the First Ladies had topped Brookline, 11-7.

Cheryl Manoli's North girls, who have had their ups and

First Ladies Win Pair, Raiderettes Bounce Back

Coach Barbara Webster's Quincy girls softball team continues to enjoy a successful season and two wins last week raised its record to 9-4, including a 7-4 Suburban League mark.

Lois Malvesti had three doubles and drove in three runs to lead the First Ladies to a 11-7 win over Newton. Malvesti and Claire Oliverio slammed two-run doubles in the first inning when Quincy exploded for seven runs. Cindy Tozzi was the winning pitcher.

School Coaching Jobs Open

There are several fall coaching vacancies in the Quincy and North Quincy high schools and junior high schools, according to Coordinator of Athletics Carl Leone.

Varsity and assistant soccer coaches are needed at both high schools to replace head coach Ron Martin and assistant Charles McLaughlin at Quincy and head coach Lou Ionailli and assistant Dick O'Brien at North.

Kicking Specialist

Derbes To Get Tryout With Dallas Cowboys

Kim Derbes of 33 South St., Quincy, former kicking standout at Quincy High, will receive a tryout with the Dallas Cowboys, who last fall lost to the Pittsburgh Steelers in the Super Bowl.

Derbes will receive his tryout at 9 a.m. May 22 at Texas Stadium.

Kim, a 1974 graduate of Quincy High, was rated by West Point scouts as the best all-around punter and place kicker in the Northeastern part of the country in 1973. He also excelled for Hank Conroy's Presidents in 1972. In addition to punting, he did the kicking off.

He averaged 44.5 yards a punt in his senior year and averaged better than 40 yards in six games. He made Player of the Week three times because of his kicking.

He attended Farnum Junior College in Roanoke, Va., but left college after suffering an injury.

"Kim was an outstanding

Cliffords Low Gross Winners At Furnace Brook

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Clifford shot low gross of 45 in the weekly mixed Scotch foursome at Furnace Brook Golf Club.

Mr. and Mrs. George Flate and Joy Robbins and Bob Donahue tied for low net of 33, Marie Corayer and Paul Mahoney Sr. and Mr. and Mrs. Lou Cugini tied for second net of 34. Mr. and Mrs. Al Stearns shot third net, Alice Pagnano and Joe Chapin and Mr. and Mrs. Bert Nogler tied for fourth net and there was a five-way tie for fifth net between Edna Phelps and Roy Christensen, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Roche, Mr. and Mrs.

Mario Serafini, Mr. and Mrs. Jim Morrison and Mr. and Mrs. Matt Smith.

Mrs. Walter Phelps, Mario Serafini and Joe Barranco were in charge of the tournament.

In the women's weekly tournament, a nine-hole partners best ball, all gross winners, Mel Corbin and Alice Pagnano shot low gross of 43, followed by Mel Corbin and Isabelle Morrison, Joyce Serafini and Pat Tehan and Rena Roche and Jennie Lutfy.

Mrs. Serafini and Mrs. Edward O'Neill were chairmen.

2 From Quincy CYO Scholar-Athletes

Two Quincy youths have been honored as scholar-athletes of the Catholic high school leagues by the Catholic Youth Organization (CYO).

They are John S. McLaney of Boston College High School and James W. Roberts of Archbishop Williams, both of whom received honorable

Chosen top scholar-athlete of the year was Ronnie Perry, the basketball phenom from Catholic Memorial in West Roxbury.

The award was established in 1948 to honor outstanding athletes in the 35 high schools of the Archdiocese of Boston.

Budget Cuts Expose City To Criminal Element Says Finn

"This unrealistic approach will result in heightening an already demoralized department, create new problems, provide no real continuity between shifts and allow for no real direction.

"I have a deep moral obligation to inform our city's leaders and its citizens that the mayor is cutting the police department's budget at the risk of the citizen's safety and creating a less than quality police department.

"To paraphrase Winston Churchill: 'Our troubles are ahead of us.'"

Mayor LaRaia viewed the Chief's complaints simply as a reluctance to make changes.

"After you have operated in a certain routine for a number of years you have difficulty accepting changes," he said. "This is true of several departments. We are doing this for the benefit of the people who pay taxes.

"We have concerned ourselves with the high cost of overtime in the police department. There appears to be no administrative control of overtime that we can be satisfied with.

"My recommended cuts are based on the cost of running the police department. There has to be administrative controls. The police chief has made efforts in this area of late that I am satisfied with.

"I hope to get his full cooperation but we have not reached that point yet.

"The bottom line is that this police department is near the top as the highest paid police department in the state. Among Metropolitan Boston communities it is on top."

The Mayor and Budget Director Sarah Saccone produced figures showing that, in 1975, Quincy patrolmen averaged $17,921 a year, not including paid outside details. About 43 per cent made more than $18,000 and 14 per cent more than $20,000.

The 28 sergeants on the force averaged $21,976 a year, the Mayor said, with eight of them getting more than $23,000 and four of them more than $25,000 a year. Base pay of a sergeant is $18,175.

Lieutenants had a base pay of $22,356, an average pay of $26,540, with three making better than $27,000, four more than $28,000 and one over $29,000.

Captains had a base pay of $27,496, an average pay of $31,443, with one making $34,800, another $32,400 and three below average.

"The police chief talks about morale being low," said Mayor LaRaia, "I'm sure it wasn't caused by salaries.

"If morale is low then it has to be an administrative matter and the police chief still runs the department.

"I don't understand how the chief can categorize the problem of police department morale as attributable to me.

"A high ranking official in the police department told me morale was at a low ebb when I entered office.

"But I am sure we can all work to the same objective of giving the best service at the lowest cost to the taxpayers."

In an appeal to the City Council to restore some of his budget requests, Chief Finn called his overtime proposals "reasonable and based on past experience."

"These are items which are set by contract, by law, or by the level of department activity. They are practically irrevocable. They include:

"Filling vacant beat assignments because of vacation, sickness and injury. These beats have to be filled or response times by patrol vehicles will be lengthened. Or we will be forced to set priorities on answering calls.

"Court time: Night patrolmen and day officers on a day off are, by contract, paid for the time spent in court. If we are unable to pay for police witnesses in court, offenders will have charges dismissed when police officers do not appear.

"Training time: As required by state law, the Quincy Police Department provides in-service training for its officers.

"This is necessary both for improving police operational techniques, including emergency medical service and first aid and for keeping police officers informed of changes in law and of court decisions which affect police operations.

"Traffic: Traffic overtime provides for special events, heavy traffic periods and heavy traffic areas. In addition, traffic officers are trained in court presentations for serious and fatal accidents. The patrol division would be unable to adequately perform these functions.

"These overtime items will not be compromised without serious danger to residents, businesses and visitors to the city."

Elimination Of Fire Dept. Mechanics 'Tragic Mistake' Says Barry

alongside dump trucks has so upset Chief Barry that he fired off a letter to the City Council pleading for help in restoring the two jobs to his budget.

"I am absolutely opposed to the Fire Department mechanics being separated from the Fire Department," he told the Council. "The Mayor is making a tragic mistake."

"I am not opposed to a Central Service Facility for the city. I can understand the position of the Mayor's office in attempting to oversee the practice of economy in city departments.

"However, I am charged with certain responsibilities...The lives and property of the citizens must be properly provided for by me. Priority must be given to repair of emergency vehicles.

"The separation of fire apparatus maintenance from other city motor equipment repair work is justified because of special service performed by fire fighting equipment, the urgent need for getting work done quickly and for special training of mechanics and special inventories of materials required.

"This idea of having the mechanics in a separate Central Service Facility will not work successfully. This plan has not worked successfully elsewhere and why start on a course in this city that has proven unsuccessful."

In support of his case, Chief Barry introduced letters from the chiefs of three New England Fire Departments who have had experience with Central Service Facilities. All were in opposition to them.

"In my opinion," wrote one fire chief, "the transferring of a Fire Department repair facility to a Public Works repair facility will indirectly lead to increased loss of life and property by fire."

One described the results of such a transfer graphically:

"Down time [i.e. time out of operation] increased dramatically, minor repairs sometimes kept apparatus out of service for weeks and major repairs at times kept apparatus out for a year or more.

"Breakdowns on route to alarms of fire and emergency calls were frequent. One could equate the down time with the loss of a fire company and the resultant loss of fire protection to the city which was paying for that protection."

Another reported that its city garage "will not work on pumps at all." The manufacturer of the equipment sends in a man to make repairs with "serious resultant delays."

"We have had engines tied up for as long as 10 weeks under repair," said the letter. "Our specialized equipment, such as aerial platforms, are beyond the expertise of the average city mechanic and we have to look elsewhere for help."

All three complained that "equipment is not being repaired to the high standards of the fire service. We have no control over the quality of items used to replace worn-out equipment."

Chief Barry, calling the Mayor's version of the Fire Department budget "not a realistic one," also appealed for the Council's help in restoring overtime and 21 vacancy-filling jobs to the rolls.

"The loss of those fire fighter positions constitutes a cut in manpower and the overtime costs will skyrocket," said the Chief.

"To pay a firefighter for a 24-hour period costs $154.85. To pay a firefighter overtime for this same 24-hour period costs $237.27. Thus, there is a difference of $77.42. It is cheaper to fill positions than pay overtime."

Chief Barry requested $175,000 for overtime pay but the request was cut to $75,000 by the Mayor.

"Currently," said the Chief, "the amount of money spent in the fiscal year 1975-76 to cover contractual overtime agreements is presently $145,000 and it will be in the area of $155,000 at the end of this fiscal year.

"The amount of money for overtime in the Fire Department budget for the next fiscal year is only $75,000. I am sure you can see that this figure will not meet the needs for the Fire Department for the coming fiscal year.

"In August, 1976, less than two months into the fiscal year, all the overtime money will be spent and the city will not be able to meet the Fire Department Contractual Agreement.

"There will be no money for the remaining 10 months of the fiscal year for overtime. I am certain that action will be taken by Local 792 IAFF, the firefighter's union, to grieve this matter."

Chief Barry also took note that the Mayor had deleted from the budget the Fire Department's entire $380,300 request for capital outlay, including money for an aerial truck for the Atlantic Fire Station ($225,000) and a pumper for West Quincy, ($93,000).

In a letter to the Mayor, sent at the behest of Councilors Dennis E. Harrington and James A. Sheets, the Chief pointed out:

"The Capital Outlay Committee recommended that the Atlantic Station be supplied with a new ladder truck over three years ago. This has not been done and it is absolutely needed in that industrial and residential area."

"I am of the opinion it will take two years to obtain a ladder truck for the city after the contract has been signed."

"I strongly recommend that, in the best interest of providing dependable fire apparatus for good fire protection affecting lives and businesses in the Atlantic, Montclair, Squantum and Wollaston areas, a new ladder truck should be provided at this time."

The present pumper at the West Quincy station, he said, "has been out of service since January.

"That pumper has had extremely hard service in the responding to fires in the dump area, woods area of the Blue Hills, Expressway and the South and West Quincy districts.

"I have had competent people in the fire apparatus field who have analyzed it and if it is not replaced to bring it up to present operational level it will require in the vicinity of $20,000 to be spent on it."

Mayor, First Lady In Colonial Garb For First Parish Service

United First Parish Church will be the site of a bi-centennial service at 10:45 a.m. Sunday, with a re-enactment of services held in 1776.

Participants and the congregation will be clad in Colonial costumes.

The Rev. Keith Munson, minister of the First Parish Church, will deliver the sermon, which will be a portion of the same sermon which was given by the Rev. Samuel West in Boston on May 26, 1776, shortly after the British evacuation of Boston.

Former Mayor Thomas S. Burgin will serve as deacon and deliver the opening prayer. Mayor Joseph J. LaRaia and his wife, Louise, will attend wearing the costumes of the period.

Following the service, the congregation will parade around the church and a social hour will complete the day's activities.

The public is invited to attend.

Mayor's Office Criticizes Photo In NQHS Advertisement

Has the School Department "turned the seriousness of the North Quincy High School issue into a comedy" by using what was originally a gag picture in support of its demand that Mayor Joseph J. LaRaia sign the bond issue?

John Salenius, the Mayor's executive secretary, thinks so.

The picture in question, showing a North Quincy student leaning over a drinking fountain obviously constructed with a smaller person in mind, appeared in School Department advertisements that appeared in The Quincy Sun and Patriot Ledger last week.

The caption said:

"A North Quincy High School student tries to get a drink of water out of a faucet designed for the convenience of a much younger student. Facilities such as this point out the fact that North Quincy High School was originally built for junior high school students."

Salenius noted the picture originally appeared in the 1972 edition of "Manet", the North Quincy High yearbook and was used as a gag shot, showing a 6-foot-9 basketball player, "probably the tallest the school has had in a long time."

"The Mayor's office has received a number of calls from students who graduated that year explaining that the picture was used in the yearbook in jest," said Salenius. "A student of average height would certainly have no difficulty in drinking from even the lowest fountain in the school."

legal steps can be taken to force the Mayor to sign the bond issue.

● Mayor LaRaia met with Anrig and John Calabro of the State School Building Assistance Bureau Monday "to see how interested they were in salvaging something for North Quincy." He said they couldn't.

"I learned that we can't expect any change from the state," said the Mayor. "I anticipated that. They are bureaucrats and, as such, they are conservative. They have standards to follow."

Mayor LaRaia told The Quincy Sun at noon Tuesday that "in 24 hours I expect to come to a definite directive that will finalize the North Quincy situation."

"I feel that as a result of my sitting down with Commissioner Anrig and Supt. Creedon and my staff that I will have a summation of the situation."

He added, however, "it takes two to come to an agreement. I am not going to change my position."

The Mayor said he met with Creedon Friday and again Tuesday afternoon "to seek ways to justify the addition and overcome the problem of decreased school enrollment and reduce the cost of the school system."

Opponents of the North Quincy addition have cited an expected decrease in enrollment as one argument against enlarging the building.

"Cutting the cost of the school system is difficult while the School Committee has fiscal autonomy," said LaRaia. "I am trying to achieve this end."

He said he agrees with critics that North Quincy High does need renovation.

"Many areas cited in the accreditation survey can be corrected by renovation," he said.

Such renovation, he said, "would possibly cost more than $500,000 but not much more. It would not be achieved with state funds."

The City Council Monday night voted unanimously to "reaffirm once again its support of the addition renovation project at North Quincy as now planned."

The resolve was introduced by Councillor Harrington, who criticized the Mayor for "announcing that the city could not afford less than 1 per cent of its budget for North Quincy High."

"Any reasonable man must give high priority to one half of the high school students of this city for the next 50 years," he said. "His budget seems to give higher priority to sewer covers and trucks."

"The Council," said Councillor James A. Sheets "should be aware of the magnitude of his decision not to sign the bond issue."

"This city has spent $850,000 just for architect's plans. They are now useless. But we still have to pay that architect $850,000. That's $3 on the tax rate. And we have nothing to show for it."

$45,000 To Aid Students

Three Quincy schools will receive more than $45,000 in federal funds to assist students who have difficulty finding part-time employment to pay for their education, it was announced by Cong. James A. Burke [D-Milton].

Eastern Nazarene College,

Wollaston, will get $36,749 for 85 students, Quincy Junior College will receive $5,549 for 13 students, and Quincy Beauty Academy is down for $3,401 for eight students.

The schools are participating in the college work-study program set up by the U.S. Office of Education.

Capt. Cassani To Retire June 13

Virgin Islands.

Among the stations he has seen, Capt. Cassani recalls particularly the one at Monterey, Calif., to which he was assigned three times. He obtained both bachelors and masters degrees from the Naval Postgraduate School there.

"It seemed like I was always arriving or leaving at Monterey," he says.

Capt. Cassani was the first commander of Helicopter Support Squadron Three; air officer aboard the USS Boxer; spent two years in the office of Chief of Naval Operations; and flew from the USS Lake Champlain during the Cuban blockade.

He was executive officer of the Corpus Christi NAS in 1973 when he was tapped to become commanding officer of the South Weymouth NAS.

"I always dreamed of coming back to the South Shore to command a base," he said.

He and his wife settled down in the commander's house on the base with their seven children, ranging in age from 23 down to 10, who are:

Henry Jr., a welder at the General Dynamics Quincy shipyard; Sharon, a junior at Salem St. College; Susan, who is married to a South Weymouth boy; Richard, who graduates from Weymouth South High School this June.

Cindy, who will be a senior at Port St. Joe High School next year; Michael, a 10th grader; and John, who is in the fifth grade.

Annual Good Sports Competition Set

The Third Annual Good Sports Competition, the amateur athletic event which 5,000 Massachusetts residents entered last year, will hold local meets, Saturday, June 12 under the sponsorship of WBZ-TV and radio and the Massachusetts Jaycees.

This year the event will be based on six member teams consisting of a man and a woman in each of the age groups, over 30, 17-29, and 16 or under. Scoring will be based on team totals rather than the points accumulated by an individual.

These teams will compete in a variety of sports in local meets on June 12. The winners will go on to Regional meets June 26 and then to the Finals on July 17. The finals will be covered by WBZ-TV and Radio live.

WBZ will award $1,000 in sporting equipment to the winning team's town or city recreation department. The team members will receive medals and trophies.

The events will include basketball foul shooting, a three-quarter mile relay race, the 600-yard obstacle course, 8 and 12 pound shot put, soccer and football kick, and the softball throw.

WBZ asks that anyone interested in competing in the event form a team and contact their local chapter of the Jaycees or call 272-5072 for an entry blank.

Ch. 5 Wins Editorial Award Third Year In Row

For the third consecutive year, WCVB-TV [Ch. 5] has captured the Radio Television News Directors Association [RTNDA] Northeast regional award for editorial excellence.

A 50-part series on crime in Massachusetts, authored by editorial director Philip S. Baboni, was commended by RTNDA judges for being, "well documented with visual material and research, and for dealing with local issues of community interest and presenting specific proposals for solving problems."

The extensive editorial project found the Massachusetts' criminal justice system to be "a failure - a disorganized, uncoordinated, often warring collection of agencies and programs without direction or overall planning," said Baboni.

As a result of the series, legislation was passed banning district attorneys from private law practice, a new system of better paid, full-time public prosecutors was created, and a statewide Crime Prevention Bureau will be financed.

Other Northeast regional winners were WBAL-TV, Baltimore, which won the Edward R. Murrow and the spot news awards, and WCAU-TV, Philadelphia, which won the investigative report award.

The regional winners have been entered in the national RTNDA competition.

'Bicentennial Year--1976' At Furnace Brook School

A salute to "Bicentennial Year - 1976" will be presented by the students of Furnace Brook School tonight [Thursday] at 7:30 p.m. in the school hall.

The musical cantata, "I Hear A Drum" will be performed by the fifth and sixth grade glee club. Narration will be by Susan Meighan, Jay Williams, Debbie Hirtel and Linda Phipps.

The Glee Club will be accompanied by three members of the Central Junior High Band, Feggy Burchill on flute, Glenn DiBona on trumpet and Peter Silverstein on percussion. Karen Bishop of the Quincy High School will accompany the group on bass violin. The program is under the direction of Miss Frances McDonald, music specialist in the Quincy Elementary Schools.

In addition to the Glee Club, the string students of Miss Judith Sandler and the band students of Mr. Bernard Goldstein will also perform.

Sacred Heart School Art Exhibit At N.Q. Library

Art work done by students at the Sacred Heart School, North Quincy, is on exhibit at the North Quincy branch library, 381 Hancock St.

The exhibition includes work done by students in all grades of the school, one through eight. Various art media has been used

- crayon, chalk, charcoal, watercolor, tissue and torn paper paintings and collages.

The exhibit may be viewed during regular library hours through May 31. Hours are Monday through Friday, 9 a.m. to 9 p.m. and Saturday 9 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Peter Fallon On New 7,800-Ton Destroyer

Navy Chief Quartermaster Peter T. Fallon, son of Mr. John L. Fallon of 201 Common St., West Quincy, is a crewmember aboard the Navy's newest ship, the destroyer USS Paul F. Foster, homeported at San Diego, Calif.

The Foster, second ship of the new Spruance class destroyers, is 563 feet long and weighs 7,800 tons, which is larger than many World War II light cruisers.

The Foster was commissioned Feb. 21 in Pascagoula, Miss., has a crew of 250 men and is the first navy ship to be commissioned in the bicentennial year. The ship's primary mission is to protect other ships from attack by enemy submarines.

The USS Foster is named for the late Vice Admiral Paul F. Foster. Admiral Foster was the first man to receive the Navy's three highest awards; the Medal of Honor, the Navy Cross, and the Distinguished Service Medal. After retirement he served as manager of the Atomic Energy Commission and as Ambassador to the International Atomic Energy Agency.

Senior Citizens Corps Payroll Rises $400

A stunned City Council learned Monday night that, despite admonitions of economy, the payroll of the Senior Citizens Corps had risen some $400 a week in the past two months.

And there was no one who could be blamed for it.

The disclosure came in the wake of a request from the Council on Aging for $9,648.26 to pay the salaries of 27 members of the Senior Citizens Corps and the clerical staff through June 30.

Councillor John J. Lydon Jr.

recalled that the Council on Aging had been in two months ago for $5,285.16 to pay salaries through June 30.

Further explanation by City Auditor Charles L. Shea disclosed that the Senior Citizens Corps payroll had risen from about $700 a week in March to about $1,100 in May, and if there was any blame to be passed around, it belonged with the Federal government.

Seems that the city acquired a lift vehicle to help the elderly get around the city. But none of the members of the Senior Citizens Corps could qualify to drive it and handle the passengers.

Rather than hire drivers with city funds, the Council on Aging requested two federally funded CETA drivers, which seemed like a financially sound idea at the time.

Unfortunately, the Senior Corps was undermined by federal standards and had to hire more help before the CETA drivers could even be considered.

"Undermanned!" choked Daniel G. Raymondi, "They seem to me to be...be...be supermanned!" — thus sending Council President Arthur H. Tobin in such a fit of laughter that he had to turn the gavel over to Councillor John J. Quinn.

The Council reluctantly appropriated the money.

"What else can the City Council do?" asked Raymondi. "The people have worked for it. But someone has got to realize that there is not an endless amount of money in the city."

Chamber Backs Merit Over No-Fault Insurance

The South Shore Chamber of Commerce's Board of Directors has recommended repeal of no fault property damage insurance and institution of a merit rating system to reward good drivers and force poor drivers to pay more for insurance.

The Chamber, which has an Auto Insurance Task Force studying the state's auto insurance problems, made the following recommendations to the state's Automobile Reform Study Commission:

- Repeal of no fault property damage, which has resulted in a doubling of claims, and institution of "compulsory property damage liability".

- Competitive rating as a basic form of free enterprise.

- A merit rating system under which the good driver is rewarded and the bad driver would have to pay a surcharge rate for compulsory insurance.

- Legislation defining auto theft as a felony, not a misdemeanor.

- Measuring losses in fair market value [that is, the actual condition of the car preceding the accident] instead of book value.

- Staggered policy underwriting instead of having everyone's insurance come due on Jan. 1.

- Giving insurance companies the right to cancel high risk motorists, provided a facility will be available for them to acquire insurance.

- Increase of the present $500 threshold for personal injury protection to $1,000 under no fault personal injury.

The Auto Insurance Task Force was composed of Richard P. Garvey, chairman; Nathan Shulman, Richard R. DeMark, Harold Gerbis, Herbert Glanz, Ned Platter, William Foley and Paul MacElhinney.

FR Bridge Impact

Study To Begin

In Summer

The environmental impact study leading to construction of a new Fore River bridge is expected to begin this summer and be completed in January, according to Walter J. Hannon, head of the Economic Development Group of the South Shore Chamber of Commerce.

The Office of Environmental Affairs approved $100,000 for the study March 15 and Hannon said he was told by State Public Works Commissioner John Carroll the contract for the study will be signed by July.

4 Wetland

Hearings

The Quincy Conservation Commission was scheduled to hold four hearings into proposals to alter wetlands last night [Wednesday] at 7:30 p.m. in the Houghs Neck Legion Post, 1116 Sea St.

School Committee Retains Ex-Atty. Gen. Quinn

LaRaia Stands Firm On NQHS, Faces Legal Fights On Two Fronts

By TOM HENSHAW

"I think this is their finale," said Mayor Joseph J. LaRaia as he prepared for last night's [Wednesday's] weekly skirmish with the School Committee over his refusal to sign the North Quincy High School bond issue.

"All they are doing is making a last ditch effort to justify their position and, at the same time, discrediting mine. That's all they've done in the last three meetings. I hope this is the finale."

Indications are it will be far from a finale.

In rapid fire moves over the past week, proponents of the $15 million plan to build an addition to and renovate North Quincy High School took these actions against the Mayor:

- The School Committee retained former Atty. Gen. Robert Quinn, who was scheduled to be at the weekly meeting last night to brief the Committee, which includes Mayor LaRaia as chairman, on its legal alternatives.

- The Concerned Citizens for North Quincy High School consulted the Boston law firm of Parker, Coulter, Daley and White about legal options, including a possible recall action against the Mayor.

- The Quincy Education Association [QEA] passed a

$1 Million Budget Cut Seen

Council Eyes Shifting QCH Nursing School To QJC

The City Council is toying with the idea of separating the Nursing School and two other training programs from the Quincy City Hospital, thus saving the city some $1 million on the hospital budget.

"The purpose of the hospital is to provide patient care," said Councillor John J. Quinn, chairman of the Finance Committee, which is currently working its way through Mayor Joseph J. LaRaia's proposed $78.7 million budget.

"The three schools at the hospital are no longer involved in patient care. In fact, most hospitals have phased out their schools and affiliated them with local junior colleges.

"We have asked the hospital director and the board of governors to review the possibility of phasing out their schools and associating them with Quincy Junior College, which is a totally self-supporting institution."

In addition to the Nursing School, which graduates 30-40 nurses a year, the hospital schools include one in the Anesthesia Department, with a half dozen students, and the X-Ray Department, with 18 students.

Quinn said Nursing School students pay $400 a year

Election Challenge Possible

O'Donnell, Ahern Clash Over 'Quick' Democratic City Committee Meeting

Quincy Democrats elected city and ward committee officers Monday but the election faces a challenge from Kathleen O'Donnell.

"Nobody told me anything about it," said the angry Miss O'Donnell, who is a member of the Ward 1 Democratic Committee and a member of the State Committee as well.

"I talked to a lot of people. Some were not notified. Some got the call for a 7:30 p.m. meeting at 6 p.m. Others read about it in the paper at the supper table."

City Councillor Paul D. Harold, who is a member of the Ward 1 Committee, also said he was not notified.

Taylor Ahern said he didn't hear about the City Committee

Sweeney Keynote Speaker

Memorial Day Parade, Ceremonies Monday

Major General Charles W. Sweeney of Milton, who dropped the second atomic bomb on Nagasaki during World War II, will be the speaker of the day Monday [May 31] during Quincy's Memorial Day ceremonies honoring the dead of all wars.

Ernest J. Montilio, commander of the Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company, will be honorary marshal of the parade and Brig. Gen. Charles Hedges will be personal aide to Gen. Sweeney. Montilio will lead the "ancients" in the parade.

The parade will begin at 10 a.m. Monday at School St. and Charles A. Ross Parkway and continue to Mt. Wollaston Cemetery where Gen. Sweeney will deliver his speech at the World War II Podium.

The parade and ceremonies are sponsored by the Quincy Veterans Council, representing all Quincy veterans posts.

The two-day schedule of events is as follows:

SUNDAY

9:45 a.m. - Quincy Legion Post will conduct traditional exercises of the Grand Army of the Republic at United First Parish Church after which Sunday School children will decorate graves of veterans in Hancock Cemetery.

11 a.m. - All veterans organizations and their auxiliaries and the public are invited to attend services at United First Parish Church.

7 p.m. - George F. Bryan VFW Post and its auxiliary will proceed to the Boulder and Doughboy Monument at Adams Academy, the GAR Monument

Free Legal Clinic At Quincy Court

You can have your legal questions answered at Norfolk County's ninth "free legal clinic" at the Quincy District Court, Thursday evening, May 27 from 7 to 9:30 p.m.

The clinic, a public service, is aimed at providing free legal counsel from some of the county's leading lawyers on a wide range of topics.

The program is intended for those who can afford a lawyer as well as those who cannot. Twenty lawyers, donating their time, will be on hand for the evening session. Attorneys will be prepared to field questions in virtually any area, domestic, property, landlord, accident, jury duty and zoning matters.

Private consultation rooms will be provided by the Court which is located at 50 Chestnut St., Quincy. Total privacy is guaranteed.

Norfolk County's Bar Association, one of the oldest in the Country is believed to be the first to have sponsored this type of program. "The program is aimed at improving communication between the Bar and the public," said John P. Concannon, President of the Bar Association and Clerk of the Norfolk Superior Court.

LaRaia Says He Has Created Only 5 City Jobs

Mayor Joseph J. LaRaia has fired back at critics of his administration who claim that he has added large numbers of employees to the city payroll.

He said he had created exactly five new positions, all approved by the City Council, and has left 12 jobs unfilled for a net decrease of seven posts.

The new positions were listed as:

- An assistant secretary for the City Council.
- A clerk-typist in the Building Department.
- Two cadets and one mechanical handyman for the Police Department.

The police cadets and handyman, the Mayor said, were requested by Police Chief Francis X. Finn and are people who held the jobs previously under the federally funded CETA program.

The positions left unfilled were listed as:

- A meter maid.
- A public safety inspector [which was reduced to a position with a salary of $4,900].
- A principal clerk in the Health Department.
- A principal clerk in the City Clerk's office.
- A clerk-typist in the Auditor's office.
- An assistant assessor.
- A captain in the Fire Department.
- A school physician in the Health Department.
- An assistant cataloguer in the Library Department.
- A driver in the Library Department.
- A head clerk in the Treasurer's office.
- A Commissioner of Natural Resources.

The last named post, the Mayor said was reduced by $5,254 in salary by having its holder (Richard J. Koch) return to his previous position as executive secretary to the Park and Recreation Board.

Since he entered office on Jan. 5, the Mayor said, he has filled 129 positions in the city government.

"Five are newly created positions," he said. "Eleven are transfers within the city government, such as the budget coordinator who transferred from the Auditor's office and the Purchasing Agent who was previously working in the Purchasing Department."

The remaining 113, he said, "are replacements due to regular turnover and the change in administration."

They include the Mayor himself, two new members of the City Council, the City Solicitor, the Health Commissioner "and other city officials whose appointments were to replace those of a prior administration where the positions already existed."

WE GOT OUR JOBS THROUGH QUINCY COOPERATIVE BANK.

Every time we make a construction loan or improvement loan, a lot of people go to work. Because savings dollars made available by Quincy Cooperative Bank help employ hundreds of people in the building and construction trades. They work on everything from new homes to new kitchens.

And by putting people to work, we're helping to improve our community and make it grow.

Since our founding, we've been making loans in the spirit of Josiah Quincy, Jr., founder of cooperative banking in Massachusetts and the man for whom our bank was named. He believed banks should be as interested in the growth of their communities as they are in their own growth. Although he lived long before the days of high rise buildings and improvement loans, we know for certain . . .

JOSIAH WOULD HAVE LIKED THAT.

Lucy Mercurio To Be Installed Secretaries President

A reception will be held for Mrs. Lucy Mercurio, newly elected president of the Massachusetts-Maine-New Hampshire-Vermont division of the National Secretaries Association, Tuesday, June 8, at the Hollow Restaurant, Quincy.

A member of the South Shore Chapter of the association, she was elected at the annual meeting of the division during the New England Conference held recently in Wentworth-By-The-Sea.

She is the wife of Salvatore Mercurio of Watertown, and is currently employed by Raytheon Company, Quincy, as executive secretary to Robert Robinson, product line manager.

Quincy residents and members of the South Shore Chapter who attended the New England Conference are: Miss Bernice C. Brown, Miss Dorothy Ceriani, Miss Grace L. Giunchiglia, Miss Mary Brennan, Mrs. Edna Swain, and Miss Mary Ilaqua.

Miss Giunchiglia served as a member of the nominating committee at the conference.

Miss Brown and Miss Ceriani will attend the International Convention in Houston, Texas, the week of July 21.

Today's Women

Alicia Coletti Honored As Political Caucus 'Woman Of Year'

Mrs. Alicia Coletti of 165 Samoset Ave., Merry Mount, has been selected "Woman of the Year" by the South Shore Women's Political Caucus.

She and recipients of three special awards for contributing to improving the role of women in society were presented at the second annual awards dinner Monday night in the Adams Room of the Hollow Restaurant, Quincy.

The special awards went to: John R. Herbert, president of The Quincy Cooperative Bank; Henry W. Bosworth, editor and publisher of The Quincy Sun and to Group I, a slate of 10 women who defeated incumbent members of the Milton Democratic Town Committee last March.

The 10 Milton women were honored for their election to the Milton Democratic Town Committee last month despite opposition from much of the party leadership in the town.

The award cited the women, who ran as Group One, for winning "not only a personal victory for themselves, but a larger victory for all women who believe in the strength of the political process."

Group One also comprised Anne Bell, Charlotte Cleveland, Margaret Dray, Sally Fitzgerald Patricia Hurley, Barbara Hurwitz, Cathy Jay and Elspeth Taylor.

Mrs. Margaret Robinson and Mrs. Shirlee Goldman accepted the latter award for the Milton group.

The awards were presented by Mrs. Joyce Baker, outgoing chairwoman of the South Shore Women's Political Caucus.

Mrs. Coletti received an engraved silver disc from the Women's Caucus for her outstanding contributions to the group for the past year.

In addition, she was presented with state Senate and House of Representatives resolutions congratulating and commending her.

The Senate citation, sponsored by Senator Arthur Tobin was in "recognition of receiving the South Shore Political Caucus Woman of the Year Award for her dedication, concern and contribution in advocating and working towards improving women's role in society."

It was presented to Mrs. Coletti by Harold Coose, representing Senator Tobin who was out of state.

The House resolution sponsored and presented by Rep. James Sheets cited Mrs. Coletti "in recognition of her outstanding effect on the quality of women participation in governmental, political and community affairs."

The special award presented to Herbert and the Quincy Cooperative Bank cited them for:

"...recognition of the changing roles of women in 1976 as evidenced by its advertising entitled 'Quincy Cooperative Bank thinks a woman's place is wherever she wants to be'."

"The Quincy Cooperative Bank says that they know for certain 'Josiah would have liked that'. The South Shore Women's Political Caucus knows for certain that the Quincy Cooperative Bank has shown an awareness of and attention to the qualifications and desires of the women of today-and the Caucus likes that."

The Special Award to Bosworth cited him and The Quincy Sun for "extensive coverage of women's concerns and activities. Henry Bosworth has displayed understanding and openness to new ideas. Because of his excellent attention to women's issues, he has benefited the women of Quincy in a unique way. Henry Bosworth is a true feminist."

In addition, the Caucus presented Bosworth with a T-shirt proclaiming "Vote Yes On No. 1". [The Equal Rights Amendment].

Among those attending were Mayor Joseph LaRaia, Rep. Thomas Brownell, Rep. Joseph Brett, Dist. Atty. William Delahunt, Norfolk County Commissioner George McDonald and City Councillor Paul Harold, State Democratic Committeewoman Kathy O'Donnell and Peter Gacicia, vice-chairman of the Republican City Committee.

Quincy LWV Installs New Officers

The Quincy League of Women Voters held their annual dinner meeting and installation last Thursday at Walsh's Restaurant, North Quincy.

The new officers are:
Co-presidents Janet Poole and Janice O'Brien; first vice-president, Jane Sullivan; second vice president, Mary Flavin; treasurer, Marilyn Isham; corresponding secretary, Frances Oliva; and recording secretary, Shirley Sweet.

The Board of Directors comprises Agnes Cooney, Nancy Jolly, Anna Kane, Phyllis Morse, Ruth Paven, Margot Robinson and Sheila Ward.

The 1976-1977 budget was presented by Mary Flavin, finance committee chairman, and Kathy Foster, treasurer. Janice O'Brien and Sheila Ward reported on the National LWV Convention held May 3-7 in New York City. Jane Sullivan and Elinor Thompson discussed the State Council held in Framingham.

Suggestions for local league study include pollution in Quincy Bay, and the MBTA - where will it end? Members recommendations and reactions are sought.

GROW YOUR OWN VEGETABLES

Residents of Quincy Housing Authority projects are being given an opportunity to become "Bicentennial farmers" and grow up to $80 worth of vegetables for their own dinner tables.

Quincy has been selected as one of 37 communities in Massachusetts to take part in the program, jointly sponsored by the State Department of Community Affairs, the State Department of Agriculture and the Bicentennial Affairs Office.

The Agriculture Department will provide free of charge salad garden kits consisting of directions and seeds for the growing of radishes, carrots, tomatoes, peppers and other vegetables.

In addition, part of a $4,000 grant will be used for the purchase of garden tools. Representatives of county extension services will provide technical assistance to those who feel they are lacking in green thumbs.

Wollaston Garden Club Plants Tulip Tree At Merrymount Park

The Wollaston Garden Club has donated and planted a tulip tree at Merrymount Park at the corner of Hancock St. and Southern Artery.

Richard J. Koch, executive secretary to the Quincy Park and Recreation Board said a tulip tree was offered to each one of the garden clubs in Massachusetts by the Arnold Arboretum of Jamaica Plain, as their contribution to America's Bicentennial celebration.

The Wollaston Garden Club chose historical Merrymount Park, to replace the tulip tree planted in the 1890's, that had since died and had been removed several years ago.

In 1776 during the revolutionary days the soldiers and citizens in Massachusetts planted liberty trees. They used the tulip tree which is a handsome hardy tree and practically pest and disease resistant.

Mrs. Victor Ericson, president of the Wollaston Garden Club, expressed hope that the tree planted on the bicentennial would be enjoyed by Quincy residents on the tricentenary.

Other members of the committee included, Mrs. Gertrude Roy, Mrs. Emily Kingston, Mrs. Clare Hanlon, Mrs. Marion Berger, and Mrs. Charlotte Rolf.

Germantown Garden Club To Hold Annual Meeting

The annual meeting of the Germantown Garden Club will be held Tuesday at 1 p.m. at the Adams Shore Methodist Church, Albatross Rd.

Mrs. George Osborne, Mrs. George Scully and Mrs. Irving Grant are the hostesses for the coffee which will precede the business meeting.

Mrs. Robert White, club president, will conduct the meeting at which officers for the coming year will be installed. Committee chairmen appointees will be announced.

Final plans for the June 14 trip to the herb garden of Mrs. Langford Warren in Cohasset will be discussed. A dutch treat luncheon will follow the garden tour.

Mrs. Paul F. Driscoll, will hostess the final board meeting of the club year at her home in Randolph Wednesday, June 16.

Friday Deadline For City Club Bicentennial Poster, Essay Contest

Richard J. Koch, president of the Quincy City Club announces the deadline for submitting posters and essays for the club's Bicentennial contest is Friday.

All boys and girls entering must submit entries to classroom teachers by the close of the school day Friday.

David J. Donahue is general chairman. He will coordinate and supervise the judging. Other club members assisting are Stephen Kenny, Robert Grant, Edward T. Hannon, Joseph M. Daly and Harold Davis.

Boys and girls in grades 1-6 are eligible to participate in the Poster contest, with the theme "Quincy Bicentennial Scene".

Boys and girls in grade 7 through 9 are invited to join in the Essay contest with the theme "What Historical Point of Interest in Quincy Impressed you the most and why?" Essays must be 150 words or less and participants must be Quincy residents.

Winners in each category will receive a $100 Savings Bond and a $25 Savings Bond will be awarded to the runner-up.

Winners will be announced at the Flag Day ceremonies Monday, June 14, at Veterans Memorial Stadium.

Miss Quincy Bay Beauty Pageant July 16

The annual Miss Quincy Bay Beauty Pageant will be held Friday evening, July 16 in downtown Quincy.

The event, open to South Shore single girls 16 to 25 years old, will highlight the seventh annual Sidewalk Bazaar July 15, 16, 17, sponsored by the Quincy Center Business and Professional Association.

Contestants will compete for hundreds of dollars worth of prizes and the honor of reigning over this year's Quincy Bay Race Week.

The pageant, co-sponsored by the QCBPA and the Quincy Bay Race Week Association, will be held at 9:30 p.m. on a portable boardwalk on Hancock St. in front of the Hancock Bank.

Entry forms will soon be available at QCBPA member stores and businesses, South Shore Yacht Clubs and the QCBPA office, 1416 Hancock St., Quincy Center.

Henry Bosworth of The Quincy Sun is pageant chairman and Kenneth P. Fallon Jr. of WJDA is co-chairman and will serve as emcee.

Other committee members are Leslie Brierley, Hancock Bank; Raymond Cunningham, representing the Quincy Bay Race Week Association; Remo DeNicola, South Shore Television and Appliance; Paul Hurley Jr., Hurley Insurance; Allen Kelly, Sir Speedy; Florence Kerrigan, Baskin-Robbins; David Leitch, Burgin, Platner Insurance and Dale Pederson, South Shore National Bank.

Southwest Committee To Meet On June 2

The newly formed Southwest Neighborhood Improvement Committee will hold its bi-weekly meeting Wednesday [June 2] at 7:30 p.m. in the Community Room of the Lincoln-Hancock School.

The citizens' group was organized to advise the city on its activities in the Southwest area and to sponsor neighborhood improvement projects, which currently involve self-help home painting and small scale code enforcement programs.

SUNBEAMS

Russ, Mary And Jimmy Carter

By HENRY BOSWORTH

Russ and Mary Johnson would never have dreamed it that night but the man they were picking up at the airport may well be the next President of the U.S.

It was May, 1973 and the Chickabot Rd, Merrymount couple were meeting Georgia Gov. Jimmy Carter, and really didn't know what to expect.

"We had never seen him before so we were looking for someone—well someone maybe a little pompous with a large entourage getting off that plane," recalls Mary.

What they got was a smiling, boyish looking fellow with tousled hair casually carrying a suit bag flung over his shoulder. He had only one aide with him.

The Johnsons introduced themselves, and Carter flashed a friendly smile back.

"I gave him a big smooch," Mary remembers fondly. "I just couldn't help it. He was so friendly and natural."

Carter had accepted Johnson's invitation to speak at the annual Men's Prayer Breakfast at Valle's, Braintree, sponsored by the South Shore Council of Churches. Russ was arrangements chairman.

Russ had made the contact after hearing that Carter was "a good speaker and a good churchman." And he was impressed by Carter's honesty.

Carter did not ask for a speaker's fee but it is customary for a group to at least pay the travel expenses of an out-of-state speaker.

But Carter told Russ he had to go up to Washington, D.C. around that same time anyway, "so just pay the plane expenses from Washington to Boston instead of from Georgia." So, it cost the council only $80.

Russ and Mary became good friends with Carter during his brief stay. And when he departed he told them in his southern drawl: "Now, you'll all come to the Governor's mansion."

Ever since he has referred to Russ as "my first friend in Massachusetts."

The Johnsons received a Christmas card from him that year. And early the following December [1974] they got a letter from him confiding he was going to run for President and wondering if they would help him in Massachusetts.

They sure would—even though they were life-long Republicans. [Now Independents]. "We vote for the man," explains Mary.

The Johnsons were among the first to know of Carter's Presidential plans. He didn't officially announce until a few days later.

Russ and Mary are his Quincy area coordinators and worked for him before and during the Massachusetts primaries. Now they are helping the Brockton Carter campaign office stage a statewide fund-raiser June 8 at La Tantara, Randolph.

Dancing, entertainment, refreshments and dignitaries. And there'll be TV monitors to watch the results of the California and New Jersey primaries that night—a night they expect to turn into a victory celebration.

The Johnsons are convinced Carter will go all the way.

"I think he will make a wonderful President," says Mary. "Whatever he does, I'm sure he'll do the right thing. He's just a fantastic guy."

They never got to the Governor's mansion in Georgia. But if Carter ever draws, "Now, you'll all come to the White House," they'll be there.

NORFOLK COUNTY Commissioner George McDonald [D-Quincy] apparently will have a brand new challenger this fall. He's Edmund Harrington of Pleasant St., South Quincy, a Democrat, who will be making first run for public office.

Interestingly, he is now an accountant to Norfolk County Treasurer James Collins. The latter has had a few skirmishes with the Board of Commissioners. But Harrington reportedly plans to run as his "own man" and not as Collins' candidate.

Harrington, incidentally is already moving around the county. He's attended 17 town meetings.

And, although he hasn't officially announced his candidacy, he already has campaign literature in circulation. He's expected to make an official announcement in a couple of weeks.

SPEAKING OF McDONALD, he was doing a little traveling himself the other day in Stoughton. Marched in that town's bicentennial parade—all five miles of it.

MILESTONES: Senator-City Council President Arthur Tobin and former Mayor-Senator James McIntyre marked birthdays this week. Tobin on Sunday and McIntyre, Tuesday. Both born 1930. Let's see now, that makes them...

THEY COULDN'T HAVE picked a better day [May 19] to install Rep. Joseph Brett as president of the Massachusetts Legislators Association. It was his birthday.

SMILE DEPT: Jack Silverstein, the North Quincy druggist and author says he knows of one hospital that has become very efficient. They now have an express operating table—for six stitches or less.

LaRaia Stands Firm On NQHS, Faces Fights On Two Fronts

resolution supporting the addition-renovation, saying: "We need to stand together as educators and demand quality education for all of our children and our children's children."

Meanwhile, Mayor LaRaia was sticking to his suggestion that $1 million should be enough to renovate North Quincy High School, without sending its students off to double sessions at Quincy High.

The matter was down on last night's School Committee agenda as "Mayor LaRaia's $1 Million Proposal," although there really is no proposal at all.

"The School Committee is responsible for plans to renovate the high school," the Mayor told The Quincy Sun. "I am not telling them what to do although as a member of the School Committee I will be involved in any plans they draw up."

"I am simply giving them a ceiling. Now it is up to them. I'm sure they can come up with a plan within the $1 million limit."

The School Committee requested that the Mayor bring to the meeting his "advisors" on the renovation project. He indicated that he had no advisors in the strict meaning of the term.

"I'm guided by many people throughout the city who object to massive renovations," he said. "If they attended the meeting then Boston Garden would be an appropriate place because of its seating capacity."

"The advisors they have are primarily school orientated administrators. I don't expect anything from them but the ultimate — the biggest, the best, and the most expensive."

Mrs. Daniel J. Buckley, a spokesman for the Concerned Citizens for North Quincy High School, said the group has come to realize that Mayor LaRaia "is not concerned with our plight."

"It was obvious to us," she said, "that he has no plans to do anything when he said at last week's School Committee meeting: 'I don't care about the millions we would lose. Let them [the State] give it to someone else.'"

She said her group is exploring several areas of possible legal action.

"The first is unequal educational opportunities," she said.

"The New England Association of Secondary Schools and Colleges, which passes on accreditation, has indicated that if Quincy does not move ahead as planned they will review North Quincy's accreditation and possibly take it away in June."

"We have heard that the Mayor will ask the School Committee to rescind their vote on double sessions. We want them to continue because we prefer our children to go to Quincy High because it is accredited."

"We may have to sue the School Committee for equal opportunity."

"The municipal bond has to be signed by the Mayor but is that to make it valid or is it a polite formality since it has already gone into effect?"

"Quincy has received $800,000 on the cherry street from the State, has committed money to the architect and has taken nine homes. Can a bond be stopped after it has already been put to use?"

"We are also considering the possibility of a recall election since we are convinced that the Mayor has not moved ahead in good faith."

"He voted for double sessions earlier as a member of the School Committee so there is every indication that he knew the renovation and addition would go forward and the bond would be signed."

"This may be grounds for recall."

Mrs. Buckley said the Concerned Citizens have asked for information from Saugus, where two selectmen recently underwent recall, and Philadelphia, where a move is underway to recall Mayor Frank Rizzo.

"There must be something," she said. "Maybe our charter is unconstitutional under the Bill of Rights in concentrating all that power in one individual."

Mayor LaRaia declined to comment on the recall bid.

Mrs. Buckley said two Quincy Parent-Teacher Organizations have contributed $100 each and the group has established a bank account to handle future donations by organizations and individuals.

A meeting between the Concerned Citizens and State Education Commissioner Gregory Annig, scheduled for Monday in Boston, was called off and will be scheduled for a future date.

Meanwhile, Bruce McLain, spokesman for the School Department said "we are still proceeding with plans for double sessions at Quincy High, keeping a close eye on the costs."

But The Quincy Sun learned that word went out to teachers last Friday to start preparing contingency schedules in case double sessions were not held.

Democratic Election Challenge Looms

meeting until about 5:30 p.m. Friday when he got a call from Sen. Arthur H. Tobin's office telling him that Tobin would be out of town and that he would have to conduct the meeting.

"I called all the ward chairmen Friday night," he said. "We had it in the Patriot Ledger Monday afternoon and it was on WJDA three or four times Monday. It was too late for Saturday. We didn't even have a place to meet until then."

Ahern said "I choose not to believe that a person as prominent" as Miss O'Donnell "would not have heard about the meeting from someone." "She's just making an issue out of it," he said.

"Why didn't the state committee get the word to us sooner?" he asked. "I understand that if we had not held the meeting by Tuesday that the State Committee would have appointed officers for us."

Miss O'Donnell said she plans to challenge the election at the State Committee level on grounds members were not properly notified and a quorum was not present at the meeting in Montello's.

"I was told that they didn't have my phone number," she said. "Outrageous! That's the lamest excuse I ever heard! My number is published in the book. They've called me before."

"They had time to engage Montello's hall. Was that done at the last minute? Why did they want to keep people away? How do I explain it to the people who elected me to the ward committee?"

Sen. Arthur H. Tobin was re-elected chairman of the City Committee. Other officers elected included:

John J. Sullivan Jr., first vice chairman; Taylor Ahern, second vice chairman; Albert Barilaro, secretary; Louise Brabazon, recording secretary; John J. Kelleher, corresponding secretary; and Paul C. Kelley, treasurer.

Ward Committee officers included:

Ward 1 - Rep. Thomas F. Brownell, chairman; Mary Gregoire, secretary; Richard Ward, treasurer.

Ward 2 - Postponed.

Ward 3 - Jeffrey LaPointe, chairman; Joseph Cardarelli, vice chairman; Marie Rusconi, secretary; Frank Rusconi, treasurer.

Ward 4 - Paul Kelley, chairman; Judith Jacobson, vice chairman; Louise Brabazon, secretary; Joseph Shea, treasurer.

Ward 5 - Taylor Ahern, chairman; William Grindlay Jr., vice chairman; Joseph T. Wood, secretary; Alice Kelleher, treasurer.

Ward 6 - Joseph Lydon, chairman; Dennis Harrington, vice chairman; Mary Collins, secretary; J. Vincent Smyth, treasurer.

Hospital School Of Nursing

City Council as a whole, is also looking into the hospital's admitting office as a way of saving money on the budget.

"The admitting office is staffed by registered nurses," he said. "Actually it is only necessary to have one registered nurse on each shift. The others could be medical secretaries."

But, Quinn hastened to add,

"we are not telling the board of managers how to run the hospital. We are only suggesting ways to cut the budget."

Quinn said it is too early to tell how much the Council will trim from the Mayor's budget.

"We're in the working stages right now," he said. "We'll start slashing later on when we have a total picture of the revenues."

Memorial Day Also 'Ernest Montilio Day'

Monday may be Memorial Day around the United States but in Quincy it's also "Ernest Montilio Day."

Mayor Joseph J. LaRaia so proclaimed it in honor of the Quincy baker and civic leader who will lead the Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company in the Memorial Day parade.

tuition, which amounts to some $52,000, while the cost of running the school is between $500,000 and $600,000 a year.

"The difference is charged to the patients," Quinn said. "Since the Nursing School students are no longer rendering patient care, it is unfair to charge it to the patient or to the taxpayer."

Quinn said the three schools cost almost $1 million a year.

"The junior college is an educational facility," he said.

Air Raid Wardens Complain About 'Dim Out' Violations

By TOM HENSHAW

Wollaston air raid wardens complained that Police Capt. George W. Fallon was not prosecuting those charged with violating the wartime "dim out".

Chief culprits, it was said, were a group of Wollaston merchants. Warned one air raid warden:

"If storekeepers are permitted to break the dimout rules, residents will be inclined to follow suit. Dimout regulations should be enforced or eliminated altogether."

Dimout was a national wartime lighting policy in coastal cities to prevent Allied ships from being outlined against the horizon for German submarines.

WHITON SCORES ABSENTEES

Rep. Joseph L. Whiton [R-Quincy] registered strong opposition to a proposed amendment to the State Constitution that would permit absentee ballots for persons physically unable to go to the polls.

"This amendment is a wolf in sheep's clothing," warned Whiton. "It will open the door for the greatest corruption in elections than occurred even before the adoption of the Australian ballot and God knows it was rotten enough then."

"As far as doctors and lawyers are concerned, they can be bought either way."

REMICK DOLLAR-A-YEAR MAN

Frank Remick, general manager of Remick's, 1517 Hancock St., was summoned to Washington as a $1 a year man for a three-month stint on the Division of Industry Advisory Council of the War Production Board.

Remick, 33, also president of the Quincy Chamber of Commerce, was believed to be the youngest $1 a year man in the country.

The Bay State's Positive Side: The South Shore

[Eric Swider is spending his time prospecting this week. Kevin C. Phelan, Vice-President of SSB Realty, Inc. and a member of the South Shore Chamber's Board of Advisors, has prepared this week's column.]

By KEVIN PHELAN

Vice-President SSB Realty, Inc.

We have all read of the problems of Massachusetts and what's wrong with the "climate" of this area, but in spite of the high cost of living and taxes, there are some fundamental reasons why most of us stay and don't opt for the much discussed South and Southwest.

There is no area of the country that affords the proper balance of being a good place to live and work as does this area. If we look further, we will find that our South Shore is even a more special oasis symbolizing all of those positive qualities that make personal liveability the first criteria on what should be emphasized on the positive side of life.

We have the beautiful residential communities of Hingham, Cohasset, Duxbury, Scituate and so many more. The healthy commercial and industrial areas of Quincy, Weymouth, Braintree and Randolph providing a stable base of good jobs for the total South Shore area. As a tourist attraction, Quincy, the City of Presidents, is the gateway, the stepping stone to the area. And a bit further to the South is Plymouth and Plimouth Plantation.

In addition, we have the natural assets of a gorgeous shoreline for recreational and commercial purposes. Hull could potentially be the finest seacoast resort on either the North or South Shore. While we are but a step from Cape Cod, the cost of fuel and inconvenience of traffic could be the catalyst to return the South Shore to the days when it was the summer mecca.

From a business angle, there is no finer area in the State. Ten years ago, an eighty acre piece of land in North Quincy was unusable, uninhabitable swamp. Today, this area is State Street South Office Park, housing the State Street Bank & Trust Company's Operation Center, Kemper Life Insurance and is the home of many tenants such as The Stop & Shop Companies, Reliance Insurance, G. T. Reilly & Co., A. J. Cunningham, Standard Information Systems, C.O.M. Service Bureau and Bay State Milling. Jordan Marsh has also relocated a significant portion of their operations to the South Shore.

In Canton, two major corporations - Boston Mutual Life Insurance Company and Boston Envelope Company - formerly headquartered in downtown Boston, are now perched high above 128. General Dynamics Shipyard is humming with over a billion dollars in contracts. Procter and Gamble continues to grow and today employs nearly five hundred people. Corporations such as E.S.B., Jones and Vining, and Merriman provide living examples of significant companies that have relocated to the South Shore.

The South Shore Plaza is the grand-daddy of how to do a good suburban shopping center. Since then, there have been several other fine shopping centers having first-rate quality names developed. There are our fine hotels and restaurants as well.

The South Shore emphasizes all of those positive things that Massachusetts stands for and yet people can't seem to recognize all these important qualities:

- Beautiful residential towns
- Available jobs
- Reasonable taxes
- Good growth
- Good government

Boston's western suburbs have seen their economic growth, and now the South Shore's time has come. We must begin emphasizing the positive aspects of this area and encourage more people to begin to recognize the South Shore as THE place to live and work.

We want to see more companies relocate to the South Shore. We have the available land and we can help improve the tax base and the total economy of the area if more businesses see the advantages I have highlighted and move to the South Shore.

There is a positive side to Massachusetts, and the South Shore is that side.

THE READER SPEAKS OUT

Fairy Tales, Facts And Fantasies

Editor, The Quincy Sun:

In the April 29 SUN, Eric Swider fascinatingly promotes a Regional Economy for this Chamber-of-Commerce, by stirring confusion and swatting at scapegoats. Apparently he does not know the difference between fables and fairy tales, or historic facts and fantasies.

The fable of The Little Red Hen promoted the moral of self-reliance. Yet the Chamber of Commerce advocates the Hingham-Boston affluent commuters' ferry, to be paid for by taxes, despite its uneconomic trials.

In this "City of Presidents" blind adoration of the Adamases has obscured their, and Jefferson's, character traits. We forget the Adams' solid Chamber of Commerce salesmanship of Quincy granite for public buildings. [It was C. F. Adams Jr., who left Quincy and bankrupted the Union Pacific railroad by looking for a government cure of bonded indebtedness.] We forget that John Adams was an astute businessman with "horse sense" because he was a self-reliant farmer, like the Little Red Hen.

On the other hand, Thomas Jefferson was not a good businessman. He didn't need to be. His wealth was based on slavery. But he was an exceptional artist and scientist, and like Adams, he was a philosopher.

That these two men, from such divergent backgrounds, could work together for the common good in 1776, and later, was fortuitous for us. We needed them both, plus all the other able leaders of that period.

In 1976, we have few leaders who put public service above self-aggrandizement. We have become a nation of "Piemen" deluding the "Simple Simons" who pay the taxes. We look to money first, rather than at the job to be done. We lose our sense of values and avoid paying "the piper".

There is nothing wrong with Jefferson's concept of "The pursuit of happiness" if considered as the right of everyone to find joy in needed work, rather than in remuneration first. For honest work, like a good deed, is a blessing to the doer and receiver. Unemployment is the curse to be cured by community effort. The tax structure must be mended and altered.

The free enterprise system could function if profits were kept fair. The taxpayers should be recognized as the true shareholders of America. But, it's "taxation without representation" when our government won't open its books to show the costs of the CIA, FBI and other alphabet soup boondoggles.

It costs the taxpayers millions for tribute and too much for defense when Lockheed et al pay bribes without a fair accounting of the public investment. And our local tax burden is inequitable when it produces prima donnas who can't begin to earn their salaries, let alone their pension benefits.

George Orwell's fable, Animal Farm and his fantasy projection, 1984 are recommended readings for the moral of our economic malfunctions. They illustrate self-evident truths that some people "are more equal than others" and that "It's later than we think"!

'Deathless Life' Lecture Title At Christian Science Church

In order to counter personal despair throughout the world today, says Christian Science lecturer, Grace Bemis Curtis, the vital and eternal nature of life revealed through the teachings of Jesus must be recognized.

"It is the spiritual conception of life that activates and harmonizes every phase of daily living," she emphasizes in lectures.

Miss Curtis, a member of The Christian Science Board of Lectureship, will speak in the Church Edifice, 20 Greenleaf St., on Tuesday, June 1 at First Church of Christ, Scientist, Quincy.

The lecture, entitled "Deathless Life," examines the teachings of Christ Jesus and the reason he states for his human ministry: "I am come that they might have life, and that they might have it more abundantly."

"This abundant life," Miss Curtis points out in the lecture, "is far different, however, from the abundance of life we hear discussed in our world today. It's time we took the teachings of Christ Jesus seriously and paid attention to the Master's declaration: 'This is life eternal, that they might know thee the only true God, and Jesus Christ, whom thou hast sent.'"

In addition to her lecture work, Miss Curtis is a teacher of Christian Science, and is active in the healing ministry of the Church of Christ, Scientist.

Christian Science lectures are free and are open to the public.

8 Legislators Attend Human Services Breakfast At St. Coletta's

Eight South Shore legislators joined more than 140 parents, professionals and concerned citizens at the recent second annual Human Services Legislator breakfast at St. Coletta's, Braintree.

The legislators included:

Rep. Thomas Brownell of Quincy; Rep. Andrew Card of Braintree; Rep. Joseph Manning of Milton; Rep. James Sheets of Quincy; Rep. Elizabeth Metayer of Braintree; Sen. Allen McKinnon of Weymouth; Rep.

Joseph Brett of Quincy; and Harold Coos, aide of Sen. Arthur Tobin.

The 140 participants represented more than 40 educational and social agencies. Dr. Edward Pierce, chairman of the West Council for Children, hosted the breakfast. During the breakfast the legislators, parents, and providers shared their ideas on programs and finances.

Dr. Pierce directed a question and answer period for the legislators. Many of the participants voiced concerns not only about financial issues but also about citizen participation, daycare, community residences, and elderly affairs.

The breakfast was co-sponsored by the following: South Shore East and West Council for Children, the Mental Health Association, the Association for Retarded Citizens, the Community Service Board, the East and West Area Boards, the Inter Agencies Council and the Self Help Coalition.

Not Like Gemini

Q. My daughter, who is an astrology buff, insists that I am not like a Gemini. Can you tell me something about why she feels this way? I was born in Quincy, Mass. on June 3, 1924 at 9 a.m. Can you tell me what my horoscope indicates?

A.M. A. I have no way of knowing why your daughter thinks that "you are not at all like a Gemini" since I do not know what she thinks a Gemini should be like and obviously her thoughts are limited to the Sun Sign or the Sign of the Zodiac that the Sun was in at the time of birth. Certainly not all Gemini Sun Signs are alike since they are not all born at the same minute of the same day, month, and year and in the same place.

At the moment of your birth, the Sign of the Zodiac Leo was on the Ascendant and the planet Neptune was in it in the First House very close to the Ascendant degree. Both the Moon and Sun were in Gemini in the Eleventh House; Mercury was in Taurus; Uranus was in Pisces; Mars in Aquarius; Jupiter in Sagittarius; Saturn in Libra and Venus and Pluto were in the Sign of Cancer. This horoscope indicates one who is warmhearted, loveable and affectionate and probably wanting to be loved more than anything else.

Undoubtedly you are a natural charmer, graceful of manner and fluent in your manner of expression. You can "get to others" in a mysterious and unassuming way. You like folks, social life and are inclined to be friendly. You have a keen intuition and have natural good taste.

Try to curb a tendency to daydream. Practice concentration since you may be easily distracted from your trend of thoughts. You have creative ability. Music of the right vibration, and beauty has a profound beneficial effect upon you.

For question to be answered through this column, mail the year, month, day of the month, city of birth, time of day if known and question to Ask Oscar, Box 114 Canton, Mass. 02021. Please sign your name which will not be published. Selected question can only be answered in this column.

License Board Orders Pub Cleaned Up--Or Else!

By TOM BRADY

The city Licensing Board Tuesday, agreed to send a letter to Atty. George M. Tull, former owner of the County Line Pub in Quincy Point, ordering him to clean up property adjacent to the pub or face revocation of the license for the bar.

Tull recently sold the County Line to Harry V. Hogan of Braintree and the transfer of the license was granted by the Licensing Board April 20 with the condition the adjacent lot be cleaned and automobile barriers be built there by Tull.

The board agreed to send the letter to Tull by police courier after Rep. Robert Cerasoli of Quincy Point complained to the board that the required work had not been done.

Cerasoli and an abuttor to the County Line property told the Licensing Board at the April 20 hearing that patrons of the bar often use the vacant lot for parking and that trash is often dumped there and left.

In other action, the License Board granted a request from St. John's Church for a one day beer and wine license for a parish festival to be held June 12 from 7 to 11 p.m. on the parish grounds.

The Board also approved a request from the Myles Standish School PTA for permission to conduct a flea market on the school grounds Saturday, June 5 from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m.

Mrs. Mary L. Couturier, who spoke for the PTA before the board, said the proceeds from the flea market would be used to finance field trips and special activities for the children.

THE STING

Every year insect stings kill more Americans than snake bites, and another couple of thousand allergic victims react seriously enough to require medical attention. Worst offenders are honeybees, bumblebees, wasps, yellow jackets and hornets. People who have had medical treatment for one serious over-all reaction - which may include such symptoms as generalized itching, tightness in the chest, nausea, dizziness, abdominal pain and unconsciousness - are usually cautioned to keep a first-aid kit with appropriate medicines handy. Some doctors also recommend a series of preventive shots that are designed to make bee-sting victims less sensitive to the insect venom.

It's best not to slap at stinging insects. In a moving car pull off the road at once.

If you are stung by a honeybee, don't squeeze out the stinger. Scrape it out with your fingernail or a knife blade. If you have a general reaction, get medical help immediately.

GOOD WISHES TO OUR GRADUATES

Dr. Mann Keynote Speaker

Eastern Nazarene Commencement Exercises May 30

The commencement exercises of Eastern Nazarene College will be held Sunday, May 30, at 3 p.m. on the campus lawn in front of Gardner Hall.

Dr. Edward S. Mann, former president of ENC, will be the special speaker. The exercises will be preceded at 10 a.m. by the Baccalaureate Service in the Lahue Physical Center.

Dr. Mann, a native of Waterville, Vt., first came to Quincy in 1925 to attend ENC.

He graduated in 1929 with an A.B. in mathematics and went on to earn a Master of Arts degree from Boston University in 1932. Following these, he has been conferred the honorary degrees of LL.D and D.D. from Northwest Nazarene College and the University of Vermont, respectively, for work in the field of education.

Dr. Mann served an unprecedented 22 years as President of ENC from 1948 to 1970. Prior to this he held the offices of vice-president, from 1945-48, and assistant to the President, 1941-45, and Professor of Mathematics, 1929-41, for a total of 41 years of academic experiences with the institution.

Dr. Mann is now Executive Secretary of the Department of Education in the Church of the Nazarene, with office at the International Headquarters of the Church in Kansas City, Mo.

He was elected to this post in 1970.

Active in community affairs, Mann is a past member of the Quincy Rotary Club, Quincy Historical Society, Massachusetts Schoolmaster's Club, and National Educational Association.

He served as a incorporator of the Quincy Savings Bank, President of both the Quincy Council of Churches and the South Shore Council of Churches, and a member of the Quincy School Committee.

In partial recognition of his community concern, Dr. Mann was awarded the Benjamin Franklin Hodgkinson Award for Outstanding Service to Quincy, in 1963, and the Jaycees Distinguished Service Award, in 1968.

During the Commencement Exercises, music will be provided by the A Cappella Choir of Eastern Nazarene College. In case of rain, the Lahue Physical Education Center will be used.

Lawrence Costello EPA Contest Finalist

Lawrence Costello, a fifth grader at Sacred Heart School, North Quincy, was selected as a finalist in the Elementary Education Ecology Poem and Poster contest sponsored by the Environmental Protection Agency.

He will attend an awards ceremony, Friday at 2 p.m. in the John F. Kennedy Federal Building, Boston.

Five thousand entries were submitted, and only 200 were selected as finalists.

Lawrence is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Costello of 69 French St., North Quincy.

Karen Wysocki Receives Degree

HELPING HANDS -- Kathy Nagle, 6, Amy Cronin, 7, and Bessy Couroupas, 7, all students at the Quincy School, are glad to help Goodwill help others. Quincy public school students collected 1,000 bags of donated material during the recent Morgan Memorial Goodwill Industries Collection Drive, giving enough material to provide full-time job training and rehabilitation services for one handicapped person for one full year.

Pack 21, Den 4 Cub Scouts Visit Quincy Sun

Cub Scouts from Pack 21, Den 4, visited the offices of The Quincy Sun recently, to view the workings of a newspaper firsthand.

Scouts were: Richard Fitzpatrick, Tim Betts, Bill Heffernan, Michael LaRocque, Peter McNally, Tim Kirby and Jim Milano.

Mrs. Frank Milano, den mother, and Mrs. Thomas Heffernan, assistant den mother, accompanied the scouts on their tour.

The scouts, sponsored by St. Ann's Church, all live in Wollaston.

The boys first visited the editorial and advertising departments of the office.

They then toured the production department where they saw the story of their visit set into type on an IBM computer system. They also saw news headlines set on a Compugraphic 7200 photo typesetting machine.

They also saw a paste-up artist fix the story and headline into proper position on paste-up boards.

After a brief explanation of how The Quincy Sun is printed, the scouts asked questions about what they had seen on their tour.

Before leaving the office each scout received a complimentary copy of The Quincy Sun.

FRIDAY - Energy information, particularly involving a winterization program, will be dispensed from 11 a.m. to 3 p.m.

The bus will leave the Center for Quincy Youth Hockey Arena at 6 p.m. for an evening of ice skating.

The Center will be closed Monday [May 31] for the Memorial Day holiday.

Cpl. Brian Millner In Puerto Rico Operation

Marine Lance Cpl. Brian M. Millner, 18, son of Mr. and Mrs. Bruce M. Millner of 115 Billings Rd., North Quincy, recently participated in Operation "Agle Joust 76" while deployed to Vieques, Puerto Rico with the 1st Battalion, Tenth Marine Regiment, 2nd Marine Division, homebased at Camp Lejeune, N.C.

His battalion provided artillery support to Marine infantry units during the four-week live fire exercise. The exercise is conducted annually to develop coordination between air artillery and Naval gunfire support for Marine Infantry.

He also received individual training in land navigation, small arms employment, controlling of artillery fire, and communications procedures.

A 1975 graduate of North Quincy High School, he joined the Marine Corps in July 1975.

Mass. Fields Pupil's Favorite Recipes In New Book

Recipes for the favorite desserts of the youngsters who attend Massachusetts Fields School are now available in a $3.50 cookbook prepared by the school.

Proceeds from the sale of the book will go to the Merle C. Sawyer Scholarship Fund, established in conjunction with the Quincy Education Association.

Miss Sawyer was an educator in the Quincy School System for 45 years, the last 21 of them as principal of the Mass Fields School.

Preparation of the cookbook from recipes provided by the children and their parents, was coordinated by Mrs. Aliisa Ananis, third grade teacher.

Colonial Federal Celebration For

East Weymouth Opening

Celebrating the opening of a new office in East Weymouth Tuesday, June 1, all offices of the Colonial Federal Savings & Loan Association will be offering free gifts to depositors and money-saving items to any customer who deposits $50 or more in their savings account.

Special drawings of mystery prizes will also be held during the month-long event in June.

Philip J. Lawrence, Colonial Federal Savings' President, said the free gifts and money saving items available for purchase include metal tennis racquets, tennis bags, food certificates or money deposited to customers' accounts, uncirculated U.S. Mint Coins, and Better Homes & Gardens Cookbooks, Gardening Books or Handyman's Books.

With the addition of the East Weymouth Office, Colonial Federal Savings will have four banking facilities serving the South Shore area. The three other offices are located in Wollaston, Holbrook and Wareham.

Herbert Antine Sales Manager Kemper Quincy Territory

Herbert F. Antine has been appointed sales manager for the Quincy branch office territory of the Kemper Insurance Companies, headquartered in Quincy.

Antine will be responsible for the agency sales force in Massachusetts, Maine, Rhode Island, New Hampshire and Vermont.

Antine joined the Kemper Insurance Companies in 1959 as

He is a graduate of the University of Miami. Miami has achieved his Chartered Property and Casualty Underwriter [CPCU] professional designation and is active in that organization, having taught the various CPCU courses.

Antine, his wife Phyllis, and their three children will soon be relocating to the South Shore area.

President Chevrolet Celebrating 22nd Birthday

President Chevrolet in Quincy, the South Shore's largest automotive servicing facility, is celebrating its 22nd birthday this month, with a lifetime sales total of about 20,000 cars to its credit.

Founded by George D. Reardon in May, 1954, the firm has grown from a dozen employees in a small building at 338 Washington St. to its present expanded plant employing about 65 people in sales and service at 540 Southern Artery.

George Reardon is still president of the company and he was joined in the business by his son, Brian, in 1972 after Brian's graduation from Georgetown University and General Motors Dealers' Sons' School.

Both Brian and Louis Cassani, who has been with President since it first opened its doors, are vice presidents of the company.

The automotive dealership business has changed a great deal since George Reardon founded

GEORGE D. REARDON

President 22 years ago.

The changes range from the development of consumerism and government intervention to the fact that the car itself is completely changed.

Consumers demand a good deal more both from the dealer and the car, President has moved more toward the service and

Little Loop Entry Wins Junior Title

The Quincy Bowling Little Loop junior boys' team won the 1976 world's junior team title by a 25-pin margin over South Paris, Me., at Pilgrim Lanes in Haverhill.

The tournament was sponsored by the state associations of Massachusetts, Maine and New Hampshire.

The Quincy team of Chris Butler, Joe Crifo, Fred Norton, Paul Anastas and Dick Hallberg had finished fifth in the MBA state candlepin championships at Stow and was one of 10 Bay State teams invited along with the top four of Maine and four from New Hampshire.

Hallberg's 131 third string and 347 total paced Quincy to a come-from-behind win. Hallberg had previously won the junior boys singles state crown with a 557 five-string total.

The top five teams in the world tournament: Quincy, 1423; South Paris, Me., 1398; Lisbon, Me., 1388; Stow, 1365, and Waltham, 1356.

Quincy's Mike Regan rolled a 537 to place fourth in the senior boys' singles world championships, also held at Haverhill Sunday.

Raiders Eye Tourney Title, Saville Sets Quincy Record

The North Quincy track team finished its regular season last week with a 6-3 Suburban League record [8-3 overall] and now sets its sights on winning the state Class B championship.

The Raiders won the state titles in cross country and winter track and will be out to complete a sweep as the state titles are held Saturday and the championships on Monday, the holiday.

Lou Tozzi's Raiders wound up last Saturday with an easy 98-47 win over Quincy.

Highlights of the meet included a school record of 9:28.2 in the two-mile by Bart Petracca of North, who also held the old mark. His time last week was also the best in the league this year.

Quincy sophomore John Saville, who finished second to Petracca, broke the school record of 9:40.4. Quincy's Charlie Gaziano broke a school record in winning the javelin with a toss of 192 feet, the best in the league this season.

North's Paul McGuigan was a double winner in the 440 and long jump and other Raider winners were Brian Doherty, 100; Pete Donovan, low hurdles; Dave Lorman, high hurdles; Kevin Doyle, high jump; Rich Kennedy, triple jump; Mike Colby, shot put, Steve Bonoli, pole vault, and the 440 relay team of Marry King, Russ Chisholm, McGuigan and Doherty.

Winners for Joe Wessling's Presidents were Gaziano, Harry Williams, 220; Paul Ladas, 880; Kevin O'Brien, mile; Bill Popsie, discus, and the mile relay team of Ladas, O'Brien, Don Jones and Jim Oriola.

Earlier last week North topped Rindge Tech, 76-69, while Quincy was walloped by undefeated league champion Weymouth South, 109-36.

North winners were Doherty, King, McGuigan, Petracca, Mike Morin, Donovan, Bonoli, Lorman and Pete Hemphill.

Quincy's only winners were O'Brien, Saville, Leo Barron, Gaziano and the 440 relay.

The Presidents finished with a 2-7 record under first-year coach Wessling, who had been assistant coach for the past six years.

Sterling Blasts Central, 12-7

Sterling Junior High School has an inexperienced baseball team this year with no players with game experience, but it got off to a good start recently with a 12-7 win over Central.

"The strength of our team appears to be the control pitching of Ed Tinney and Andy Carrera," said Coach Steve Fishman. "Other players who will see considerable action are Steve Picot, Jeff Marcel, Leon Frazier, Dave Remillard and Tom McKay."

"Hitting and fielding are not up to par but seem to be improving. The team has worked hard to get better and it deserves some success."

Frazier's three-run goner and Remillard's two hits sparked the opening game attack. Tinney was the winning-pitcher.

Sterling also edged Atlantic-North, 5-4, with Tinney pitching a three-hitter to top Dave Earle, and Carrera and Remillard paced the attack. Sterling was defeated by Broad Meadows.

Sterling Girls Softball Team Defeats Central, 9-4

The Sterling girls' softball team lost eight of the starters from last year's second place team.

The only returning starter is first basemen Karen Murphy.

"We have a very young team with only three or four ninth grade starters, two eighth grade starters and three or four from the seventh grade," Coach Dave Meehan said. "We probably will start slowly but by the end of the season our young players should have improved enough to have a winning record."

The starting team has Helen Gleason pitching, Georgia Sophis catching, Murphy first base, Michelle Riggs or Sue Callahan second base, Debbie Ohlson shortstop, Sue Gallery or Joyce Davenport third base, Rose Salvatore left field, Mary Ann Cuccinatta or Debbie Merrill center field and Janet Richards or Karen Kozlowski right field.

Like the boys, the girls started off on the right foot with a 9-4 win over Central.

Gleason was the winning pitcher and Murphy paced the attack with four hits. Ohlson was a standout on defense.

First Ladies Defeat Raiderettes

It was a long season for the young Quincy High girls' track team but first-year coach Cathy Ilacqua and the First Ladies had plenty to celebrate Saturday after they defeated North Quincy, 59-50, at Quincy Veterans Memorial Stadium for their first win of the year.

The North girls, coached by Bob Troupe who last year coached the Quincy team, also had their troubles with only one victory this spring.

Going into the last two events, the relays, the First Ladies had a 54-45 lead. The Raiderettes' Rhonda Zoia, Joanne Troy, Janice Kelly and Ann Burke won the 440-yard relay to cut Quincy's lead to four points.

A North win in the 880

medley relay would have given it a one-point win but Quincy's Jody Yurkstas, Carla Capporale, Mary Ilacqua and Paula Conatas won to give the First Ladies their cherished win.

Quincy's individual winners were Dottie Irvine, mile; Heidi Dolan, 880 and discus; Conatas, 440; Claire Oliverio, shot put; and Yurkstas, long jump and high jump.

Winners for North were Troy, 220; Kelly, 100; Karen Kandalof, hurdles, and Jody Silva, javelin.

Second place finishers for Quincy were Ellen Caramanica, mile; Capporale, 100; Sherry Craig, shot put; Ilacqua, discus, and Oliverio, javelin.

North's second placers were

Meadows Girls Off To Good Start

The Broad Meadows Junior High girls' track team has turned in excellent performances and going into last Tuesday's meet with Central had a 2-1 record.

The team is expected to do well in next Thursday's city-wide championship meet at Veterans Memorial Stadium.

Coach Denise Martin's BM

girls have wins over Point and Sterling, while losing to Atlantic-North.

The ninth grade team has

Stephine Caperrall, Carol Caramanica, Susan Erickson, Carolyn Finlay, Rita Foley, Debbie Graham, Liz Keefe, Michelle Leaman, Ann Marie

Lydon, Paula Lynch, Lisa Marrocco, Dawn Magee, Kathy Powers, Lisa Renzi, Peggy Rugg, Jeanne Schuerch, Pam Shaw and Gerry Smith.

Against Point Shaw was a double winner in the shot put and mile and against Sterling she won the mile and was second in the shot. Leaman won the 100-yard dash against Point and won the long jump in the Sterling meet. Erickson won the dash against Sterling.

The eighth graders have some excellent performers. The roster includes Donna Reardon, Clare

In the A-N meet BM swept the mile with Reardon, Lynch and Sines placing 1-2-3. The relay team of MacDonald, Lynch, Cummings and Sines also stood out. In the win over Point Riley and Noenickx turned in strong performance in the high jump and Maher and Cummings in the dash.

Rouillard Paces A.L., 3-Way Tie In N.L.

The Quincy Softball League's National League race has a three-way tie for first place with County Line, Mr. Kelly and Beau's Place having 6-1 records.

In the American League Rouillard's remains unbeaten with a 7-0 mark and Wells Grille is right behind with a 6-1 record.

Rouillard's continued to roll during the past week with a 15-2 romp over Sportlite Cafe and an 11-4 decision over Noble Sporting Goods.

Wells overwhelmed Walsh's Restaurant by a surprising 18-1 score as both teams had been tied for second place in the American League.

Alumni Cafe had a big week as it handed County Line its first loss by an amazing 20-2 margin and also topped Bill's Texaco, 9-5.

Mr. Kelly moved into a top tie in the National League with a 6-1 win over the Eagles, while Beau's Place also moved into a tie by defeating Wheeler-Dealer, 7-6, and Bill's Texaco, 8-6.

Wheeler-Dealer exploded for a 10-1 lead over Palmer Pub but just held on to win, 19-8.

Jonathan's edged K. of C., 5-4, for its first win of the year in the American League.

In the National League Red Carpet also came up with its first win, a 6-5 squeaker in eight innings over Palmer Pub.

John Conroy had a grand slam homer and Billy Rendle

Quincy Netmen Wind Up Successful Season

When Bill Mitchell retired as Quincy High boys' tennis coach after 18 successful seasons, Wayne Hamilton, who last season coached the girls' team, was selected to fill his shoes.

Last week Hamilton finished a highly satisfying first season when his Presidents swept past Rindge Tech, 5-0, to win the lower half championship of the Suburban League. Quincy previously had defeated Weymouth North and North Quincy.

"I'm very happy with our season," Hamilton said. "I was surprised this season with the way the sophomores progressed. At the beginning we had only one boy coming back and against Rindge all the underclassmen played because I wanted to see them and they did a great job."

Against Rindge Freshman Wayne Merritt easily defeated Shawn Toy, 6-0, 6-0; Joe Gill, who will captain the team next year, topped Joe Pulsiver, 6-0, 6-2, and Jim Rooney defeated Fran Hennessey, 6-1, 6-3, to sweep the singles event.

In doubles Jim Todd and Brian London, playing for the first time together, defeated Mike Keyne and Dave Hassan, 6-4, 6-4, and Scott Alquist and Lou Ventrilli, seeing their first match experience, completed the shutout by defeating Ali Musca and Bruce Richie, 6-3, 5-7, 6-1.

Quincy played without two promising sophomores, Mitch Finnegan and Ken Ames.

Hamilton expressed his dislike for the league playoff system. "I'd like to see some kind of round robin set up where you play everyone in the league because I'd like to play some of the other teams again."

Maloney Wins Class A Title In Horseshoe Tourney

Robert Maloney of Wollaston won the Class A title in the annual South Shore Amateur Horseshoe Tournament last weekend at the St. Moritz Horseshoe Club in Quincy.

Maloney won all five of his games en route to the championship and found the stake for 31 ringers in 154 tosses. He also posted class high game with a 7 for 22 ringer effort.

James Marshall of Stoughton placed second, losing only to Maloney in the finals. Roger Goulet of East Weymouth was third with 3-2, followed by Jack Shea, Revere, 2-3; Tony Cincotta Jr., Wollaston, 1-4, and James Maloney, North Quincy, 0-5.

Cincotta was high qualifier in the tournament with 56 points for his 50-shoe attempt. Shea and Jim Maloney locked horns in the toughest game, 64 shoes, won by Shea, 25-23.

The Class B championship was won by Susan Airole of Dorchester with a 5-0 record. She had the highest ringer average of all contestants, 22.1 percent, on the strength of 34 ringers for 154 tosses, and tournament high game, 8 for 22.

James Hunnefeld of South Boston had a 3-2 record and three players, tied for third place with 2-3 records. Norfolk County Sheriff Cliff Marshall won the spot on the basis of a higher ringer percentage, followed by Beverly Reinhardt, North Quincy, and James Howley, Wollaston. James Kelley of West Quincy was sixth, but defeated the sheriff in his final game.

This was the first time in the tournament's three-year history that two women entered. Susan Airole exhibited the most talent at the time of the event, but Beverly Reinhardt has excellent potential. She finished up strong by winning her final two games.

The tournament is sponsored by the St. Moritz Horseshoe Club to make the public aware of what horseshoe pitching has to offer as an inexpensive recreation.

The Club officially begins its season June 7 and 8 with two leagues. Anyone wishing to pitch horseshoes in either league should check at the club courts, Bunker Hill Lane, by 7 p.m. the day of the league competition.

Minutemen To Play At Stadium

Soccer interest in and around Quincy is expected to pick up with the announcement that the Boston Minutemen of the North American Soccer League will play nine games at Veterans Memorial Stadium beginning June 12 and, if enough interest is generated, may play many more games there in the future.

The schedule at Veterans Memorial Stadium: June 12, San Diego Jaws; June 19, Minnesota Kicks; June 27, Seattle Sounders; July 5, Toronto Metros; July 10, Hartford Bicentennials; July 25, Chicago Sting; July 31, Tampa Bay Rowdies; Aug. 7, Rochester Lancers, and Aug. 14, Miami Toros.

The Minutemen will lease the stadium and all its facilities for a minimum of nine games this summer with an option to renew next year. The proposed rent per game will be $500 guaranteed with an additional 10 percent of the net income, about $6,000, going to the city of Quincy. The pro team also will be responsible for security.

John C. Sterge, president and owner of the Minutemen, said the team will operate shuttle buses between the stadium and Wollaston and Quincy Square MBTA stations.

Sterge also stated the team will contribute $13,000 as a gift to the school system to be used for sodding and maintaining the playing field.

"This is an excellent facility and a home we want to build upon," said Sterge. "We plan to work with the Quincy School Department and the Park and Recreation Department to develop soccer clinics for area youths.

Keohane's Wins 5th Over Burgin Platner

Keohane's won its fifth game in six starts with a 6-3 win over Burgin Platner with Brian Reale the winning pitcher.

Reale struck out 13 to make his record 3-0 on the season. He also hit a towering home run over the left center field fence.

John Balzano had two hits and 2 runs batted in and Denny Cronin and Tom Kwoils had RBI singles.

Memorial Service Friday At Snug Harbor Cemetery

A memorial service honoring the 133 mariners buried in Germantown's Snug Harbor Cemetery will be held Friday at 10 a.m. at the cemetery.

Public officials, including Mayor Joseph J. LaRaia and Congressman James A. Burke, have been invited to participate in the ceremonies which is being sponsored by Quincy Heritage and the Germantown Heritage Society.

Students from the Snug Harbor School and the Quincy High School Band will also join in the ceremonies.

Other participants will be H. Hobart Holly, president, Quincy Historical Society who will present an historical sketch of the cemetery and Gerald Garland, principal, Snug Harbor School, who will receive a painting on behalf of the school from members of the Germantown Heritage Society.

Established in 1857, the Snug Harbor Cemetery is located behind the Snug Harbor School on Palmer St. in Germantown. The cemetery was used as the burial grounds for many of the mariners at Sailors' Snug Harbor. Most of the 550 men from Sailors' Snug Harbor were buried in Mount Wollaston Cemetery, but nearly a third were buried at Snug Harbor.

The Snug Harbor Cemetery was used until about 1949 when the land of the Sailors' Snug Harbor was sold for a housing development.

One of the mariners buried at Snug Harbor is credited with inventing the doughnut.

According to legend, Hanson Gregory, as a young boy, used to complain to his mother that her dough cakes were uncooked in the middle. Frustrated by the taste of soggy dough, he suggested she poke a hole in the middle, thereby eliminating the uncooked portion.

And so the doughnut hole was born, they say.

Hanson Gregory died in 1935 at the age of 88, but the legend of his contribution to the doughnut industry lives on. In fact, the National Bakers Association has recognized Gregory for his contribution.

It is expected Gregory will receive special recognition during Friday's ceremonies. In his memory, the Dunkin Donuts shop on Southern Artery will assist in providing refreshments for the ceremony.

CIVIL WAR CANNONS SPRUCED UP FOR MEMORIAL DAY

The four cannon that surround the Civil War Monument at Mt. Wollaston Cemetery are undergoing a facelifting in preparation for Memorial Day services, it was announced by Pasquale S. DiStefano, director of Veterans' Services.

The cannon have been scraped, painted and realigned by Graves Registration Officer Lawrence Carnali and Joseph Brooker, a CETA employee with the department. They also are repairing 400 bronze flagholders that were stolen or broken.

More than 5,700 flags will be placed on veterans' graves for Memorial Day and two flags will be placed in holders at each of the 63 Veterans' Memorial Squares throughout the city.

Park Dept. In Campaign To Cut Litter, Vandalism

Richard J. Koch, executive secretary to the Quincy Park-Recreation Board, announces administrative assistant Raymond Cattaneo will visit every Quincy school this week distributing Anti-Litter, Anti-Vandalism information.

The literature will be read by classroom teachers to students and used for possible class discussion.

Koch said he hopes the 675 school rooms reached will result in 14,000 students being enlightened as to the extensive littering and vandalism in the city, it's cost to the taxpayers in money and beautification and the resulting expenditures of thousands of dollars to clean litter and repair vandalism.

The money, he said, could be used instead for the purchase of new or additional recreational equipment, and provide more frequent maintenance of field facilities.

Littering of parks, playgrounds, and beaches has increased at an alarming rate, Koch said. The amount of cans, bottles, and paper disposed of at recreational sites doubles the amount of two years ago, with some areas requiring daily cleaning, he said.

Stockton, Harrelson Sign 4-Year Contract

William J. Flynn, Vice President and General Manager of WSBK-TV 38, Boston, announces that Dick Stockton and Ken (Hawk) Harrelson have signed four-year contracts with the Storer station.

Stockton and Harrelson will continue their duties as play-by-play and color man for WSBK-TV 38's Boston Red Sox telecasts.

"We're extremely pleased to have reached this agreement with Dick and Ken," said Flynn. "We feel their youth and enthusiasm reflect the spirit of Boston's baseball fans, and we're proud to have them on our team for the duration of our present broadcast contract with the Sox."

Stockton, play-by-play announcer for TV 38's Red Sox telecasts, has a long association with television sports. He has served as TV voice of the Boston Celtics, sports director to WBZ-TV, Boston, and as play-by-play announcer for CBS's NFL and ABA games. He has also announced for Home Box Office Cable Television's NBA games, New York Yankee and Cleveland Indians Baseball, and Baltimore Colts and Boston Patriots pre-season football.

Harrelson, color commentator for the Red Sox telecasts, spent 12 years as a professional baseball player. After three years in the minors, Harrelson played with the Kansas City A's from 1963 to 1966. In 1967 he signed with the Red Sox and went on to help the club win the pennant and take on the Cardinals in the World Series.

In 1968 he earned the "American League Player of the Year" award. From 1969 to 1971, when he retired from professional baseball, he played for the Cleveland Indians.

Masterpiece Theatre Racks Up More Honors

Masterpiece Theatre, public television's most consistently honored series, solidified its claim to that title at the recent 1975-76 Emmy Awards in Los Angeles.

Three of the National Academy of Television Arts and Sciences' highest awards for programming excellence went to Masterpiece Theatre, raising the total number of Emmys Masterpiece Theatre has won since its 1971 premiere to 11. Masterpiece Theatre is presented by WGBH, Boston on the Public Broadcasting Service and is made possible by a grant from the Mobil Oil Corporation.

The "Upstairs, Downstairs" series was responsible for two of Masterpiece's Emmys. It was cited as "Outstanding Dramatic Series" before the Academy elected to transfer it into the "Limited Series" category this year.

Gordon Jackson, as the crusty Angus Hudson, the Bellamy household's butler in "Upstairs, Downstairs", earned his first Emmy by being cited as the "Outstanding Supporting Actor-Single Performance" for the series' "Beastly Hun" segment.

Masterpiece Theatre's third Emmy (for "Outstanding Lead Actress in a Limited Series") went to Rosemary Harris for her portrayal of French novelist George Sand in the "Notorious Woman" series, an award won last year by Jean Marsh of the "Upstairs, Downstairs" cast. WGBH's fourth national Emmy for 1975-76 was won by Seiji Ozawa for "Outstanding Achievement in Music Direction" for his work on the "Central Park in the Dark" segment of WGBH's Evening at Symphony.

Adams School Pupils In Spring Concert Tuesday

The final Adams School PTA meeting of the school year will be held Tuesday, June 1, at 7:15 p.m. in the Lincoln-Hancock School cafeteria.

The annual spring music concert will be presented by the pupils of the intermediate grades under the direction of the music teachers.

The string instrumental group, under the direction of Paul Sullivan, will present several selections including solo numbers by members of the group. The band group, under the direction of Mr. Robert Coviello, will present several numbers. The school chorus, directed by Mrs. Christine Puccia, will present several numbers from the Musical "Music Man". In keeping with the bicentennial celebration, several patriotic numbers will be presented by the three groups, highlighted by a special choral number.

All parents and friends of the Adams School are cordially invited to this meeting.

Youngsters In Spring Show At Adams Shore Library

Two performances of "A Bit Of This And A Bit Of That", were presented recently at the Adams Shore Library.

Saturday afternoon performance was for the children in the area and repeated Thursday evening for the parents and friends.

The program opened with 30 story hour clowns in a book parade. They were:

Ronald Allsop, Kerry Bondarick, Karen Boussey, Michelle Carney, Maureen Cloonan, Michelle Cochrane, Kelli Colligan, Stephanie Craig, Nancy Flaherty, Terrance Hack, Adrienne Iorio, Sara Joyce, Richard Keddy, Derek LaBrecque, Jon Lindholm, William Bellew, Suzanne MacNeal, Robert Miller, Liser Morrell, Thomas Morrell, Deanna Nigro, Paula Norton, Gene Phillips, Gina Pokaski, Thomas Roberts, Kim Robertson, Michael Schnabel, Maureen Shea, Paula Tolson and Brian Ulevicuis.

Acrobat stunts and a parade of unknown creatures were next on the program. The surprise act by staff members Leo Bottary, Robert Fanning and Dennis Hines assisted by Robert Nevins was a hit.

"A Bit Of That" was a humorous play titled "Herman the Hatman". Ray Welliver playing the lead wanted to give his collection of hats away but instead added to it. His wife played by Janet Dennis was unhappy with all the hats in their home. Others in the cast were Daniel Kelly, John Sullivan, Mary Frances and Thomas Kelly, Tina Howard, Natalie Nigro and AnnMarie Shea.

The program was directed by Blanche Eckert, children's librarian, assisted by William Bloomer and Roberta Ferguson.

PLAYERS PERFORM preview of baseball scene of "You're A Good Man, Charlie Brown" for poly arts class at Lincoln-Hancock School. The play, sponsored by the School Council, was presented to the public at Sterling Junior High School auditorium.

Mark Priestly Receives Navy Commendation For Rescue Work

Navy Hull Maintenance Technician Third Class Mark J. Priestly, son of Mr. and Mrs. James J. Priestly of 37 Riverside Ave., Adams Shore, received a letter of commendation from the Commander of the U.S. Sixth Fleet while serving aboard the guided missile destroyer USS Claude V. Ricketts, homeported at Norfolk, Va.

He was cited for his actions on Nov. 22-23, 1975 following the collision between the guided missile cruiser USS Belknap and the aircraft carrier USS John F. Kennedy in the Ionian Sea.

Priestly was a member of a firefighting team that battled major fires aboard the cruiser as his ship approached to within five feet of the Belknap. Despite flames towering 100 feet above him and a constant shower of debris and shrapnel from exploding ordnance, he maintained his firefighting post and helped extinguish the blaze aboard the Belknap.

A 1974 graduate of Quincy High School, he joined the Navy in June 1974.

THE COMMONWEALTH OF MASSACHUSETTS
DEPT. OF PUBLIC WORKS

PUBLIC NOTICE OF A RESCHEDULED PUBLIC HEARING FOR THE MASSACHUSETTS INTERSTATE SAFETY PROGRAM

A Public Hearing sponsored by the Massachusetts Department of Public Works previously scheduled for May 5, 1976 is hereby rescheduled to allow comment on the Draft Environmental Impact Report for the Massachusetts Interstate Safety Program.

WHEN: Tuesday, June 1, 1976 at 7:00 P.M.

PURPOSE: The Public Hearing provides an opportunity for public comment on the Generic Report for the Massachusetts Interstate Safety Program. All views and comments offered at this Hearing will be reviewed and considered in the preparation of the Final Environmental Impact Report.

PROPOSAL: The Program's scope involves upgrading Interstate roadways, constructed prior to the inception of today's recognized safety applications. Work consists mainly of the removal of fixed hazardous objects and an improvement in the methods used to protect the driver accidentally leaving the highway. In removing fixed objects, grading will be required adjacent to the present highway travelled ways; guard rails will be removed or improved, and signing, lighting, pavements, and traffic control devices upgraded.

The Draft Environmental Impact Report is available for review by contacting the Environmental Section of the Department of Public Works.

Written statements and other exhibits in place of, or in addition to oral statements may be submitted within 10 days of the date of this Hearing to Robert T. Tierney, Chief Engineer, Massachusetts Department of Public Works, 100 Nathan Street, Boston, Massachusetts 02114.

Plans will be on display with an engineer in attendance at the Department of Public Works Auditorium from 6:00 P.M. to 7:00 P.M. on the date of the Public Hearing.

Leo Meady Elected City GOP Committee Chairman

Leo F. Meady of 557 Quarry St., West Quincy was elected chairman of the Quincy Republican City Committee at a recent meeting at Quincy Legion Post Hall, Quincy Center.

He will succeed the late Thomas H. Blacklock who died earlier this month after a short illness.

11th Republicans Choose 2 Ford, 1 Reagan Delegates

Republicans from the 11th Congressional District have chosen three delegates and four alternate delegates to the GOP National Convention in Kansas City next August.

Two of the delegates are pledged to President Gerald Ford and one to former California Gov. Ronald Reagan. Ford delegates are Marjorie Crispin of Braintree, who received 23 votes, and Joyce Baker of Wollaston, 20 votes.

Ford alternates are Ronald Kaufman of Quincy, 17 votes, and Roy Lawson of Abington and Charles Caron of Braintree, who tied with 15 votes. The Ford Committee will choose between them for the second alternate slot.

Reagan delegate is Anne Cruikshank of Hyde Park, 18 votes. Reagan alternate is Dave Vieira, also of Hyde Park, nine votes.

Peter P. Gacicia was re-elected vice-chairman for another four-year term. Three women were elected to the other offices, Mrs. Normand Goyette, recording secretary; Mrs. John Testa, corresponding secretary, and Mrs. Anneli Johnson, treasurer.

The new chairman, who is president of Profitpower International, a business brokerage and franchise consulting firm in Boston, has long been active in Republican circles, particularly in the election campaigns of Governors John Volpe and Francis Sargent and Senator Edward W. Brooke. He is a past president of the Bay State Republican Club and former vice-president of the non-partisan State Club of Massachusetts.

The return of a truly two-party system of government within the foreseeable future was cited as the committee's one and only goal by a number of speakers at the meeting.

Meady compared the situation which existed when he moved to Quincy from his native Abington in 1950 to that which exists today. In that year the local representatives, the state senator, the mayor and nearly all other elected city officials were all Republicans while today all positions are occupied by Democrats excepting for two members of The Quincy School Committee, Francis F. Anselmo and Francis X. McCauley.

Rejecting the widely held belief that the Republican party, locally and nationally, is a "closed organization" not welcoming people of all ages, sex, color, nationality and religion Meady urged all persons interested in running for office this year to contact him for possible aid and assistance in obtaining Republican support regardless of their present party affiliation.

"We are especially interested in talking with young men and women from Democratic families who want to run for the legislature or for Norfolk County offices but face the nearly impossible task of ousting the incumbents in the Democratic primary," he said. "The best opportunity for these young people is to run as Republicans, or even as Independents, to be sure of being on the ballot in November."

Flagpole Repaired

City Councillor Paul D. Harold has commended the Department of Public Works for its speedy action in repairing the flagpole on Mechanic St. in front of the Quincy Legion Post in time for Memorial Day.

"In less than four days the pole was taken down, repaired, repainted and reset in concrete. The speedy response time on this request certainly merits special attention and commendation."

Would Repeal 'No Fault'

Sheets Sponsors Bill For Merit Auto Insurance

Rep. James A. Sheets [D-Quincy] is one of the sponsors of a late-filed bill in the state legislature to amend the "no fault" auto insurance law to include, among other things, a merit rating system.

The bill would provide penalties of up to $200 for accidents or traffic violations with the money applied directly toward lowering the insurance rates of good drivers.

"No fault property damage in its present form would be repealed," said Sheets.

Detectives Report For Duty With Uniforms

Quincy's plainclothes detectives reported for duty Tuesday [June 1] with uniforms at the ready in case they are needed for street patrol.

It is part of Chief Francis X. Finn's policy of giving the uniform patrol first priority in the area of manpower resources during the summer under the department's drastically reduced budget for fiscal 1976.

Under Finn's order, all but five detectives are to report for work every day or night "prepared to fill in when necessary in the uniform division...they will either wear their uniforms to work or have them available."

The Chief's order said:

"Detectives on continuing investigations of a serious nature, for example: drugs, rapes, homicides, should be given as much consideration as possible to continue their investigations.

"A system of priorities is to be drawn up by Capt. [Frederick] Tighe on what he considers will require followup investigation, taking into consideration the limited resources he will have available to him.

"All other investigations, for example: petty burglaries, overdoses, etc., will be thoroughly conducted by the street patrol supervisors."

Graduates Turn Backs On Prophets Of Pessimism, Doom, Says Dr. Creedon

By TOM HENSHAW

"Young people have turned their backs on the prophets of pessimism and doom," says School Supt. Dr. Lawrence P. Creedon. "In a quiet way they have been leading us back to a re-examination of our American heritage."

Dr. Creedon's remarks were contained in a text prepared for delivery Wednesday night at the combined graduation of 1,173 seniors from Quincy and North Quincy High Schools and Quincy vocational Technical School at Veterans Memorial Stadium.

"At the beginning of this decade," he said, "adults were gravely concerned over the then all too prevalent rejection of America by its youth, and fear was felt for the future of our land and its institutions.

"However, in large measure our anxiety was without foundation.

"It is commonplace to lament the trials and tribulations of the past decade and I'll forego still another recitation of them 'save one. In good times and in bad when the litany of societal disorders is proclaimed a condemnation of youth and youthful behavior seems to be among them.

LaRaia Won't Sign $1 Million Bond

Merrymount School Addition

Delayed Until NQHS Issue Settled

Mayor Joseph J. LaRaia has indicated that he won't sign a $1 million bond issue for an addition to Merrymount School until the North Quincy High School controversy is settled.

"I would like to sign one bond issue for both North Quincy and Merrymount," he told The Quincy Sun.

"I hope the School Committee at its next meeting will be prepared to approve the final drawings for the Merrymount School so that we will be ready to go ahead with it."

The Mayor has refused to sign a $15 million bond issue for renovation and addition to North Quincy High, suggesting that a $1 million bond issue [$750,000 plus interest] can do the job very nicely.

The two bond issues are tied together but LaRaia is empowered to sign them separately.

He said his $750,000 recommendation was based loosely on a figure of $500,000 he quoted Supt. Dr. Lawrence P. Creedon as saying was needed for renovation several years ago when there was talk of building an entirely new North Quincy High.

"I've given school officials the direction I want to go in," he said. "They must come up with a proposal within those limits."

Judge Kramer Recommends But--

No Action Yet On Election Commission

Judge Albert L. Kramer issued a 12-page report last week critical of Quincy's election procedures but it caused scarcely a ripple in city government.

Judge Kramer, who held an inquest into the irregular aspects of last fall's municipal election, suggested that Mayor Joseph J. LaRaia and the City Council appoint a special commission of citizens to reform city election procedures.

"We're concentrating on the budget and the tax rate right now," said Council President Arthur H. Tobin. "I haven't gotten a copy of his report yet. All I know is what I read in the papers.

"Besides we don't have to adopt anything he says."

"We've been talking about it," said LaRaia. "We'll put a representative group together."

He didn't say when.

Judge Kramer said, the manner in which a recount disclosed errors of such magnitude in last November's election that it "compels the most trusting to harbor grave suspicions of wrongdoing."

But, he said, there was no evidence of criminal actions.

CITY TO END FISCAL YEAR SLIGHTLY IN RED

The city of Quincy is going to end its fiscal year [June 30] running a slight deficit.

But, says Mayor Joseph J. LaRaia, there's really nothing to worry about.

"The hospital deficiency is provided for in an $800,000 appropriation which will be made up from next year's hospital receipts," he said.

"The other departments, excluding the schools, will have little if anything left at the end of the year.

"This will be made up in next year's cost of running the city or possibly in utilizing money being held for other purposes that can be postponed."

He said there will be no layoffs of city workers due to the deficit.

LaRaia blamed the problem on the previous administration of Mayor Walter J. Hannon, which, he said, pegged departmental budgets unrealistically low during an election year.

Stevens Discusses

Children's Services Reorganization

State Human Services Secretary Jerald L. Stevens met with South Shore child welfare professionals and advocates Monday in the JFK Health Center to discuss proposals for reorganizing children's services in the state.

Legislation is pending to create a Department of Family Services by splitting the Office for Social Services from the Department of Welfare and merging it with the Department of Youth Services.

Stevens said that social services have sometimes gotten lost in the huge and complex Public Welfare Department.

"Separation of OSS would permit social services planning and delivery to assume a higher priority and would focus the sole attention of a commissioner on such services," said Stevens.

Proposed City Budget Copies To Be Placed At Libraries

The City Council has adopted a resolution to have copies of the proposed City Budget distributed to each branch library in the city so that citizens can look it over before it is passed.

"After its presentation to the City Council, the budget becomes a public document," said Councillor Paul D. Harold, who introduced the resolution.

"The City Council should make every effort to make copies available for inspection and scrutiny."

"The fiscal 1976-77 budget is presently being worked on by the Council's Finance Committee and it's at this point that citizens should have input into the decisions that are being made."

"The Council's budget

sessions are open to the public, but without copies of the budget, citizens attending the sessions really have a limited perspective on matters under consideration.

"In neighboring towns, copies of the proposed budget are distributed to all interested residents. In the city of Quincy, copies of the budget should be available to more than a dozen people."

Italian Police Chief Honorary Quincy Citizen

The police chief of Bari-Barletta, Italy, is now an honorary citizen of Quincy.

Michele Gramazio, whose title is maresciallo di pubblica sicurezza [marshal of public safety] was given honorary citizenship by Mayor Joseph J. LaRaia when he and his wife, Maria, visited Quincy recently on a 45-day American vacation.

Gramazio visited his uncles, Nick Panarelli of 9 Fowler St., and Anthony Panarelli of 47 Atherton St., both Quincy, while staying at the home of a cousin, Mrs. J. W. Belasko in Braintree.

Bari-Barletta is in northern Italy, just south of Trieste.

Chamber Organizing Local SCORE Chapter

The South Shore Chamber of Commerce is sponsoring efforts to bring together retired men and women business executives to establish a chapter of the Service Corps of Retired Executives [SCORE] to serve area business firms that need expert advice.

Retired business persons and veteran executives in cities and towns in Norfolk and Plymouth Counties are invited to attend an organizational meeting at the Chamber's conference room, 36 Miller Stile Rd, Quincy, Tuesday, June 8 at 4 p.m.

Those who know a retired executive who could assist in the aims of SCORE are asked to encourage his or her attendance at the meeting.

Jack Conway, President of the Chamber, said he is confident a SCORE chapter on the South Shore would be a great asset to the small business firms and to those individuals who are planning to establish a business enterprise.

SCORE, which is funded by the federal government through the Small Business Administration, was founded 10 years ago after a pilot program in Boston. An official of that agency, Martin Canavan of Quincy, was responsible for organization of that chapter.

There are now more than 200 SCORE chapters, with 5,000 volunteers across the country, 28 in New England alone.

The city Licensing Board Tuesday, voted to call Harry V. Hogan, owner of the County Line Pub in Quincy Point, and Atty. George Tull, the bar's former owner, to the next board meeting to respond to complaints about the conditions of property around the bar.

The vote was taken after several abutators to an empty lot behind the County Line complained at the meeting that repairs which were required by the board as conditions to the transfer of the County Line's liquor license from Tull to Hogan, have not been completed.

The repairs include a clean up of the lot, which Tull still owns, and the construction of a chain link fence and automobile bumpers behind the bar. According to Licensing Board minutes, the repairs were to be carried out by Tull.

However, Lena Pennellatore, one of the abutators, said the lot has been only partially cleaned and the bumpers were made from rotten wood instead of the required concrete. She said that cars have twice rolled down the hill from the bar into her back yard.

The Licensing Board voted to call Tull and Hogan to the next board meeting June 8 to explain why the repairs have not been carried out as required.

A request from Thomas O'Brien, of Tom O'Brien Pontiac, for a license to extend his sales of new and used cars to a second location at 626 Washington St., in Quincy Point, was continued one week so O'Brien and Quincy Point Rep. Robert Cerasoli can meet with abutators of the property.

O'Brien told the board he planned to limit the use of the lot to sales of cars and would not offer service or repairs at that location.

Louise Forsyth Receives Bridgewater's Tillinghast Award

The annual Nicholas Tillinghast award for "outstanding service to public education," the highest honor of the Bridgewater State College Alumni Association, has been presented to Miss Louise B. Forsyth of Quincy.

She was cited by Dr. V. James DiNardo of the College who called her record of accomplishments in education as "a most compelling and inspiring example for us all" and one "who has carried most significantly the flame of Bridgewater fire throughout the country."

Miss Forsyth is the first Quincy recipient of the Tillinghast award, named in honor of the first president of Bridgewater who was appointed to the post in 1840 by Commissioner Horace Mann. Each year the award honors one Bridgewater graduate who exemplifies Tillinghast's dedication and accomplishments.

Miss Forsyth, coordinator of testing for the Quincy Public Schools, is also a graduate of the College of William and Mary and Boston University. She has had a long career in Quincy as a teacher, counselor, head counselor, and member of the headquarters guidance staff.

With her election to the presidency of the American School Counselor Association for 1977-78, she has achieved one of the highest honors possible for a member of her profession. For the past two years she has been ASCA coordinator of public relations and has conducted workshops in many states.

Her professional activities in the Massachusetts School Counselors Association included service as secretary, treasurer, president, and executive secretary and she was honored with their Distinguished Leadership Award in 1973.

Also in 1973 she received national recognition from ASCA for outstanding contributions to the profession as counselor, administrator, and writer.

Active in the work of the American National Red Cross, Miss Forsyth has held leadership roles at local, state, and national levels and currently is secretary of the Board of Directors of the Greater Quincy Chapter.

Other community service included three years as moderator of Bethany Congregational Church, the first woman to serve in that office in the church's 140 years of existence.

Many classmates and present and former teachers were in attendance at Alumni Day at Bridgewater to see Miss Forsyth receive the Tillinghast award. Also present was her brother, CDR Donald D. Forsyth, U.S.N., who came from Lawrence, Kansas, for the occasion.

Carol Mahoney, Jane Ford Co-Chairmen Women's Political Caucus

New officers of the South Shore Women's Political Caucus stepped into office last week at the second annual awards dinner of the caucus, held at The Hollow Restaurant, Quincy.

Sharing the office of co-chairmen for the first time are Jane Ford of Connell St.,

West Quincy, and Carol Mahoney of Grandview Ave., Wollaston. They succeed Joyce Baker of Wollaston who was president.

The members of the caucus decided to change the presidency and vice-presidency to a co-chairmanship, with the change effective this term.

Carole Leman of Whitman Rd., West Quincy, is treasurer, and Terry Hamilton of Poole Cir., Holbrook, is secretary.

Jane Ford was in England and unable to attend the meeting.

Nancy Colletta Receives Providence's Top Business Graduate Award

Nancy A. Colletta, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank C. Colletta of 108 Phipps St., Quincy, has been named the recipient of the John J. Gula Award, presented annually to the highest ranking graduate in Providence College's Business Department.

Miss Colletta, who graduated Summa Cum Laude from Providence College, was the third highest ranking graduate among the college's 645 undergraduates.

The Accounting major was also presented the Rhode Island Society of Certified Public Accountants Award for attaining the highest grade in the National Accounting Achievement Test.

A graduate of Archbishop Williams High School in Braintree, she was a member of Phi Sigma Tau, the National Philosophy Honor Society; the Business Club, and the French Club.

Miss Colletta, who was granted the Rhode Island Society of Certified Public Accountants Scholarship Award, plans to join the Boston office of Peat, Marwick, Mitchell & Co. as an auditor.

Nancy's younger sister Francine is also attending Providence College. A sophomore, Francine is also majoring in Accounting.

Progressive Pisces

Q. I was born on February 19, 1941 in Rochester, N.Y. at approximately 8 a.m. I don't know exactly what day this falls on. I have never known whether I am Aquarius or Pisces as my date is on the breaking point of the two Signs. Could you please tell me something about the type person I am and the people that go best with my Sign and anything else that would be of interest?

D.Y.

A. The Sun had entered the Sign of Pisces on February 18, 1941 at 7:50 P.M. Eastern Standard Time, therefore your Sun was in Pisces as was the planet Mercury. Pisces was on the Ascendant; the planet Venus was in Aquarius; Mars in Capricorn; Moon in Sagittarius; Neptune in Virgo; Saturn, Jupiter and Uranus, all in Taurus and Pluto in the Sign of Leo.

This horoscope is indicative of a very sympathetic, good natured person who is blessed with a vivid imagination. You are apt to accomplish most "working behind the scenes", working to help another or others, and capable of sacrificing self in their interest.

Early in life care was needed to avoid becoming deeply involved in a very romantic affair which while exciting had very little prospect of lasting for any great length of time.

This chart is also associated with one inclined to be very liberal in viewpoint and with a desire to be an individualist. While idealistic in love and pleasure and capable of being attracted to someone at first sight, there is apt to be unusual ideas and theories about romance and relationships which lead to complicating situations.

The Sign of Aries in "intercepted" in your First House and its so called "ruler" Mars, is in your Tenth House. This indicates that the way the world sees you, you might say your reputation, is primarily in your own hands, depending upon what you do. By controlling and directing your energies into conservative channels you may accomplish your ambitions and earn the respect of others.

For questions to be answered through this column, mail the year, month, day of the month, city of birth, time of day if known and question to Ask Oscar, Box 114, Canton, Mass. 02021. Please sign your name which will not be published. Selected questions can only be answered in this column.

Stay Alive!

By Jack Silverstein

EXERCISE FOR YOUR HEART

Doctors generally agree that regular, repeated exercise throughout life is important to a healthy heart, efficient lungs and firm muscles. It has been shown that an underexercised heart may beat faster than normal, even while you're resting, and almost any exertion can accelerate its rate without a corresponding increase in the volume of blood going to vital organs and tissues. Exercise can improve the heart's efficiency so that after a time each heartbeat will pump a greater volume of blood.

Regular exercise has been shown to lower cholesterol levels and blood pressure; some active people even develop reserve blood vessels that can channel vital blood to the heart if a coronary artery is blocked. Nobody can say whether exercise can reverse or retard established atherosclerosis. But the fact that it can build up heart efficiency and tone sagging muscles should be a reason to work out an exercise program suitable for your age and physical condition.

Queen Elizabeth's Boston Visit Live On Ch. 5

WCVB-TV [Ch. 5] announced it will provide exclusive live coverage of the Sunday, July 11, visit to Boston of Queen Elizabeth II.

The seven-hour special presentation, entitled, "The Royal Visit", will begin at 9:30 a.m. when the Queen's yacht, Britannia, arrives in Boston Harbor and will continue until she departs that evening around 7:30.

It will mark the first time in 200 years that a reigning British monarch has set foot on Massachusetts soil. Equally historic will be Ch. 5's complete coverage of the event - unprecedented in length and scope among local stations in this country.

Ch. 5 crews will man nine cameras at key points along the Queen's itinerary. Anchoring the all-day coverage will be the husband-wife newscast team of Chet Curtis and Natalie Jacobson.

In progression, WCVB-TV's cameras and reporters will capture the royal yacht entering the harbor to a 21-gun salute from the USS Constitution ["Old Ironsides"]; services at the Old North Church, the Queen's address at the Old State House, tours of the city and the USS Constitution, a grand parade at Faneuil Hall, and a walk through City Hall Plaza.

Integrated into the live coverage will be filmed and taped highlights of the previous day's spectacular "Operation: Sail". More than 100 majestic ships from many nations will sail into Boston Harbor, climaxing a 3,500-mile, two-month journey from England. Twenty-two of these vessels are "tall ships" - classic Windjammers manned by male and female crews from Germany, France, Spain, Italy, Holland, Russia, and other countries. It is the largest armada of such ships under sail since the 1827 Battle of Navarino in the Eastern Mediterranean.

Executive producer of "The Royal Visit" is Larry Pickard, vice president public affairs, WCVB-TV.

Celebrities To Turn Out For Ch. 2 Auction

Gov. Dukakis, Elma Lewis, Sharon King, Senator Kennedy, Pixie Palladino, George Plympton, David Susskind, Arthur Fiedler, Jay Scott, Gene Rayburn and Louise Day Hicks.

What do they all have in common? Not much, some say, except that they're among the hundreds of guest auctioneers in Channel 2's 11th annual fund-raising gala, THE AUCTION.

AUCTION starts officially Friday, June 4 at 7:30 p.m. on Ch. 2. The regular Channel 2 schedule then shifts to its sister station, Channel 44. From June 5-12, Ch. 2 is all AUCTION.

every day from 1 p.m. to 1 a.m. Sesame Street will still air on Ch. 2 each day at noon.

For viewers, it is a spectacular involving, outrageous, obsessive nine days. They can snatch up a bargain on anything from a '76 Pacer to an antique Grandfather clock, have dinner for two in a posh restaurant you've always longed to try, or indulge a secret desire - like leading the Harvard band or displaying their own crazy invention at the Museum of Science. They can fulfill a dream and experience all the thrills of a live electronic auction, while showing support for Channel 2.

Centre Methodist Youngsters In Special Performance For Sybil Mattson

A visit to the home of polio victim Mrs. Sybil Mattson, ended a day of special activities for the children of Quincy Centre United Methodist Church Sunday, May 23.

After the special church service, the congregation joined for lunch, then watched the children present a play, "Our First Flag". The play closed with a flag ceremony and the singing of "This Land is Your Land".

The children were then taken to the home of Sybil Mattson of 7 Carter St., South Quincy. Mrs. Mattson, a victim of the polio epidemic of 1955, has been bedridden since with a chest respirator.

The children gave her a special performance and sang several songs, including "Yankee Doodle". One of the children in the choir, Justin Jerome, is Mrs.

Mattson's grandson.

Play directors were Martha Smith and Susan Ohman, with Dorothy Wingo at the piano.

Cast members included:

16 Quincy Residents Graduate From Wentworth

Sixteen Quincy students were among the 588 seniors to graduate from Wentworth Institute and Wentworth College of Technology.

They are:

Charles E. Todd, Paul M. Donaghey, Mark E. Hastings, Walter Steinkrauss, Richard J.

Smith, and Brian MacIsaac.

Mrs. Alice Beatty of Quincy presented the Beatty medal to Clifford J. Swinski of Boston. She is the widow of Dr. H. Russell Beatty, first president of Wentworth College of Technology.

2 Residents Receive Angelo's Employee's Assn. Awards

Two Quincy residents have been awarded scholarships by the Angelo's Employees Association to be used at the College of their choice.

John Sullivan of 130 South St. and Jean Trifone of 24 Mortimer Terr. were awarded the scholarships at a banquet at Bobby Hackett's in North Pembroke. John, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Francis Sullivan, is graduating from Sacred Heart High School, Weymouth, and will enter Bridgewater State College in the fall.

Jean, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Trifone, is graduating from Archbishop Williams High School, Braintree, and will enter Simmons College in the fall.

Both students work part-time at the Quincy Plaza supermarket, and are among nine Angelo's Employees Association Annual Scholarship recipients for the academic year 1976-77.

Election Verdict: No Thievery But Revamping Needed

The final—and most important—verdict is in on the court inquest into Quincy's controversial 1975 city election.

Judge Albert R. Kramer, presiding justice of Quincy District Court, found quite a few things wrong with Quincy election procedures—but no criminal wrongdoing.

According to his findings, no one tried to steal the election. That shoots down the charge that was rampant election night and for weeks after.

During the original election count, six blocks of 50 votes were credited to former Mayor Walter J. Hannon when they should have gone to Mayor Joseph J. LaRaia. It helped make Mr. Hannon a 134-vote election day winner. But a recount sought by Mr. LaRaia uncovered those errors and he was declared the actual winner by 483 votes.

Unfortunately, despite Judge Kramer's findings, there will be some in Quincy who will continue to insist someone tried to steal this election. And they are probably quite unhappy that as far as criminal wrongdoing is concerned, Quincy got a clean bill of health. Some of these people won't like that. Now they have no dirt in which to grow their rumors and accusations but they'll still try.

Said Judge Kramer in his 12-page report:

"The evidence clearly exonerates former Mayor Hannon, the city clerk, the election workers and those who govern the political process in Quincy from any charges of intentional wrongdoing."

But Judge Kramer was highly critical of the city's election procedures and recommended that Mayor LaRaia and the City Council name a special commission to revamp the procedures to assure candidates and voters of an accurate vote tabulation.

Judge Kramer was quite blunt in his criticism.

"The evidence exonerating those from blame of wrong-doing does not exonerate them from blame for the errors involved.

"In fact, the evidence clearly points to violations of law and improper supervision or lack thereof that contributed to these errors, unintended as they may be.

"It must be remembered that depriving citizens of being served by an official properly elected by them is a violation of their basic Constitutional rights, whether such act was intended or not."

Judge Kramer recommended that the commission comprise members of all political parties.

We hope that Mayor LaRaia and the City Council expedite the naming of a commission so that it can get to work immediately.

Quincy, it would seem, is guilty of running a sloppy election. But no more sloppy than elections in the past here or probably elsewhere.

Perhaps out of all the controversy and bitterness will come progress here—and elsewhere. Elections should be conducted better in the future as a result.

And let's hope that we will stop hearing some malcontent's unfounded charge that somebody tried to steal an election in Quincy. These are the same people who could have testified at the inquest but didn't because they did not have any evidence to back up their accusations.

The city has enough problems without having to listen to that baloney again and again.

Judge Kramer has put it down in plain language. There is plenty of room for improvement. But there were no thieves at work in Quincy election night.

LICENSING BOARD REPORT

The board also continued a request from The Knotty Pine Inn, 518 Washington St., Quincy Point, for permission to begin selling liquor at noon on Sundays instead of 1 p.m.

In other matters, the board granted a permit to Gerard D. Downing to sell liquor at his wedding reception to be held in the Fore River Clubhouse June 12. The Board required, however, that the manager of the bar receive approval from the police chief before the event.

The Nickerson Legion Post, 20 Moon Island Rd., in Squantum received a one-day, all alcoholic license to serve liquor at their installation of officers June 12.

The board granted another one-day, all alcoholic license to the South Shore Friends of Ireland for a dance June 4 at the Fore River Clubhouse to benefit Francis O'Brien, a Quincy resident who was shot a year and a half ago and is confined to a wheelchair.

The Licensing Board also approved Ronald F. Courville as the new manager of the Port O' Call Restaurant at 542 East Squantum St., Squantum. Courville, who is also president of the restaurant said he is taking over management temporarily due to the death of the previous manager, Richard Ehlers.

A request from the Quincy Lodge of Elks, 1220 Hancock St., for approval of a new manager, was continued one week because no one from that organization appeared at the board meeting.

Merit Rating Auto Insurance and collision coverages will be reinstated and policy holders will have the right to choose the coverage under which they may prefer to pursue a claim.

"This will allow the driver not at fault to pursue his claim directly against the negligent driver or his insurance company."

Sheets said money paid out in no fault property damage doubled last year and is one of the major reasons for high insurance premiums.

Good driver in Massachusetts, he said, which comprise about 85 per cent of all motorists, are paying from $50 to $100 each to subsidize the losses of bad drivers.

Under the bill, surcharges would be applied for the following convictions or violations:

- $50 for the first accident based on fault.
- $200 for operating under the influence of alcohol or drugs.
- $50 for speeding and other moving violations.
- $100 for driving to endanger.

The money collected would not go to the insurance companies but would be placed in a fund to be applied directly toward lowering the premiums of good drivers.

Each insurance company writing policies in Massachusetts would be required to use the merit rating plan.

The bill would also provide mandatory sentences of seven days for juveniles and 60 days for adults convicted of auto theft for the second time.

Sheets said auto theft was added to the insurance bill because the problem has a serious effect on insurance rates.

SUNBEAMS

Kelly, Heritage And The Billboard

By HENRY BOSWORTH

It's nice to know that some people can disagree without being disagreeable and getting all mad at one another.

Take Ward 1 Councillor Leo Kelly, Quincy Heritage and that billboard, for example.

Heritage wanted to rent space for a little while on a billboard advertising Quincy as "Home of The Adams Chronicles" to take advantage of all that national exposure from the recent highly acclaimed TV series.

A record number of tourists are expected to come to Massachusetts this bicentennial year. And it may not be until 2076 that Massachusetts see the likes of it again.

Now, many of this summer's tourists will be traveling along the Southeast Expressway and Rte. 3 enroute from Boston to Plymouth and Cape Cod—not even realizing they are zooming by historic Quincy.

The idea of the billboard was to catch the tourists' eye with "Home of The Adams Chronicles" and with directions how to get off the Expressway to see Quincy's historic sites.

In fact, the Norfolk County Tourism and Development Commission thought it was such a great idea, they were going to split the rental cost with the City of Quincy.

Quincy certainly has a lot to be proud of when it comes to historic sites. Much more than most communities. So why not show them off? And at the same time create a little extra business in town for restaurants, stores, gas stations, etc.

After all, businesses do pay taxes, too. And the people they hire pay taxes. And they spend money to provide more jobs, etc.

But no, it apparently isn't to be.

Kelly succeeded in originally blocking the plan, calling billboards "a blight". No doubt he'll win some ecology votes for that.

But this particular billboard is already in existence and it is in Boston—not in Quincy. It is in commercial Andrews Sq. next to the Southeast Expressway and faces traffic heading to Quincy. A strategic spot.

No one was trying to erect a new billboard on Furnace Brook Parkway, Adams St. or some other residential Quincy area.

The billboard proposal has since been kicked around in the council and then shuffled off into a committee where it will probably die a natural death.

And Councillor Kelly who still likes to remind people that he was the one who kicked up the rumpus over the Adams Academy windows, can take another bow for killing the billboard—and whatever benefits it might have brought to Quincy.

It seems odd that picturesque Plymouth apparently has no qualms about using billboards to promote the Mayflower, Plymouth Rock and the Plimoth Plantation. And their billboards are right in Plymouth.

Of course, some people agree with Kelly. And, of course there are others who disagree with him. And some of the latter feel that if Kelly really thinks a billboard in Boston is a blight to Quincy, he should be consistent about his thinking.

And that, in the next city election he should refrain from plastering Ward 1 with his political signs. Because, to some people, his signs are a blight, too.

BUT AS I said at the beginning, it's nice that people can disagree without being disagreeable.

Friends tossed a bachelor's party for Kelly the other night. He and Mary Shea, sister of Joseph Shea, executive secretary to former Mayor Walter Hannon, will be wed June 12. And a lot of people are happy for them both.

Well, Quincy Heritage was represented at the bachelor's party and even gave him a present to show there was no hard feelings.

The present was quite appropriate: a replica of the billboard proclaiming "Quincy Home of The Adams Chronicles" with the Norfolk County red soldier logo. The soldier, named Leo, is shown standing on a rock with a cartoon balloon over his head saying: "I'll be damned".

See, people can disagree without being disagreeable.

HER MANY FRIENDS are saddened by the death of Mrs. Evelyn Della Chiesa, wife of late Mayor Amelio Della Chiesa.

He affectionately called her "Blondie" and their life together was as perfect as any marriage could be. They were devoted to one another.

As Quincy's First Lady for 12 years, she willingly remained in the background and never interfered with her husband's political career. Although she was always there to counsel him if he needed it.

When he finally decided to retire in 1965, he said he was doing it "for the woman I love". So that they could spend the rest of their time together without political interruption.

A First Lady for 12 years, she was always a lady first for all of her 68 years.

QUINCY'S YESTERDAYS

June 3 - 9, 1964 - 12 Years Ago This Week

Council Seeks Alternate Site For Vo-Tech School

By TOM HENSHAW

The City Council was seeking an alternate site for the proposed Quincy Vocational Technical School, the estimated cost of which had soared from $3.6 million to $5 million.

One of the reasons for the rising cost estimates was the expense of site preparation and development at the chosen location, the Faxon family property across Coddington St. from the YMCA.

One site that was attracting considerable attention from members of the City Council was the old Coddington School, occupied by the Quincy Junior College. It could save up to $3/4 million.

School Committeeman Francis Anselmo, however, defended the Faxon site in a panel discussion at the Quincy Health Center and urged the Council to "follow through" with a vote to avoid the expense of delay.

LA RAIA VS. PLANNERS

City Council President Joseph J. LaRaia recommended elimination of the post of City Planning Director, charging that the current director, James E. Lee, was "rich in theory but lacking in production."

Lee was asked to appear before the Council "to explain and justify the actions of his department."

Lee, in turn, charged that LaRaia's "thirst for political power is becoming well known. Nothing else would explain his unwarranted attack on a dedicated public servant."

INCINERATOR IN COURT

Residents of Quarry St. were given another day in Superior Court, this time in Taunton, in their bid to block construction by the city of an incinerator at Hardwick's Quarry.

They won an earlier decision but it was reversed by the State Supreme Court which ruled that Quincy acted legally in designating the quarry area a "city property" zone so that the incinerator could be built.

Atty. Harry Pavan was handling the case for the Quarry St. petitioners while City Solicitor Douglas A. Randall led the defense for the city.

Graduates Turn Backs On Prophets Of Pessimisim, Doom Says Dr. Creedon

"My point is not to wash away all youthful transgressions and to infer that they are all just the 'greatest', but it is hopefully to cause each one of us to look around this stadium this commencement evening and to realize that we are all here in a mutual exercise of justified pride and indeed family love.

"Most of us, and hopefully all of us, can say that the horror stories about destructive, malicious and violent young people simply don't fit in a personal context. It is on occasions such as this that we as parents, families and teachers can expand our chests and say, 'I guess we didn't do so bad after all.' And I agree."

The graduating class was made up of 488 students from North Quincy High School, 445 from Quincy High School and 240 from the Vo Tech School.

Their commencement spokesmen were Marion Rideout of North Quincy, Timothy Perkins of Quincy and Keith McElman of Vo Tech.

Perkins cited the graduates as a "new breed of American citizens, well educated, astute, aware of our government and not naive about its workings. We have developed a constructive skepticism toward government and a strong belief that the system can work."

The enemy of America in the 1970's, he said, is apathy.

"People don't seem to care anymore about their government. A government of the people is non-existent when the people don't show any concern. There should be no silent majority in this country, only a concerned majority."

"How often do you hear after an election that the voter turnout was good at 60 per cent? Where's the other 40 per cent? That comes to over 100 million people in a nationwide election. Each of these people will tell you that one vote doesn't matter. A hundred million votes don't matter?"

"People are lazy and if we don't change soon we will let freedom slip through our hands and we won't realize this until it is gone."

Miss Rideout, choosing her theme from the Bicentennial, also emphasized freedom and independence.

"What does independence mean today?" she asked. "We are not free of taxes, war, social revolution or foreign conflicts. But weren't these problems present in Revolutionary America? Indeed, these problems seem to be forever present."

"But with our system of independent government and personal freedoms we at least have the chance to face the problems and the opportunities to change them if we so desire. We have been guaranteed these rights in our constitution.

"It is amazing that a document written almost 200 years ago is still the basis of American government and civilization.

"The voice of the people, when exercised, is supreme in its power. In our Bicentennial year, let our voices be heard pursuing issues in the same manner our forefathers made their voices heard.

"Let us not waste our opportunities; let us use them to our benefit and appreciate and revere the freedom that is ours in America today."

McElman devoted the greater part of his address to an appreciation of his friend, Paul Nigro, president of the National Honor Society at Quincy High School, who died Feb. 26 after a brief illness. Nigro's name was among those listed in the graduation program.

"Paul was a person who you couldn't help but love and admire," said McElman. His school life played a major part of his own life. His contributions to his school will always be remembered. Paul was a prime example of a fine school citizen and a fine friend.

"We the students of the graduating class of 1976, would like to wish the family of Paul all the best in the world. Paul will remain in our hearts and thoughts throughout the years to come. Paul made a lot of friends at Quincy High and Quincy Vocational Technical School and he will never lose them."

Dr. Creedon disclosed that about 800 of the 1,173 graduates will go on to further schooling, ranging from short apprentice programs to four-year college courses. A total of 366 students received 556 scholarships and academic awards:

- 128 from Quincy High received 203 scholarships and awards.

- 183 from North Quincy High received 277 scholarships and awards.

- 55 from Quincy Vo Tech received 76 scholarships and awards.

Dr. Creedon cited some of the accomplishments of students and student organizations from the three schools.

- Instrumental and vocal music groups performed on more than 150 occasions and took honors wherever they competed.

- Dramatic groups at Quincy High staged "The Prime of Miss Jean Bodie" and "Carnival" and North Quincy High offered "Hello Dolly".

- The Culinary Arts Department at Quincy Vo Tech won first place in the New England Hotel, Motel and Restaurant Show.

- Championship teams were turned out by North Quincy High in football and soccer and by Quincy High and Quincy Vo Tech in basketball, hockey and baseball.

- The North Quincy High track team won a "triple crown" as state champions in cross country and indoor and outdoor track.

- The Air Force Junior ROTC at all three schools has progressed to the point where Cadet Russell Hodgkins Jr. of Quincy High received the first appointment to the U.S. Air Force Academy.

The Commencement Program was scheduled to proceed as follows:

Fanfare and processional, played by the combined bands under the direction of Michael Cahill, Quincy High School.

National Anthem, played by the combined bands and choirs under the direction of David Watson, North Quincy High School.

Invocation by Rabbi Jacob Mann of Beth Israel Synagogue.

Response, played by the combined choirs and bands under the direction of Gale Harrison, Quincy High School.

Welcome extended by Noreen Guest, president of the Class of 1976 at Quincy High School and the Vo Tech School.

Greetings from Mayor Joseph J. LaRaia, who was presented by Helen Fatsces, president of the Class of 1976 at North Quincy High School.

Introduction of the platform guests by John J. Sullivan, vice chairman of the School Committee, Arthur H. Tobin, president of the City Council, and Peter J. Chisom, principal of North Quincy High School.

Letter from the White House, read by Laurence H. Babin, director of Quincy Vo Tech School.

Prayer by the Rev. Robert T. Bosdorf of the Atlantic Methodist Church.

Speakers: Marion Rideout of North Quincy High School; Keith McElman of Quincy Vo Tech School; and Timothy Perkins of Quincy High School.

Band selection by the combined bands under the direction of Anthony C. Ferrante, Quincy Public Schools.

Presentation of the graduates by Dr. Lawrence P. Creedon, superintendent of schools.

Benediction by Rev. John J. Tierney of St. John's Church.

Fanfare and recessional, played by the combined bands under the direction of Michael Cahill, Quincy High School.

No Action Yet On Special Election Commission

LaRaia was elected Mayor in the election over Mayor Walter J. Hannon after a recount showed that 600 votes in blocks of 50 had originally been miscounted for Hannon.

Said the Judge:

"The evidence clearly exonerates former Mayor Hannon, the City Clerk, the election workers and those who govern the political process in Quincy from any charges of intentional wrongdoing."

However, he added, the evidence "does not exonerate them from blame for the errors involved."

"In fact the evidence clearly points to violations in law and improper supervision or lack thereof that contributed to these errors, unintended as they may be.

"The matter if improprieties in procedures or supervision

Thomas Rush Elected SGM V.P. Operations

Robert H. Brandt, President of SGM & Company, Inc. with offices in Quincy, and West Palm Beach, Fla., announces that Thomas R. Rush was elected Vice President/Operations at a recent Board of Directors Meeting.

Rush has 18 years of service with the agency in various capacities, the most recent Director of Operations.

As vice-president of operations, and an officer of the company, he will be responsible for all client operations, purchasing, and quality control.

Rush lives in Braintree with his wife Jean.

MBTA Extension Would Reduce Residential Traffic, Says Chamber

More than 2,000 residents Quincy work in Braintree and vice versa.

It's one more compelling argument for better interregional public transportation, says A. Edward Allinson, vice president for community development of the South Shore Chamber of Commerce, and senior vice president of State Street Bank.

"One of the reasons we support an MBTA extension is that we think there could be fewer cars on residential streets when the Braintree-Quincy links are improved by public transportation," said Allinson.

The statistics on the intercommunity work force were contained in economic profiles sent to the Growth Policy Committees of 24 South Shore cities and towns by the Chamber of Commerce.

"We have found that knowledge of patterns of employment, population facts and commuting patterns for the region can help the committees complete their assignments," said Allinson.

Dr. Ronald Rosso Attends Workshop

Dr. Ronald George Rosso, M.D. of Quincy recently attended a three-day workshop on the Special Technical Aspects of Short-Term Dynamic Psychotherapy at Boston's Beth Israel Hospital.

The format of the workshops consists of viewing videotapes, followed by discussion of those tapes as well as by general group discussions. The videotapes, made possible through the generosity of the Hanns Sachs Trust, and used with the written consent of the patient, show full-length, and composite interviews with a variety of patients and two different therapists, a female and a male.

The course has been approved for 16½ hours of credit by the American Psychiatric Association in Washington, D.C. It was attended by psychiatrists, psychiatric residents, clinical pathologists, and Ph.D. candidates in clinical psychology, psychiatric social workers and psychiatric nurses. It was run under the direction of Drs. Peter Sifneos, Ellen Basuk, George Fishman, Roberta Apfel Savitz, and Dr. John C. Nemiah, psychiatrist-in-chief at Beth Israel.

Gregory Galvin Elected To Curry Alumni Board

Atty. Gregory F. Galvin of North Quincy, and a member of the Class of 1962 is among new members elected to the Curry College Alumni Association Board of Directors.

Galvin is a partner in the South Weymouth law firm of Gross & Galvin. He studied at Boston State College and received his law degree from the

Frank Evans Wins Home Improvement First Prize Award

A first prize award for skill and ingenuity in home remodeling has been presented to Frank Evans of Frank Evans Co., Inc., Wollaston, in the nationwide Home Improvement Contest sponsored by building materials manufacturer Bird & Son, Inc., of East Walpole.

Using a variety of BIRD vinyl sidings and companion vinyl building products, Frank Evans remodeled the home belonging to Edward Goff of Scituate.

The award was made as part of the 1976 "Great American Dream" Contest which recognizes superior workmanship of home improvement contractors in remodeling and reconditioning homes. Supplier of materials was Harvey Industries, Inc., Braintree, the local Bird & Son wholesale distributor.

Home improvement contractors throughout the nation are given the chance to compete in the program and win valuable prizes and recognition for their entries selected as a monthly winner.

Each contractor who enters must submit a photograph of the home "before" remodeling work has begun, and "after" the work has been completed.

First prize winners and runner-up "Award of Excellence" winners are selected by a panel of independent judges, all of whom are noted authorities in the field of home improvements.

The judges carefully select winners based on the amount of skill, effort, and imagination involved in the remodeling, as well as looking at the improved appearance of the home and the neighborhood.

Every month first prize winners are awarded a three-day weekend vacation for two at an outstanding resort. There are 101 resorts in all parts of the country from which to choose.

Each first prize winner is eligible to compete in the grand prize drawing held at the end of the year. The grand prize winner in 1976 will spend a week's vacation for two at one of seven of America's most beautiful vacation spots.

The program has awarded hundreds of contractors from six different regions of the United States since the program began. It has brought distinctive honor to skilled contractors.

Extensive Renovations Underway At Norfolk Building

Extensive renovations are underway at the three-story brick Norfolk Building located at 1452 Hancock St., in downtown Quincy.

The new owners, Max Feinerman and Jason Rosenberg of Norfolk Realty Company, who purchased the building earlier this year, are renovating the entire structure. New facilities will include a modern, self-service, automatic elevator, new roof, and a decorated front entrance and lobby. All brick work on the facade of the building will be pointed and cleaned.

The owners are also modernizing the second and third floors, each of which contain 9,000 square feet of space. With the start of the building modernization activity, Norfolk Realty is accepting applications from business, professional and service organizations for the available space. The owners will subdivide to suit tenants.

The street floor of the building, which has 12,000 square feet of retail space, is completely rented.

Quincy's Mite A hockey team, the J. L. Club, won the league championship, winning three of its four games in the playoffs.

In the opener the Mite A's defeated Duxbury, 6-2, with Bobby Kane having the hat trick, Jim Milano two goals and John Reinhardt one. Ted Hohman had two assists and Marc Basch, Milano, Peter Furtado and Kane one apiece.

Quincy dropped the second game, 3-2, in overtime to Hyde Park. Kane and Basch had the Quincy goals and Basch and Milano had assists.

Quincy came back to edge Hyannis, 4-3, in sudden death overtime with Kane scoring the winning goal.

The team clinched the crown with a 6-3 win over Hyde Park as Reinhardt and Kane scored twice each and Basch and Bobby Reidy one apiece. Reidy's proved the game winner.

Milano had three assists and Reinhardt, Basch, Hohman, David Cooke and Kane one each.

Goalie Timmy Collins and the defensemen were outstanding throughout the series.

Jenny Lufty FB Putts Winner

In the weekly women's tournament at Fumace Brook Golf Club, a least putts event, Jenny Lufty won with a 16, followed by Eileen Clifford 18. Marie Corayer and Marilyn Harris tied with 19s.

Mel Corbin and Eda Flate won the May Bowl with a win over Pat Cugini and Dolly Nogler.

Consolation winners were Joyce Serafini and Isabelle Morrison, who defeated Edna Phelps and Pat Tehan.

In the weekly mixed Scotch foursome Mario Serafini and Rena Roche shot low gross of 40. George Flate and Mary Donahue had low net of 29. There was a four-way tie for second net between Jim Morrison and Mel Corbin, Quentin McCaffrey and Priscilla O'Neill, Joe Fitzgerald and Eda Flate and Bob Donahue and Mary Donahue. Matt Smith and Priscilla O'Neill had third net and Bob Roche and Dot Smith and Tom Donahue and Mel Corbin tied for fourth net.

Quincy Wins 'Must' Pair For Tourney Berth

By TOM SULLIVAN

It had to go down to the last game of the season and into extra innings to boot, but Quincy High's baseball team made the Eastern Mass. tournament with an eight-inning "must" 6-3 win last week over Newton North at Newton.

The tournament opens Friday but the pairings hadn't been announced at this writing.

Coach Bud Mosher's Presidents had to win both their games last week to make the tournament and did just that as they walloped Weymouth North, 8-0, prior to topping Newton.

Quincy had been forced into that situation when it lost to the Suburban League co-champions, Brockton and Waltham, on successive days the previous week. Quincy lost to Brockton, 7-1, and to Waltham, 3-1, despite a fine two-hit pitching performance by Lew Fishman.

"I thought we'd do better than our 13-7 record, but we lost some tough games when we just weren't hitting," Mosher said. "When we have our offense we are tough to beat. I have four very fine pitchers in Dave Raftery, Lew Fishman, Paul Vespaziani and Steve Infascelli and our defense is strong. We have some good batters but in a few of the games they failed to hit and we lost despite the pitching and defense."

Mark DeLuca and Jim Duggan were among the top Suburban League batters, while several of the other players also came up with some big hits. Fishman, in addition to excellent pitching, hit well and played fine shortstop.

Mosher has two good catchers in Paul Ferris and Sal Coscia. In the first game against Newton Coscia caught when Ferris was unavailable and came through with a long grand slam homer run to give Raftery and Quincy a 4-3 win.

Junior Baseball

Keohane's Belts Gear Houghs Neck Rolling

Keohane's, leading the Junior Baseball League with a 7-1 record, walloped Boston Gear, 12-3, in its latest outing.

Brian Reale ran his pitching record to 4-0 and struck out nine. Reale, John Balzano and Tom Corliss had two hits each and Steve Mallory and Billy O'Brien also had key hits.

Keohane's nipped Rotary, 6-5, with Balzano winning his second game, allowing only two hits and striking out seven. Reale hit a three-run homer, his second of the year, and also had a double to drive in five runs. Balzano had the RBI. Rotary's record dropped to 5-3.

Houghs Neck is having another fine season with a 5-2 record and much of the credit for its success is the play of the 10-year old players, Steve White, Jimmy McPartland, Kevin Tenny and Mike Notorangelo.

Eric Green has been a standout catching and has reached safely 12 times in 19 times at bat. He is hitting .400. Frank McPartland has a .450 average and Tom O'Connor has a .388 mark.

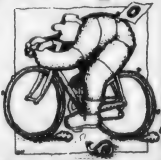

In its latest game HN topped Boston Gear, 7-2, with Dan Masters and O'Connor sharing the pitching.

In its previous game HN had walloped Rotary, 9-1, with Masters and O'Connor again doing the pitching. Headly base running by Glen Oriola and John Phelan enabled HN to break a scoreless tie in the third inning.

In its other games HN was upset by Sears, 1-0, in an outstanding game, defeated Foley Chrysler, 4-1; lost to Foley, 6-5, and defeated Remick's, 9-8.

● Babe Ruth League

Barry's Paces A.L., Police Win 3

Barry's Deli hiked its record to 4-0 in the Quincy Babe Ruth League American League with wins over Granite City Electric and the Elks.

In the National League Gino's, Police Club and Morrisette are tied for first place with 4-1 records.

Barry's walloped Granite City, 14-3, with Rich Travers pitching no-hit ball for six innings. He gave up a single to Bud Scurti and a double to Steve White in the seventh when the losers scored all their runs. Travers had pitched a one-hitter in his first start.

Jim Travers, Bill Deitsch, Jim Deitsch and Gary Earle had two hits each and Rich Travers, Mike Abbott and Steve Walsh one each. Bob Bolster and Eddie McDermott played well on defense and did some fine baserunning.

Sunday Barry's spotted the Elks a four-run lead but scored three in the third and two in the fifth to take a 5-4 lead. Elks tied it in the sixth but in the seventh Earle's sacrifice fly brought home the winner.

Aboud picked up the win with four innings of strong relief. Bill and Jim Deitsch had two hits each and Aboud and Rich Travers one apiece.

For Elks Fred Palmer and Bob Schaezlet had two hits each and Lou Mathews, Billy Foley, Terry Hogan, Terry Crowley and Bob DuBois one each. Mathews pitched well in a losing cause.

The Police Club won three games over the holiday weekend to move into a top tie in the National League.

Saturday the Police walloped Houghs Neck Legion, 11-5, with Bob Mezzetti the winning pitcher with relief help from Bill O'Connell, who got the save. Mezzetti hit a grand slam homer and a triple, both carrying well over 300 feet. Larry Baker had a triple and single, Franny Donovan a double and single, Tom Brennan two singles and Billy Oakes a run scoring single. Dean Prescott had two hits for Houghs Neck.

Sunday Donovan was the winning pitcher in a 6-4 win over VFW. He went all the way, giving up five hits and three walks. Brennan had three hits and Baker a triple and single.

Monday Police and Elks went nine innings before Police erupted for eight runs to win, 10-2.

Brennan and the Elks' Foley hooked up in a fine pitching duel for eight innings. It was 1-1 after seven and 2-2 after eight. In the ninth Foley was lifted and the Police exploded. Brennan went all the way and allowed five hits and five walks while striking out six. Kevin McKinnon had three hits for Police and Hogan scored both Elks runs.

Gino's walloped Sons of Italy, 9-2, with Bob Cuervels, one of the top pitchers in the league, pitching a three-hitter and striking out 15. He has struck out 26 and allowed only seven hits in two starts.

Gino's had nine hits off Don Perdios with Mark Millane having a homer and single, Paul O'Toole and Chris Pettillo a triple and single each. Perdios had a double for the Sons.

Morrisette nipped Gino's, 5-4, in 10 innings Sunday with Bob Graham the winning pitcher with a five-hitter and O'Toole the loser despite a four-hitter. Both went the full 10 innings.

Gino's came back Monday to win a slugfest from Golden Print, 16-13. Gino's exploded for 18 hits with Cuervels, John Newcomb and Bob Lindenfelzer having three apiece. For Golden Mark Roberts had a hit and three walks and scored four runs.

VFW bounced back from its loss to Police by topping Granite City, 9-7, with Bob Thomas pitching well enough to win to even his record at 1-1. Harry Donaghue, Pat Ennis and Gordie VFW and John Keaney drove in the winning runs with a triple. For Granite City Tom Flaherty and Pat Graham had two hits apiece and Graham sparked on defense, throwing Spencer out at the plate with a great throw and then robbing Spencer with a spectacular back-to-the-plate catch in center.

VFW came from behind to edge Morrisette, 6-5. Spencer was the winning pitcher and Mark Messina the loser. Donaghue and Spencer had two hits each for VFW with Pat Ennis driving in the winning run. John Prezioso had two hits for Morrisette.

VFW, which had lost its opening game, walloped Houghs Neck, 9-3, for its first win. Donaghue, in his first pitching start, allowed only three hits, struck out nine and walked four. Joe Waterhouse pitched well in relief for HN.

Firemen Local 792 defeated Golden Print, 11-3, Saturday, with timely hitting in the third and fourth innings accounting for all the runs. Doubles by Dave Austin in the third and Don DeCristofaro in the fourth cleared the bases and accounted for six runs. Artie Roberts, the winning pitcher, allowed only three hits and his mates were solid defensively.

Firemen also topped Hancock Bank Sunday, 6-2, with 12 hits. Phil Caggiano was the winning pitcher and also had a double and two singles. Greg Oriola, Ray Coscia and Austin also hit well with a pair of hits each.

the most spares.

Paula Clasby, seniors, and Diane Crowley, juniors, were the most improved bowlers.

Cindy Bursey, Dotty Clark, Donna Crowley, Diane Yarrow, Joanne Yarrow, Gail Crowley, Lauren Foley, Linda Foley, Diane Crowley and Eileen Miller had perfect attendance.

A Clean Sweep

North Trackmen Win Class B Title

The North Quincy track team accomplished a rare feat Monday when it won the state Class B championship to complete a sweep of state titles during the school year.

Lou Tozzi's Raiders topped the field with 65 points, 12 points better than runnerup Methuen.

Last fall Tozzi's cross country team started the sweep with the state crown and his winter track team followed by doing the same.

"This was what we were aiming for and the boys are to be congratulated," a happy Tozzi said. "Not too many schools have swept the state championships in all three sports and I am very proud of everyone. They did a tremendous job."

North had four individual winners in the state finals. Bart Petracca won the mile in 4:22.4. Brian Doherty won the 100 in 10.1. Matty Constantino won the 220 in 23.0 and Peter Hemphill took the javelin with a toss of 186 feet, one inch. The 440-yard relay team also won.

Other Raider scores were Dave Lorman, third in the hurdles; Marty Levenson, third in the two-mile; Mike Nee, fifth in the javelin; and Doherty, sixth in the shot put.

Quincy had only two scorers in Class A, but sophomore John Saville turned in one of the top performances as he won the two-mile with a time of 9:40.6.

Charlie Gaziano placed fifth in the javelin.

In the Suburban League meet last week at Brockton, strictly an individual meet with no team champion, North fared well.

Constantino won the 220, Petracca the two-mile, and Hemphill took the javelin.

Doherty was second in the 100, Marty Levenson second in the two-mile, and Bob Levenson third in the mile. Other strong performances were turned in by Lorman in the hurdles and Dick Kennedy, who set a school record in the triple jump [41 feet, 3 1/2 inches].

Rouillard's Win 9th, 3-Way N.L. Tie For Top

The Quincy Softball League races continue hot with Rouillard's pacing the American League with a 9-0 record, followed by Wells Grille, 8-1, and Walsh's, 6-3.

In the National League Mr. Kelly, Beau's Place and County Line are tied for the lead with 7-2 marks.

Rouillard's and Wells each won two games during the past week, while the three National co-leaders each had a 1-1 record.

Palmer Pub snapped a five-game losing streak by winning twice over first division teams, bombing Alumni Cafe, 17-5, and State Street Bank, 17-8.

Howard-Johnson topped Red Carpet, 7-4, to make its record 5-4.

Jonathan's which had won its first game only the previous week, shocked Mr. Kelly, 11-9, while the Eagles took their second win with a 10-inning 10-7 decision over Red Carpet.

In one of the season's big games tonight [Thursday], Rouillard's plays Mr. Kelly at 9 at Rotary Field.

Junior High Track Championships Thursday

both the boys and girls' titles.

This year's meet shapes up as close in both divisions with the teams appearing extremely competitive.

Montclair District Koch Girls Present Awards

The Montclair District of the Koch Club Girls Bowling League recently closed its season with a banquet and awards night at the Montclair School gym.

Girls received monogrammed jackets and trophies were awarded to the top bowlers.

The high averages were bowled by Teresa Joyce, seniors, 89.22, and Diane Yarrow, juniors, 82.30.

Senior Cindy Bursey, 125, and Junior Joanne Yarrow, 122, had the high singles.

Kathleen Connolly had the most strikes among the seniors and Kelly Markley for the juniors.

Dotty Clark, seniors, and Charlotte Hayward, juniors, had

Services Held For Mrs. Evelyn Della Chiesa

Funeral services for Mrs. Evelyn J. [Resell] Della Chiesa, wife of late former Mayor Amelio Della Chiesa, were held Tuesday at Bethany Congregational Church.

She died early Saturday in Quincy City Hospital after a brief illness.

Originally from St. Cloud, Minn., Mrs. Della Chiesa moved to Pembroke nine years ago, after living in Quincy for 60 years.

A graduate of Quincy High School, Mrs. Della Chiesa had been a member of the Bethany Congregational Church, the Quincy Emblem Club, the Women's Auxiliary of Quincy City Hospital, the Quincy Women's Club, and Skandia Lodge.

She and Mr. Della Chiesa were married June 13, 1925, and celebrated their Golden Wedding anniversary June 13, 1975.

Mr. Della Chiesa retired in 1965 after serving as mayor 12 years. He was also a state representative from the first Norfolk District, and served as a Ward 3 councillor and councillor-at-large.

The couple's only son, the late Lt. Walter A. Della Chiesa was killed in action when the jet fighter he was flying crashed off the Korean coast. He was a 1948 West Point graduate.

Mrs. Della Chiesa is survived by her brother, Edward W. Resell of Cary, Ill., and two sisters, Mrs. Carol A. Monson of Palmetto, Fla., and Mrs. Esther Little of San Rafael, Calif.

Rev. John D. Banks, pastor of Bethany Congregational Church, conducted the service. Burial was in Mount Wollaston Cemetery.

Donations in Mrs. Della Chiesa's memory may be made to the Bethany Congregational Church Memorial or to the American Heart Fund.

'Drug Problem Worse Than Ever'

Elementary School Pupils 'Pushing' Marijuana, Pills

Quincy's drug problem "is worse at this present time than ever before," says Police Lt. W. Walter Lynch, who is in charge of the Quincy Drug Unit.

And, if proposed cuts in the Police Department budget go through, "this will put us out of business."

Lt. Lynch, responding to an inquiry by Chief Francis X. Finn, said:

"For the past six months the officers attached to the Quincy Drug Unit have watched the drug problem grow from appalling to unbelievable."

"Large numbers of young school children, going from high school age down to grammar school age, are selling marijuana and pills to their friends and fellow students.

"Heroin has returned to an all-time high.

"Presently the resources available to me are not sufficient to combat the drug problem. The success of the Quincy Drug Unit depends on the amount of money and personnel available to me.

"I have been notified...that because of budgetary problems with our department personnel working for me will be drawn for other duties during the summer months.

"This will put us out of business.

"I would like to point out that the very presence of the Quincy Drug Unit is not only a deterrent to the drug pushers in our city but it also serves the same purpose to the surrounding communities.

"If it becomes common knowledge that our drug unit is to be hampered in this manner I feel it is my duty to inform you that the problem we have now will be dwarfed by the one coming.

"If it is the opinion of my superiors that money is more important than the health and lives of the children in our city, then by all means disregard this report."

Stars And Stripes Galore In Koch Club Flag Day Parade, Ceremonies Monday

Navy Capt. Richard A. Stratton, who spent six years in a Communist prison camp in North Vietnam, will be the keynote speaker at the Koch Club's 25th annual Flag Day Parade and ceremonies Monday, at Veterans Memorial Stadium.

The parade with hundreds of youngsters carrying flags, will step off at 6:15 p.m. from the Hancock Parking Area to McGrath Highway, Mechanic St., Elm St., and Hancock St. and continue on to Southern Artery to the Stadium.

The parade will stop at the Church of the Presidents while wreaths will be placed on the tombs of John Adams, second President, and his wife Abigail, and John Quincy Adams, sixth President and his wife, Louisa Catherine.

It will again halt at the John F. Kennedy Health Center as a wreath is placed to honor the 35th president and the only person ever conferred with honorary membership in the Koch Club.

The parade, also will stop at the Dorothy Quincy House to recognize the first lady of Massachusetts, whose husband John Hancock was the first Governor of the Commonwealth.

Each year at the Flag Day Parade, 18 by 12 flags are distributed to each boy and girl participating in the parade to be carried in the line of march and kept as a memento of the event.

The Koch Club's Flag Day started in 1952 with 100 members of the baseball and softball leagues marching through the streets of Norfolk Downs to Cavanaugh Stadium in North Quincy for the flag raising ceremonies. The number each year has increased until the 1975 event included 2,500 marchers each displaying a new 50 star flag.

Clergymen of each faith have been invited to attend the program and express prayers of thanksgiving.

John C. Comer of Quincy, state commander of the American Legion, will be honorary marshal and City Parade Coordinator Thomas M. McDonald, past commander of the Quincy Veterans Council and George F. Bryan VFW Post, will be parade marshal.

LaRaia Seeks NQHS Plan To Fit $1 Million Limit

By TOM HENSHAW

Mayor Joseph J. LaRaia said Tuesday his personal consultant, Prof. Earle F. Littleton of Winchester, is taking another look at the needs of North Quincy High School in search of a plan to renovate the building for $1 million or less.

An earlier report by Prof. Littleton urged the city go ahead with a $15 million project for renovation and addition to the high school but Mayor LaRaia has refused to sign the bond issue, citing the high cost.

Instead, he has set a ceiling of $1 million on renovating, suggesting that the School Department come up with a renovation plan within that limit.

"Prof. Littleton will review North Quincy now and report back to me," LaRaia told The Quincy Sun. "I will take his recommendations and give them to the School Committee for their consideration."

"The School Committee had confidence in his report before. I'm sure they will have the same confidence in the minor changes that he will recommend."

Tax Rate 'Be Known In August

Announcement of the new Quincy tax rate can be expected sometime in August, Mayor Joseph J. LaRaia said Tuesday.

The City Council is currently holding hearings on Mayor LaRaia's budget for fiscal 1976 with the deadline for approval at the June 21 meeting.

Election Commission To Be Named By Fall

Mayor Joseph J. LaRaia says he expects a Citizens Election Commission "to be active in pursuit of its goals" sometime in the fall.

Judge Albert L. Kramer recommended such a commission in his report of the ineffectiveness of the municipal election during which a number of non-criminal violations of election law were noted.

"Once we get the budget passed we'll get it into it," Mayor LaRaia said.

LaRaia originally lost the election to incumbent Mayor Walter J. Hannon by 134 votes but a recount gave him the victory by reversing 617 votes. The counting errors were ruled unintentional.

1974-75 City Annual Report Due In July

Quincy's 1974-75 Annual Report will be published in July to be followed quickly by publication of the 1975-76 Annual Report in October.

Mayor Joseph J. LaRaia made the promise to the City Council last week after the Council noted that the Annual Report had fallen two issues behind.

The Mayor said his plans include the issuance of the Annual Report at the end of each year and at lesser cost than in the past.

QUINCY BICENTENNIAL SUPPLEMENT IN JUNE 17 SUN

A Bicentennial salute to historic Quincy will appear in next week's [June 17] issue of The Quincy Sun.

A special supplement to the regular Sun will carry features and photos of Quincy's historic sites, patriots who helped shape this nation's destiny and early settlers who played key roles in those crucial first years of their community.

The supplement will also include a directional map of Quincy's 13-stop historic trail.

And, a schedule of activities planned by Quincy Heritage for the months of June and July.

Whether you have lived in Quincy all your life or have just moved in, the supplement is a real reading bonus—and must—for you.

And, a souvenir of this bicentennial year, 1976.

Harrington To Speak At Chamber Breakfast

Senate President Kevin B. Harrington will be the featured speaker at a special 7:44 a.m. breakfast meeting of the South Shore Chamber of Commerce Tuesday, June 15, at the Sheraton Tara, Braintree.

Announcement was made by Jack Conway, President of the South Shore Chamber.

Harrington will detail the efforts of the Massachusetts Legislature, especially the Senate, to develop programs that will assist the business and industrial sectors of the Commonwealth to achieve economic prosperity.

A member of the Senate for nearly 20 years, and a real estate and insurance broker, Harrington has chaired several legislative committees dealing with business affairs and is a member of several national legislative groups.

In addition to his top post in the Massachusetts Senate, Harrington is Chairman of the Committee on Rules.

The meeting will begin with a 7:44 a.m. full-course breakfast. The program will be from 8:14 a.m. to 9:14 a.m., with time allowed for questions and answers.

Reservations can be made at the South Shore Chamber of Commerce office, 36 Miller Stile Rd, Quincy.

Quality Education And 600 Jobs

Building Trades Council Urges Mayor Sign NQHS Bond Issue

The Building Trades Council of Quincy has urged Mayor Joseph J. LaRaia to sign the bond issue for North Quincy High School in the interest of quality education and, not incidentally, put a lot of unemployed construction workers back to work.

Council President Carmine D'Olimpio, in a letter to the Mayor, pointed out that Gov. Michael Dukakis changed his mind on accepting $56 million in federal highway funds because "economic arguments ... outweigh the dubious value" of the projects.

"How much more important is the quality of education to our children than roads?" he asked.

D'Olimpio told the Mayor that some building trades have up to 60 per cent unemployed craftsmen who "do not want handouts or makeshift jobs. They want meaningful employment."

"Signing the school bond issue," he said, "will create some 600 construction jobs and we will see to it that, in accordance with the law, Quincy tradesmen will receive preference."

"This will mean working men and their families off welfare, veterans' aid and unemployment. That, in itself, will help to lower taxes. The millions of dollars paid in construction wages will buy goods and services and pay taxes in this community."

"What better way to spend the public tax dollar than provide our most precious resources, our children, with the best educational tools possible."

"Organized labor started the drive many years ago for free public education at a time when only the rich could afford private schools."

"The working men and women in organized labor shall always support quality, equal, public education, paid for by their tax dollars; for without this education where would we all be?"

"We ask you, Mr. Mayor," D'Olimpio concluded, "to review and reflect on your position on this bond issue for North Quincy High School."

"For the benefit of the entire city, will you kindly reconsider your position and sign the bond issue?"

Applications Available For Children In Title I Schools

Applications are now available for parents of children in the Title I schools for the federally funded Early Childhood Center.

The program is for pre-kindergarten children who will be entering kindergarten in September 1977, and to be eligible for enrollment a child must attain his fourth birthday during the 1976 calendar year.

Title I schools to be served by the Center are: Snug Harbor, Pollard, Lincoln-Hancock, Webster and Willard.

Applications may be obtained at any of the five Title I Schools, St. John's School, Bethel Beach Church, Southwest Community Center, Germantown Service Center or John F. Kennedy Health Center, and the applications must be returned to the Title I schools not later than June 14, 1976.

Stewart S. Sargent, Title I Administrator for Quincy Public Schools notes there is no fee for this program and transportation to and from the Center will be provided.

Fire Dept. Responder Course

The Quincy Fire Department has begun a First Responder Course in emergency aid under the direction of its training officers, Capt. Carl V. Valenti and Lt. Joseph Varraso.

The course is required of all firefighters, including Chief Edward F. Barry, who may be first on the scene of a fire or other mishap under a state law enacted in 1974. It takes 26 hours.

Members of police and fire departments throughout the state must complete the course on three consecutive work days before July 1, 1977.

It includes one full day of training in Cardiopulmonary Resuscitation (CPR) plus basic first aid, childbirth and extrication from smashed up cars. There is a refresher course in CPR every year and in first aid every three years.

The Quincy Course began May 3 at Central Fire Station with Richard Cooke, Ralph Buchianeri and Edwin Curtis as the qualified registered instructors with emergency medical training.

Licensing Board Report

Point Used Car Lot License Request Continued For Week

By TOM BRADY

The City Licensing Board Tuesday, continued for one week a request from Tom O'Brien Pontiac for a license to operate a used car lot at 626 Washington St., in Quincy Point.

The hearing was continued after Building Inspector Allan MacDonald complained that the Licensing Board "has wrecked Ward 2" by allowing a number of liquor licenses, gas stations and other businesses to continue to operate in the area in poor condition.

However, Police Chief Francis X. Finn said he saw no legal reason to refuse the license request after hearing testimony from Rep. Robert Ceraoli that the abutters to the property and the Ward 2 Civic Association do not oppose it.

In response to MacDonald, License Board Chairman John Gillis warned that if the request from O'Brien were denied, a gasoline station would probably take over the lot anyhow since a license to store gasoline at the site already exists.

MacDonald said a used car lot would not help to upgrade the area and asked the board to turn down the O'Brien request and revoke the gasoline license.

However, when several members of the board expressed doubt that the gas license could be legally removed and when no one from the City Solicitor's office was available to answer that question, the board voted to continue the hearing at its next meeting.

Another item on the agenda which caused long debate was a request for a transfer of a common victualer-all alcoholic license from Miljay Inc., operators of the China Lido, at 425 Hancock St. in North Quincy to a new company, Soon Lee Corp.

An argument arose among board members when Building Inspector MacDonald insisted on seeing and discussing the new company's finances in executive session.

Fire Chief Edward Barry refused to join the executive session without a ruling from the City Solicitor on the legality of such a session. Dr. Samuel Solomon, the Health Commissioner, and Chairman John Gillis also refused to attend.

When MacDonald and Chief Finn returned from the session, Finn moved that the Board approve the license transfer with the stipulation provided Soon Lee Corp. provides affidavits certifying the names of the investors in the company.

The board also heard from George Allman, owner of the Quincy Loan Co. a pawnbroker, who told the board he is closing his business due to robberies and intends to turn his assets over to a Boston company in January.

Although Allman was not required to seek any Licensing

Board approval he said after 43 years in business in Quincy he thought it would be a cooperative gesture to tell the board of his plans.

In other action, the Licensing Board:

- Filled a record of complaints against the owners of the County Line Pub about conditions of property near the pub after Chairman John Gillis reported the violations have been corrected.

- Approved a request from Bernard A. McShane for a common victualer license to operate a donut shop at 495 Washington St., Quincy Point.

- Approved a change of name and corporate structure for the Alpine Cafe, 33 Independence Ave., South Quincy which will now be completely owned by the family of Albert A. DiCenso.

- Granted a license to sell used autos to Robert E. Belanger owner of Custom Coachwork, 250 Centre St., West Quincy, but limited the sales to one car a month and a maximum of 12 per year.

- Granted a change of manager for the Elks Home of Quincy from Dennis Donoghue to James S. Cohan.

The Licensing Board continued for one week requests from:

- The Furnace Brook Golf Club for 11 a.m. Sunday opening hour.

- Joseph Vissa and Sons for a transfer of a gas station license and repair shop at 18 Furnace Brook Parkway.

- The Knotty Pine, 518 Washington St., Quincy Point for noon Sunday opening hour.

- A request for a change of manager for a gas station at 665 Quincy Shore Drive.

Summer School Registration Underway

Summer School registration is being taken daily at the Beechwood Knoll Elementary School from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m.

Courses offered at the elementary level grade 4-6 include woodworking, sewing, art, cooking, science, math, reading, swimming, drama, music and gymnastics.

Transportation will be provided at the home school of the youngsters.

At the secondary level course offerings include: English, reading, general math, algebra I & II, geometry, biology, chemistry, typing, Spanish, French, U.S. History, girls gymnastics, evening art, silver jewelry and evening theater arts.

The majority of these courses will be offered at Central Junior High School. No transportation is provided for secondary students.

Director, Louis R. DiMartino urges early registration as enrollment is limited.

For further information call 479-0499 between 9 a.m. and 3 p.m.

Fund Drive Underway To Aid Chris DeLappe

Friends and North Quincy High classmates have begun a fund drive to purchase of a van for Chris DeLappe, 20, of 66 Henry St., who was paralyzed from the neck down as the result of a February auto accident in Milton.

DeLappe is currently in West Roxbury Veterans Hospital, by special permission of the Veterans Administration, but soon he will be coming home with trips to the hospital for rehabilitation.

He was a 1973 graduate of North Quincy High, attended Northeastern for a year then went to Wentworth Institute where he had only seven weeks to go to complete work for an associate degree when the accident happened Feb. 28.

Fund raisers plan to sponsor a yard sale, a dance and a baseball game as part of the drive. Until then contributions may be made by contacting Mary Dyer at 328-1108 or Shirley Connor at 328-9640.

Engagement Ring Found At Wollaston Beach

A Dorchester man found a woman's engagement ring recently in the parking lot at Wollaston Beach.

John Driscoll described the ring as a silver or white gold band with a setting of three small diamonds. He also said two sets of initials were engraved inside the band, followed by a date.

To claim or inquire about the ring, contact Driscoll at 265-3641.

New YMCA Women's Figure Salon Offers Personal Attention

In addition to the variety of programs already available to its women members, the Quincy YMCA last September began offering individually designed body conditioning in its new women's figure salon facility.

In this fully carpeted and mirrored area, the member or guest receives a complete figure analysis based upon her height, bone structure, and age. She is told exactly how many pounds she needs to gain, lose, or repropotion. To enable her to achieve her goals, she is taught a conditioning program designed specifically for her.

This at-least-twice-weekly program shows measurable results after 12 visits. After each set of 12 visits, the member is reweighed, remeasured, and given a new routine of body-shaping movements created to correct her particular figure problems and maintain already achieved goals. The member becomes more physically fit, learns the mechanics of her own body, and develops a repertoire of those exercises which are most specifically effective for her.

The YMCA Figure Salon offers a variety of body-toning equipment for particularly difficult problem areas. To enhance that great feeling which is the reward of those who keep physically fit, members may follow their half-hour figure salon session with a dip in the pool and a relaxing Finnish sauna [which cleans and invigorates the body, and is great for the complexion].

An entire new wing is now being constructed at the Quincy YMCA which will be completely devoted to expanded services for women members. This new Figure and Health Salon will open Sept. 1.

First Woman To Head Post

Mary Timcoe Elected Houghs Neck Legion Commander

Houghs Neck Legion Post has elected Mrs. Mary Timcoe a Marine Corps veteran as its commander. It is believed to be the first time in Quincy's history that a woman has been elected as commander of a veterans' organization.

Mrs. Timcoe was instrumental in re-organizing the Auxiliary Unit of the Post, and served as the first President under the new charter. She is a member of the 20 & 4 Honor Society of Woman Legionnaires, Norfolk County Council American Legion Woman Veteran's Chairperson, a member of the Executive Committee of the Houghs Neck Community Council, and, as Historian for Houghs Neck Post, she compiled both Americanism and Community Service books that won first place in the State last year.

Other officers elected were Senior vice commander, Wayne Elsmore; Junior vice commander, John Christensen, past commander; adjutant, Williard J. Timcoe, past commander; finance officer, Alice Scribner; historian, Richard Wainwright; Sergeant at-arms, Charles Boyd.

Executive committee includes William L. Morrill, past commander, D. Paul Shaw, past commander, Alex Crombie, Charles Henry, James Bragg, William Bunting and Emerson S. Younie.

Installation will be held July 17, with the installing suite of Norfolk County Legion Council.

Kathryn Chamberlain Wins $1,500 Thayer Scholarship

Kathryn L. Chamberlain of 240 South Central Ave., Wollaston, has been named as the first recipient of Thayer Academy's Morris and Ernestine Litchfield Distinguished Scholar Award.

The award is a $1,500 scholarship at Thayer Academy to be continued for four years and is granted without regard to financial need to a student entering the ninth grade.

Candidates for the scholarship were judged on the basis of their academic records and their demonstration of strong personal qualities and talents.

Kathryn Chamberlain has consistently maintained high honor roll standing at Central Junior High School in Quincy, plays the violin, and sings in her church choir. Her academic interests include marine biology, computer programming, and architecture.

Maureen DeSaulniers Garland Graduate

Baffling Son

Q. I would really appreciate a reading of my son's horoscope, he really baffles me at times. Back talk is quite common these days and I just cannot take it. He seems to be quite a story teller and a show off, these things seem to upset me to no end. His date of birth is June 18, 1957 at 4:53 P.M. in Arlington, Mass. My birth date is July 31, 1922 at 7 A.M. in Medford, Mass. Do we clash or is it a generation gap?

A.I.

A. These days it is rather easy to generalize and blame a generation gap for the misunderstandings and difficulties that exist between so many parents and their children. You are wise to recognize that it may be more personal. In your case it definitely is a clash of two very different temperaments and personalities.

The position of the planet Mars on the date of his birth was in the same sign and degree of the same Sign occupied by your Mercury. This indicates not only his ability to irritate and make you angry but also that he could be hard on your nerves even though you love him.

It may help to try to understand that in addition to his being very sensitive, touchy and easily hurt inwardly, he would be inclined to try to protect himself and or "defend his rights" vocally. He has an excellent mind but not a very good control of what he says or how he says it and a determination to have his say. He will not be muzzled.

It may be better that he does talk and express his feelings. He has Neptune in Scorpio in the First House and if he should stop talking and try to escape from his inner problems, he might try drinking and even experimenting with drugs and I am sure that you would not want that to happen. Should he be tempted along such a line, you would then need professional assistance.

Stay Alive!

By Jack Silverstein

HYPERTENSION

High blood pressure afflicts an estimated 23 million Americans. It contributes directly to heart attacks, strokes, heart failure and kidney failure. Yet because it has few, if any, early symptoms, only half of its victims know they have it and barely 12% are receiving adequate treatment.

Kidney disease or injury and certain rare tumors of the adrenal glands are known causes of high blood pressure in some people, but the real causes of most cases of hypertension are unknown. Medication can control it, though, and if all those who are afflicted were persuaded to stick with prescribed treatment, death and disability from stroke, kidney disease and heart attack could be reduced by an estimated 40% says the National Heart and Lung Institute. The main thing is to have your doctor check your pressure and, if he prescribes diet or medication, to follow his instructions exactly. There is no better way to guard against the complications of hypertension.

Quincy City Club To Present Poster, Essay Awards

The Quincy City Club will close its second season of activity Tuesday June 15, with a dinner meeting at 6:30 p.m. at the Quincy Room of Walsh's Restaurant, 9 Billings Rd, North Quincy.

A roast beef dinner will be served at 7 p.m. following a half hour social.

Highlight of the evening will be the presentation of awards to the winners of the recently sponsored Bicentennial Poster Contest for school children from grades one through six, and the Essay Contest for boys and girls in grades 7-9.

David J. Donaghue Quincy City Club Bicentennial Project Chairman will present a $100 savings bond to the winner in each category, and a $25 bond to each runnerup in the poster and essay competition. Winners will be formally announced at the Flag Day ceremonies June 14, at Veterans Memorial Stadium. Presentations will be made at 8:30 p.m. at the city club meeting at Walsh's Restaurant.

Over 200 entries were received in each competition in the city-wide school children's contest. A committee of judges are presently working to pick the award winners.

Michael Regan will also report the date and progress of the charity road race in September.

Richard J. Koch will preside at the meeting.

Woodward School Holds 80th Commencement Exercises

The Woodward School for Girls held its 80th Commencement exercises recently in the school auditorium.

Receiving diplomas from Rev. Keith Munson, minister United First Parish Church and chairman of the Woodward School Board of Supervisors were:

Gail M. Badmington, Jacklyn W. Deware, Erika A. Heinrich, Renata L. Krisiukenas, Nancy R. Lapon, Denise M. LaRosa, Robin E. Neyhus, Anna T. Pessio, Mary T. Robbs, Joan T. Ronukaitis and Nina M. Valante.

Mayor Joseph LaRaia brought greetings from the City of Quincy. Rev. William Heinrich Jr., minister of First Church of Squantum and a member of the Woodward School Board of Supervisors, gave the invocation and the benediction.

Salutatorian was Jacklyn Deware and valedictorian Robin Neyhus. Both Miss Deware and Miss Neyhus are members of the National Honor Society.

Mrs. Ruth Paven, Woodward School Class of 1946, delivered the commencement address, focusing on three areas of interest: recent changes in the position of women, culminating in the proposed Equal Rights Amendment; need for a broad based liberal education; and little-known facts pertaining to the life of Dr. Ebenezer Woodward, founder of the school.

The musical program and senior presentation were under the direction of Mrs. Lynn Callihan, choral director of the Woodward School.

A reception followed the graduation ceremony.

Seniors 'Appreciation Night' At Bryan Post Thursday

Quincy's city officials including Mayor Joseph J. LaRaia, the City Council, state officials and Quincy Park and Recreation Board members will be among special guests at the Quincy Senior Citizens "Appreciation Night" at the Bryan VFW Post Home, tonight [Thursday] at 7:30 p.m.

More than 500 Quincy Senior Citizens will attend. Mrs. Marion Andrews, director Senior Citizens Activities, Quincy Recreation Department; Albert Blake, commander Bryan Post and Thomas McDonald, a member of the National VFW Public Service Committee and post member, are in charge of arrangements.

The program will include entertainment by the "Blue Flamers" who will also provide music for dancing and refreshments. Transportation will be provided from various housing units. Senior Citizens must present tickets at the event. The present supply of limited tickets have been exhausted but an alternate list is being compiled.

Further information may be obtained from Mrs. Andrews at the Senior Citizens Activities Department office, 3 Maple St.

Former Quincy Woman In Boston Tapestry Show

Carol Mecagni, formerly of Quincy, and Ruth Ginsberg-Place will display 25 miniature tapestries of landscapes and human figures at the West Canton Street Gallery, Boston, until June 28.

Mrs. Mecagni, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Francis E. Flaherty of 107 Shawmut St., West Quincy, attended Quincy High School, Massachusetts College of Art, Southern Illinois University and Haystack Mountain School of Crafts.

Her work has been exhibited at DeCordova Museum, Worcester Craft Center, Flint Institute of Art, Flint, Mich.,

Manchester Institute of Arts, Manchester, and others.

Mrs. Mecagni's husband, Philip, also formerly of Quincy, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Mecagni of 119 Independence Ave., South Quincy.

The West Canton Street Gallery is open Monday through Friday, from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Dr. Joseph Ackil Elected To CP Board

Dr. Joseph A. Ackil, 59 Grove Hill Park, Newton, was recently elected to a three-year term as a member of the Board of Directors of Cerebral Palsy of the South Shore Area, Inc.

Dr. Ackil graduated from Boston University, the Massachusetts College of Pharmacy and the Philadelphia College of Osteopathic Medicine. He served his internship at the Massachusetts Osteopathic Hospital and trained at the Boston City Hospital as a Special Cardiology Fellow.

He is clinically affiliated with the Huntington General Hospital where he is the Acting Chairman of the Department of Internal Medicine and with the Longwood Hospital. Dr. Ackil is a Diplomate in Family Practice AAFD and is also certified by the American College Osteopathic General Practitioner & Surgery. He has also participated in a research project sponsored by Eli Lilly relative to the effectiveness of Darvocet-n 100 in the relief of pain.

Dr. Ackil has professional affiliations with the American Osteopathic Association, the American Academy of Family Practice, the American College of Osteopathic General Practitioners, the Massachusetts Osteopathic Association and the American Heart Association, and is Assistant Treasurer of the Board of Trustees of the Huntington General Hospital.

As a member of the Board of Directors of Cerebral Palsy of the South Shore Area, Inc., Dr. Ackil will have major input in the deliberation of the Utilization Review Committee of the Clinic and in the evaluation of the medical program for multiple handicapped CP children.

Special Lincoln Hancock Pool Registration

A special registration is being held this week for persons who hold a half year membership expiring June 30 for the Recreational Swim Programs at the Lincoln-Hancock Community School pool.

Those who currently have a photo identification card should appear at the lower lobby of the Charles Djerf Community Center in the school between 6 p.m. and 9 p.m. through Friday.

Only one person from each family need appear bringing all photo cards of family members to be validated.

Registration of new members and for participants in the instructional programs will be held later in June.

Main Library Now Closed On Sundays

The main library of the Thomas Crane Library, 40 Washington St., Quincy is no longer open Sunday afternoons, from 1-5 p.m.

The Sunday openings were held on an experimental basis from January to May and were very successful. Since the library traditionally closes on Saturdays during July and August, the Sunday openings will not resume before September, if funding can be obtained.

All library branches as well as the main library will be closed on Saturdays during July and August.

4 Receive Camp Fire Girls Highest Award

The Camp Fire Girls of Quincy held their Grand Council Fire Monday night at Broad Meadows Junior High School.

At the ceremony the Wohelo Medallion was awarded to four Horizon Club girls: Nina Valente, Maryann King, Linda Lynch and Shannon Hardy.

The Wohelo Medallion is the highest award a Camp Fire Girl may achieve. It is especially for those who seek to live the Camp Fire Watchword-Wohelo-Work, Health and Love; and wish to perfect their personal skills in planning, decision making and leadership; to be actively aware of and involved in their community and its concerns; and to recognize the interdependency of all people.

The program takes two years to finish and is made up of nine requirements to be completed by the girl.

The object of the program is to bridge the youth's experiences as a member of Camp Fire and her growing role as a responsible adult providing leadership within the community in many settings and with many groups.

AT QUINCY COOPERATIVE BANK THE "BUTCHER, BAKER, AND CANDLESTICK MAKER" ARE OUR DIRECTORS.

Take a look at the wide variety of businesses our directors are in. Lumber and building products. Supermarkets. Plumbing and heating. Real estate. Public service. Construction. There's even an historian on our board.

Because our directors are people like you, they bring an understanding of your needs and those of the community to Quincy Cooperative Bank. Together with our professional bankers, they make sure your bank is run the way you would like it to be.

That follows the tradition of service and personal consideration dating back to Josiah Quincy, Jr., founder of cooperative banking in Massachusetts and the man for whom our bank is named. And although Josiah himself isn't on our board, his spirit is. We're certain...

JOSIAH WOULD HAVE LIKED THAT.

Is Walter Hannon Warming Up?

By HENRY BOSWORTH

The big question in local political circles still is: who will challenge Mayor Joseph LaRaia in 1977?

One name overlooked by most politician watchers in all the speculation: Walter J. Hannon.

The possibility of him running might surprise a lot of people. But those close to the former mayor think he may make a comeback bid next year.

Some people may feel Hannon is washed up politically. But Hannon certainly isn't one of them.

He would probably give his right arm and a rib or two, to return to City Hall in triumph. One of the unhappiest days of his life was the January morning he left.

The recent Quincy District Court inquest into last year's controversial and bitter-mayoral election exonerated him and other city officials of any wrongdoing in the vote counting that originally gave him a third term by 134 votes only to have the recount take it away and declare Joseph J. LaRaia the actual winner by 483 votes.

But Hannon reportedly still has his dander up over the inferences election night and months after that someone tried to steal the election.

He feels his name and reputation were hurt by the charges. And he'd like nothing more than to run again and win by a comfortable margin to vindicate himself in the eyes of the voters.

Regardless of whether you are pro or anti-Hannon, the fact is that the former mayor is like a bantam rooster when it comes to a political fight. He won't back off. And if he decides to run again nobody—and that's nobody—is going to talk him out of it. Not if they toss in a half-dozen other candidates.

The tipoff that he is thinking of running again came some weeks ago although it has been kept pretty quiet.

A time was held for him by supporters and friends at the home of one of his top administrative aides—John Cheney. There was a good turnout. And later "thank you" letters were sent out to those attending with this P.S. "20 months to go."

The 20 months would mark the end of Mayor La Raia's term.

IF YOU'RE STILL wondering whether Congressman James Burke is going to seek re-election this year, you can stop. He will. Nomination papers are now being circulated in the 11th Congressional District for him.

PATRICK MCCARTHY, the Randolph Democrat who is challenging Congressman Burke for the 11th District Democratic nomination, has tapped Gene Hartigan to direct his media campaign. Hartigan is former WLVI-TV promotion director. Hartigan, incidentally, directed the media campaign for Edward Larkin who in April upped Dedham Selectman Francis O'Brien.

MEANWHILE, Danielle de Benedictis who is running as an Independent for the 11th Congressional seat, has appointed Mrs. Marilyn (Schneider) Mercer as her campaign director. She was associated with Atty. Gen. Francis Bellotti's campaign. She's the wife of Boston Patrolman Frederick Schneider.

A RECEPTION FOR Rep. Thomas Brownell is set for Friday, June 18, at the Quincy Sons of Italy Social Center, Quarry St. The 7 p.m. to midnight event will include a buffet and dancing. Tickets may be obtained from former Councillor and Mrs. David Crowley [773-4812] or Brownell's father, Jack, former deputy sheriff [479-2998].

MORGAN O'REAGAN, also known as Mr. Nice Guy, is calling it a career this week after 39 years service with the Quincy Police Department. Morgan, on duty in the northern end of Hancock St., has watched over stores like a protective mother hen and has been an ambassador of good will to anyone coming into Quincy needing assistance or directions.

Clam Flats Closed To Non-Commercial Diggers

Clam flats from Squantum to the Town River have been closed to all but commercial diggers because they are contaminated, it was announced by Health Commissioner Dr. Samuel Solomon.

Commercial diggers may take clams from the contaminated beds since they are required to send them to the shellfish treatment plant in Newburyport before placing them on the market.

Shellfish Officer Carmelo Morreale warned that weekend clam diggers, who may not be aware that the flats are contaminated, can place himself and his family in danger of hepatitis by eating the clams.

'Never Lost Faith'

Tradition Helped Him Through POW Ordeal Stratton Tells QJC Graduates

Navy Capt. Richard A. Stratton, formerly of Quincy, says he was able to keep his balance through six years in a Communist prison in Vietnam because of tradition, "the aggregate of the American culture my country and city bestowed on me."

Stratton, a Navy pilot who was shot down over North Vietnam and imprisoned from 1967 to 1974, was the keynote speaker at the 12th annual commencement of Quincy Junior College Sunday at Veterans Memorial Stadium.

"That is why I continually return to Quincy," he told the 315 graduates, "because Quincy is part and parcel of that tradition; the family, the church, the schools, the very fabric of the city itself."

"It is not until the chips are down and your back is against the wall that you realize who your friends are and what resources you really have. My friends are here in my home city; my basic resources come from Quincy."

"Someday, when you are able to withdraw from the hectic pace of education and employment for even so short a time you will see what a great treasure of knowledge and talent your country, your cities and towns, your church and your family have bestowed upon you."

Stratton said that such traditions enabled the prisoners of war in Vietnam to build lives for themselves that were "meaningful and constructive even in such an austere and hostile environment" as a prison camp.

"Left with no resources but our traditions," he said, "literally in our underwear in bare cells with pajamas for clothing, we were able to invent codes for communication...and manufacture the basic necessities for mental, physical and moral survival."

"With the training which you now have, in observation, in logic, in comprehension, which we received as young men, we were able to observe the enemy, divine his intentions, and thwart his schemes to exploit us for propaganda and turn us one against the other."

"After Christmas of 1970, when the Communists were forced to allow us to come together, we really enriched our lives."

"Bringing together all the wealth America has given its children, we created our own university with no books, no paper, no help from the enemy, just our minds."

"As an example of how well we did, one man returned to Texas and validated 22 credits of foreign language he had learned from his fellow prisoners—French, German and Russian."

"Tradition gave us something to live for. We never lost faith in you, our fellow Americans. I never met a man in prison who ever doubted that you would get us out of that hell hole, some time, some way."

"You here are all achievers. Your cities and towns, your fellow citizens have bestowed a great treasure on you. Today, in the joy of your well deserved success, I ask you to reflect. What are you going to give in return?"

"You owe allegiance to your city, to your town, wherever you go."

"If you stay here, work to make your home even better, for we all have imperfections. If you leave, as I have, to pitch your tent elsewhere, take the rich traditions of your cities and towns with you and enrich your adopted home."

"But never forget and always be proud of from whence you came."

Other speakers on the program included Mayor Joseph J. LaRaia, James R. McIntyre, chairman of the Community College Association, and QJC President Dr. Edward F. Pierce.

Dr. Pierce told the graduates that success and education are two words that are often defined incorrectly.

"For some," he said, "success is a drive which connotes money, security, power, or some elusive form of perpetual happiness yet to be discovered."

"Others unwisely measure education solely as a preparation for some dimly perceived occupation or profession."

"But those of wisdom view education as a lifelong process which has just begun and success as an intangible state of mind."

William O'Connell Elected Historical Society President

William A. O'Connell, 67, of 109 Putnam St., Quincy Center, has been elected president of the Quincy Historical Society.

He succeeds H. Hobart Holly of 106 Oak St., Braintree, who held that office for 20 years.

"I'm honored to have been elected president of the Quincy Historical Society, library, and museum," O'Connell said. "Quincy's historical heritage is unequalled because our history is real and factual. In Quincy, in my opinion, there is a much greater financial opportunity than the business sector realizes."

"History is not just a point of time, it is an everyday, ongoing activity in which the citizens should participate."

"The historical society invites all people in Quincy and the South Shore to join with us and share in the biocentennial year. This is an exciting period of history, politically, socially, and economically—let's put it to work."

Other officers elected were: Dr. James R. Cameron of 64 Davis St., Wollaston, an Eastern Nazarene College Professor, first vice president; David R. Day of 18 Samoset Ave., Merrymount, second vice president; William P. Farrar of 152 Whitwell St., Quincy Center, treasurer; Mrs. Hall B. Carpenter of 18

Muirhead St., Wollaston, recording secretary; Miss Berthe J. Troysfontaine, of 45 School St., Quincy Center, corresponding secretary.

Elected registrar was Mrs. Rudolf Oberg of 37 Walker St., North Quincy. H. Hobart Holly was elected historian, and Dr. George R. Horner of 424 Liberty St., Braintree was elected archeologist.

New directors of the society are: George S. Bennett of 85 Puritan Dr., Quincy Center; Harold S. Crowley of 3 Flagg St., Wollaston; Miss Kathleen O'Donnell of 1025 Hancock St., Quincy; Miss Lois H. Walker of 90 Homestead Ave., Weymouth, and Warren E. Watson of 7 Dorchester St., Squantum.

President Emeritus is H. Hobart Holly, and corresponding secretary emeritus is Mrs. Robert Justis of 65 Shelton Rd., Adams Shore.

A life-long resident of Quincy, O'Connell attended Northeastern School of Law, Northeastern School of Banking, and the American Institute of Banking.

He served as vice president of the historical society for about 10 years and served as executive vice-president of the South Shore Chamber of Commerce, for 20 years.

Now an honorary director of the South Shore Chamber of Commerce, O'Connell served as an officer at the South Shore National Bank for 24 years. He is also an honorary vice president of the Quincy Junior College Association, director and past president of the Quincy YMCA, director of the Norfolk County Development and Tourist Council, and director of the Quincy Cooperative Bank.

A past president and member of the Rushlight Club, he is also a member of the Kiwanis Club of Quincy, a member of the Quincy Council of the Knights of Columbus, a member of the Quincy Growth Policy Commission, a member and past president of the Mechanical Bank Collectors Association of America and a member of the National Trust of Historical Preservation Society.

He is also a member of the Weymouth and Braintree Historical Societies, and is director of the Bay State Historic League.

O'Connell is also a nationally known collector of lighting devices, frontier artifacts and children's toys.

During the past 10 years, he has collaborated on two books dealing with the history of lighting.

Koch Club Flag Day Parade

28-year-old Koch Club, will be master of ceremonies of the parade and stadium exercises.

City and state dignitaries will be led by Mayor Joseph J. LaRaia, City Council President and State Sen. Arthur H. Tobin, members of the City Council, School Committee and state representatives. All appointed officials have been invited to attend and participate.

To climax the program, the Quincy Symphony Orchestra and Park and Recreation Board will jointly sponsor an hour long

Pops Concert at the stadium at 8:30 p.m. to close out the evening.

Joseph E. Burke, chairman of the Park and Recreation Board and Andrew T. Walsh, president of the Quincy Symphony Orchestra, will participate in the evenings activities.

QUINCY'S YESTERDAYS

June 10 - 16, 1937 - 39 Years Ago This Week

Warns Of Communists Here

By TOM HENSHAW

John Maguire of Watertown, state vice commander of the American Legion, told a gathering at Morrisette Post that "you probably have a hotbed of 'reds' right here in Quincy."

"Out in Watertown," he said, "we elected two of them to public office and appointed a school physician who, when trailed, was found to be preaching in a foreign language his advocacy of overthrowing the United States government."

"He was a legionnaire, too, and we were obliged to expel him."

OIL TRUCK DRIVER BEATEN

A 27-year-old Quincy man was dragged from his oil truck and beaten by three men while making a delivery in South Boston as members of Local 68 of the Coal and Fuel Chauffeurs and Helpers Union [AFL] went on strike against 10 Quincy firms.

Emil Chiminello said the men accosted him when he stopped for a red light with the words: "Why haven't you put up your truck like the others?"

Some 100 union members were seeking raises to $36 a week for drivers, $32 a week for helpers, plus overtime pay, union recognition and 44 and 40-hour weeks depending on the season.

Two Quincy companies, the Granite City Coal Co. and the Carter Coal and Dock Co., had already signed contracts.

LARSON OPENS COMEBACK BID

Ring Larson, once a New England amateur champion, won a four-round decision over Roland Dufour of Winthrop in his first comeback bout after nearly four years on the sidelines with an elbow injury.

The fight, promoted by Rip Valenti, was a preliminary to the Al McCoy-Natie Brown heavyweight bout in Fenway Park.

OCEAN VOYAGERS

Three Quincy boys sailed their 18-foot open Winaboot sail boats from the Squantum Yacht Club to Portland, Maine, in five days.

They were Alfred Starratt, 22, and his brother, Arthur, 19, of 77 South Bayfield Rd, Atlantic, and Andrew Harvey, 23, of 6 Beckett St., Montclair.

The boats were to be delivered from Portland by truck to a camp in the Maine woods where the elder Starratt was a councillor.

FLYERS FOUND SAFE

National Guard flyers Maj. Clarence E. Hodge of Wollaston and Lt. Joseph L. McNeil of South Boston were found safe in the mountains of Nevada after they bailed out of their plane.

McNeil walked 42 miles in 17 hours for help after Hodge was immobilized by an ankle injury.

A REGIONAL ECONOMY

By ERIC SWIDER

MAPC:

South Shore Office Needed

The South Shore needs official fulltime attention being paid to its "Public Works" problems on a regional basis.

We need a central office located on the South Shore where our concerns for solid and liquid waste disposal, transportation, housing, comprehensive planning, etc. are addressed and solved.

It should develop a cooperative attitude among local governments. It should be an advocacy center for our region, with State and Federal bureaucracies that fund public works projects.

For too long, we have been treated as second class relatives.

To that end, the Board of Directors of the South Shore Chamber authorized the issuance of a strong statement to the Metropolitan Area Planning Council, local governmental leaders, and the MAPC designees from the South Shore. There has just been a "palace coupe" within that organization. We're not sure of the politics of it. We don't really care. What we do want is effectively embodied in the Statement. Here it is:

"Over the past few years, the Boston-based Metropolitan Area Planning Council has generated planning documents, provided a forum for regional issues, as well as technical assistance to member communities seeking such aid.

Meanwhile, as costs of the delivery of municipal services have risen, local towns have begun to join forces in such areas as waste disposal, school districts and fire departments, joint management in functional areas such as these is the first step in the development of a practical regional government, and more should be taken or encouraged where appropriate.

However, we see instead a massive regional government plan, sponsored by the Metropolitan Area Planning Council proposing a political superstructure, and a Boston Harbor Commission bill proposing jurisdictional control over traditional zoning powers of South Shore communities, being developed and promoted by Boston-based planners and politicians.

We are concerned that the South Shore communities have neither been involved nor consulted in the preparation of these bills. We are even more concerned to observe a Boston bias emerging in the State's administration of regional programs. Boston Harbor Island access is one example of many.

A Boston bias is natural when staff and materials are located in Boston. We are concerned that the development of functional regional steps will never be more than that if South Shore communities resist what is perceived as a Boston power grab. The South Shore needs coordinated full-time regional technical assistance in the areas covered by the MAPC—Housing, Comprehensive Planning, Water Quality, Open Space and Recreation, Land Use and Zoning, Transportation and Regional Organization to help resolve some of the area problems.

These include the Nut Island plant, coordination of improved transportation service, better links with recreational networks, technical assistance for Growth Policy Committees, planning boards and conservation commissions, the Braintree and Weymouth incinerators, and others.

Therefore, the South Shore Chamber of Commerce calls upon the area Metropolitan Area Planning Council representatives and the Executive Committee of the Metropolitan Area Planning Council to establish a staffed office in the South of Boston area for the purpose of coordinating technical assistance with local communities, for establishing a resource center for the region, for providing forums on a regular basis, and for doing the job that needs to be done in building the regional network from the grassroots, rather than from the Boston board rooms."

Fair Share Committee Criticize Representatives On Electric Rates Vote

Editor, The Quincy Sun:

We are Quincy residents who are concerned, disappointed and angry at the way our local state Representatives voted recently on the Fair Share Electric Rates initiative petition [H.B. 4201]. The petition measure seeks to end the current, unfair rate structure under which large users enjoy tremendous volume discounts.

At a large public gathering in mid-March Rep. Robert Cerasuli voiced his strong support. Rep. James Sheets did not attend personally, but sent staff aide Ron Kaufman who congratulated Quincy Fair Share members for having gathered over 12,500 certified petition signatures locally and conveyed Mr. Sheets' pledge of a favorable vote. Rep. Thomas Brownell was not present, but had earlier indicated his support to Fair Share leaders.

On the day of the vote, however, [May 3] all three politicians broke their word and voted against lower electric bills for residential customers, small businesses and churches.

Our concern and anger arises from the fact that none of these Representatives felt any responsibility to indicate to us that they had changed their position on such an important issue. Our disappointment stems from the apparent greater weight given to the false arguments and scare tactics of big business lobbyists. Is this the kind of honest, open representation citizens deserve?

The campaign for an electric rate structure that rewards conservation and punishes waste is NOT over. The issue will not go away that easily. When an additional 10,000 signatures are gathered, Fair Share Electric Rates will appear on the November Ballot. But we have learned not to depend on the phony promises of slippery politicians. We intend to take the issue directly to the voters and allow the over-burdened consumers of the Commonwealth to decide for themselves.

Elks Flag Day Ceremonies Monday

Quincy Lodge of Elks will hold its 66th annual tribute to the American Flag Monday, June 14, at 8:30 p.m. in the Elks Home, 1220 Hancock St., Quincy.

Principal speaker will be John [Jake] P. Comer, of Quincy Point, Massachusetts Department Commander of the American Legion.

Program chairman Joseph E. Brett will open the ceremonies.

Exalted Ruler Michael A. Snaces, and lodge officers will perform the Flag Day Ritual, followed by an opening prayer, offered by chaplain Gordon A. Mathieson.

George T. Alcott, assisted by a group of Boy Scouts, will present a history of the flag. This will be followed by a response from Roswell S. Clarke, trustee.

Presentation of nursing scholarship by Thomas M. Garrity will follow the erection of a floral bell of liberty by the lodge officers.

Michael A. Snaces, exalted ruler will deliver the closing remarks.

Musical interludes throughout the program will be performed by John N. DiBona, lodge organist.

The public is invited to attend.

Merrymount Flagpole To Honor Mayor Della Chiesa

A new flagpole in Merrymount Park adjacent to the Park Department maintenance office will be dedicated to the memory of former Mayor Amelio Della Chiesa during Flag Day ceremonies Monday, June 14.

Richard J. Koch, executive director of the Park and Recreation Board, said the flag will be raised and lowered daily by Park Board personnel.

There was a flagpole on the site 10 years ago, Koch said, but it was taken down for safety purposes.

During the construction of the Hoover dam, concrete had to be poured continuously for two years.

LaRaia the actual winner by 483 votes.

But Hannon reportedly still has his dander up over the inferences election night and months after that someone tried to steal the election.

He feels his name and reputation were hurt by the charges. And he'd like nothing more than to run again and win by a comfortable margin to vindicate himself in the eyes of the voters.

Regardless of whether you are pro or anti-Hannon, the fact is that the former mayor is like a bantam rooster when it comes to a political fight. He won't back off. And if he decides to run again nobody—and that's nobody—is going to talk him out of it. Not if they toss in a half-dozen other candidates.

The tipoff that he is thinking of running again came some weeks ago although it has been kept pretty quiet.

A time was held for him by supporters and friends at the home of one of his top administrative aides—John Cheney. There was a good turnout. And later "thank you" letters were sent out to those attending with this P.S. "20 months to go."

The 20 months would mark the end of Mayor La Raia's term.

IF YOU'RE STILL wondering whether Congressman James Burke is going to seek re-election this year, you can stop. He will. Nomination papers are now being circulated in the 11th Congressional District for him.

PATRICK MCCARTHY, the Randolph Democrat who is challenging Congressman Burke for the 11th District Democratic nomination, has tapped Gene Hartigan to direct his media campaign. Hartigan is former WLVI-TV promotion director. Hartigan, incidentally, directed the media campaign for Edward Larkin who in April upset Dedham Selectman Francis O'Brien.

MEANWHILE, Danielle de Benedictis who is running as an Independent for the 11th Congressional seat, has appointed Mrs. Marilyn [Schneider] Mercer as her campaign director. She was associated with Atty. Gen. Francis Bellotti's campaign. She's the wife of Boston Patrolman Frederick Schneider.

A RECEPTION FOR Rep. Thomas Brownell is set for Friday, June 18, at the Quincy Sons of Italy Social Center, Quarry St. The 7 p.m. to midnight event will include a buffet and dancing. Tickets may be obtained from former Councillor and Mrs. David Crowley [773-4812] or Brownell's father, Jack, former deputy sheriff [479-2998].

MORGAN O'REAGAN, also known as Mr. Nice Guy, is calling it a career this week after 39 years service with the Quincy Police Department. Morgan, on duty in the northern end of Hancock St., has watched over stores like a protective mother hen and has been an ambassador of good will to anyone coming into Quincy needing assistance or directions.

Clam Flats Closed To Non-Commercial Diggers

Clam flats from Quantum to the Town River have been closed to all but commercial diggers because they are contaminated, it was announced by Health Commissioner Dr. Samuel Solomon.

Commercial diggers may take clams from the contaminated beds since they are required to send them to the shellfish treatment plant in Newburyport before placing them on the market.

Shellfish Officer Carmelo Morrales warned that weekend clam diggers, who may not be aware that the flats are contaminated, can place himself and his family in danger of hepatitis by eating the clams.

Merle Sawyer Media

Center Dedication Thursday

The Media Center of the Massachusetts Fields School will be dedicated in the name of Merle C. Sawyer tonight [Thursday] at 8:15 p.m.

Miss Sawyer, a teacher in the Quincy School system for 45 years, recently retired, after 21 years, as principal of the Massachusetts Fields School.

'Never Lost Faith'

Tradition Helped Him Through POW Ordeal Stratton Tells QJC Graduates

Navy Capt. Richard A. Stratton, formerly of Quincy, says he was able to keep his balance through six years in a Communist prison in Vietnam because of tradition, "the aggregate of the American culture my country and city bestowed on me."

Stratton, a Navy pilot who was shot down over North Vietnam and imprisoned from 1967 to 1974, was the keynote speaker at the 12th annual commencement of Quincy Junior College Sunday at Veterans Memorial Stadium.

"That is why I continually return to Quincy," he told the 315 graduates, "because Quincy is part and parcel of that tradition; the family, the church, the schools, the very fabric of the city itself."

"It is not until the chips are down and your back is against the wall that you realize who your friends are and what resources you really have. My friends are here in my home city; my basic resources come from Quincy."

"Someday, when you are able to withdraw from the hectic pace of education and employment for even so short a time you will see what a great treasure of knowledge and talent your country, your cities and towns, your church and your family have bestowed upon you."

Stratton said that such traditions enabled the prisoners of war in Vietnam to build lives for themselves that were "meaningful and constructive even in such an austere and hostile environment" as a prison camp.

"Left with no resources but our traditions," he said, "literally in our underwear in bare cells with pajamas for clothing, we were able to invent codes for communication...and manufacture the basic necessities for mental, physical and moral survival."

"With the training which you now have, in observation, in logic, in comprehension, which we received as young men, we were able to observe the enemy, divine his intentions, and thwart his schemes to exploit us for propaganda and turn us one against the other."

"After Christmas of 1970, when the Communists were forced to allow us to come together, we really enriched our lives."

"Bringing together all the wealth America has given its children, we created our own university with no books, no paper, no help from the enemy, just our minds."

"As an example of how well we did, one man returned to Texas and validated 22 credits of foreign language he had learned from his fellow prisoners—French, German and Russian."

"Tradition gave us something to live for. We never lost faith in you, our fellow Americans. I never met a man in prison who ever doubted that you would get us out of that hell hole, some time, some way."

"You here are all achievers. Your cities and towns, your fellow citizens have bestowed a great treasure on you. Today, in the joy of your well deserved success, I ask you to reflect. What are you going to give in return?"

"You owe allegiance to your city, to your town, wherever you go."

"If you stay here, work to make your home even better, for we all have imperfections. If you leave, as I have, to pitch your tent elsewhere, take the rich traditions of your cities and towns with you and enrich your adopted home."

"But never forget and always be proud of from whence you came."

Other speakers on the program included Mayor Joseph J. LaRaia, James R. McIntyre, chairman of the Community College Association, and QJC President Dr. Edward F. Pierce.

Dr. Pierce told the graduates that success and education are two words that are often defined incorrectly.

"For some," he said, "success is a drive which connotes money, security, power, or some elusive form of perpetual happiness yet to be discovered."

"Others unwisely measure education solely as a preparation for some dimly perceived occupation or profession."

"But those of wisdom view education as a lifelong process which has just begun and success as an intangible state of mind."

William O'Connell Elected Historical Society President

William A. O'Connell, 67, of 109 Putnam St., Quincy Center, has been elected president of the Quincy Historical Society.

He succeeds H. Hobart Holly of 106 Oak St., Braintree, who held that office for 20 years.

"I'm honored to have been elected president of the Quincy Historical Society, library, and museum," O'Connell said. "Quincy's historical heritage is unequalled because our history is real and factual. In Quincy, in my opinion, there is a much greater financial opportunity than the business sector realizes."

"History is not just a point of time, it is an everyday, ongoing activity in which the citizens should participate."

"The historical society invites all people in Quincy and the South Shore to join with us and share in the bicentennial year. This is an exciting period of history, politically, socially, and economically—let's put it to work."

Other officers elected were: Dr. James R. Cameron of 64 Davis St., Wollaston, an Eastern Nazarene College Professor, first vice president; David R. Day of 18 Samoset Ave., Merrymount, second vice president; William P. Farrar of 152 Whitwell St., Quincy Center, treasurer; Mrs. Hall B. Carpenter of 18

Muirhead St., Wollaston, recording secretary; Miss Berthe J. Troysfontaine, of 45 School St., Quincy Center, corresponding secretary.

Elected registrar was Mrs. Rudolf Oberg of 37 Walker St., North Quincy. H. Hobart Holly was elected historian, and Dr. George R. Horner of 424 Liberty St., Braintree was elected archeologist.

New directors of the society are: George S. Bennett of 85 Puritan Dr., Quincy Center; Harold S. Crowley of 3 Flagg St., Wollaston; Miss Kathleen O'Donnell of 1025 Hancock St., Quincy; Miss Lois H. Walker of 90 Homestead Ave., Weymouth, and Warren E. Watson of 7 Dorchester St., Squantum.

President Emeritus is H. Hobart Holly, and corresponding secretary emeritus is Mrs. Robert Justis of 65 Shelton Rd., Adams Shore.

A life-long resident of Quincy, O'Connell attended Northeastern School of Law, Northeastern School of Banking, and the American Institute of Banking.

He served as vice president of the historical society for about 10 years and served as executive vice-president of the South Shore Chamber of Commerce for 20 years.

Now an honorary director of the South Shore Chamber of Commerce, O'Connell served as an officer at the South Shore National Bank for 24 years. He is also an honorary vice president of the Quincy Junior College Association, director and past president of the Quincy YMCA, director of the Norfolk County Development and Tourist Council, and director of the Quincy Cooperative Bank.

A past president and member of the Rushlight Club, he is also a member of the Kiwanis Club of Quincy, a member of the Quincy Council of the Knights of Columbus, a member of the Quincy Growth Policy Commission, a member and past president of the Mechanical Bank Collectors Association of America and a member of the National Trust of Historical Preservation Society.

He is also a member of the Weymouth and Braintree Historical Societies, and is director of the Bay State Historic League.

O'Connell is also a nationally known collector of lighting devices, frontier artifacts and children's toys.

During the past 10 years, he has collaborated on two books dealing with the history of lighting.

28-year-old Koch Club, will be master of ceremonies of the parade and stadium exercises.

City and state dignitaries will be led by Mayor Joseph J. LaRaia, City Council President and State Sen. Arthur H. Tobin, members of the City Council, School Committee and state representatives. All appointed officials have been invited to attend and participate.

To climax the program, the Quincy Symphony Orchestra and Park and Recreation Board will jointly sponsor an hour long

Pops Concert at the stadium at 8:30 p.m. to close out the evening.

Joseph E. Burke, chairman of the Park and Recreation Board and Andrew T. Walsh, president of the Quincy Symphony Orchestra, will participate in the evenings activities.

QUINCY'S YESTERDAYS

June 10 - 16, 1937 - 39 Years Ago This Week

Warns Of Communists Here

By TOM HENSHAW

John Maguire of Watertown, state vice commander of the American Legion, told a gathering at Morrisette Post that "you probably have a hotbed of 'reds' right here in Quincy."

"Out in Watertown," he said, "we elected two of them to public office and appointed a school physician who, when trailed, was found to be preaching in a foreign language his advocacy of overthrowing the United States government."

"He was a legionnaire, too, and we were obliged to expel him."

OIL TRUCK DRIVER BEATEN

A 27-year-old Quincy man was dragged from his oil truck and beaten by three men while making a delivery in South Boston as members of Local 68 of the Coal and Fuel Chauffeurs and Helpers Union [AFL] went on strike against 10 Quincy firms.

Emil Chiminello said the men accosted him when he stopped for a red light with the words: "Why haven't you put up your truck like the others?"

Some 100 union members were seeking raises to $36 a week for drivers, $32 a week for helpers, plus overtime pay, union recognition and 44 and 40-hour weeks depending on the season.

Two Quincy companies, the Granite City Coal Co. and the Carter Coal and Dock Co., had already signed contracts.

LARSON OPENS COMEBACK BID

Ring Larson, once a New England amateur champion, won a four-round decision over Roland Dufour of Winthrop in his first comeback bout after nearly four years on the sidelines with an elbow injury.

The fight, promoted by Rip Valenti, was a preliminary to the Al McCoy-Natie Brown heavyweight bout in Fenway Park.

OCEAN VOYAGERS

Three Quincy boys sailed their 18-foot open Winaboot sail boats from the Squantum Yacht Club to Portland, Maine, in five days.

They were Alfred Starratt, 22, and his brother, Arthur, 19, of 77 South Bayfield Rd, Atlantic, and Andrew Harvey, 23, of 6 Beckett St., Montclair.

The boats were to be delivered from Portland by truck to a camp in the Maine woods where the elder Starratt was a councillor.

FLYERS FOUND SAFE

National Guard flyers Maj. Clarence E. Hodge of Wollaston and Lt. Victor L. McNeil of South Boston were found safe in the mountains of Nevada after they bailed out of their plane.

McNeil walked 42 miles in 17 hours for help after Hodge was immobilized by an ankle injury.

A REGIONAL ECONOMY

By ERIC SWIDER

MAPC:

South Shore Office Needed

The South Shore needs official fulltime attention being paid to its "Public Works" problems on a regional basis.

We need a central office located on the South Shore where our concerns for solid and liquid waste disposal, transportation, housing, comprehensive planning, etc. are addressed and solved.

It should develop a cooperative attitude among local governments. It should be an advocacy center for our region, with State and Federal bureaucracies that fund public works projects.

For too long, we have been treated as second class relatives.

To that end, the Board of Directors of the South Shore Chamber authorized the issuance of a strong statement to the Metropolitan Area Planning Council, local governmental leaders, and the MAPC designees from the South Shore. There has just been a "palace coupe" within that organization. We're not sure of the politics of it. We don't really care. What we do want is effectively embodied in the Statement. Here it is:

"Over the past few years, the Boston-based Metropolitan Area Planning Council has generated planning documents, provided a forum for regional issues, as well as technical assistance to member communities seeking such aid.

Meanwhile, as costs of the delivery of municipal services have risen, local towns have begun to join forces in such areas as waste disposal, school districts and fire departments, joint management in functional areas such as these is the first step in the development of a practical regional government, and more should be taken or encouraged where appropriate.

However, we see instead a massive regional government plan, sponsored by the Metropolitan Area Planning Council proposing a political superstructure, and a Boston Harbor Commission bill proposing jurisdictional control over traditional zoning powers of South Shore communities, being developed and promoted by Boston-based planners and politicians.

We are concerned that the South Shore communities have neither been involved nor consulted in the preparation of these bills. We are even more concerned to observe a Boston bias emerging in the State's administration of regional programs. Boston Harbor Island access is one example of many.

A Boston bias is natural when staff and materials are located in Boston. We are concerned that the development of functional regional steps will never be more than that if South Shore communities resist what is perceived as a Boston power grab. The South Shore needs coordinated full-time regional technical assistance in the areas covered by the MAPC - Housing, Comprehensive Planning, Water Quality, Open Space and Recreation, Land Use and Zoning, Transportation and Regional Organization to help resolve some of the area problems.

These include the Nut Island plant, coordination of improved transportation service, better links with recreational networks, technical assistance for Growth Policy Committees, planning boards and conservation commissions, the Braintree and Weymouth incinerators, and others.

Therefore, the South Shore Chamber of Commerce calls upon the area Metropolitan Area Planning Council representatives and the Executive Committee of the Metropolitan Area Planning Council to establish a staffed office in the South of Boston area for the purpose of coordinating technical assistance with local communities, for establishing a resource center for the region, for providing forums on a regular basis, and for doing the job that needs to be done in building the regional network from the grassroots, rather than from the Boston board rooms."

Fair Share Committee Criticize Representatives On Electric Rates Vote

Editor, The Quincy Sun:

We are Quincy residents who are concerned, disappointed and angry at the way our local state Representatives voted recently on the Fair Share Electric Rates initiative petition [H.B. 4201]. The petition measure seeks to end the current, unfair rate structure under which large users enjoy tremendous volume discounts.

At a large public gathering in mid-March Rep. Robert Cerasoli voiced his strong support. Rep. James Sheets did not attend personally, but sent staff aide Ron Kaufman who congratulated Quincy Fair Share members for having gathered over 12,500 certified petition signatures locally and conveyed Mr. Sheets' pledge of a favorable vote. Rep. Thomas Brownell was not present, but had earlier indicated his support to Fair Share leaders.

On the day of the vote, however, [May 3] all three politicians broke their word and voted against lower electric bills for residential customers, small businesses and churches.

Our concern and anger arises from the fact that none of these Representatives felt any responsibility to indicate to us that they had changed their position on such an important issue. Our disappointment stems from the apparent greater weight given to the false arguments and scare tactics of big business lobbyists. Is this the kind of honest, open representation citizens deserve?

The campaign for an electric rate structure that rewards

conservation and punishes waste is NOT over. The issue will not go away that easily. When an additional 10,000 signatures are gathered, Fair Share Electric Rates will appear on the November Ballot. But we have learned not to depend on the phony promises of slippery politicians. We intend to take the issue directly to the voters and allow the over-burdened consumers of the Commonwealth to decide for themselves.

Principal speaker will be John [Jake] P. Comer, of Quincy Point, Massachusetts Department Commander of the American Legion.

Program chairman Joseph E. Brett will open the ceremonies.

Exalted Ruler Michael A. Snaces, and lodge officers will perform the Flag Day Ritual, followed by an opening prayer, offered by chaplain Gordon A. Mathieson.

George T. Alcott, assisted by a group of Boy Scouts, will present a history of the flag. This will be followed by a response from Roswell S. Clarke, trustee.

Presentation of nursing scholarship by Thomas M. Garrity will follow the erection of a floral ball of liberty by the lodge officers.

Michael A. Snaces, exalted ruler will deliver the closing remarks.

Musical interludes throughout the program will be performed by John N. DiBona, lodge organist.

The public is invited to attend.

Merrymount Flagpole To Honor Mayor Della Chiesa

A new flagpole in Merrymount Park adjacent to the Park Department maintenance office will be dedicated to the memory of former Mayor Amelio Della Chiesa during Flag Day ceremonies Monday, June 14.

Richard J. Koch, executive director of the Park and Recreation Board, said the flag will be raised and lowered daily by Park Board personnel.

There was a flagpole on the site 10 years ago, Koch said, but it was taken down for safety purposes.

During the construction of the Hoover dam, concrete had to be poured continuously for two years.

Services Held For Alfred Raymondi, 54, Quincy Highway Superintendent

Services were held Wednesday for Alfred G. Raymondi, 54, of 16 Miller Stile Rd. City Highway Superintendent for the past 10 years and a city employee for 28, he died Saturday at the Sidney Farber Cancer Center Boston, after a long illness.

A Mass was celebrated at St. John's Church. Burial was in Mount Wollaston Cemetery. Donations in his memory may be made to the Sidney Farber Cancer Center, 35 Binney St., Boston.

Mayor Joseph J. LaRaia expressed his sympathy on behalf of the city to the Raymondi family and directed that flags be lowered Monday and the city draped in mourning through Wednesday, the day of the funeral.

Mr. Raymondi was an active

ALFRED G. RAYMONDI

What's A Funeral All About?

It's about someone who lived among friends and relatives. Someone who has made impressions on other people. Someone who will be remembered by them.

In short, a funeral is about a human being.

And that's why we believe it should be special.

Ten children "Had it their way" and won a T-shirt and a free meal from Burger King for winning the recent "Young Ideas" Bike Safety Coloring Contest. Store manager Kevin Aherne presented the prizes to the winners: Anne Marie Greenwell, Mark Taylor, Kristen Quirk, Christopher Dindy, Lisa Pucillo, Tara Morris, Carol Bishop, William Brangiforte, Edward Chisam and Michael Siegel.

The contest was sponsored by Burger King, 505 Quincy Ave., and was featured in the April 15 issue of "Young Ideas". It was run in conjunction with a city-wide Bike Safety Clinic held April 19-20 at Central Junior High School grounds. The clinic was also sponsored by Burger King in cooperation with The Quincy Sun, Quincy Police Department and the Quincy School Department as a public service. At the clinic over 100 children had their bikes engraved with their Social Security numbers as an anti-theft measure.

Three hundred and fifty children entered the contest.

"WE HAD IT OUR WAY" -- say six of the 10 winners of the Burger King Bike Safety Coloring Contest. Store manager Kevin Aherne presented T-shirts, free meals and framed copies of their entries to the winners: front, from left, Anne Marie Greenwell, Mark Taylor, Kristen Quirk, Christopher Dindy, rear Lisa Pucillo and Tara Morris. Other winners who are not shown were Carol Bishop, William Brangiforte, Edward Chisam and Michael Siegel. The contest was run in conjunction with the Bike Safety Clinic held at Central Junior High grounds April 19 - 20 sponsored by Burger King in cooperation with The Quincy Sun, Quincy Police Department and the Quincy School Department.

Maloney Twins Career Goals 'Sky High'

By POLLY DREDGE

Wollaston twin brothers graduated from North Quincy High School last week, and are now looking forward to college and to career goals as high as the sky.

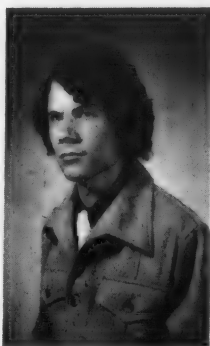

Peter and Philip Maloney, the sons of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Maloney of 311 Safford St., Wollaston, were the first juniors at North Quincy High School to receive duplicate Harvard Prize Book Awards for scholastic excellence because their scores in all areas of competition were so close it was impossible to tell them apart.

Former Quincy Sun newscasters, both were National Merit Scholarship finalists, members of the National Honor Society and the track team.

Peter was a member of the band, and Philip sang in the choir.

Philip will attend Harvard College next fall and will major in astronomy on a scholarship awarded him by the college.

Peter will attend Cornell University next September and will study aerospace engineering.

PETER MALONEY

PHILIP MALONEY

Already a licensed student pilot, he was awarded an Air Force ROTC four-year scholarship on the basis of his outstanding academic achievement, participation in extracurricular activities, physical fitness, and a desire to serve as an air force officer.

Peter is one of only 450 high school seniors nationwide to receive the scholarship this year, and upon completion of his degree requirements, he will be commissioned as a second lieutenant in the U.S. Air Force. An active duty assignment to pilot training will follow.

Central Junior Students Hold Memorial Ceremonies

Students at Central Junior High School held a memorial day assembly recently.

Paul O'Neil, past commander of the Quincy Veterans Council and past commander of the Morrisette Post American Legion spoke to the students after greetings from Kathleen Mahoney, class president, and remarks by School Mayor Ralph Pickering.

Kathleen Mahoney, also led the students in a salute to the flag.

The concert choir, under the direction of Catherine Carnabuci and the school band, directed by Bernard Goldstein, played several selections.

Principal Vincent Moscardelli, closed the ceremony after Thomas Gorczyca, David Carbonneau and Glen DiBona sounded taps.

Coordinator and coach for participants in the assembly was Mary Catherine Iannoni, head counselor at the school.

House Painting Applications At Atlantic Center

The Atlantic Neighborhood Center is taking applications for the Atlantic Self-Help Home Improvement Program, a federally funded plan to assist Atlantic residents to paint the exterior of their homes.

Den 2 and Den 4, Pack 27 Visit Quincy Sun

Cub Scouts of Den 2 and Den 4, Pack 27 visited the offices of The Quincy Sun recently to view the workings of a newspaper firsthand.

The scouts sponsored by Sacred Heart Church, North Quincy, were:

Den 2 - Mark Cappelletti, Tony Courage, Michael Donovan, Paul Hughes, Mark McNulty and Tommy Smith. Den mother is Maureen Hughes.

Den 4 scouts were: Tommy Carter, Thomas Donovan, John Farrara, Darryl Fragoze, John Keenan, Barry Miller, Mark Stephens and Francis White. Den Mother is Pauline DeKarski.

The boys first visited the editorial and advertising departments of the office.

They then toured the production department where they saw the story of their visit set into type on an IBM computer system. They also saw news headlines set on a Compugraphic 7200 photo typesetting machine.

The scouts watched a paste-up artist fix the story and headline into proper position on paste-up boards.

After a brief explanation of how The Quincy Sun is printed, the scouts asked questions about what they had seen on their tour.

Before leaving the office, each scout received a complimentary copy of The Sun.

Rita Kearns Exhibit At N.Q. Library

An exhibition of paintings by Mrs. Rita Kearns of Quincy is being held in the North Quincy Branch of the Thomas Crane Public Library through the month of June.

Mrs. Kearns a native of Ireland, was educated at Dublin College of Art. She specializes in oil and watercolor paintings and has taught art in many countries besides her native Ireland, including England, Pakistan and the Philippines.

Last year she was the winner of the Quincy Heritage Poster Contest, co-sponsored by The Quincy Sun and Quincy Savings Bank, and her work has received ever increasing notice in this area.

Josiah Quincy Homestead In National Register Of Historic Places

The Col. Josiah Quincy Homestead at 20 Muirhead St. Wollaston, built in 1770, has been added to the National Register of Historic Places, it was disclosed by Congressman James A. Burke [D-Milton] this week.

The Register is a compilation of historically or architecturally significant sites deemed worthy of preservation by the National Park Service. There are some 450 of them in Massachusetts, 10 in Quincy.

The Homestead, now owned by the Society for the Preservation of New England Antiquities, was built by Col. Josiah Quincy, lawyer, militiaman, uncle of Dorothy Quincy and something of an 18th Century bon vivant.

Benjamin Franklin dined there in 1775 and listened to the Colonel's plan to fortify the islands in Boston Harbor and capture the British fleet. Franklin suggested that Quincy contact Gen. George Washington but the British evacuated Boston.

Col. Quincy witnessed the departure from an upstairs window in his homestead.

He died on March 3, 1784, having caught cold while sitting on a cake of ice hunting ducks in the Wollaston marsh. But the Homestead was still a favorite gathering place of the great and near great who happened to be in town.

Shortly after Constitution captured the British Guerriere, its commander, Isaac Hull, and Capt. Stephen Decatur rowed over from Old Ironsides for breakfast at the Quincy home.

The Marquis de Lafayette and Daniel Webster also were entertained there.

Other Quincy sites listed in the National Register include:

Adams Academy, the Adams Birthplaces, the Dorothy Quincy House, the Granite Railway and Incline, Moswetuset Hummock, the Adams Mansion, United

First Parish Church and the Thomas Crane Public Library.

Harold Udall Alternate Delegate

City Councillor Paul D. Harold has been elected one of three alternate delegates pledged to Congressman Morris Udall [D-Ariz.] at the Democratic National Convention in New York in July.

And already he's found himself in demand by other presidential candidates.

"I was elected only a few hours when I began receiving calls from supporters of other candidates," he said. "Gov. Jerry Brown's office called from California to invite me to meet the governor in Boston Thursday".

Under Massachusetts law, delegates must vote for the candidate to whom they are pledged on the first ballot. After that they are free to exercise a choice.

"The Udall delegation met in Worcester Sunday night and, as it stands now, we plan to stand behind Congressman Udall for as long as he wants," said Harold.

"If the convention goes into a second or third ballot, Udall would be a very viable compromise candidate for President or even Vice President.

"We feel that we can best promote Udall by going to New York as a united front."

Harold, who served as co-chairman for Udall in the 11th District, said he plans to vote for Rep. Charles Flaherty [D-Cambridge] for chairman of the delegation at its organizational meeting Saturday in Framingham.

ONE COUNCILLOR'S OPINION

By Paul Harold

Councillor-at Large

Happy Birthday 10 Year Old

In only ten years, 1000 Southern Artery has made quite a mark on the world.

1000 is a special place for me because among my many friends living there is my aunt and sixth grade teacher. But more important than any sentimental attachment is what 1000 is doing.

By providing an outstanding housing, social and recreational center for thousands of Quincy and South Shore senior citizens, it serves as a model of genius and humanitarianism by which we measure future social progress in our city.

Only in America!

North Winds Up Tough Season On Bright Note

The North Quincy baseball team had a frustrating season this spring and finished with only a 6-14 record, losing eight games by one run.

But Charles Bunker's Raiders provided the upset of the Suburban League season in the final week when they scored six runs in the seventh inning to shock Brockton, 10-6, forcing the Boxers to share the league title with Waltham.

North followed up with a 7-3 win over Weymouth before suffering its eighth one-run loss to Brockton, 2-1, in the finale.

"This was really a frustrating year for us and those eight losses by one run were hard to take," Bunker said. "The win at Brockton had to be the highlight of the season. The boys trailed, 4-0, but fought back and that rally in the last inning was really something."

Pete Fallon, who had failed in two starting roles, relieved starter John Earle and pitched outstanding ball over the last five innings to gain the win.

The hitting star was Paul Stack, a senior playing his first year of baseball who batted a solid .452 overall and .448 in the league. He had four for five and sophomore Mike McCormick, brought up from the jayvees only the week before, went three for four.

The Raiders had only four hits against Weymouth South but took full advantage of South's errors. They scored four runs on only one hit in the second and added three more in the sixth.

Mike Holleran went the route for North and gave up 10 hits but was tough in the clutch.

"He pitched a fine game," said Bunker. "His record wasn't that good, but his earned run average was well under two and he is one of the best competitors I've ever had."

Quincy North Track Girls In Good Performances

The Brockton girls, champions of the Suburban League in track, dominated the recent all-league meet as expected, but the North Quincy and Quincy girls turned in good performances.

North, in particular, did well as it compiled 17 points and Coach Bob Troupe, with only four seniors, was understandably pleased.

"We had a very young team but we were in every meet this year," he said. "And all our point scorers in the all-league meet are sophomores."

Janice Kelly placed third in the dash after easily winning her heat and also was third in the long jump.

Jody Silver took a third in the javelin and Karen Kandall and Rory Nolan were fourth and fifth in the low hurdles.

The Quincy girls, also loaded with underclassmen, could score only four points but several of the girls just missed scoring.

Paula Conatas took fourth in the 440 for Coach Cathy Ilacqua's First Ladies, while Dottie Irvine took fifth in the mile and Jody Yurkstas fifth in the long jump.

YMCA Swim Team Presents Awards At Banquet

Weymouth.

The team members also presented their coaches Mary Wentworth, Terry Welch and Frank Rull trophies "for their dedication" to the team.

The Quincy YMCA swim team held its annual awards banquet recently at the YMCA, winding up a successful season in the Eastern Massachusetts YMCA Swim League.

The following swimmers received trophies for the "Most Improved Swimmer" of their age groups:

Louis Zonis of Quincy and Mike Williams of Hanover for 8 and under, Elise Reiners of Norwell for 9-10, Tina Cloutier of Norwell and Dan Falvey of Hingham for 11-12, Tina Larson of Norwell and Ed Melanson of Quincy for 13-14, and Tom Evans of Weymouth for 15-17.

Two swimmers were chosen as the "Most Outstanding Swimmers of the Season". They were Betty Guerin of South Boston and Jason Edmonds of

Tough Luck Keeps Quincy Out Of Tourney

A few weeks ago the Quincy High girls' softball team was leading Weymouth South, 6-1. However, rain halted the game before it became official and the teams replayed it the next day. Weymouth South pulled out an 8-7 win and it was this loss which kept Coach Barbara Webster's First Ladies out of the state tournament, which began last week.

Another loss which hurt Quincy's cause was a one-run decision to Brockton.

Quincy came back to bomb both of these teams for its best record, 10-5. But, even a win in its final game would not give Quincy enough wins to make the tournament.

Quincy walloped Weymouth South, 13-2, featuring a seven-run sixth inning. While Cindy Tozzi pitched a five-hitter, the First Ladies had 10 hits, including three by Cindy, and two each by Rosemarie Pestili and Kelly Sparks. One of Tozzi's hits was a homer.

Earlier, Quincy lambasted Brockton, 16-1, as it came up with seven doubles in the fourth inning in which it scored 11 runs.

Pestili, Pat McPhillips, Peggy

Morley, Lois Malvesti, Rosie Maloney, Tozzi and Claire Oliverio had the fourth inning doubles. Tozzi was the winning pitcher.

Quincy eliminated Weymouth South from the tournament after Quincy had been officially eliminated by Cambridge Latin, the Suburban League champion.

"I think it is a shame that no South Shore team from the Suburban League is in the tournament, because I look at the other leagues and see teams we beat handily in scrimmages and they have made it," Coach Webster said. "This is really a strong league and it is a shame one of the South Shore teams didn't make it."

"What bothers me is that the boys' baseball teams have to win only 65 percent of their games to make the tournament while we have to win 75 per cent. I think this is ridiculous."

Barbara is optimistic for next year with Hank Conroy's junior varsity also 10-5. Pat McPhillips was only recently brought up from the jayvee squad and has done well for the varsity.

"I'm very disappointed, those two one-run losses to Weymouth South and Brockton really hurt us," Barbara concluded.

Midget A Champs Hold Awards Night

Quincy's Midget A Hockey team, the Donnelly Advertising Club, state champion, held its awards night recently at the Hollow.

Head table guests included Mr. and Mrs. John Donnelly of Donnelly Advertising, the sponsor; Quincy City Councillor Dennis Harrington, John Zanardelli, past president of Quincy Youth Hockey; Coach and Mrs. Richard Reinhardt and Asst. Coach Dennis Bertoni.

Framed copies of a resolution from the Quincy City Council were presented to each player by Harrington.

Trophies awarded by the South Shore Conference, of which the Midget A's were champions as well as playoff champions, were presented by Zanardelli.

Players also received medals with the inscription "State Champions 75-76".

Special awards went to John Moore and Marion Bertoni for their cheerleading efforts and to Dottie Peters for her hospitality during the season.

Coach Reinhardt was given a large bronze statue of a hockey player and his wife, Beverly, was presented a locket.

Marilyn Bertoni made a presentation of a miniature Donnelly Advertising Billboard, a duplicate of the billboard erected in Quincy Square honoring the squad.

The players honored were

Babe Ruth League

Firemen, Police Division Pacers

The Firemen Local 792 baseball team moved into first place in the Quincy American Babe Ruth League with two wins over the weekend.

Firemen broke a close game open in the fifth and sixth innings to top Houghs Neck, 8-1, although held to four hits. Dave Austin, who had three of the hits, drove in seven of the runs to hike his batting average to .470. He has driven in 12 runs with six singles and two triples.

Greg Madden, the winning pitcher, allowed six hits, struck out six and walked only one. His teammate played errorless ball with Jim Sullivan, Jim Flaherty and Greg Oriola turning in some excellent defensive plays.

Saturday Firemen walloped Morrisette, 11-3, scoring four runs in the first inning, adding single runs in the third and sixth and erupting for five in the seventh. The Firemen had nine hits.

Austin was the winning pitcher, allowing three hits, striking out six and walking two. Artie Roberts, Madden, Austin, Phil Caggiano and Ray Coscia hit well and Roberts and Caggiano also shone defensively.

The Quincy Police Club continued to roll in the National League, walloping Golden Print, 18-7, to make its record 5-1.

Bill O'Connell was the winning pitcher in relief of Bob Mezzetti who had control trouble in the second inning when Bolden scored its seven runs.

Frank Donovan had two hits, Mezzetti had a double and single, Bob Cronin a triple, Gary DiNardo a double and John Sweet, Larry Baker, Billy Oakes, O'Connell had run scoring hits. Oakes had the fielding play of the game with a diving shoe string catch in left field.

VFW edged the Elks, 7-6, helping his own cause with some fine fielding in the last inning when he accounted for all three outs himself. With the tying run on, he threw out one batter, caught a popup and grabbed a hard line drive to end the game.

VFW again was led by the hitting of Mike Trubiano, Harry Donoghue and Pat Ennis with two hits apiece. The winning run was scored by Donoghue on a perfect squeeze bunt by Leo Doyle in the top of the seventh.

For the Elks Billy Foley and Frank Marillie had triples. Bob DuBois pitched well in a losing cause.

MINUTEMEN COME TO QUINCY - Mayor Joseph J. LaRaia signs agreement allowing the use of Veterans Stadium for nine home games to soccer team, The Boston Minutemen. Looking on is Minutemen president, John C. Sterge. Minutemen meet San Diego Saturday night.

Boston Minutemen Host San Diego Here Saturday

The Boston Minutemen of the North Atlantic Soccer League will play the first of nine home games at Veterans Memorial Stadium Saturday at 5 p.m. when they face the San Diego Jaws.

In a preliminary game at 3 o'clock the Montclair School and Quincy School teams will clash for the championship of the North Quincy Kickers League. Each team is 4-1.

This will end the season for the Kickers League which includes teams from each of seven elementary schools in the city. The players are fifth and sixth grade students.

Giants Sporting 9-2 Record In Farm League

The Giants of the Junior Farm Baseball League are having an excellent season with a 9-2 record.

The Giants, coached by Pepe Coppola, have wins over the Orioles, 5-2; Dodgers, 5-2; Cubs, 30-0; Red Sox, 17-2; Cubs, 15-3; Yankees, 14-6; Indians, 15-1; Pirates, 7-0, and Dodgers, 19-6. They lost to the Pirates, 8-7, and to the Braves, 7-3.

In the win over the Pirates, Mark Abboud pitched the shutout. Danny Kelly and Bobby McCabe each had two hits.

In the first win over the Dodgers John Comeau pitched excellent ball and everyone contributed to the batting attack including David Cooke, Kevin Cafferty, Dom Camillo, John Reinhardt, Mike O'Reilly, Steve Higgins, Richie Brooks, Paul Ryan, Debbie Mosher, Richie Marneill and Tim O'Brien.

The team recently honored Cappola at a cookout and presented him with a wall plaque reading "Peter Cappola, the Best Coach in the Quincy Junior Farm League".

Testimonial Dinner For Bob Nolan June 17

Rouillard's Rolls In A.L. Beau's, County Line N.L. Leaders

Rouillard's, the only unbeaten team, continues to roll along at the top of the Quincy Softball League's American League with an 11-0 record, following two more wins during the week. Well's Grille is right behind at 10-1.

In the National League Beau's Place and County Line are tied with 9-2 records, one game ahead of Alumni Cafe.

Rouillard's romped over Bill's Texaco, 15-4, and Mr. Kelly, 13-6. Wells rolled over Howard Johnson, 23-5, and Quincy Point Cong, 18-1.

Walsh's provided a minor upset by topping Mr. Kelly, 8-3, as Kelly dropped to fourth place in the National League.

North Quincy K. of C. moved into fourth place in the American League with two cinch wins, 19-7 over Wheeler-Dealer and 18-6 over Quincy Eagles.

County Line topped Wheeler-Dealer, 10-8, and Howard Johnson, 13-8, while Beau's kept pace with a 16-1 breeze over Red Carpet and a 13-8 win over Howard Johnson.

Morrisette, Quincy Clash Friday

Legion Baseball Underway

By TOM SULLIVAN

The Morrisette Legion baseball team, 1975 state and northeast regional champion, was due to open its quest for its 20th Zone 6 championship last night (Wednesday) against Hingham.

Morrisette will face Quincy Friday night at 8 at Adams Field and will host Braintree at 8 Monday at Adams.

Wollaston will entertain Canton Saturday at 8, also at Adams, and will play at Milton Wednesday at 6. Quincy, following Friday's game with Morrisette, will be at Canton Monday at 6 and will host Holbrook under the lights at 8 Wednesday night at Adams.

Although Morrisette lost a number of its outstanding players from last year's World Series team, Coach Ray Cattaneo and assistants Billy Corcoran and Connie Carozzi have several returnees, headed by the number one battery of pitcher Tim Clifford, now at Harvard, and catcher Steve McKinnon, Northeastern.

Other veterans are starting third baseman Jim Roberts; starting shortstop Paul Messina and infielder Dave Perdios, all from Abp. Williams, starting outfielder Dennis McGuire from North Quincy, now at Springfield, infielder Jim Maze from Quincy High, pitcher Brian Corcoran from Abp. Williams, pitcher-infielder Chuck LoPresti from Sacred Heart High, Weymouth, and outfielder Paul Jackmauh from Thayer Academy.

Newcomers include infielders Peter Niosi and Lenny Picot, catcher Sal Coscia and pitcher-outfielders Ron Donovan, Mark Giordani and Pat Gibbons, all from Quincy High, and pitcher-infielder John Wilkinson and outfielder-infielder Mike McCormack from North Quincy High.

Perdios last year saw limited service during the regular season but was forced into the shortstop spot in the state and regional tournaments when Messina was injured. He was brilliant in both events and Cattaneo plans to use both in the infield this summer.

"We have a fine nucleus of experienced players and the newcomers look good," Cattaneo said. "The zone this year has been broken up into two divisions and each will have a champion. The league looks strong and we will have to battle all the way if we hope to repeat, but I think we will be right in the thick of things."

Tommy Malvesti is the athletic officer, Nick Malvesti the manager and Frank Osborne the scorer.

Tennis Clinic, Tourney To Aid Squantum '4th'

The Boston Harbor Marina Tennis Club has donated its facilities to the Squantum Community Association for two separate tennis times.

All proceeds will benefit the Squantum Fourth of July.

There will be a Tennis Clinic for all ages June 16 from 4 to 6 p.m. All are welcome including friends from outside Squantum.

Cost will be minimal.

There will also be a tennis tournament, Friday evening,

June 25, at the Marina. Trophies will be awarded in both Junior and Adult categories.

Applications are available from Donna Pound, 11 Wedgewood St., or from Martha Regan, 11 Dorchester St.

Jr. High Championship Swim Meet June 15

Since March, students from each of Quincy's junior high schools have been participating daily in the new junior high intramural swimming program.

Monday through Friday at 3 p.m., students arrive by bus at the new Lincoln Hancock Community pool to swim and dive under the direction of the high school coaches, Elaine Murphy of Quincy and Bill Walker of North Quincy, who is also the pool director.

Purpose of the program is to expose youngsters to swimming and arouse in the students a new interest in swimming and diving and later water polo.

Highlight of the program will be a city-wide championship meet next Tuesday at 2:45 at the L-H pool in which all five junior high teams will compete for the city titles.

Many of these new swimmers have learned that swimming is a rugged sport requiring constant practice and skill development. Students in the program will slip more easily into the more competitive high school program as they move into their respective high schools, Miss Murphy explained.

Members of the Quincy and North Quincy High swim teams have been of tremendous help as assistant coaches and instructors, teaching the junior high students much of the swim skills they acquired throughout their seasons.

Quincy swimmers helping are Ed Fenley, Pete Sullivan, Steve Harvey, Sue Buttomer, and Jeanne Keyes. Those from North are Lisa Coletta, Janice O'Toole, Barbara Toland, Thor Hellested, Danny Fowkes, Kevin Greene and Jack Lydon. Thomas Joyce and John Mackey are instructing in lifeguarding.

Events for next Tuesday's junior high championship meet will be the 200-yard medley relay, 50-yard butterfly, 50-yard backstroke, diving, 50-yard freestyle, 100-yard medley and 200-yard freestyle relay.

Each student will be allowed to take part in two individual events and one relay, diving being considered an individual event.

All relatives, friends and teachers are invited.

A-N Wins Boys Junior Track Crown

A strong Atlantic-North team easily dethroned Central as the boys' city-wide junior high track champion last week when it rolled up 77 5/6 points in the annual pentagonal meet at Veterans Memorial Stadium.

Central's defending champions were well behind with 38 5/6 points, followed by Broad Meadows, 37 5/6; Point, 30, and Sterling, 13 1/2.

The meet was featured by many close and interesting events and some excellent performances. Shawn Burnes of Central was the only double winner, taking the 352-yard run and the seventh grade long jump.

The winners: 50-yard dash, Rich Lawyer [Central]; eighth grade 100, Paul Tocchio [Point]; ninth grade 100, Tim O'Neill [A-N]; 352-yard run, Burnes, half mile, Bill Timmons [A-N]; mile, Bill Murphy [A-N]; 352-yard relay, Central; eighth grade 704-yard relay, Atlantic-North; ninth grade 704-yard relay, Broad Meadows.

Seventh grade long jump, Burnes; eighth grade long jump, Leif Thornton [A-N]; ninth grade long jump, Pete Griffin [Point]; seventh grade high jump, Tom Canavan [Central]; eighth grade high jump, Tom Pound [A-N]; ninth grade high jump, Bob Ferrera [A-N]; seventh grade shot put, tie between Clarke Cranston [A-N] and Frank Hoare [Sterling]; eighth grade shot put, Mike Petrillo [Broad Meadows]; ninth grade shot put, Bunky Harte [Point].

North Trackmen In N.E. Title Meet Saturday

The season is still not over for some of the North Quincy High trackmen.

Ace Bart Petracca, Brian Doherty and the relay team of Doherty, Matty King, Matty Constantino and Paul McGuigan will compete in the New England championships Saturday at Hampton, N.H. North's Marty Levenson will be an alternate.

Petracca turned in one of the top performances in last week's all-class meet at Brockton as he again proved himself the best miler in the state by winning in 4:15, a new school record. Bart, headed for Cornell, broke his own mark of 4:15.9 set last year in the same meet at Andover.

Petracca admitted he had little competition the previous week as he won the mile in pacing North to the state Class B title but he had a worthy opponent last week in Bobby Goss of Chelsea.

Doherty was second in the 100 as he equalled his best time of 10.1 and anchored the relay team which took third, although clocked at 44:1, the same as second place Weymouth South. Levenson earned the role of alternate by finishing sixth in the two-mile. His time of 9:37.1 made him only the second North runner to better 9:40. Petracca is the other.

Steve Allen To Host Summer Comedy-Talk Show

If you're one of those people who believe they don't make TV shows the way they used to, cheer up. You'll be happy to hear that Steve Allen is back.

Starting Sunday, June 20 at 7 p.m., on Ch. 56, and continuing through the summer, Steverino will be hosting a 90 minute show of laughter and reminiscences with many of his zany gang of players coming back to joke and talk and air replays of the great Steve Allen Show.

On the first of the series June 20, Steve will have as guests Louis Nye, Don Knotts, Martha Raye and Steve's wife Jayne Meadows.

'Inside The Shark' On NOVA June 13

The shark: man-eater, monster of the deep and, these days, a money-making Hollywood star. He looks scary, but is he really all that mean?

Live dangerously. Come "Inside the Shark" for an exciting science adventure on NOVA Sunday night, June 13, at 8 on Ch. 2.

Of the more than 300 species of sharks, most are harmless, living on diets that include almost anything except man. However, an 18th century shark skeleton was found to contain a knight in corroded armor.

NOVA looks at the lifestyle of this remarkable fish, who has reigned supreme over the sea for almost 300 million years. Among the creature's unique traits is an oil-filled liver that allows it to float in water, jaws that can exert an incredible pressure of 13 tons per square inch, and a sense of smell that enables it to detect a fish "sweating" from fear.

"Inside the Shark" is a BBC/WGBH co-production. NOVA is produced by WGBH Boston for PBS, with the advice and cooperation of the American Association for the Advancement of Science. NOVA is made possible by grants from Exxon Corporation, the National Science Foundation, Public Television Stations, the Ford Foundation and the Corporation for Public Broadcasting. Executive Producer: John Angier.

Bernstein Conducts Bernstein On Ch. 2

Leonard Bernstein conducts a TV version of his short, satiric opera, "Trouble In Tahiti" on OPERA THEATER - Saturday, June 19, at 9 p.m. on Ch. 2.

"Trouble in Tahiti" is one of Bernstein's popular works - like "Fancy Free" and "West Side Story" - with jazz-based music, lots of movement and bright, delightful scoring. It satirizes 1950's suburban sophistication and marital discontent. Action follows Sam [bass-baritone Julian Patrick] and Dinah [mezzo-soprano Nancy Williams] through a typical day's search for "the good life" - beginning with a fight in the kitchen over orange juice and coffee.

"Tahiti" is a funny, original opera - don't expect a Nordic chorus with sailing ships in the background - but instead, a little white house in suburbia, with people singing out their discontents and petty bickerings. Sam asserting himself at the office, Dinah seeking "peace of mind" at the analyst. Sam beating a punching bag at the gym and the two going to see a "terrible, awful movie" called "Trouble in Tahiti". All of this with lavish use of video techniques, chroma-keying and animation.

"Trouble in Tahiti", a co-production of Amerison Video, Inc. and London weekend Television, is presented by WNET, New York, transmitted by PBS. Leonard Bernstein conducts the London Symphonic Wind Band.

Boatner Piano Recital Aids Paul Nigro Fund

More than 100 attended the recent piano recital at Atlantic Junior High School given by Clifford Boatner, Quincy High School and Junior College math teacher, in honor of the late Paul T. Nigro, Quincy High School senior who was a member of the Math Club there.

Paul was also president of the National Honor Society, president of the Student Union and was a staff member of the Nautilus Literary Magazine, the American Field Service, the choir, the latin club.

He worked as an orderly at the Robin House Convalescent Home and was listed in "Who's Who Among American High School Students".

The recital was sponsored by the Quincy High School Mathematics Club and the Quincy Junior College Scholarship fund.

Boatner played selections by Handel, Beethoven, Ravel, Debussy and Chopin.

He studied at the University of Chicago Laboratory School, and with Clarence Alder, Sidney Foster, Jorge Bolet, Jesus Maria Sanroma, and the late Leon Tumarkin.

He holds a bachelor's degree from Brooklyn College of the City of New York, his master's degree from Boston State College, and was recently offered a Fulbright Scholarship for study of music composition and piano in Fontainebleau, France.

LaRaia Consultant Seeks NQHS Plan To Fit $1 Million Limit

Meanwhile, the Citizens for North Quincy High School reported that State Education Commissioner Gregory Anrig has given them "a reasonable amount of time" to fight LaRaia in court before withdrawing the state's 65 per cent reimbursement.

"But he said we could not have the two years it might take to fight this thing through the courts," said Mrs. Daniel J. Buckley, a spokesman for the Citizens.

Mrs. Buckley said the Citizens met last week with Anrig and representatives of the School Building Assistance Bureau and New England Association of Secondary Schools and Colleges, which passes on school accreditation.

"The accreditation people told us that if nothing is done the 1977 class at North Quincy will be the first to graduate from a non-accredited school," she said.

"The building assistance people said that the amount of space required for the school has already been reduced several times and cannot be reduced further.

"But they were very sympathetic and are willing to cooperate with us as long as the need is there and as long as citizens are fighting for that need."

She said the Citizens have raised $435 thus far to fight the mayor's refusal to sign the bond and further donations may be made to Box 56, North Quincy Post Office, 02171.

Former Atty. Gen. Robert Quinn was scheduled to report to the School Committee last night [Wednesday] and recommend a procedure by which the Committee also can challenge the Mayor's refusal to sign.

The beleaguered Mayor LaRaia received at least one shot of support last week when the Quincy Citizens Association passed a resolution favoring renovation of North Quincy High rather than new construction.

The Association also voted support of the Mayor in his efforts to get the School Department to reduce its budget.

Bids received after the hour named will not be considered.

Details of contract requirements and specifications shall be obtained at the office of the Purchasing Department, Registry of Deeds Building, Room 4, Dedham, Massachusetts. A deposit of twenty-five dollars [$25.00] in the form of a check payable to the Norfolk County Commissioners is required for each set of documents so obtained. The amount of the deposit will be refunded to the bidder.

Each bid shall be accompanied by a certified check in the amount of at least five per cent [5%] of the bid, payable to the Norfolk County Commissioners. If the bidder whose bid is accepted refuses or neglects to comply with the terms of the proposal, the certified check will be forfeited and become the property of Norfolk County.

The Norfolk County Commissioners reserve the right to accept or reject any or all bids; or to accept any bid or portion thereof deemed by them to be in the best interest of the County.

MOTHER BLUEJAY LIKE

A REDCOAT AT ADAMS BIRTHPLACES

The Adams Birthplaces are under attack from a quarter that was not anticipated when they were built in the 17th Century - the air.

A mother bluejay has set up housekeeping in a lilac bush near the front door of the John Adams Birthplace and has subjected the Birthplace Guides to a series of spectacular dive bombing attacks.

"A hundred per cent accurate," marvelled one Guide.

"It hurts," complained another.

The Guides report that the Jay was a perfect lady while she was sitting on her eggs in the lilac bush. It was only after the chicks were hatched that the air war started. She's protecting the young from anyone going near them.

One of the Guides was innocently sweeping a rug near the nursery in the lilac bush when the first surprise attack came - a feathered Pearl Harbor, as it were.

Now, the Guides report, it is becoming increasingly difficult to walk from one Birthplace to another without running a gauntlet of dive bombing attacks from Ma Bluejay.

And this in a Bicentennial year!

By TOM HENSHAW

The bitter 10-year struggle to upgrade North Quincy High School apparently is over and, although both tend to minimize their roles, the prime movers in grinding out the final solution were City Councillors Dennis E. Harrington and James A. Sheets.

It was Harrington whose thinly veiled threat to rewrite Mayor Joseph J. LaRaia's budget line by line finally, as one insider put it, "got it through to the Mayor that if he didn't compromise on North Quincy he would not have much of a budget to run on for re-election."

It was Sheets who used his position as a member of the House Committee on Education to convince Education Commissioner Gregory Anrig that the state could make a few concessions of its own in the interests of better education at North Quincy.

The result, satisfactory to both the Mayor and the State, was a $13.5 million [not $15 million] plan that would enlarge North High by 131,000 [not 150,000] square feet for a capacity of 1,700 [not 2,000] students with double sessions at North [not Quincy] High

Finn Stands By Report Youngsters Selling Drugs

The Quincy Police Department stands by its statement that the city's drug problem "is worse at the present time than ever before," despite the furor that it raised when reported by The Quincy Sun last week.

The assertions, which were termed exaggerated in a follow-up story by The Patriot Ledger, were contained in a letter sent to Chief Francis X. Finn by Lt. W. Walter Lynch, who heads up the Quincy Drug Unit.

The letter was also criticized by school officials.

"If we had any second thoughts about it," said Chief Finn, "it would be that the emphasis should have been on the age and not the school. We don't know if drugs are sold in the schools or on street corners. It's the elementary school age group that we're talking about."

The text of Lynch's letter follows:

"In response to your recent inquiry in regard to the illegal trafficking of drugs in the City of Quincy, I will respond by stating that the drug problem in the City of Quincy and the surrounding communities is worse at this present time than ever before. For the past six months the officers attached to the Quincy Drug Unit have watched the drug problem grow from appalling to unbelievable.

"We have people selling drugs in all sections of the City. I can say without exaggeration that the number of people who are known to us, who are in the drug trafficking business is but a fraction of the actual number of people who are selling drugs in our City.

Despite Beatings, Torture

POW's Kept Up Morale Making Own Flags, Capt. Stratton Recalls

By TOM BRADY

Navy Cpt. Richard A. Stratton, said at Koch Club Flag Day ceremonies Monday, that during his six-year ordeal as a North Vietnamese POW "our flag became the focal point for my hope of return, the rationale for my continued resistance and the consolation in my physical and mental anguish."

Stratton, keynote speaker for the 25th annual Koch Club Flag Day ceremonies, told 2,000 flag-waving youngsters and 1,000 other participants that during three years of torture and beatings in the prison, the image of the flag was drawn in his mind.

More than 3,000 marched in the parade led by Police Chief Francis X. Finn and a detachment of Quincy Police, including more than 2,000 youngsters carrying American flags.

Stratton told the marchers that he and other prisoners manufactured small American flags out of pilfered cloth with needles made from stolen wire and thread from already threadbare blankets. He said the Communists found one of these flags sewn inside the sleeve of a fellow prisoner's shirt.

"They hauled him out into the courtyard," Stratton said, "they covered all the rest of us with machine guns. They beat the man inside whose shirt they had found the American flag. The price of patriotism!"

Stratton said the prisoners continued their flag production despite this beating and pledged allegiance to the flag in secret.

"Over most of the United States the flag goes up at sunrise and down at sunset. In the Communist prison our flag went up inside the cell at sunset and came down at sunrise. Each day

McCauley To Propose Rules For School Food Services Center

School Committeeman Francis X. McCauley is preparing a set of rules and regulations for operation of the Food Support Services Center at the old Lincoln School for submission to the School Committee.

McCauley, a frequent critic of non-student breakfast and luncheon programs in schools, said that his continuing investigation has disclosed the following information.

- Close to $9,000.00, including $2,400.00 for labor, has been spent on items other than school lunches.

- The person servicing the luncheon and breakfast meetings was not properly hired by the School Committee and was paid out of petty cash instead of through the school payroll.

- School personnel have purchased food supplies at cost through the food services program.

- In certain instances luncheons were provided for organizations outside the school system such as the Chamber of Commerce.

- "While the costs of these luncheons were paid for by groups involved," said McCauley, "this service places the School Department in competition with private food concerns."

- Due to the accurate records of all non-school luncheon costs kept by Food Services Director George Cole there appears to be no violation of Federal and State statutes.

McCauley said he has reviewed the minutes of all School Committee meetings since he took office in January, 1972, and there are no formal votes on record authorizing Supt. Dr. Lawrence P. Creedon to hold luncheon and breakfast meetings for school personnel.

McCauley said he has spoken to Dr. Creedon about rules and regulations governing the food program and the superintendent agreed they are necessary.

Brett Asks Delay In S. Quincy MBTA Project Until Braintree Station Completed

Rep. Joseph E. Brett [D-Quincy] has urged the Urban Mass Transportation Administration to postpone action on the proposed South Quincy MBTA station "until after the Braintree MBTA station has been completed and in service for a reasonable period of time."

The two stations may be "a completely unnecessary duplication of service for South Shore MBTA commuters," he said in a letter to Jerome C. Premo, associate administrator of the UMTA's Office of Transit Assistance in Washington.

"My position on this is principally based on the theory that a station at either of these two proposed locations will adequately fulfill the needs of the localities to be served by the rapid transit system.

"While I am personally convinced that the two stations are not needed, if, after the Braintree station has been in operation for a reasonable time, it is determined that the need still exists for another station...I am many other constituents will be more than willing to review the entire situation once again."

Quincy Red Cross Seeks Aid For Typhoon Victims

Stephen T. Keefe Jr., Quincy Red Cross chapter chairman, announces the American National Red Cross has launched a $5 million fund campaign to support its emergency relief work on typhoon devastated Guam and other islands in the Pacific.

More than 3,000 homes on Guam were destroyed and virtually every citizen has been affected. Some 14,000 families need Red Cross assistance.

Red Cross disaster specialists have joined local Red Cross workers to provide food, shelter, nursing and health care to homeless victims.

Tax-exempt contributions may be made payable to Red Cross Typhoon Relief and mailed to the Greater Quincy Red Cross, 57 Revere Rd, Quincy, Mass. 02169.

Short Seeks License For Auto, Boat Shop

By TOM BRADY

James C. Short, a former city official who was ordered by a judge to get a job after being convicted in April of larceny wants to open an auto and boat body repair shop in the city.

Short, who was ordered on April 15 by Quincy District Court Judge John Ligotti to find a job within 30 days, asked the city Licensing Board, Tuesday, for a license to operate a fiberglass body repair shop at 248 Willard St., West Quincy.

The request for the license was withdrawn by Short during the licensing hearing, however, when Building Inspector Allan MacDonald pointed out that the plan required the approval of the city's zoning board before a license could be granted.

Short indicated he would take the request to the zoning board and return to the Licensing Board at another time. Police Chief Francis X. Finn, who was involved in the prosecution of Short in the larceny trial, excused himself from hearing testimony on Short's license request.

Short was found guilty of illegally taking $500 from restaurateur Bruno Izzo of Westwood after Izzo testified in court that Short told him the money would be used to pay people off to secure a license for a restaurant Izzo planned to open in Quincy Center.

In another matter, the Licensing Board continued a hearing on a request from Tom O'Brien Pontiac, Washington St., Quincy Point, for permission to establish a used car lot at 626 Washington St., in Quincy Point, a location which currently houses a Gibbs Oil Co. gas station.

During the hearing on this matter, several board members asked if the recent re-opening of the Gibbs Station, which had been closed for a year, was done to pressure the board into approving the used car lot since neighbors to the lot have expressed a preference for the car lot.

Both Tom O'Brien, of O'Brien Pontiac, and James Gilmartin, of Gibbs, denied that the opening was to apply pressure and the board continued the request to June 29 so O'Brien can provide more information on the layout of the lot and the number of cars to be housed there.

In other action the Licensing Board granted a permit to the Quincy Center Business and Professional Association for a sidewalk bazaar to be held in Quincy Center on July 15-16-17. Licensing Board Chairman John Gillis said all authorized participants in this event would be granted individual licenses for it.

The Board also granted a Lord's Day License to the Brigham's in the Quincy Family Center at 130 Granite St. in Quincy Center to allow the store to open on Sundays.

The board approved P. Konstantilakis as the new manager of the Amico gas station at 665 Quincy Shore Drive pending a police check and denied a request from Wayne Duncan for a license to operate a car cleaning shop in the C & L Auto Body shop at 45 Copeland St. in West Quincy after City Councillor James Sheets told the board there was not enough parking in the area for the existing shop.

Two items on Tuesday's agenda were continued for one week including a request from Joseph H. Vissa and Sons for a transfer of a car repair shop license at 18-20 Furnace Ave, West Quincy, and a request from Andreas Zenatos and Nikolaos Regas for a permit to open a pizza house at 57 Granite St. in Quincy Center.

A request from Biago Gregoli for a Common Victualers license for Gino's Pizza at 144 Franklin St., South Quincy was postponed indefinitely, and a request from the Knotty Pine Inc. in Quincy Point for a noon Sunday opening hour was postponed to June 29.

OPERATION PRIDE TRASH COLLECTION SCHEDULE

Operation Pride, a three-week period during which the city will pick up discarded items too big for the regular trash collections, began Monday, June 14 and continue through July 2 at specified days in each ward.

The pick up schedule between the hours of 7 a.m. and 4 p.m. will include:

Ward 1 - June 14-16.

Ward 2 - June 16-18.
Ward 3 - June 21-23.
Ward 4 - June 23-25.
Ward 5 - June 28-30.
Ward 6 - June 30 - July 2.

Trees, stumps and branches as well as large items of lumber will not be included in Operation Pride since they are the responsibility of private contractors involved in such work.

Student Union To Present

$2,000 Check To Paul Nigro Fund

Quincy Public Schools' Student Union, a joint student government from Quincy's three high schools, will present a check for $2,000 to the School Committee for the Paul T. Nigro Scholarship Fund Wednesday, June 23.

The check will include all donations collected at the schools and those sent to Stephen H. Moynihan, administrative assistant for business affairs.

Each year, the scholarship will be awarded to a worthy student from any of the three high schools with interest in the medical field.

This year, a double scholarship was awarded to William Zaks and Frederick White, both of Quincy High School.

Representatives of the Student Union, including president Timothy Perkins, and advisor Eugene Creedon, will attend the presentation.

Contributions to the fund may be sent to Stephen H. Moynihan, Administrative Assistant for Business Affairs, Quincy Savings Bank, Third Floor, 1200 Hancock St., Quincy, Mass. 02169.

Growth Policy Commission To Meet Thursday

The Quincy Growth Policy Commission will meet tonight [Thursday] in the lower conference room at 55 Sea St. so that subcommittees can complete their answers to narrative questions.

Additional copies of multiple choice questions will be available to those who did not fill out the ones taken from the booklet.

Today's Women

Speculation At The Mailbox

She's Married But Has Kept Her Own Name -- And Her Husband Doesn't Mind

By CHRISTINE HEEG

The names on the mailbox read: Christine Heeg and Robert Mahoney.

I am sure this caused some speculation among the neighbors when we first moved into our Quincy apartment. I still wonder if our mailman thinks we are one of those couples who live together without benefit of marriage.

The truth about the names on the mailbox can be simply explained. Bob and I have been married for almost three years. During our entire married life I have retained my own name.

I still remember the day I asked Bob if he would be upset if I kept my name. There was a stunned silence for about a minute and then Bob finally said, "I don't know what to say, I guess I just thought you would take my name like everyone else does."

As I began my explanation of the reasons for keeping my name, I could see he was studying each one very carefully. I started by pointing out that I always thought of myself as an individual and that part of my personal identity is my own name.

Also, all of my friends and business contacts know me as Christine Heeg. My social security card, drivers license, credit cards, passport and bank account know me by that name. Can you imagine all the time I would have to spend changing all those documents?

He smiled and said, "Chris, if that is what you want, fine with me. Never let it be said that I sent my bride off to the world of Motor Vehicles and she never returned."

I was very pleased that Bob agreed with me and that it was a joint decision. However, I then realized that we had to go and explain our decision to both my family and his family. This was one task I was really not looking forward to.

Bob and I had pretty much predicted what the various reactions would be. My two sisters thought it was a neat idea. My father thought it was crazy, but he was just so pleased that I was finally settling down that it really did not ruffle his feathers too much.

When we went to explain it to Bob's family I felt a distinct chill in the air. Bob's original reaction of stunned silence must be a definite Mahoney trait because that is exactly what happened when we told them of our decision concerning married names.

After a few minutes of uncomfortable silence Bob's mother asked the one and only question of the evening, "What will you name the children?"

Bob and I laughed. It was so like his mom, a warm and bubbly woman, to be protective toward her unborn grandchildren.

Once we assured her they would have both our names, I pointed out that it was not every grandmother that has a grandchild with two last names. She nodded and laughed and then said she was pleased that we had explained our reasons to her.

I should point out that there is no legal complication involved in keeping your own name in marriage. There is only one state in the union, Hawaii, which requires by law that a woman take her husband's name.

Fortunately for me, I was not married in Hawaii, so I was able to break with tradition and keep my name.

Vocation Or Avocation

Q. Frankly I enjoy your column, however, let me come right to the point. I have been deliberating for the past six months as to whether or not I should continue my study of astrology as an avocation or take it on as my vocation. I lean towards the latter. Your opinion would be deeply appreciated. I was born on November 10, 1945 at 4:35 A.M. E.S.T. in Chelsea, Mass.

A. In medicine, law or most professions, to maintain competence it is necessary to continue to study. However, a reasonable degree of ability and skill should be acquired before attempting to practice publicly. Most professions require proof of such by examinations and licensing. Regrettably at present there are no statutes on the books in this state requiring the licensing and regulating of the public practice of astrology.

Your letter does not reveal how long you have studied the subject, with whom, your background or other pertinent facts to judge your experience or competence. Any consultant assumes a heavy responsibility when advising others and in addition to technical knowledge, should have a sympathetic understanding of the weaknesses of humanity and apply the knowledge constructively.

As you probably have observed, your horoscope shows Mercury in Opposition to Uranus, both the Moon and Sun Quincunx Uranus, Jupiter Trine Uranus and Pluto in Sextile to Uranus. Your Pluto, Mars and Saturn close to your midheaven cautions you to go slow and be thorough before starting.

Since your progressed Sun has been making the exact opposition to both your birth and progressed positions of Uranus in the last two years, may I suggest that you continue to study and practice as a hobby for a while longer.

For questions to be answered through this column, mail the year, month, day of the month, city of birth, time of day if known and question to Ask Oscar, Box 114, Canton, Mass. 02021. Please sign your name which will not be published. Selected questions can only be answered in this column.

Lydia La Ferla Awarded AFS Scholarship To Finland

Miss Lydia LaFerla, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Guy LaFerla of 38 Whitwell St., Quincy, has been awarded an American Field Service scholarship to Finland as a summer exchange student.

American Field Service [AFS] is a student exchange program involving 64 countries for the purpose of promoting international understanding.

The AFS candidate is chosen for maturity and adaptability and a desire to share experience and knowledge with the host family. Lydia was selected through a series of interviews by local and regional AFS councils, after being recommended by her teachers at Quincy High School to represent the Quincy area.

She is a high honor student at Quincy High School, where she is president of the AFS Club, president and founder of the Foreign Language Club, and a member of the Tennis Team and Drama Club. She is presently writing in five different languages a bicentennial pamphlet on Historic Quincy.

Miss LaFerla will fly from Logan June 20 for a two-day period of orientation in New York, and will leave New York by plane for Finland on June 22. She will remain in Finland for the entire summer, and upon her return will enter her senior year at Quincy High School.

Swedish Midsummerfest At Viking Club Saturday

The annual Swedish Midsummerfest, a highlight of the season, will be held at the Viking Club, 410 Quincy Ave., Braintree Saturday.

Festivities will begin at noon with a flag raising ceremony and will continue until midnight.

General chairman is Arthur Clarke, co-chairman is Bert Peterson.

Games and races for all ages will be held throughout the afternoon. The grill, with a selection of hot sandwiches, will be operating all day under the direction of Roy Pederson. In addition, the Junior Vikings will be selling cold drinks, ice cream and chips at their table. There will also be a Scandinavian Food table, featuring home-made pastries and coffee.

Highlight of the day will be the raising of the gaily decorated maypole at 3 p.m., followed by Ringelard dancing by children dressed in their traditional Swedish costumes. Music will be by volunteer musicians from the Viking Club.

The Midsummerfest dinner dance will begin at 6 p.m. Mrs. David Driscoll is chairman. A fried chicken dinner will be served. Dancing will be until midnight.

Some 40 prizes - cash, sports equipment, household articles, movie passes etc. - will be drawn.

What's Cooking?

McIntyre, LaRaia, Killion

By HENRY BOSWORTH

Take one dash of James McIntyre, a pinch of Joseph Killion and a wee bit of Joseph LaRaia.

Put them together, stir well, and you have the ingredients of what's cooking this week in Quincy's political front.

Take former Mayor-Senator McIntyre first. Apparently he still has a lot of the old political firehorse in him.

He's been out of the political spotlight since stepping down as mayor and state senator in 1971 to become counsel to the Massachusetts senate.

The job pays about $40,000. It's steady and offers nice security for a family man. But it can get to be a bore.

Politically speaking, the job is in the background. It's not out front where all the action-and fun is. At 46, McIntyre is still young enough to miss all the excitement of an active campaign.

McIntyre has always had his heart set on Washington-even when he was mayor and senator. He's a student of government-at all levels. He was long considered their apparent to the 11th Congressional seat occupied by James Burke since 1959.

So it's not surprising that he has nomination papers in circulation for Congress.

He has no plans to run against Burke. The pair have been long-time friends.

McIntyre took out the papers as an insurance policy-just in case Burke should decide not to seek re-election this year. Burke still insists he's running but rumors continue to fly that he may not.

"I took out and circulated nomination papers in order to have the conscious option of running," explains McIntyre.

He says he has talked with Burke and urged him to run again this year.

"We need his seniority [second ranking member of the powerful Ways and Means Committee] in Washington to help the district to continue its economic growth through this difficult period," says McIntyre.

Burke continues to insist he definitely is a candidate for re-election and that whenever he decides not to run again, he will give everyone sufficient notice to warm up their campaigns.

The feeling now is that Burke will run this year-but probably call it a career at the end of 1978. If, of course, he gets by Patrick H. McCarthy of Randolph, who is challenging him for the Democratic nomination.

But politics is a strange game. Filing deadline for nomination papers is June 29. Don't be surprised if McIntyre files his nomination papers that day-just in case

BURKE, incidentally, has filed nomination papers at City Hall. As have McCarthy and Danielle deBenedictis of Milton who is running as an Independent.

MEANWHILE, reports are hot that Mayor LaRaia has nomination paper in circulation -- for Congress, too.

Callers to The Sun and to City Hall insist they saw signatures being collected in LaRaia's behalf at a local supermarket last Saturday.

But LaRaia's office says no, no.

"It's a complete surprise to me," insists Jack Salenius, the mayor's executive secretary. "If they are being circulated, it is most likely a joke. The mayor is not running for Congress. He's just interested in being mayor."

SENATOR ARTHUR TOBIN, it appears, will have at least one challenger to contend with this fall. Quincy Atty. Joseph Killion has nomination papers in circulation for the Quincy-Braintree-Holbrook District. Reports estimate Killion has already collected some 2,000 signatures.

Killion, close sources say, took his nomination papers out in Braintree apparently to keep candidacy under wraps in Quincy as long as possible.

Killion, of course, ran as both a Democrat and under the American Party banner in last year's special election for state representative. He lost both times to Councilor James Sheets-as a Democrat in the primary and American Party candidate in the finale.

MAY BE AT least one challenger in Quincy's state representative districts this fall. Alley McNinis of Squantum reportedly planning to run against Rep. Joseph Brett in the Third Norfolk District. Question is whether he will go as a Democrat or Independent. McNinis is a member of the Zoning Board of Appeals.

THE ATLANTIC JUNIOR CHOIR, directed by Mrs. Marion Clancy of the famed musical Clancy Family, has been selected to sing at Bunker Hill Day ceremonies in Charlestown today [Thursday].

The choir will perform first at a 10 a.m. memorial service in St. Francis deSales Church and participate in 11 a.m. ceremonies on the Bunker Hill monument grounds.

Speakers-at the ceremonies will include Senator William Bulger of South Boston and John J. Sullivan, Quincy School Committee vice-chairman. Sullivan grew up in Charlestown and was president of the Charlestown High School Class of 1936. He moved to Quincy 27 years ago.

LIVING TODAY

The Total Man Trust

By DR. WILLIAM F. KNOX

Irvig and Marge were having conflict... the quarrels often lasted into the night and to three or four in the morning. The next day both were irritable. The problem was Irvig's lack of trust. He trusted no one... even bragged about it as though it was a virtue. "I don't trust anyone," he said. "My old man taught me that." He told this story... "When I was about 12 years old my father was talking to me. "Stand Up," he said. I stood up. "Now put up your fists." I did. "Now put 'em down," he ordered. I did, and as I did he hit me in the jaw with his fist and knocked me to the floor. "There," he said, "let that be a lesson to you - never trust anyone."

Irvig came by his non-trust rather dramatically. Usually the untrusting attitude toward life is more of a creeping paralysis and a man is not able to point to a particular cause. Many homes exude this negative atmosphere, so that the children breathe in this poison and incorporate it as a way of life. He expects everyone, to do him in, so he says, "I don't get done in because I'm always watching for it."

The opposite attitude toward being untrusting, is using one's reason. The untrusting man is blind to the facts. He has one rule, DON'T TRUST. Consequently he misses out on many of the opportunities and joys of life because he was afraid... yes, afraid of getting hurt. He was afraid of getting knocked down again. His father's lesson stuck. So, he comes on strong and aggressively... just as his father had taught him, "Keep your fists up, don't trust anyone."

You can see what this does to his relationships. He doesn't trust Marge, even when she goes to the supermarket or the beauty salon and the night quarrels start with his pounding questions... "Where'd you go?"... "Who'd you see?"... "How come you turned left out of the driveway instead of to the right?" No answer that Marge could give satisfied, because he didn't trust her... or her answers. Marge's mistake was in trying to answer them at all.

Part of loving is trusting. The Total Man is trusting and still he is not a fool. It does not follow that one who loves is naive, or blind. On the contrary true love of oneself and others must be both factual and emotional. To have one without the other will kill the relationship.

Irvig's problem was that he over-protected himself to the point of preventing anyone, even Marge, from getting close to him. He learned his father's lesson... "never trust anyone." As she tried, he felt threatened, because he was sure she had an ulterior motive. When these feelings were sorted out, Irvig began to trust with reason and to love as a Total Man.

FOR YOUR COMMENTS: For private counseling, telephone, consultation, group counseling, call Dr. Knox at 659-7595 or 326-5990. For his book "People Are For Loving" send $2. to 320 Washington St., Norwell, MA. 02061.

NEW AT LIBRARY

By JANET HUSBAND

THE WINTHROP COVENANT by Louis Auchincloss is an absorbing novel which chronicles a family of men and women from seventeenth century New England to presentday New York. It has all the style that Auchincloss fans have come to expect.

THE BIRTH OF THE UNITED STATES is Jim Bishop's newest book. In the famous "you-are-there" style of his other books, Bishop takes on a Bicentennial theme: the four momentous days that culminated in the signing of the Declaration of Independence.

LEARNING AND GROWING by Laurie and Joseph Braga is filled with facts that should be helpful to parents. It discusses in full detail behaviors which may be expected of children at each yearly age level from birth to five years.

THE ROCKEFELLERS by Peter Collier and David Horowitz tells the fascinating story of the father who built the fortune, the son who cleansed the name, the brothers who inherited and the "cousins" who wanted to be disinherited.

WORKING MOTHERS by Jean Curtis is a book that will interest many. Ms. Curtis interviewed more than 200 wives, husbands and children to produce this engrossing report on a growing part of our society.

THE GEMINI CONTENDERS is another of Robert Ludlum's cliff-hangers designed to knock the wind out of any reader. This one begins in 1939 and travels up to the near present via Greece, Italy and the U.S.

NIGHTMARE IN PINK by John MacDonald begins as detective Travis McGee comes to New York to straighten out Nina Gibson, the grieving kid sister of his disabled vet buddy. A classic MacDonald mystery.

MISS MARTHA MARY CRAWFORD by Catherine Marchant is a well-told tale about a plucky young girl in turn-of-the-century England who discovers that the inheritance she had been expecting was squandered by her father. The pseudonymous author is none other than Catherine Cookson.

SOMEONE YOU LOVE IS DYING by Dr. Martin Shepard is based on his experience working with terminally ill patients and their families. It is a very practical and comforting book on helping and coping.

TRINITY by Leon Uris is a long novel about Ireland and her troubles that you won't want to miss. It tells the story of three families and how their fates intertwine.

1876 by Gore Vidal is history as few novelists can portray it. Vidal is in top form as he continues the story-begun in BURR-of Charles Schuyler, now a respected and popular journalist-historian.

THE R DOCUMENT by Irving Wallace centers on a conspiracy to destroy the Bill of Rights and an attempt by the FBI to take over the country. Those who enjoyed the author's previous novels--THE FAN CLUB and THE WORD--will enjoy this new one.

City Council P.A. System Fund Drive Underway

A fund raising drive has been announced by Norman Forde of Wollaston for the purpose of purchasing a "Public Address System" for the Quincy City Council Chamber.

Forde announced he will enlist the support of all the city's civic associations in the fund drive and present the system to the Council in their name, "as a lasting memento of their participation in the democratic process." Any individual wishing to make a contribution may do so through their respective civic association or mail checks only to "Council P.A. System", P.O. Box 90, North Quincy, Mass. 02171.

An account has been opened at the Metro Bank & Trust Co., 164 Parkingway, Quincy, with Cabot DeVoll, assistant treasurer serving as treasurer.

The P.A. system will correct the acoustical problem that has existed for years in the Council Chamber and will also provide a direct connection for radio station WJDA for sessions they may wish to tape or broadcast.

Tips On Submitting News Items

Here are a few tips to readers and publicity chairmen who submit social, church, fraternal and veterans organizational news items to The Quincy Sun for publication.

Deadline for all such items is Monday noon. This means they should be in The Sun office, 1372 Hancock St., by that time.

Because of the heavy flow of news into the office and a space problem affecting all newspapers these days, we cannot guarantee publication in that particular week's issue. But items in first will be given priority.

News releases should be typed double spaced. If no typewriter is available, they should be printed. This is to avoid misspelling of names and garbling of information.

The name and telephone number of the person submitting the item should be included in case there are any questions pertaining to the information.

We are sorry but we cannot handle social-church-fraternal news items on the telephone.

Information should include the name of the organization, the event to be held, the date, place and time, name of speaker if there is one, full names of committee chairmen and committee members.

The Sun's policy is not to use nicknames.

Since The Sun is a community oriented newspaper, items concerning happenings in the city are given priority. But we are also interested in events outside of the city in which Quincy residents are participating.

We encourage you to submit news items regarding yourself or organization. That is what The Sun is all about.

But following the above tips will make it easier for us to do a better job for you.

Thank you.

People once thought that gold could be dissolved in dew.

QUINCY'S YESTERDAYS

June 17-23, 1949 - 27 Years Ago This Week

Comic Book Publisher Files Suit Against City

By TOM HENSHAW

A New York comic book publisher filed suit in Federal Court in Boston for a permanent injunction to prevent the Quincy Literature Review Board from banning its publications from the city's newsstands.

Named in the suit were Mayor Charles A. Ross, Police Chief John J. Avery and the three members of the Review Board, Rev. Joseph D. Parkman, Mrs. Katherine J. Quinn and Mrs. Ida G. Glasser.

The Board was set up by the City Council in December, 1948, to regulate the sale of comic books and paperback reprints that might, in the view of the Board, tend to corrupt the morals of the young.

Two comic books published by the plaintiff, Lee Gleason Publications, Inc., of New York, entitled "Crime Does Not Pay" and "Crime and Punishment", were among the first books banned by the Board.

POVERTY IN WOLLASTON?

A proposal to cut the metered price of parking in Wollaston from five cents an hour to two and a half cents an hour drew sharp criticism from City Councillor Edna B. Austin.

"I didn't think the people in Wollaston were so poor," she said as the City Council referred the proposal to its Ordinance Committee.

Public Works Commissioner Charles R. Herbert called the price slash "a markdown sale which would sell parking meters to the people."

Councillor Amelio Della Chiesa said Wollaston parking meters were taking in an average of 16 cents per meter per day, while those in Quincy Square were averaging twice as much.

NUMBERS ROOM

The City closed down the waiting room for bus passengers at the corner of Washington and Coddington Sts., because of vandalism and other abuses.

Park Department Foreman Harry Boyd said one of the other abuses was the use of the building by numbers pool operators as a headquarters in which to take bets.

The waiting room had been little used since the old street cars for Houghs Neck had been replaced by buses, which also picked up passengers at the main station on Hancock St.

SNUG HARBOR PROJECT

Frank C. Hendry, secretary of the Quincy Housing Authority, announced that plans have been completed for a $4½ million veterans housing project in Snug Harbor.

Hendry said it was hoped that some of the 100 buildings, each containing four apartments with two to four bedrooms each, would be ready for occupancy by the end of the year.

QUINCY-ISMS

Dr. Conrad Nobili was elected president of L'Eco Club of Quincy, succeeding L. Paul Marini. Brooks Harris, 15, of Milton Academy teamed with Bill White to win the doubles match as the Quincy Tennis Club defeated Charles River of Cambridge to take second place behind Framingham in the Southeast Mass Tennis League... Levine's Kosher Meat Market opened at 72 Sumner St... The 60 members of the Wollaston Yacht Club voted to rebuild their clubhouse which was destroyed by fire June 5... Former City Councillor Herbert James Polk, who formerly lived at 165 Beach St., Wollaston, died in Leominster at age 87... Judge James A. Mulhall, associate justice of the Quincy District Court, was elected president of the Norfolk County Bar Association... A survey of manufacturing payrolls in Massachusetts showed Quincy in third place with a $62 a week average behind Norwood [$65.33] and Chicopee [$62.82]... The Mohican Market, 29 Chestnut St., had bacon for 49 cents a pound, chickens for 39 cents a pound, California oranges at two dozen for 55 cents, and bread for 10 cents a loaf... Sandra McKinnon was elected president of the Houghs Neck 4-H Girls Club... Rev. Aloysius R. Finn, the first and only pastor of Our Lady of Good Counsel Church in Merrymount since its founding in 1938, was reassigned to Blessed Sacrament Church in Cambridge... Harold R. Mason was chosen commander of Nickerson Legion Post... Ed Daley pitched a no-hitter as the Paddock Club beat the Knights, 5-0, in a South Shore League game at Kincaide Park... Men's chin shirts with button-down pockets were selling for $1.99 in the basement of the Thraifway Store on Parking Way... Kenmore Comms Jr., 7, of 20 Bayview Ave., Houghs Neck, caught a 30-pound cod with his bare hands when a receding tide left it high and dry on the tidal flats... Joe Joseph's Dixieland Band was playing at Elsie's on Wollaston Boulevard... Dr. Edmund B. Fitzgerald was elected president of the Quincy Harvard Club at its meeting in South Shore Country Club... Luncheon specials at Howard Johnsons in the Granite Trust Building were: Roast beef hash and vegetables, 70 cents; Waldorf salad, 80 cents; Fried fish sticks with tartar sauce, french fries and cole slaw, 85 cents... Herbert E. Kendall was installed as president of the Men's Fellowship at the Houghs Neck Congregational Church... A homing pigeon owned by Stewart Downton of 197 South St., Quincy Point, won the Buffalo to Boston race sponsored by the Greater Boston Homing Pigeon Concourse with a speed of 986 yards per minute... Clara A. Iovino of Quincy was re-elected president of the Credit Union League of Massachusetts for the 10th straight year... Josephine F. Lindh of 4 Douse Rd, Wollaston, was graduated from Regis College in Weston... The Regent Theater in Norfolk Downs featured "Hold That Ghost" with Abbott and Costello and "Nighttime in Nevada" with Roy Rogers and Andy Devine... Mrs. Perley Johnson of Deerfield St., Squantum, was exhibiting nine oil paintings in the window of the Granite Trust Building.

A REGIONAL ECONOMY

By ERIC SWIDER

The South Shore: A Colony Or A Region?

The Boston crowd is wearing thin. Not only are they proposing to virtually eliminate all local land use power from the town of Hull, make it necessary for a Weymouth resident to travel 30 miles to gain public access to an island 20 feet off its shore, but they are totally obscuring our Region's public works needs.

Hull will be allowed only one representative on the proposed Boston Harbor Islands Commission, which will have final say over all land use proposals that are within 250 yards of the coastline.

The narrow peninsula of Hull will then totally be controlled in Boston board rooms.

The Department of Environmental Management operates a Ferry Service so that the public can gain access to the South Shore islands - George, Pumpkin, Grape, etc.

It operates from Boston...and although several efforts have been made to get it to touch down on the South Shore, it does not and probably won't. The Boston crowd is looking down their periscopes at us again. They are sure that the only place where anyone [who counts] might want to leave from would be Boston...right, of course, naturally.

The Metropolitan District Commission has staked out and manages Nantasket Beach, Wollaston Beach, a couple of our islands and a piece of Hingham.

Their liquid waste disposal operations here are run in such a way as to suggest that the South Shore is down wind from their home office.

The Metropolitan Bay Transportation Authority is yet another one of those Boston operations that is overly core-oriented and really not satisfying the needs of our marketplace. It's not because MBTA officials aren't nice, sincere folks...it's simply that as it looks down at the South Shore from its crow's nest tucked away in the Hub, it has a hard time understanding how it could profitably deliver additional public transit services here.

The Metropolitan Area Planning Council is so remote from our real world problems that I understand recently one of their staffers referred to the Fore River Bridge as the one that connected Quincy and the Cape.

The Joint Regional Transportation Committee, which develops the comprehensive regional transportation programs that are the basis for Federal funding of highway and transit projects here, continually cuts out, eliminates, forgets, or ignores input from this area.

The Central Transportation Planning Staff has a South Shore liaison whose primary function, from what I can see, is to make infrequent visits here to explain to us why we don't need or can't have transportation improvements.

The MAPC and the Boston Chamber of Commerce both have Regional government proposals that dissect this marketplace until it's undistinguishable and have the gall to appear before State Legislative committees and say that their proposals have broad-based regional support. Right through their teeth and not even a flutter.

The Boston crowd looks at the South Shore as a place to colonize, store their bark, dump their sewerage, and get parts of their deficits. They don't need to consult with us about it, cause they are organized and we're just starting to get to know each other.

My fear is that before the South Shore truly becomes the South Shore, the Boston crowd will have us totally dissected and devoured.

Local elected officials must act now by taking the initiative to insist that our marketplace be treated as a Region and not as the place where the Globe and the Herald can sell a few more newspapers.

The Chamber has proposed a staffed South Shore office of the Metropolitan Area Planning Council as a starter.

We agree that regional solutions make sense. But we look at the South Shore as the suburban region that needs the solutions and not as the unurbanized section of the Hub.

It is worth remembering that almost anyplace else, this amount of real estate occupied by 500,000 people would be a respectable SMSA with its own television stations, several radio stations, worthy of its own United Way, and pretty much be the master of its own destiny.

Is it worth a fight, or should we let Boston devour us? I'd like to hear from you.

[Eric Swider is Executive Vice-President of the South Shore Chamber of Commerce.]

Quincy Midget State Champs Say 'Thank You'

Editor, Quincy Sun:

We would like to express our appreciation, through your paper, to the many people who gave the Quincy Youth Hockey, Midget State Champions, a helping hand this past season.

First of all, John Donnelly of the Donnelly Advertising Company for his splendid cooperation in sponsoring the team. Thank heavens for people and companies such as these, who enable the youth of our city to reap the benefits of having someone who cares.

We would like also to thank, Councillor Dennis Harrington, who recognized these young men by issuing a resolve to the Quincy City Council to congratulate them for their accomplishments. He also presented each boy with a copy of the resolve, to retain through the years.

Last, but by no means least, The Quincy Sun. Your wonderful sports writer, Tom Sullivan, gave us beautiful coverage in your paper. It's very rewarding to these young men to see their hard work and accomplishments written up in your paper every week.

Thank you, Quincy Sun, and keep up the good work.

Seek Info On New England Steamshipping

Editor, Quincy Sun:

We are writing in hopes your readers can supply us with information which we seek. We have recently become interested in the cultural history of New England and particularly in the history of New England Steamshipping.

We would like to contact anyone who has first hand knowledge of old steamships [i.e., worked on them, travelled on them, etc.] or anyone with photographs of New England steamships or steamship wrecks. We are also interested in talking to anyone who knows the whereabouts of certain steamships or steamship artifacts [i.e., the wheel from the Portland wrecked in 1898, any artifacts of the Portland, the whistle from the Steamship Katadin which later was used on the City of Bangor, the steamships Camden and Belfast, etc.]. We would be interested in meeting any of these people and talking to them about their stories.

We thank you for your help and look forward to meeting and speaking with any of your readers who can help us.

Sincerely,

Bob Grove

Survival, Inc. Seeks Crisis Line Volunteers

Survival, Inc. is seeking new volunteers to staff the agency's 24-hour crisis line.

Volunteers are trained in all phases of telephone counseling including, listening skills, crisis intervention, and problem solving techniques. Upon completion of the 12-hour initial training program, volunteers donate four hours a week to answer the phones.

The Survival Crisis Line answers 600 calls per month from the South Shore area. Volunteers are trained to help people with a wide variety of problems such as, loneliness, alcohol, drugs, family crisis, and suicide. Calls range from requests for information, to crisis calls, to persons just wanting to talk.

Janis Hellow, director of the crisis line, said the major requirement for volunteering is a sincere interest and concern for helping people. Dedicated volunteers from all area communities make the program successful and responsive to the needs of the community.

For further information or an application call 471-7100. People are especially needed for daytime and overnight shifts.

Israel Schwartz To Be Honored

As 'Brother Of The Year'

Israel Schwartz, first president, will be honored Sunday, June 20 by the Beth Israel Brotherhood as "Brother of the Year".

Tree Planted In Memory Of Dr. Beatty

Mrs. Alice Beatty of Quincy spoke recently at ceremonies honoring her late husband, Dr. H. Russell Beatty, first president of Wentworth Institute and Wentworth College of Technology.

A tree was planted in the quadrangle of the college on Beatty Day in Dr. Beatty's memory.

Ceremonies will be at 9:30 a.m. breakfast in the Morris Silverman Hall at Beth Israel Synagogue, Grafton St., Quincy Point.

Rabbi Jacob Mann will conduct a service at 8:30 a.m.

Schwartz was the first president of the Brotherhood in 1946, and past president of the Synagogue. He has been active in the synagogue's many activities.

He will be cited for his "untiring efforts and years of devoted service."

The Beth Israel Family consisting of the Synagogue, Council and Brotherhood will join in honoring Schwartz.

Christian Science Lesson-Sermon

"Is the Universe, including man, evolved by Atomic Force?"

This is the fundamental question to be answered in Sunday's Christian Science Lesson-Sermon at all Churches of Christ, Scientist. The Golden Text is from Revelation 11:17: "We give Thee thanks, O Lord God Almighty, which art, and wast, and art to come; because Thou hast taken to Thee Thy great power, and hast reigned."

Church Service and Sunday School begin at 10:45 a.m. at First Church of Christ, Scientist, 20 Greenleaf St., Quincy.

Brownell To Seek 3rd Term

Rep. Thomas F. Brownell [D-Quincy] announces his candidacy for re-election to a third term as state representative in the Second Norfolk District.

Brownell has been a strong advocate in a number of areas including tax reform, judicial modernization, divorce law reform and campaign and financial disclosure laws.

He won initial House approval this year for his bill providing state income tax deductions for ordinary and necessary repairs made to residential homes and apartments.

He has urged repeal of the 7.5% surtax on state incomes.

He was also one of the chief sponsors of a new law providing for an additional grounds for divorce where there is an irretrievable breakdown in the marriage. In 1973 he successfully introduced legislation which substantially reduced Quincy's county tax assessment.

Brownell has served on the Committees of Insurance, Judiciary, Local Affairs and Public Safety. He is currently Chairman of a Special House Commission investigating the needs and facilities of the Quincy District Court, a member of the Special Food and Price Commission investigating high food prices and a member of a Special House and Senate Commission investigating clinical experimentation on the human fetus.

He has opposed land fill plans to expand the Nut Island Treatment Plant in Houghs Neck, and helped bring about the construction of Freedom Park on Upland Rd., as a permanent city-wide bicentennial project.

He was a strong supporter of the Merrymount School addition, and was instrumental in securing State Chapter 90 funding for the resurfacing of Sea St.

Brownell is a former assistant attorney general, a former legislative counsel for the Massachusetts Taxpayers Foundation, Inc., and is a part-time senior lecturer in government and economics at Suffolk University.

A 1958 graduate of Quincy High School, he graduated cum laude from Suffolk University and in the top 10 of his Suffolk University Law School Class. He also attended the Boston University Law Graduate Tax Program.

Brownell is married to the former Margaret T. Donovan of Peabody. They have two children Karyn, 4, and David 2.

meeting of the State Committee last month he has promised to cooperate with all factions of the party in an effort to increase Republican membership in the Legislature and various county offices.

Nelson represents the conservative wing of the state GOP, being an early backer of Gov. Ronald Reagan for president. He is also one of the founders of Republicans for Effective Grass Roots Organization (REGRO) formed primarily to oppose the ultra liberal Ripon Society, a Harvard-based Republican group.

However, since his election as chairman at a tightly-contested

Quincy Republican Committee To Hear Gordon Nelson

The new chairman of the Republican State Committee, Gordon Nelson of Grafton, will address the Quincy Republican City Committee following its monthly meeting at Peters Landing in Quincy Wednesday, June 23.

GOP City Chairman Leo F. Meady, invites Republicans throughout the South Shore to attend. Nelson will speak at 8:30 p.m.

SP4 Michael McCauley Completes Army Service

SP4 Michael J. McCauley, son of Mr. and Mrs. Francis X. McCauley, 210 Manet Ave.,

Houghs Neck, was recently discharged from the U.S. Army after a three year tour of duty including 29 months service in Germany.

A 1973 graduate of Quincy High School, he will attend Bentley College, Waltham, in the fall.

Edmund Harrington Candidate For Norfolk County Commissioner

Edmund P. Harrington of 73 Pleasant St., South Quincy, announces his candidacy for Norfolk County Commissioner.

Harrington, a Democrat, is principal accountant in the Norfolk County Treasurer's office.

He said his campaign would emphasize economy, honesty and accessibility of county government.

A life long resident of Quincy, he is a graduate of Quincy High School and attended the University of Massachusetts.

Harrington is former head cashier at Turnstyle in Quincy and a former assistant manager of the cash department at Stop & Shop in Quincy.

He is a director of the South Shore Council on Alcoholism and loan officer for the Norfolk County Federal Employees Credit Union.

He is married to the former Cheryl Berton.

Ernest Aristide President S. Quincy Civic Association

Ernest Aristide has been elected president of the South Quincy Civic Association for the 1976-1977 year.

Other officers elected are Albert Conti, vice-president; Jennie Beatrice, recording secretary; Mildred Dahly, treasurer; and Maria Coffin, corresponding secretary.

At the recent meeting, discussion was held on school forced busing, the South Quincy proposed MBTA Station, the Fort Square traffic problem and the official dedication ceremony of the new park at Pleasant-Water Sts.

At the Tuesday, June 8 meeting at 8 p.m. at the Lincoln-Hancock School, a field investigator of Aerial Phenomena Research Organization of Tucson, Ariz., will discuss UFO's.

Stay Alive!

SOME HEART ATTACK PROGRESS

More than one million Americans die every year of heart and blood vessel diseases ranging from congenital defects to strokes and heart attacks. These diseases are the number one cause of death, and they afflict another 27,000,000 Americans, many of them destined for disability or shortened lives. In treatment and lost productivity alone, heart and blood vessel diseases cost more than 30 billion dollars a year.

Now there are faint signs of a letup in this grim onslaught. After a quarter of a century of rising rates of incidence, researchers have recorded a decline of heart attacks. The greatest decrease has been in one group, white males between 35 and 64.

Nobody yet knows which factors play the most important role in causing the commonest form of cardiovascular disease - hardening of the arteries. But better ways of identifying likely victims and of altering some of the major risk factors are appearing on the medical scene all the time.

Sheets, Harrington Play Key Roles In NQHS Compromise

The heavy action began in the middle of last week when members of the City Council, acting as its own special committee to seek a solution to the North Quincy problem, met with the Mayor. It was then that Harrington brought the big gun to bear. As he explains it, reluctantly:

"I did point out to the Mayor and his staff the extreme difficulty the City Council would have in approving all the programs funded for the coming year. It would be impossible for me and difficult for any of the councillors to vote on programs of minor significance in the face of letting the North Quincy problem go unsolved.

"In the long run, it would surely be considered a failure on the part of the elected officials and that would be inexcusable."

At roughly the same time, Mayor LaRaia was advised by his personal consultant, Prof. Earle F. Littleton, that the Mayor's own plan to renovate North Quincy High for $11 million would satisfy only 22 of the 42 recommendations for accreditation put forth by the New England Association of Secondary Schools and Colleges.

The minimum requirement for accreditation, Littleton reported verbally to the Mayor, would be 75,000 square feet at a cost of $3 or $4 million, none of it reimbursed by the state.

Clearly, the Mayor was ripe for a compromise, provided the State would make some concessions of its own and guarantee the same 65 per cent reimbursement promised under the $15 million plan — and put it all in writing.

Now it was up to Jim Sheets, the City Councillor who doubles as a State Rep.

"I was made aware of the particulars of the compromise Thursday evening," says Sheets. "It became my responsibility to get the School Building Assistance Bureau to accept the compromise and get that acceptance back to the Mayor in a form that was acceptable to him."

A City Councillor means little to the State Commissioner of Education. A State Rep. means more but not that much. A member of the House Committee on Education can catch the Commissioner's eye very quickly, especially if his desires are outlined forcefully enough.

"I had to be forceful," Sheets admits.

Sheets met with School Supt. Dr. Lawrence P. Creedon at 7:30 Friday morning. The meeting lasted until 9 a.m. If Creedon had any reluctance to change the School Department's position [and he says he didn't] it softened under Sheets' insistence.

"He realized that this may be the last chance for the high school," says Sheets.

At 9 a.m., Creedon and Sheets got on the phone. Joseph A. Bishop, school plant specialist of the SBAB, was located in Worcester and brought back to Boston. The architect, Barry Coletti, was found on his way to New Bedford and rerouted to Anrig's office in Boston.

By 10 a.m., Sheets had gotten in touch with Associate Education Commissioner William Black. A noon meeting was confirmed for Anrig's office. Creedon met with Mayor LaRaia and Paul Anderson, Quincy's community development coordinator, was named to represent the Mayor at the meeting. It went on for four hours.

"It was a fast day," says Creedon. "There was a helluva lot going on."

"We had been talking about reducing the size of the addition from 150,000 square feet to 120,000 square feet. But throwing out 30,000 square feet would not meet state standards. You can't build a school and get state approval if it is deficient in space.

"Friday at the Commissioner's office the Mayor's representative saw that there was just no way to do it with 120,000 square feet. The cost that could be done was to get down to 131,000 square feet. The Mayor found that acceptable.

"Another dimension was the population trend. We did another update on enrollment. Based on enrollment and attendance factors, we felt we could comfortably house kids using the Little and Teal Buildings. They had never been recognized by the state so we were never able to use them in educational specifications.

"The state was aware that we were running programs in those buildings satisfactorily even though the state had not participated in the plans. So we were now allowed to use them as a factor.

"The High School building proper would then be adequate for 1,700 since the Little Building could handle 120 and the Teal Building 200. Thereby the construction of the building proper would support the population figure. All this could be done for $13.5 million."

"The state looked on our school population in the context of the entire city, not just one school and Quincy has a history of moving the school boundary between North and Quincy back and forth. We convinced the state that the boundary could be shifted. Also more and more North Quincy kids are attracted to the Vo Tech School.

"We were able to use all these arguments, plus the Little and Teal Buildings, to satisfy the state."

At 4 p.m. Friday, Anderson expressed satisfaction that the Mayor's interests had been protected. The state concessions were transmitted to the Mayor and, at about 7:30 p.m., a dozen hours after Sheets and Creedon had touched off the day of frantic negotiations, Mayor LaRaia said he too was satisfied.

Monday, the letter requested by LaRaia was dispatched by Bishop, spelling out the changes made in the original plan, with the key paragraph reading:

"These changes are my mutual agreement consistent with the needs for North Quincy High School, and have been made with the recognition that they are legitimate refinements of the proposal approved by the Board of Education. Accordingly, the approval and the 65 per cent grant-in-aid remain in effect."

All sides in the long dispute have expressed an ability to live with the new plan for North Quincy High.

"I'm satisfied," said Creedon. "Essentially the vast majority of the programs proposed will move forward. The solution closely approximates what we had before."

"There seems to have been an opinion that the School Department was not willing to revise its position, that we were stonewalling it. This was not the case. I do not consider plans to abandon double sessions at Quincy High a capitulation. We offered double sessions at North Quincy High as an alternative back in November."

"I'm satisfied," said Mayor LaRaia. "I was always for a reduction in the size of the building. The stalemate was in the refusal of state officials to agree to a change in plans. Double sessions have been refined. The student capacity has been reduced. We have been able to reduce the cost."

"The whole objective of this was to reduce the cost, both now and in the future in the operation of the school system in its entirety. The only ones to benefit from this, the only winners, are the taxpayers."

"It's not a question of who was right and who was wrong," said Councillor Harrington. "It was a question of getting the parties together. No one questioned the need, only how to do it in the best interests of the city. Personally, I'm delighted that it is solved."

Finn Stands By Drugs Report

"Large numbers of young school children, going from high school age down to grammar school age are selling marijuana and pills to their friends and fellow students. Heroin has returned to an all-time high.

"Many people are of the opinion that the drug violations have decreased. This belief is false. Presently the resources available to me are not sufficient to combat the drug problem. In order to control this ever increasing problem I must have sufficient funds and personnel. The success of the Quincy Drug Unit depends on the amount of money and personnel available to me.

"I have been notified as of this date that because of budgetary problems with our

I would like to point out that the very presence of the Quincy Drug Unit is not only a deterrence to the drug pushers in our City, but it also serves the same purpose to the surrounding communities.

QHS Band 'Best' In Bunker Hill Day Parade

For the second year in a row, the Quincy High School band will receive the first place award for the best marching band at 11 a.m. ceremonies today [Thursday] at Bunker Hill Monument.

Broad Meadows Junior High School will also receive the first place award for best float based on its entry of scale models of Quincy's historic sites including the John Adams and John Quincy Adams birthplaces, the Abigail Adams Cairn, the Dorothy Quincy House, the Adams Mansion, and the Church of the Presidents.

Some 40 Broad Meadows students, under the direction of industrial arts teacher John Hemphill, built the historic sites over the last two years.

Quincy School Committee Vice Chairman John J. Sullivan will accept the awards on behalf of the two schools.

Prior to the award ceremony a mixed chorus of students from Atlantic Junior High School will participate in an ecumenical service at St. Francis deSales Church. The students will sing, under the direction of Marion Clancy, "America," "How Great Thou Art," "Let There Be Peace on Earth," the "Star Spangled Banner" and "God Bless America."

The awards to Quincy High School and Broad Meadows Junior High School are to be given in recognition of their participation in Sunday's Bunker Hill Day parade.

William Norkus Starts Air Force Duty June 21

William J. Norkus, son of Mrs. Dorothy Dusen of 55½ Grafton St., Quincy Point, who graduated from Quincy High School two weeks ago will be on active Air Force Duty June 21.

His first assignment will be at Lackland Air Force Base, Texas for six weeks of basic training. This will be followed by 18 weeks of schooling at Keesler Air Force Base at Biloxi, Miss. where he will receive intensive training in the electronics career field.

Norkus, who has been a member of the Air Force Junior ROTC unit while at Quincy High School, was sworn into the Air Force last January under the delayed enlistment program. An advantage of this program is that Norkus will gain extra rank and longevity by virtue of his high school training.

Families-In-Reading Week A Hit At Gridley Bryant School

By CATHY CONLEY

"I think I'll read more" - said Susan Morrison, 10, a fourth grade student at Gridley Bryant School.

She summed up many of the students' reaction to Families-in-Reading Week at Gridley Bryant School.

This is the second year of the Families-in-Reading program at Gridley Bryant. Its purpose is to foster lifetime reading habits, explained Louis R. DiMartini, principal.

"It is our attempt to re-emphasize to the total community the importance of reading in everyone's school success. A second but very important purpose is to bring the total community together toward one goal - enriching our lives through reading."

Parent volunteers, students and staff devoted the week of June 7 to June 11 to various reading-centered activities. These activities included a Read-a-thon in which children, parents, teachers and other interested people signed up to read for one-half-hour periods in the Media Center or at home.

Periodically children from each grade presented book minutes to the school over the public address system during the week, sharing parts of a book that they enjoyed.

Other activities of the week included field trips to The Quincy Sun, The Thomas Crane Library and the Graphic Arts Department at Quincy Vocational Technical High School. The children were also treated to an adaptation of The Wizard of Oz by the Quincy Point Junior High and a visit by author Betty Greene who wrote Philip Hall Likes Me, I Reckon, Maybe. This book was a runner up in the Newberry Awards in 1974.

Highlight of the week was a parade through the streets of West Quincy in which students carried posters advertising their favorite books. The children were accompanied by the staff, and parents and were led by Mrs. Jane Ford's car whose license plate says: R E A D.

Last year, the Gridley Bryant School's Families-in-Reading program was written up in Kaleidoscope, a magazine devoted to innovative programs in the schools.

Pack 36 Den 4 Cub Scouts Visit Sun

Cub Scouts from Pack 36 Den 4 visited the offices of The Quincy Sun recently to view the workings of a newspaper firsthand.

The scouts, sponsored by Blessed Sacrament Church, Houghs Neck, are:

William Doyle, Christopher Hurley, Daniel Kenney, Edward Kohut, Michael Preble, John Steen and Glen Whalen.

Den mother Mrs. Agnes Kenney, and assistant den mother Mrs. Jean Doyle, accompanied the scouts on their tour. Christopher Doyle attended the tour as a mascot.

First, the boys visited the editorial and advertising departments of the newspaper.

They then toured the production department where they saw the story of their visit set into type on an IBM computer system. They also saw news headlines set on a Compugraphic 7200 photo typesetting machine.

They watched while a paste-up artist fixed their story and headline into proper position on paste-up boards.

After a brief explanation of how The Quincy Sun is printed, the scouts asked questions about what they had seen on their tour.

Before leaving the office, each scout received a complimentary copy of The Quincy Sun.

John Dugan, George Smith In Teacher-Banker Workshop

John E. Dugan, assistant vice president at South Shore National Bank, and George Smith, a teacher at Quincy High School, took part in a recent "Teacher-Banker Economic Education Workshop" sponsored by the Federal Reserve Bank of Boston.

The workshop was the first of a series of teacher-banker workshops to be held in New England to encourage the teaching of economics. Educational materials, support programs and resources available from local banks and the Federal Reserve were reviewed.

The workshop included the simulation game called "Mr. Banker," in which both teachers and bankers assumed the roles of loan officers at a commercial bank. In the game, the participants made decisions about loan applications in the light of the bank's stability and relative to the prosperity and needs of their community.

In the teacher-banker exchange of ideas, many bankers stated that they have visited schools and discussed the role of banks in the town's economy with students. In many cases, students who are studying economics and banking-related concepts find classroom learning to on-site visits in local banks.

Before making bank visits, the students study the terminology peculiar to banking, and learn about the functions of banks and the banking system. Questions about banking are answered by bank officials or during presentations given by bank personnel.

Howard Johnson's Reports Banner Year

Howard Johnson Company reported 1975 a banner year in its 50-year history, announces Howard B. Johnson, chairman of the board and president.

The company's net income in 1975 was $24,334,000 or $1.11 per share, compared with $17,715,000 or $.81 per share last year.

Sales and revenues for the 52-week fiscal year ended January 2, 1976 were $421,219,000, up 10 percent from the $381,597,000 recorded in the 53-week fiscal year ended Jan. 3, 1975.

Howard Johnson's restaurants, the company's fundamental business, were the main contributors to the unprecedented sales and earnings performance," Johnson said. "Our 1975 achievement exceeded our corporate goal to return net income to the record set in 1973. Several factors contributed to the attainment of record sales. The primary sources were the implementation of a 24-hour operating schedule, menu price adjustments and the contract to operate eight restaurants on the Connecticut Turnpike."

The Southeastern market's travel upsurge in the first three months contributed greatly to the Company's strong sales recovery, both in restaurants and motor lodges. The same period in 1974 witnessed the serious impact the energy crisis had on Southern travel.

While motor lodge revenues were up over 1974, mostly because of room rate increases and the exceptional southern winter volume, occupancy for the full year increased only slightly, reflecting that automobile travel has not yet returned to the pre-gasoline shortage levels.

Awards Presented At St. Ann's Hockey Banquet

The fourth annual St. Ann's Youth Hockey and Figure Skating banquets were held recently to herald the end of another successful season.

Guest speakers included John Cuniff, formerly of the N.E. Whalers, James Whalen, MDC recreation commissioner; Ross Brooks, former Bruins goalie, and Ron Ericson, North Quincy High hockey coach.

Goaltender awards went to Karl Olson in the Bantam Division and Jim Boudreau of the Pee Wees.

High scorer trophies were presented to John Cronin, first; Chris Clark, second, and Dennis Rush, third, in the Bantam Division, and to Peter Quinn, first, John Keller, second, and Steve Kelly, third, in the Pee Wees.

All members of the program were presented trophies with Bicentennial decals.

Central Girls Win Junior Track Title

Ralph Koelsch's debut this spring as coach of the Central Junior High girls' track team was a decided success as the team breezed to the city-wide championship with 66½ points, with Atlantic-North finishing second with 40½.

It was the second straight title for Central.

Other scores: Broad Meadows, 40; Point, 29, and Sterling 22.

Koelsch's scorers in the meet were Sue Clarke, Anne DeVarenness, Chris Keenan, Joanne O'Leary, Bridget McCarthy, Sue McLaughlin, Heather McInnis, Tricia Sullivan, Karen McCarthy, Eileen McKenna, Linda Kelleher, Laurie Clarke, Cheryl Ayles, Patti Murray, Paula Church, Laurie Smith, Francie Maloney and Patti Irvine.

The ninth grade relay team won and the seventh and eighth grade teams placed second.

"In addition to all those who scored, I want to thank the girls who participated but didn't place," Koelsch said. "Without their efforts all season, we would not have done as well."

There was some keen competition at Veterans Memorial Stadium in the girls' second city-wide meet and seven records were broken.

Setting the new marks were Maureen Maher of Broad Meadows with a 12.1 timing in the eighth grade 100-yard dash; Denise McCall of Sterling, 53.2 in the 352-yard run; Atlantic-North's 352-yard relay team, 47.8; Florence Lorenzo of Point, 14.6 in the seventh grade long jump; Karen McCarthy of Central, 15.6 in the eighth grade long jump; Janet Sines of Broad Meadows, 29.9 in the eighth grade shot, and Rita Fatseas of Atlantic-North, 29.2 in the ninth grade shot.

Loretta Garrigan [A-N] won the 50-yard dash, Lois Guglielmi [Sterling] won the ninth grade 100-yard dash, Janet Sines [BM] won the half-mile, and Debbie Coutts [A-N] won the mile.

Broad Meadows won the eighth grade 704-yard relay and Central took the ninth grade relay.

Laurie Smith [Central] won the ninth grade long jump, Sue McLaughlin [Central] took the seventh grade high jump, Laura Riley [BM] won the eighth grade high jump, Elizabeth LaFave [Point] won the ninth grade high jump and Kathy Bray [A-N] won the seventh grade shot put.

Koch Club Men's League Wraps Up Season

The Koch Club Men's Bowling League held its 26th annual awards banquet recently at Morrisette Legion Post Hall.

Individual honors for the 1975-76 season were won by John O'Malley with high average of 108.5, Paul Koch high three string total of 376, and Al Mancuso high single string of 147.

Four Jacks captured the team championship, John O'Malley, captained the team which included John Conroy, John Pasciucco and John Cassetta.

First half winner and runnerup squad with perfect attendance was Walt Zukauskas' team, other members were Charlie Neagle, Jeff Askin and George Bossi.

Top ten averages went to O'Malley 108.5, Mancuso 107.2, Bob Conley 103.8, Koch 103.2, Don Thomas 101.8, Zukauskas 101.3, Bill Reardon 101, Jim Moody 100.6, Askin 100.1, and George Jakub 100.

Officers included Al Mancuso, president; Paul Moody, secretary, and John Callahan treasurer.

Charles Neagle is 1976-77 president, John O'Malley secretary and Jim Cocce treasurer.

County Upsets Rouillard's, 11-3

In the biggest game of the year last week, County Line exploded to hand Rouillard's its first loss of the season in the Quincy Softball League, 11-3.

The win made County Line's record 10-2, putting it in first place in the National League, a half game ahead of high flying Alumni Cafe and one ahead of Beau's Place and Mr. Kelly. Rouillard's is now 13-1 and cut its American League lead over Wells Grille, now 11-2.

The biggest crowd of the season was on hand and Rouillard's brought a band but County Line was psyched up for the game and turned in an outstanding two-way game. Jamie Williams was the winning pitcher and also had three hits.

Jonathan's upset Beau's Place, 8-7, and Mr. Kelly walloped Wells Grille, 15-6, in other big games during the week. Mr. Kelly also edged Howard Johnson, 7-6, and lost to Walsh's, 8-3.

In addition to losing to Jonathan's, Beau's dropped an eight-inning 7-6 decision to Rouillard's to drop it into a third place tie.

Palmer Pub, which has won six of its last seven games, walloped North Quincy K. of C., 21-4, but lost to Wells, 12-4.

Red Carpet topped Jonathan's, 10-8, for its second win and moved out of the National League cellar.

Billy Randle was the winner as Carpet held off a four-run rally by Jonathan's in the seventh. Bill's Texaco moved up with wins over State Street Bank and Jonathan's.

Jay Nelson To Enter Babson

Jay Nelson, center on last winter's North Quincy basketball team, will enter Babson College in the fall, Coach Bill Olson announced. The 6-4 ex-Raider lives at 33 Royal St.

●Legion Baseball

Quincy Looks Strong, Morrisette Has Problems

The American Legion baseball season got underway last week and early results indicate that the fears of Coach Ray Cattaneo of Morrisette's 1975 state and northeast regional champions may be well-founded.

"We are going to have to really hustle if we hope to repeat this year," Cattaneo said before Morrisette began its quest for a 20th Zone 6 title. "We lost a lot of good players and several of the other teams are stronger than a year ago."

With a 1-1 record, Morrisette will play at Canton Friday at 6 p.m., next Tuesday will host Baintree at Adams Field at 8 and Wednesday will play at Milton at 6. The Baintree game had been scheduled for last Monday but was postponed.

Quincy, which looked strong in upsetting Morrisette last week, will be at Milton Friday, will host Randolph Monday at 8 at Adams and will play at Weymouth next Wednesday.

Wollaston will be home to Cohasset Friday at 8 at Adams, will play at Weymouth Monday at 6 and will host Hingham Wednesday at 8 at Adams.

Last Friday Quincy showed it will be a team to watch this summer with a big 4-1 win over Morrisette.

Coach Gerry O'Leary appears to have the horses to make a run for the zone crown and said, "I've been waiting three years for this. We have the talent this year but it was even better to be able to beat the championship team."

O'Leary received an excellent pitching performance from North Quincy High's Mike Kelly, who gave up only a run in the sixth inning. O'Leary also credited North Quincy's Steve Bell for a fine catching job and the entire defense for its support of Kelly.

Quincy clinched the game with three runs in the sixth on singles by Jimmy Duggan, Mark DeLuca, Kelly, Bell and Rick Gilbody. Duggan and DeLuca were two of Quincy High's outstanding hitters this spring.

Pat Gibbons was Morrisette's starting pitcher but gave way to ace Tim Clifford in the sixth.

O'Leary was pleased that the winning hits came off Clifford. "Getting hits off the best proved we didn't back into anything," he said.

Morrisette had previously opened its quest for a 20th zone title by clobbering Hingham, 10-0, behind Clifford's three-hit, 15-strikeout, one-walk pitching and combined eight hits with some sloppy defensive play by Hingham and eight walks.

Dave Perdios and Clifford had two hits apiece. Perdios and Paul Jackmauh had two RBIs each. Second baseman Paul Messina made the play of the game with a leaping grab of a line drive and almost doubling the runner on first base.

●Junior Baseball

Keohane's Wins 10th, HN Racks Up 4 In Row

Keohane's continues to fly high in the Quincy Junior Baseball League with a 10-2 record to pace the National League.

Keohane's nipped Foley Chrysler, 4-3, in an 11-inning thriller in its latest game. Brian Reale started the marathon pitching the first three innings and giving up all three Foley runs. John Balzano pitched three innings with six strikeouts and no walks. Pat King pitched the final five innings and picked up his third straight win.

Tommy Corliss hit his first home run, a shot over the left field fence and Reale hit his fifth, also over the left field fence. Balzano had three for four. Charley Jaehrig singled in the bottom of the 11th, stole second, went to third on a long fly by Corliss and scored when the throw to third was wild.

In its previous game Keohane's had suffered its second loss, a 6-5 decision to Kiwanis. Balzano and Reale shared the pitching with Balzano the loser. He struck out seven in the three innings he pitched. Reale had his fourth homer.

Shawn Martin went the route for Kiwanis. The win was important for Kiwanis as it moved it just behind Keohane's with an 8-3 record.

Keohane's topped Rotary, 6-2.

Balzano and Reale combined to pitch a one-hitter, Balzano giving up the only hit in four innings and striking out eight, while Reale struck out four in three innings.

The game went an extra inning with Keohane's scoring four runs in the seventh thanks to some bad throws and a passed ball.

Reale ran his record to 5-0. Steve Pecevich and Bud Kelley pitched well for Rotary, giving up only three hits and striking out 10.

In its previous game Keohane's had defeated Burgin-Platner, 7-1, with Pat King winning his second game, striking out seven in four innings and Balzano striking out all six batters he faced in two innings for a save. Corliss, Balzano, Reale and King were the batting leaders.

Houghs Neck Legion is rolling along at the top of the American League with a 10-3 record and added four wins during the past week.

HN defeated Boston Gear in its latest game as Danny Marsters, Frank McPartland and Marty McLaughlin combined for eight of the winners' 12 hits.

Houghs Neck edged Remick's, 8-7, collecting 10 hits, including a three-run homer by Tom O'Connor, who recently recovered from an ankle injury and has been playing fine ball. McLaughlin had a double and two singles. Jim Mullis displayed some fine base running to score the winning run. White and Marsters shared the pitching.

In its previous game HN had defeated Burgin Platner, 4-2, with Frank McPartland stealing home for the second time this year to break a 2-2 tie and starring in the field. He also had two singles to share offensive honors with his brother Jim. Marsters also had two hits and pitched three strong innings.

Earlier HN had walloped VFW, 8-3, with Glen Oriola and O'Connor sharing the pitching and Eric Green pacing the attack with a double and two singles.

HN has been rolling merrily along with the emergence of Mullin, Marsters, McLaughlin and White as consistent hitters and Oriola, White and McLaughlin combining with O'Connor and Marsters to give the team solid pitching. Shawn Houlihan has been driving in key runs and the team seems set to make a run for the league title.

● Babe Ruth League

Hot Title Races In American, National Loops

The Quincy Babe Ruth League has red hot title races in both leagues as Firemen Local 792 leads the American League with a 6-2 record, followed by Barry's Deli, 5-3.

In the National League Gino's and Police Club are tied at 6-2 and Sons of Italy are right behind at 5-3.

The Police Club topped Barry's, 6-2, behind the four-hit pitching of Tom Brennan, who walked four and struck out two. Kevin McKinnon had a home run for Police, Bill O'Connor had a double, Bob Mezzetti and Brennan had two hits each and Fran Donovan and Bill Oakes drove in runs with hits. For Barry's Mark Abboud had a double and triple.

Firmen edged Police, 8-7. Police took a 6-0 lead in the first two innings but Firemen then held Police with good defense and got going offensively with three runs in the third, one in the fourth and four in the fifth. Police could add only a run in the fifth.

Winning pitcher Dave Austin, after a shaky start, settled down, giving up eight hits and striking out six. He is now 2-0. Defensively the standouts were little catcher Artie Roberts [5-3 and 105 pounds], shortstop Greg Oriola and Austin. The hitting stars were Steve Notorangelo with a triple, Oriola and Phil Caggiano with a double each and Jim Flaherty with two singles.

For Police Brennan had a triple and two singles, Donovan two doubles, McKinnon two singles and O'Connell a single.

Gino's edged Hancock Bank, 7-6, in a loosely played game.

Hitting stars for Gino's were Bob Howlett with a home run,

Steve Buckley and Paul O'Toole with a double apiece. Kevin Howlett made the fielding play of the game with a leaping catch after a long run in right field with the bases loaded to save the game. Buckley pitched well in relief for Gino's and Bob Cuervels was credited with the win by pitching to and retiring only two batters in the sixth. Dave King went all the way for Hancock.

Granite City Electric defeated Sons of Italy, 8-6, Bob McCormick pitching five-hit ball and holding off a late Sons rally. Dave Flaherty's double in the third with the bases loaded accounted for three Granite City runs.

Granite City then topped Houghs Neck Legion, 8-5, with Sean Murphy pitching fine relief ball after taking over for starter Steve White. A series of walks and a bases loaded single by Bob Thompson in the fifth gave the winners six runs.

Hancock Bank and VFW played to a 6-6 tie. King relieved Mike Shea and halted VFW after it had scored four runs to take the lead in the top of the seventh. Bob Biagini homered in the bottom half to tie the score and Pat Ennis, who went all the way for VFW, forced Rich King to ground out with the bases loaded to end the game.

Leading Hancock offensively was Biagini with his game-tying homer and a double. Dave King, Hatfield, John Kavanaugh and Joe Walsh also had hits. For VFW John Keane had three hits, including two triples, and Andy Orrock, Mike Trubiano, Gordie Spencer, Paul Anastas and Paul McConville also had hits.

VFW edged Firemen, 4-3, in a well-played game by both teams. All the scoring was done in the first inning and both pitchers tightened up. Firemen scored three times on a hit by Artie Roberts, a walk to Greg Madden, Dave Austin's triple and a wild pitch. VFW came back with its four runs on Mike Trubiano's single, Spencer's home run, Ennis' double and another homer by pitcher Keane.

Ray Coscia of Firemen gave up eight hits, struck out seven and walked three. Keane struck out 10 while giving up just four hits and walking seven.

Keane, Spencer and Bobby Beniers had two hits each for VFW, while Ennis and Trubiano had one apiece. For Firemen Roberts, Madden, Austin and Steve Notorangelo led the attack. Oriola made two outstanding fielding plays for Firemen and Leo Doyle of VFW also excelled defensively. Each started key double plays.

Also turning in sparkling performances were Don Smith at shortstop; and at bat Brian Buckley four hits and a home run, and Joe Mosses, three hits, all of the Boathouse.

Those playing well for the Mountmen were Paul Radzik, four hits, John Stevens, a home run, and Jamie Doherty, two hits and some great fielding.

Lincoln Hancock Council Starts Tim Cahill Olympic Fund

The Lincoln Hancock Community School Council has established a fund at the school to send Tim Cahill to the Olympic Training Camp.

The monies received will help defray the cost of two weeks of training and travel to the Brookport, N.Y. training site for Tim.

Tim attended the John Hancock School and Sterling Jr. High School where he started wrestling in grade 7. He is now a junior at Quincy High School and co-captain of the Presidents Wrestling team.

Tim's expenses for training camp will be $300. The Council is appealing to all in the community to contribute. Anyone wishing to do so may contact Mary Jo Riley at the Lincoln Hancock Community School, 300 Granite St.

Boathouse Sinks Mountmen, 16-9

The Quincy Recreation Boathouse, led by Kevin McGinley, defeated the defending champion Mountmen 16-9 in the second annual Memorial Day softball game at O'Rourke Field.

McGinley, who pitched nine innings, also had four hits including two home runs. The game was delayed when Mountmen outfielders James Evans and Jim Hurley collided on a fly ball by power hitter Jim Merritt. Hurley was knocked unconscious but Evans was able to throw the speedy Merritt out at the plate on an inside the park home run try. Evans and Hurley both required stitches after the game.

Minutemen Seek 2nd Quincy Win, Bigger Crowds

The Boston Minutemen, 4-4 in the North Division, will host the Minnesota Kicks, 4-5 in the West Division, in a North American Soccer League game Saturday at 5 p.m. at Quincy Veterans Memorial Stadium.

The Minutemen, who bowed in at the stadium with a 3-1 win over the San Diego Jaws last Saturday, hope for a bigger crowd than the less than 1,500 who attended last week.

Unless more interest is displayed by the fans, the Minutemen may not be able to finish out the season. They have scheduled nine home games in Quincy and everyone connected with the team was pleased with the conditions at the stadium, but the money picture is far from bright.

Rumors are rife that the team may not be able to meet the player payroll, which would result in players refusing to play and an early end to the season.

Several players admitted they wouldn't play if they weren't paid and some criticized the team's promotion of the game and felt that, with more advertising and better promotion, the crowds would be larger.

They felt many people didn't know of last week's first game in Quincy.

Remaining calm through all the rumors of financial problems was Owner John Sterge, who said emphatically the team will finish the season.

"I think we found ourselves a home," he said. "The crowd could have been larger but hopefully we will get some more advertising and work on that. It is tough running a pro franchise when you are competing against so many other teams [there are 20 teams in four divisions in the NASL]. The rumors are not true and we will finish the season. There are all kinds of rumors in all sports."

Minutemen Coach Hubert Vogelsinger, admittedly disappointed at the small crowd, would talk only of Quincy and the game. "We have been struggling of late and this was a big win for us. We played good soccer. I think the game would have been promoted better."

The players voiced their approval of Quincy and the stadium conditions and only hope the crowds will get larger.

Pete Nover put the Minutemen ahead, 1-0, at 28:25 of the first half and Geoff Davies made it 2-0 at 31:41. San Diego's Pete Sylvester scored but Davies scored the insurance goal.

The Minutemen have opened a Quincy office at 867 Hancock St., directly across from the stadium, where tickets can be purchased from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Friday. Pennants and other souvenirs can also be bought there.

Davies and Antonio Simoes of the Minutemen were named to the league's weekly all-star team last week.

Last night [Wednesday] the Minutemen were due to play in New York against the fabulous Pele and the Cosmos. In an earlier game played at Shaefer Stadium, New York nipped the Minutemen, 2-1.

Koch Women Bowlers Hold Annual Banquet

The Koch Club Women's Bowling League held its 21st annual awards banquet recently at the Elks Hall, Washington St., Weymouth.

Receiving team honors for winning the leagues 21st team championship were Captain Rosemary Earley, Barbara Riggs, Barbara Lombardi, Kathy McAndrews, Ann Moody and Marie Koch.

First half winning team, finishing in second place in the rolloff, comprised Captain Mary Ellen Lorizio, Adelina Naclerio, Auralee Bolster, Paula Ruozzi, Marilyn Welch and Millie Welch.

In the championship roll off, Earley's team defeated Lorizio's team, 1622 to 1577.

High individual awards were won by Mary Ellen Lorizio with the top average of 97.25, Linda Bowes with a high three-string total of 342 and Ann Naclerio with a high single string of 124.

Other high team achievements included Mary Ellen Lorizio's squad high team total of 1669 and Linda Bowes team single of 596.

The top ten averages were Mary Ellen Lorizio 97.25; Linda Bowes 93.88; Rosemary Earley 93.88; Jeanine Hulak, 91.49; Claire Fitch 90.77; Betty Ann Koch 90.56; Adele Foley 90.36; Jean Reardon 89.63; Sue Batts 89.61; and Auralee Bolster 89.4.

The league officers for this year were President Vicky Chiano, Secretary Mary Ellen Lorizio and Treasurer Barbara Lombardi.

Next seasons officers were introduced. They are: President Marilyn Welch, Secretary Paula Ruozzi and Treasurer Rosemary Earley.

Leone Congratulates

Tozzi, North Track Team

Carl Leone, coordinator of athletics for the Quincy schools, has congratulated Lou Tozzi, North Quincy track coach and his Raiders for winning the state Class B championship.

In a letter to Tozzi, he said: "It is indeed my extreme and fortunate pleasure to congratulate you on winning the state championship in spring track for 1976. In itself, this is an extraordinary feat. Add to that, your state championship of the fall in cross country and, during the winter your championship in indoor track, and you have a situation which is truly unparalleled in the history of track in this area.

"We are extremely proud of your boys, the pupils of NNHS for their support, and you and your assistant, Jack Lavery. Please convey these thoughts to everyone concerned. Again, my heartiest congratulations."

Sally Rickson

Wins Singles Tourney

Sally Rickson of Quincy, one of the top rated junior players in New England and this spring a standout on the Bentley College men's team, won the women's singles championship in the New England Public Parks Tennis Tournament in Newington, Conn. Sally, whose brother Ken is a tennis instructor at the Boston Harbor Marina Club, was unseeded in the tournament but upset the number two seeded Gayle Goodburn of Rutland, Vt., 6-2, 6-0, in the championship match.

3 Gino Players In Pennant Awards Finals

Three players from Gino's team of the Quincy Babe Ruth League will take part in the finals of the French's Babe Ruth Pennant Awards at Merrymount Park and Adams Field Saturday at 9 a.m.

They are 13-year-old Mark Millane, 14-year-old Bob Howlett and 15-year-old Bob Lindenfelzer.

All winners of that individual team competition must be there. The three winners, one in each age group, will follow the tournament team winners and have as good a chance as anyone to go all the way to the Babe Ruth World Series.

7th Graders Shine For Meadows Girls Track Team

fine season climaxed by a strong second place finish in last week's all-city championship meet.

Coach Denise Martin gave a good deal of the credit for the team's showing to her seventh graders, who turned in some outstanding performances.

Brenda Fratolillo was captain of the seventh graders who also included Chris Fitzpatrick, Chris Beven, Lisa Coady, Stacy Lynch, Tracy Hart, Joen Giordani, Robin Lotti, Robin Gavra, Laura Davis, Debbie Urbanus and Diane Solander.

"These girls did an excellent job and I am expecting big things from them next year," Ms. Martin said. "They are a hard working group of girls with a lot of desire."

Stratton mentioned "those who despise our country" who often misquote the line by Naval hero Stephen Decatur by saying "Our country, right or wrong." He said that people must remember the first part of the Decatur line which asks "In her intercourse with foreign nations may she always be right."

"Whatever you do, continue to love your country and respect its flag as you do today," Stratton said, "For there is nothing wrong with this country that free men cannot cure."

Capt. Stratton, who left North Quincy High School in 1949 without graduating to enter a seminary was given the diploma he missed by School Supt. Dr. Lawrence P. Creedon during the ceremony. Creedon was in school with Stratton.

David J. Donahue, Quincy City Club Bicentennial Project chairman, announced the winners of the club's bicentennial poster and essay contest during the parade ceremonies.

The winners are: Lawrence Costello of 69 French St., North Quincy, a fifth grader at Sacred Heart School, North Quincy, who won a $100 savings bond for first prize in the poster contest and Heidi Heckman of 140 Common St., West Quincy, a third grader at the Willard School who won the $25 savings bond for second place.

prize in the essay contest which was open to students in grades seven through nine.

A $25 savings bond was awarded to Joseph MacInnis of 318 Manet Ave., Houghs Neck, a ninth grader at Broad Meadows Junior High School, for second prize in the contest.

The winners of this year's Koch Club Scholarships were presented their awards at the ceremony as well.

Margaret M. Barry, 68 Freeman St., and Paul M. McGuigan, 73 Ocean St., both students at North Quincy High were awarded $100 each.

Gertrude M. McManus, 108 Doane St. and Stephen M. Connelly, 14 Bicknell St., both students at Quincy High received $100 each.

Two students from Quincy Vo-Tech, Janet Erickson, 115 Edgewater Dr., and John R. Hallett, 69 Post Island Road, received $50 each.

These scholarship awards were presented by Anthony T. Delmonico, Koch Club scholarship chairman with the assistance of State Rep. Robert Cerasoli and Howard Crowley.

The parade which started in the Hancock Parking area rounded McGrath Highway, Mechanic St. and Elm St. and proceeded down Hancock St. through the Quincy Center shopping district to the Southern Artery and Veterans Memorial Stadium.

Stops were made at the First Parish Church to lay wreaths at the tombs of presidents John Adams and John Quincy Adams and their wives and at the Kennedy Health Center to place a wreath in memory of President

School, he received a bachelor of science degree in education.

John F. Kennedy, the Koch Club's only honorary member.

Then the parade, made up of 48 separate groups or organizations continued to the Dorothy Quincy House for the laying of another wreath.

The ceremonies at the Veterans Memorial Stadium also included an address by Richard M. Koch, founder and director of the Koch Club. John P. Comer, State Commander of the American Legion presented a flag for the ceremonial flag raising which was presided over by Congressman James A. Burke.

The flag used was one which has flown over the Nation's capitol and was presented for

Vagabonds Dance Club To Perform At Olde Quincy Country Faire

The Vagabonds Round Dance Club of Watertown, specializing in dances of the past, will perform Sunday, June 27 at Squaw Rock, Squantum Park, during the second day of the Olde Quincy Country Faire.

The Vagabonds will hold 30 to 45-minute performances—featuring "Dances for the Bicentennial" at 1:30 p.m. and 3 p.m.

The dance group is the latest addition to the Olde Quincy Country Faire scheduled for the weekend of June 26 and 27.

Craftspeople from around New England—including weavers, blacksmiths, woodcarvers, potters, glassblowers and a tinsmith—will demonstrate and sell their crafts to visitors.

Students from the Quincy School system will present their own handmade crafts while senior citizens from Quincy will demonstrate the crafts they have worked on all their lives.

Entertainment will include competition in grease-pole climbing, tug-o-war, foot races and railsplitting.

The fair which is sponsored by Quincy Heritage, is open to the public free of charge.

Squantum Couple In Rose Show Exhibit

Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert H. Greenlaw of 55 Sea Ave., Houghs Neck, and Mrs. Chandler K. Garland of 49 Bay St., Squantum, will be exhibitors at the Rose Show Saturday at the Natick Mall.

The show is sponsored by the New England Rose Society and the Massachusetts Horticultural Society.

Theme of the annual event is "Spirit of '76".

A special "Rose Doctor" clinic will be held during show hours, 9:30 a.m. to 9:30 p.m. Admission is free.

Booths Now Available For Annual Sidewalk Bazaar

Booths may be reserved now for the seventh annual Sidewalk Bazaar sponsored by the Quincy Center Business and Professional Association.

The bazaar, to be held July 15-16-17 in downtown Quincy, will feature the traditional activities including the Miss Quincy Bay Beauty Pageant, the Budweiser Clydesdales, band concerts, banjo bands, square dancing, fire engine rides.

"New activities are being added this year to make this the biggest Sidewalk Bazaar we have every held," said George White of The Patriot Ledger, coordinator of the event.

Burt Cook of Tags Sleep and Lounge Shop is in charge of the red and white striped canopy booths which will be set up and taken down by the QCBPA for those renting them. Cost is $33.

Booth reservations may be made by calling Cook at 471-6180 or Austin Wickens at the CBPA office, 471-3232.

Cook noted that this is an opportunity for organizations to raise funds for their charitable or civic cause by selling handcrafted or other goods at the booth.

The Sidewalk Bazaar Committee includes:

Joseph Angelo, Remick's; Mark Bertman, Rogers Jewelry; Pierre Boulanger, Sears Roebuck; Henry Bosworth, The Quincy Sun; Robert Colman, Colman's; Elliot Cohen, Cummings; Sumner Cohen, Kincaide's; Remo DeNicola, South Shore Television; Kenneth P. Entry Forms Available For Miss Quincy Bay Pageant

Entry forms for the Miss Quincy Bay Beauty Pageant are now available in the downtown area and at South Shore yacht clubs.

The event, to be held Friday evening, July 16, is open to South Shore single girls 16 to 25 years old.

The pageant, co-sponsored by the Quincy Center Business and Professional Association and the Quincy Bay Race Week Association will be held on a portable boardwalk in front of the Hancock Bank in downtown Quincy.

Deadline for entering the pageant is Saturday, July 3.

Laura M. Peter Receives

Grossman Award

Laura Marie Peter of Quincy Vocational Technical School was inadvertently omitted from the list of students receiving the 21st annual Reuben A. and Lizzie Grossman Foundation Award.

A story listing the names of award winners was published in last week's issue of The Quincy Sun.

The awards were presented to students who have demonstrated outstanding qualities of school leadership and community service.

Curtain Call Open House

Workshop Monday

'Home Of The Adams Chronicles'

A Bicentennial Salute To 'The City Of Presidents'

City Of Quincy Massachusetts Office Of The Mayor

Joseph J. LaRaia
Mayor

Seventeen seventy-six is remembered by all as a year of independence—a year in which American colonists were finally able to break free from the tight grip of British authority.

Since that time, the American people have worked hard and long to reinforce our independence and to secure the freedoms on which our mighty nation was founded.

Quincy was very much a part of that effort.

Its contributions seemingly unlimited, Quincy was the home of the first signer of the Declaration of Independence, the site of the first commercial railway and the first productive iron works in America and the home of the builder of the Bunker Hill Monument.

But it was John Adams and John Quincy Adams who made Quincy most proud.

Becoming the second president of the United States was only one of many credits attributed to John Adams.

He also served his country as ambassador to France, as vice president to George Washington and as the author of the Constitution of the Commonwealth of Massachusetts which served as the model for the United States Constitution.

And his son, John Quincy Adams, followed along a similar path as sixth president of the United States and as a United States Congressman.

Both played major roles in shaping the destiny of our nation.

Today, one can still see where our two greatest patriots were born, where they lived and where they—together with their wives—were laid to rest.

In this, our bicentennial year, we can look back on the past 200 years with pride and satisfaction. And we look forward to the next 200 years with optimism, confidence and eager anticipation.

Joseph J. LaRaia

This Is Quincy. . .

This is Quincy . . .

It's a Mount overlooking a Bay on which adventurers gambled and feasted and traded in the wilderness and a man named Thomas Morton of Clifford's Inn, gent., for whatever dark and selfish reason, treated an Indian as a fellow human being.

It's a Swamp where a Governor of the Bay Colony named John Winthrop sought industrial independence from the Old World by turning ore from the bog into iron in the first commercial blast furnace in America.

It's two small red Houses at the foot of a Hill, the birthrooms of which produced the Second and Sixth Presidents of the United States and a long line of distinguished men named Adams who made their country a better place simply by their being.

It's a Hill of Granite where often unwelcome workers from alien shores came together and remained to wrest the rock from the earth and shape it and send it to market on the crude progenitor of all the railroads of America.

It's a River, wide and deep, where the great ships of their times were born in wood and steel and went down to the sea to sail the world over, spewing fire and ball in time of war, tending to man's needs and comforts in time of peace.

It's a Coast, sheltered and protected from the Main, where people from time immemorial have met to refresh themselves in its waters and scud their small boats with gay sails before the wind in competition or relaxation.

This is Quincy . . .

This special Historic Quincy issue of The Quincy Sun was produced by the following members of The Sun staff:

Henry Bosworth, Tom Henshaw, Tom Brady, Polly Dredge, Muriel Lyon, Cheryl Monahan, Leon Saperstein and Mary Ann Morris.

Most of the writing is by Mr. Henshaw.

The photos were taken by the Massachusetts Department of Commerce and Development, Quincy Sun photographers Steve Liss and Jack Tolson, and General Dynamics.

We gratefully appreciate the cooperation given by Quincy Heritage Director Fred Lane and Robert McCarthy of his staff in the production of this souvenir Bicentennial salute to Quincy, the "City of Presidents" and "Home of The Adams Chronicles".

A MESSAGE FROM YOUR CONGRESSMAN

JAMES A. BURKE

To the people of Quincy who I am proud to represent, upon this, the Bicentennial Anniversary of the founding of our country - May I offer my congratulations and best wishes for the future, to all.

Young John Adams

A President Grows Up In Colonial Quincy

By TOM HENSHAW

It was the North Precinct of Braintree then, a sprawling tract of woods and farmlands on the gently rolling hills some 10 miles south of the Boston Stone along the winding Coast Road to Plymouth.

Something less than 1,500 people lived in the North, Middle and South Precincts of Braintree in the year 1735 Old Style and two of them were Deacon John Adams, 44, farmer and cordwainer, and his wife, Susanna, 26.

Their home was a weathered gray farmhouse with high peaked roof and attached lean-to kitchen set on seven acres of farmland at roughly Milepost 11 of the Coast Road, just where it turned up the wooded slopes of Penn's Hill toward the Monaquot River ford in the Middle Precinct.

He was a pillar of his rural community, Mr. Adams was, a deacon in the First Parish Congregational Church, a lieutenant in the Braintree militia and a town constable with a forceful personality and tact that enabled him to collect taxes from his neighbors.

He was a hard-working farmer whose cider was acknowledged best in town; he worked in leather during the winter months; and he had his eye on an adjoining piece of farmland, 9½ acres owned by the Billings brothers, complete with a farmhouse similar to his own.

Susanna Adams was a Boylston of Brookline, socially a cut above her husband, and perhaps there were moments in the simple house at the foot of Penn's Hill when she thought of the home of her uncle, the noted Dr. Zabdiel Boylston of Brookline, whose furniture came all the way from London.

Their first child, a son who was named John for his father, was born in the southeast bedroom of the farmhouse on Oct. 19, 1735 Old Style. There would be two more, Peter and Elihu, born at three year intervals.

The world of young John Adams was bounded by the barrier of the Neponset River on the north, the Bay to the east and elsewhere by woods and swamps where deer and bear still roamed and an occasional band of friendly Indians passed to fish Furnace Brook and irritate Col. John Quincy by camping on his estate and burning his fences for fuel.

Its chief features were the First Parish Church at Milestone 10 across the Coast Road from the burying ground where sermons ranged up to four hours on Sunday and the Free Latin School where Joseph Cleverly drilled his small charges to the point of distraction from Lily's Latin Grammar.

As first born, young John was predestined for Harvard and the ministry, like his Uncle Joe, who had been master of Braintree's Free-Latin School but now tended the spiritual needs of a flock in Newton, N.H. Trouble was, John disliked school, specifically the Free Latin School and Mr. Cleverly.

His dislike of Latin was such that he once went to his father to suggest that maybe Harvard and the ministry were not for him. Perhaps some other line of employment.... Whereupon the elder Adams laid aside his week-old copy of the Boston Evening Post and, as the son later wrote, he said:

"Well, John, if Latin grammar does not suit you, you may try ditching, perhaps that will; my meadow yonder needs a ditch and you may put by Latin and try that."

John Adams, ditch-digger, lasted two days.

"If I have since gained any distinction it has been owing to the two days labor in that abominable ditch," recalled the second President of the United States.

It was much better when his father sent him to Joseph Marsh's private school to prepare for Harvard.

Marsh, who lived down the road, was regarded as something of a ne'er-do-well. Son of a minister, Harvard grad, bachelor, he had already failed at two careers as a preacher and a physician. But he ran a damn fine prep school in his home for 20 years and his genial ways were a welcome relief from Cleverly's Latin drills.

Marsh was also one of those rare Braintree residents who received the weekly papers from Boston. Frequently, young John was dispatched down the road to borrow Marsh's copy of the Evening Post for his father. But the elder Adams just couldn't abide the writings in the rival News-Letter.

The Adamses were not a particularly literary family. In fact, they owned only three books. One, of course, was the Bible. Another was Willard's "Body of Divinity", a ponderous tome authored by a vice president of Harvard, from which Mr. Adams would read aloud in the kitchen on Sunday.

Young John spent a good deal of his youth out of doors, especially atop Penn's Hill where one had a fine view of the Great Blue Hills rising out of the Milton woods and the blue waters of the Bay all the way down to the Scituate ledges and the chimneys of Dorchester and Boston across the wide estuary of the Neponset.

Every now and then in his travels he'd come across the Indian brothers Moses and Aaron Pomham, aging remnants of the Ponkapog tribe that had been all but wiped out by a small pox epidemic.

Sometimes the brothers would drop by the farm and Mr. Adams would feed them and hoist a few beers with them and, after they had gone, Susanna Adams would furiously sweep and mop and dust the house for nothing disturbed her sense of neatness more than a visit from the untidy Pomhams.

John Adams was on Penn's Hill almost constantly in the fall of 1746, scanning the Bay for the big French fleet that was reported en route to Boston to exact revenge for the capture by Massachusetts men of the Louisburg fortress in Acadia. Some 6,000 militia were camped on Boston Common, waiting to repel the invasion that never came.

Boston was an alien place, suspect by the farmers of Braintree as a city of great danger to the unwary and the source of potential oppression from colonial Gov. Shirley, who had a summer mansion in Braintree and was doubly suspect as a member of the established Church of England.

There was a Church of England in Braintree, too. It was called Christ Church, on the Coast Road midway between the Adams farm and the First Parish meetinghouse and its rector, Dr. Ebenezer Miller, was frequently accompanied about town by the black youngster Cesar, who carried the big parish Bible.

Suspicion of things in Boston was such that Mr. Crosby, who owned one of the public houses in Braintree, permitted his tavern license to lapse rather than go to the colonial capital for renewal lest he catch small pox, then raging in the big city.

Perhaps 12-year-old John Adams was one of the kids who crowded around Gideon Newcomb in January, 1748, to hear his account of the street riots in Boston, where he had ventured with a sled-load of fuel, and to stare in awe at the honest-to-gosh black eye that the Braintree man suffered in the fighting.

The riots resulted from attempts by an arrogant British Navy captain named Knowles to kidnap citizens off the streets and impress them into his force to fight the French. It was so bad for a while that Gov. Shirley was forced to take refuge on Castle Island in the Harbor.

It always troubled Mr. Adams that one of the leading agitators in Boston was his second cousin, young Sam Adams, who was always hanging around with the radicals, the mechanics and the artisans in their secret clubs.

Not that Braintree was exempt from such quarrels, although they rarely ended in riot or even fistcuffs. There was the controversy that swirled around the Rev. Lemuel Briant, Harvard '39, which set precinct against precinct and lasted virtually throughout young John's teen years.

Briant, at the tender age of 23, was elected minister of the First Parish Church after the death of the Rev. John Hancock [which, incidentally, was a personal blow to John Adams since it broke up his friendship with the minister's son, John, who was adopted by Uncle Tom Hancock and whisked away to live in his Boston mansion].

Young Rev. Briant, who was called "an eccentric born to controversy," turned out to be a little too liberal for the Calvinistic tastes of his parishioners and was soon involved in a long-running verbal battle with the Rev. Mr. Niles of the Middle Precinct. Briant was dismissed in 1753.

And then there was Col. Joseph Gooch, whose brief but spectacular career provided food for heated discussion over many flagons of cider around the Adams' kitchen fireplace.

Col. Gooch moved from Boston to Braintree in 1739 and immediately set about realizing his ambitions to be elected to the General Court of the colony and to be appointed colonel of the Braintree militia, a prestigious post

10 Generations Of Adams

1. HENRY ADAMS [1583-1646] emigrated from England to New England in 1638 and was granted 40 acres in Mount Wollaston.

2. JOSEPH ADAMS [1626-1694], son of Henry, farmer and maltster of Old Braintree.

3. JOSEPH ADAMS [1654-1737], son of Joseph, who married Hannah Bass, a granddaughter of John Alden and Friscilla Mullins.

4. JOHN ADAMS [1691-1761], son of Joseph, farmer and selectman of Old Braintree, who purchased the houses at the foot of Penn's Hill.

5. JOHN ADAMS [1735-1826], son of Deacon John, second President of the United States.

5a. SAMUEL ADAMS [1722-1803], great, great grandson of Henry and cousin of President John, revolutionary firebrand.

6. JOHN QUINCY ADAMS [1767-1848], son of John, sixth president of the United States.

7. CHARLES FRANCIS ADAMS [1807-1886], son of John Quincy, minister to Great Britain during the Civil War.

8. JOHN QUINCY ADAMS II [1833-1894], son of Charles Francis, State Legislator and thrice candidate for governor.

8a. CHARLES FRANCIS ADAMS II [1835-1915], son of Charles Francis, historian and founder of the Quincy School System.

8b. HENRY ADAMS [1838-1918], son of Charles Francis, author of "The Education of Henry Adams."

8c. BROOKS ADAMS [1848-1927], son of Charles Francis, the last Adams to live in the Old House in Quincy.

9. CHARLES FRANCIS ADAMS III [1866-1954], son of John Quincy II, mayor of Quincy and Secretary of the Navy.

10. CHARLES FRANCIS ADAMS IV [1910-], business executive.

In The Beginning

In the early months of 1836, many of Quincy's merchants gathered in Fowle's Tavern to lay the foundation of a commercial banking enterprise in a town of only three thousand inhabitants - mostly farmers, shipbuilders and granite cutters.

Andrew Jackson had just been elected president of the United States at the height of the Young Republic's Federal Period. John Quincy Adams's presidential term was over and he was then serving as a congressman for Massachusetts. New England was still the maritime center of America, with the ports of Salem and Boston doing a booming business. In February of that year, Jim Bowie and Davey Crockett had died at the Alamo, and by the time the new bank had received its charter to open its doors in March, New England volunteers to fight Santa Ana were struggling back to their homes - the battle was over before they could get to Texas. By the time the last of them returned, the town had its new enterprise - The Quincy Stone Bank. Curiously, it was the first in the United States to capitalize through public subscription of its stock. More than two hundred families came up with the one hundred thousand dollars required by the General Court for a charter.

Having no building for its quarters the bank rented the front room of Elisha Turner's house on Hancock Street for its first "banking rooms". For 140 years and three bank buildings, the home of the South Shore National has remained within 200 yards of its first - all on Hancock Street.

But everything else has changed. Then the bank printed its own money, a practice frowned upon today. Then there were three employees and one office. Now there are over 600 employees and thirty-four offices located in Norfolk County, five of which are located throughout the Quincy area. In 1836, whale oil fueled the lamps at Turner's house, while electricity which today powers the bank's computers was the plaything of primitive scientists.

Since the start of the bank, a great deal of time has passed and neither the nation nor the bank bear much resemblance to the days of 1836. Of utmost importance, however, one thing has not changed - the bank's continuing dedication to the progress and development of the communities it serves.

COLONEL JOSIAH QUINCY Homestead on Muirhead St., Wollaston served as "lookout" station to keep eye on British fleet for General George Washington during the siege of Boston. Built in 1770, it is a fine example of colonial architecture. The home was recently added to the Register of Historic Places.

Why We Pronounce It 'Quin-zee'

Why do we pronounce Quincy "Quin-zee" when just about everyone else in the country refers to it as "Quin-see"?

There are 19 other Quincy's in the U.S. but they pronounce it "Quin-see".

Can they be right and we be wrong? Not according to Quincy's late city historian, William C. Edwards who never budged an inch whenever the argument ever came up. And it still comes up.

The reason we pronounce it "Quin-zee" is very simple.

"That's the way the Quincy family pronounced it," he used to explain.

"The original Quincy family which settled here at Mount Wollaston pronounced it "Quin-zee", including Col. John Quincy after whom Quincy, Mass.-the first Quincy-was named in 1792."

Colonel Quincy was the great grandfather of sixth President John Quincy Adams.

Apparently all 19 other Quincy's in the U.S. were named after John Quincy Adams.

And, apparently the early settlers of those communities thought John Quincy pronounced it John "Quin-see".

Anyway, that is how Edwards explained it. Seems like a sound argument.

Quincy: A Bicentennial City

Quincy truly is a Bicentennial City — a community steeped in proud history and accomplishments.

As Quincy salutes the 200th anniversary of this great nation, it also marks the 351st birthday of a great city.

Quincy's sons and daughters played key roles in shaping the destiny of this nation.

No other community has given two Presidents to its country—the only father and son Presidents in history. Both served during crucial times for the young Republic and they served well as the test of time has proved.

Quincy also helped launch this nation's industrial revolution, giving to the country the first productive iron works, and the first commercial railway. Its handsome granite is known the world over as is its sturdy ships of war and peace.

But we must not rest on our laurels. What we do or fail to do today is tomorrow's history. We must not fail.

We must continue to move our city and our nation ahead.

Our forefathers solemnly pledged themselves to continual progress and improvement for both their community and country. And so do we the members of this Bicentennial City Council.

Happy birthday, America!

With sincere best wishes, then held by the popular Col. Hancock.

Gooch's manner of attaining those goals may have set the precedent for later generations of Boston pols.

In return for the support of certain influential townspeople, he built a steeple for the Church of England meetinghouse, a move which not only got him elected to the General Court but brought about the ouster of Col. Hancock. In three short years, Gooch had achieved his aims.

But many Braintree militiamen refused to serve under the new colonel. Mr. Adams was offered a captaincy but he turned it down. New officers were placed in leadership roles - "men of little property or no property at all; men of frivolous character in understanding and morals."

The solid farmers and yeomen of Old Braintree had enough of Col. Gooch after that. He lost his next bid for re-election to the General Court and the defeat so angered him that he moved to Milton in a huff.

One continuing controversy dominated Braintree politics of the day, beginning before John Adams was born and lasting until he was vice president of the United States. It was the feud between the burgeoning North Precinct on the one hand and the smaller Middle and South Precincts on the other.

ADAMS MANSION, now the Adams National Historic Site, on Adams St., was the home of the Adams family from 1788 when John, the future president, moved in, until 1927 when his great grandson, Brooks, died. Family called the estate on Adams St. "the Old House". It served as the summer "Whitehouse" for the two Presidents.

Economically and socially, the North was becoming more and more allied with Boston, despite the barrier of the Neponset River, but when it came town meeting time members from the North were overwhelmed by those from the Middle and the South. As early as 1728, a committee discussed splitting the town in two but nothing came of it.

It was not until 1792 that the North Precinct became a town in its own right.

They called it Quincy.

NORTH QUINCY, 1968

State Street South is proud to have been a part of Quincy's past and is pleased to have had this opportunity to share in this historic city's Bicentennial celebration. The year, 1976, for all of us, will be one of pause and reflection while we analyze the great events which marked our country's struggle for independence. But while our attention during this anniversary year is directed toward our past accomplishments, we, at State Street South, will also be looking toward the future.

For us, and for the City of Quincy, a new history is being born. A history which, like the start of our country, was conceived from an idea and has grown to nearly one million square feet of new office space with more than fifteen companies providing 3,000 jobs in our community.

State Street South is a tribute to our experience and our technological achievement, but more importantly, State Street South is the Gateway to Quincy and our gateway to the future.

JOSIAH'S SPIRIT IS ALIVE AND WELL AT QUINCY COOPERATIVE BANK.

Meet Josiah Quincy, Jr., the founder of cooperative banking in Massachusetts, and the man for whom our bank was named.

About 100 years ago, the ordinary workingman couldn't borrow money from a regular savings bank the way rich and important people could.

So Josiah got the legislature to legalize cooperative banking in Massachusetts. This new type of banking gave the workingman the same opportunities as the wealthy. Cooperative banks are owned by the depositors. That can be helpful when you need to borrow.

We chose Josiah's name, because it stands for a concern for people we think is important.

In fact, since our founding, we've been doing business as if Josiah were looking over our shoulder.

That means keeping you first in our minds.

Because we keep Josiah a close second. We know for certain . . .

JOSIAH WOULD HAVE LIKED THAT.

Abigail Looked And--

'Good God, They Are Burning Charlestown!'

Abigail Adams was awakened at dawn in the farmhouse at the foot of Penn's Hill by the sound of far off guns. All through the sweltering morning, as she hustled about with the chores, the dull boom of cannon intruded on her consciousness.

Riders on the Coast Road to Plymouth, stopping at the farmhouse for water, told her of a great battle underway on Breed's Hill in Charlestown.

One of them brought word that Dr. Joseph Warren had been killed in the fighting and little Abby, age 10, burst into tears, and John Quincy, nearly 8, felt bewildered and sad for Dr. Warren was the Adams family doctor in Boston.

In the afternoon, Abigail could stand it no longer. Taking Abby and John Quincy by the hand, she walked up the Coast Road to the top of Penn's Hill and climbed up on the rocks for a better view.

The panorama of the Bay, a shimmering blue in the bright sunshine, spread out before them, with the tiny houses on the three hills of Boston and beyond the black smoke rising in great billows.

"Good God," exclaimed Abigail, "they are burning Charlestown!"

The scene etched itself forever in John Quincy's memory.

The early days of the Revolution, 1775 and 1776, were times of turmoil in old Braintree and its North Precinct, which was later called Quincy.

Her husband, John, was away most of the time at the Continental Congress in Philadelphia, leaving 31-year-old Abigail to manage the farm and look after the wants of four small children, Abigail, John Quincy, Charles 5, and Thomas Boylston 3.

They missed each other terribly.

"My refreshment is a flight to Braintree," wrote John, "to my cornfields and grass plots, my gardens and meadows; my fancy runs about you perpetually, frequently takes a walk with you and your little prattlings.

"We walk all together up Penn's Hill, over the ridge to the plain, down to the garden..."

The schools of Braintree were closed but luckily Abigail had John Thaxter, a cousin and law clerk to John Adams in more peaceful times, on hand to tutor young John Quincy. Husband John was little help, firing off detailed instructions from Philadelphia.

"John Quincy has genius and so has Charles," he wrote. "Take care that they don't go astray. Cultivate their minds, inspire their little hearts, raise their wishes, make them great and manly, teach them to scorn injustice, ingratitude, cowardice and falsehood. Let them revere nothing but Religion, Morality and Liberty."

Abigail did the best she could.

There were days of alarm as the British, penned up in Boston by the brand new Continental Army, foraged up and down the coast for supplies. Refugees from occupied Boston and the inner towns of Roxbury and Dorchester sometimes slept in the kitchen and in the fields.

One day, young John Quincy came home to find his Uncle Elihu melting down Abigail's pewter spoons in the kitchen to make bullet molds. He looked at his mother and she looked back at him and something indefinable passed between them.

"Do you wonder," John Quincy Adams wrote 68 years later, "that a boy of 7 who witnessed this scene should be a patriot."

To further complicate Abigail's life, the plague struck in the summer of 1775. Her mother, Mrs. William Smith, the Weymouth pastor's wife, died of it. So did Patty, the Adams' chore girl, and John's brother, Elihu. Young Thomas Boylston hovered near death but recovered.

As the wife of a member of the Continental Congress, Abigail was a center of attention. The house on the Coast Road was a favorite stopping place for travelers to Plymouth. Politicians up from Philadelphia often made it a point to stop by for a visit with John Adams' wife.

Abigail was invited to visit Gen. George Washington's headquarters at Winter Hill. The aristocratic Washington was suspect among New Englanders. He was a Virginian; he was an Anglican; and, it was said, he held slaves. But John Adams liked him and Abigail was soon charmed.

"You had persuaded me to entertain a favorable opinion of him," she wrote to her husband, "but I thought the one half was not told me. Dignity with ease and complacency, the gentleman and soldier look agreeably blended in him. Modesty marks every line and feature of his face."

Early in March, 1776, the siege of Boston entered a new phase. The Americans had big guns now, brought down from Fort Ticonderoga by Henry Knox, whom Abigail recalled as a studious young apprentice in Daniel Henchman's bookstore near the Old Brick Church in Boston. The guns soon opened up on the British in Boston.

Finally, the great day came, March 17, 1776. Abigail stood with her great-uncle, Col. Josiah Quincy, in a window of his mansion overlooking Wollaston Beach and watched the tall masts of 170 ships move slowly out to sea as the British evacuated Boston.

But even in triumph there was tragedy.

Aboard the ships were more than 1,000 Loyalists, Americans who chose King above country, and one of them was her cousin, Samuel Quincy, the Colonel's only remaining son, a flaming Tory.

"I take a long farewell," his sister, Hannah, wrote to him for one last time. "Let it not be published that a brother of such brothers fled from his country. Can you expect to walk uprightly now? Can you take fire in your bosom and not be burned?"

Two of Col. Josiah Quincy's sons had died young. Now he had no more.

John Quincy Adams:

The Old Flame Still Burned

The old man's bitterness glowed from every word as he penned them in his diary on June 17, 1843, the day the Bunker Hill Monument was dedicated.

"What a name in the annals of mankind is Bunker Hill! What a day was the 17th of June, 1775! And what a burlesque upon them both is an oration upon them by Daniel Webster!"

The old man despised Webster as a turncoat to his own heritage, as one whose compromises had sold out to slavery.

"The ideal associations of the thundering cannon, which I heard, and the smoke of burning Charlestown, which I saw, on that awful day ... How could I have witnessed all this at once, without an unbecoming burst of indignation.

"Daniel Webster is a heartless traitor to the cause of freedom; John Tyler [the President] is a slave-monger. What have these to do with the Quincy granite pyramid on the brow of Bunker Hill?"

"I stayed home ..."

The old flame still burned in John Quincy Adams at 75.

The American Revolution in shipbuilding is happening here.

It began in 1964, the year General Dynamics acquired the shipyard at Quincy. Since then we've established an enviable record of shipbuilding firsts and transformed Quincy Shipbuilding Division into one of the free world's largest, best-equipped and most successful yards.

To date

we've delivered 18 ships to the Navy — 4 nuclear submarines, 2 ammunition ships, 6 replenishment oilers, 2 submarine tenders, and 4 landing ship docks. And that's not all. We also delivered 3 Apollo tracking ships to NASA, and our 3 recently-completed barge-carrying seabees are generally considered the most flexible merchant ships ever built.

Today

we're contracted to build 10 Liquefied Natural Gas Tankers. Only four years ago we were the first U.S. shipyard to sign firm contracts for building LNG Tankers. Our backlog of over $ 1 billion dollars insures work for our 5,000 shipbuilders well into the 1980's.

Tomorrow

is coming and we're ready for it. We have a new structural parts manufacturing process line, a panel assembly line, two new shallow water building basins and new shops and equipment for plate and shape fabrication. Towering over them all stands our 1200-ton Goliath crane, largest in the Western Hemisphere and a symbol of the revolution in shipbuilding we started here in Quincy.

We're proud of the thousands of skilled workers who make up our labor force, and congratulate them on their contribution to this new era in U.S. shipbuilding.

56 Years Of History And Progress In The 'City Of Presidents'

An occasion like this is not complete without a brief tracing of the Bank's development from that cold December 9, 1919 meeting when a handful of Fore River Shipyard men sought a banking charter, to the present day Presidential Cooperative Bank. On January 16, 1920, the charter was granted, and a month later, the bank opened for business in the shipyard itself.

As the bank grew, quarters were moved into the city on Hancock Street, over the present offices of the Burgin, Platner Insurance Company. Growth again dictated a move; this time to the South Shore National Bank Building on Chestnut Street, in 1947. And in 1965, the bank moved to modern, more spacious quarters on Granite Street, where we now celebrate our 56th birthday. From its beginning as a facility for shipworkers' savings at Fore River, the bank has grown steadily to the point where depositors now come from many parts of the country as well as the greater South Shore area.

If the founding fathers could look upon us now, what wondrous changes they would see--witchcraft, perhaps they would think--because only magic could explain airplanes, space shuttles, automobiles, radio, TV, the myriad electronic and medical marvels and even the taken-for-granted comforts of the modern home.

We've come a long way in these 200 years--change has been rapid and seemingly phenomenal. There is no reason to think it will all stop now.

What wondrous sights will grace the eye one hundred--two hundred years hence!

But change, per se, need not always be good. It can bring increased benefits to mankind and it can bring woe and misery. Now, more than ever before we must guard and control our changes, seeking not just the whim and emotion of the moment, but the really meaningful change which truly bodes well for all living things, human kind, animal kind, and the precious products of the land and of the sea.

We, the human race, have the destiny of that race and of the world in our scientific and political control now. How wisely we respond to the needs, how much we are willing to sacrifice to attain those needs, will determine the path and the end results.

Can we respond? Will we respond?

CHIEFTAIN'S SEAT - Moswetuset Hummock, which gave its name to the state of Massachusetts, was the headquarters of Chickatabot, sachem of the Massachusetts Indians when the first Europeans arrived.

Moswetuset Hummock: Where State Got Its Name

His name was Chickatabot and he comes down through the pages of Quincy history as a rather pathetic figure.

He was the sachem of the Moswetuset [or Massachusetts] Indians, a once great tribe that occupied the coast north of Plymouth.

A few years before, under the great sachem Nanepashemet, the Massachusetts had been able to field some 3,000 warriors for a war with the Tarantines of Maine, a war in which Nanepashemet perished.

Then came the plague.

In two years the mighty Massachusetts were all but wiped out. No more than 60 of them were left to till their fields on the banks of the Neponset. From the Blue Hills to Quincy Bay, the area was reverting to wilderness.

Sachem Chickatabot fled his home at Passonagessit [Mount Wollaston] and took refuge in Squantum, setting up headquarters on a tiny rise of ground along the shore which was called Moswetuset Hummock.

It was like that in 1621 when Capt. Myles Standish landed from a shallop with an exploring party of Plymouth Pilgrims, immigrants so new they had not yet gotten around to feasting their thanks.

On the morning of Thursday, Sept. 30, the Standish party of 10 whites and three Indians were sitting not far from Moswetuset Hummock breakfasting on lobster they found on the beach.

Exploring inland, the party came across a group of Indian women in a place called Massachusetts Field. The women were wearing coats of beaver fur, which aroused the interest of Squanto, Standish's Indian guide.

"Let's take them," suggested Squanto, displaying a cavalier attitude toward personal property rights.

"No," said Standish. "Let's trade for them."

The lure of the trading trinkets proved so strong that the Indian women immediately stripped off their fur coats and handed them over in exchange.

"But," one of the Pilgrim party later recalled, "with great shamefacedness, for, indeed, they are more modest than some of our English women are."

Standish's visit was brief but the name Moswetuset [or Massachusetts] lingered on to attach itself to a bay, then to a colony and finally to a state.

It means, as defined by the 17th century churchman and linguist the Rev. John Cotton, "a hill shaped like an arrowhead" in the Indian tongue, a description fitting the largest of the Blue Hills.

The tragic Chickatabot died not long after the Standish visit and was succeeded as sachem by his son, Josiah Wampatuck, a boy who knew a good deal when he saw it.

Wampatuck sold what was left of his virtually deserted tribal lands to a group of whites for 12 pounds, 10 shillings, but first reserving for himself the right to hunt and fish them "provided he do the English no harm."

14 On Historic Trail

Historic Sites? Quincy Has 20 Of Them

By POLLY DREDGE

Although Quincy's Historic Trail lists only 14 historic sites, there are actually 20 famous landmarks for visitors to see.

The Adams National Historic Site marks the beginning of the trail. Four generations of the Adams family occupied the homestead from 1787 to 1946. The mansion which served as the "summer White House" for John Adams and his son, John Quincy Adams, was then presented to the U.S. government. The site is open daily from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. until Nov. 10. [Admission for adults is 50 cents, children under 16 free.].

Second stop along the historic trail is the Dorothy Quincy Homestead, home of the Quincy family including the two famous Dorothy Quinys. Open to the public for the past 70 years, the site will remain open daily from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. until Nov. 1. [adults $1, children under 12, 50 cents].

Quincy Historical Society Museum and Library, formerly the Adams Academy Building, was originally the site of the birthplace of patriot John Hancock. Third stop along the trail, the granite schoolhouse was erected on the site deeded by John Adams. The building stands over the cellar of the birthplace of patriot John Hancock, first signer of the Declaration of Independence.

The building is open Tuesday through Saturday, 10 a.m. to 4:30 p.m., and the Library Wednesday and Saturday from 10 a.m. to 4:30 p.m., Thursday, 7 p.m. to 9 p.m.

First Parish Church, designed by Alexander Parris and built from Quincy granite, is the fourth stop, housing the tombs of Presidents John and John Quincy Adams and their wives.

City Hall and the Hancock Cemetery across the street from the church, are the fifth and sixth sites along the trail. City Hall dates to 1844, and Hancock Cemetery from 1640. The cemetery is the final resting place of Quincy's early settlers and Revolutionary War soldiers.

The John Adams Birthplace, a New England saltbox house built in 1681, is the farmhouse where the nation's second president was born and raised.

The John Quincy Adams Birthplace beside it is the eighth stop, marking not only the birthplace of the sixth president of the U.S., but also the house where patriots gathered to draft the Constitution of Massachusetts which served as the model for the U.S. Constitution.

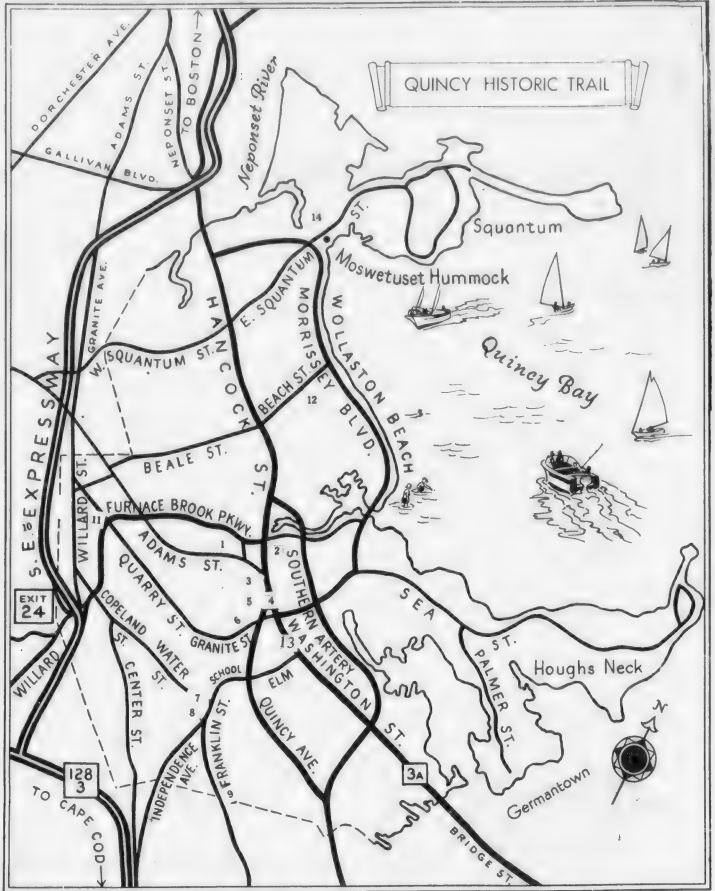

The birthplaces are open daily from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. through Oct. 1 and on the first two weekends in October with the last tour of the day starting at 4:15 p.m. Admission is $1 for adults and 50 cents for children ages 6 to 16. Children must be chaperoned.

The Abigail Adams Cairn, erected in 1896, marks the spot where she and her son, John Quincy Adams, listened to the guns at Bunker Hill and watched clouds of smoke rise over burning Charlestown.

Quincy's Granite Railway, the first commercial railway in the nation, was constructed in 1826. Remains of the first railroad incline, designed to transport granite from Quincy's quarries to the Neponset River to build the Bunker Hill Monument, can still be seen at the site.

The John Winthrop Jr. Iron Furnace of 1644, the birthplace of the nation's iron and steel industry, marks the remains of the first productive iron works which produced the first commercial iron in the country.

The Adams Chronicles happened on the Patriots Trail

John Adams and John Quincy Adams were born in Norfolk County, Mass. So was John F. Kennedy. All three birthplaces are open to the public.

And all three are on the Patriots Trail. Along with many other historic sites. Such as the Adams family home from 1787 to 1927, where furnishings used by many generations of the family are on display.

The Patriots Trail will also guide you to museums dedicated to transportation, maritime history, whaling, Colonial furnishings, and the history of American fashion... Abigail Adams' birthplace... Ben Franklin's books... the world's largest relief map of the United States... and more.

During the Bicentennial, be a patriot. Hit the trail. In Norfolk County, Mass. It's not far from Boston.

John F. Kennedy's Birthplace in Brookline, Mass., is another Patriots Trail stop. Norfolk County is the only county where three Presidents were born.

Quincy Was Almost Hancock

By HENRY BOSWORTH

If some of the early settlers had their way, there wouldn't be a Quincy, Mass.

They wanted Quincy to be Hancock instead.

Quincy, like George Washington, was born on Feb. 22.

On Feb. 22, 1792, the General Court of Massachusetts passed an act incorporating the North Precinct of Old Braintree as the separate town of Quincy.

But, just before that, quite a few of the residents wanted the new town named after native son John Hancock instead of Boston-born Col. John Quincy.

Colonel Quincy, who had represented Old Braintree in the General Court, was the great grandfather of President John Quincy Adams.

Many people today think Quincy was named after the sixth President but the honor actually goes to his great grandfather.

John Hancock who was born in the North Precinct, was governor of Massachusetts when the General Court passed the act incorporating the new town as Quincy. He signed the act the following day.

But at the first town meeting of the QUINCY HOMESTEAD, also called the Dorothy Q. House, contains secret chamber where John Hancock, later the first signer of the Declaration of Independence, hid from the British in 1775. Hancock married Dorothy Quincy, granddaughter of Judge Edmund Quincy who built the house in 1706. He proclaimed his love for Dorothy Quincy on a window pane using a diamond to scratch the message. It can still be seen today.

new town in May, a petition was presented to change the name from Quincy to Hancock in honor of the patriot and first signer of the Declaration of Independence. The move was finally defeated after a stormy verbal battle.

Opponents argued that Hancock was still alive and that the honor should go to a distinguished-but deceased person.

Colonel Quincy met those requirements. He was both distinguished-and deceased.

He had represented Old Braintree in the General Court from 1717 to 1741-12 of those years as Speaker of The House. He died in 1767 at age 77—two days after John Quincy Adams was born.

Quincy became a city June 11, 1888.

But a lot of people-residents and tourists alike-will go right on thinking that Quincy was named after John Quincy Adams.

QUINCY HISTORICAL FACTS

1625: Quincy was settled as a trading post established at Mount Wollaston, now Merrymount.

1640: Lands of Old Braintree purchased from Indians for 25 pounds and 10 shillings — approximately $75.

First Iron Works Steel Industry Born Here In 1644

It failed after nine years of effort and, since failure was anathema in a growing America, perhaps that is why the site and even the memory of the first commercial iron blast furnace in the United States was lost for so long.

It flourished, if that is the word, from 1644 to 1653 on the banks of the Mount Wollaston River in a section of Old Braintree called "the Woods". It left its name on the river, now Furnace Brook in West Quincy.

Iron was an important commodity in Colonial Massachusetts, particularly for nails and pots and pans. Unfortunately, iron utensils had to be imported from England, a costly process for the penny-wise colonists.

With this in mind, John Winthrop Jr., son of the governor of the Massachusetts Bay colony [Did someone cry "Nepotism?"] I, went to London and formed the "Company of Undertakers for the Ironworks in New England." He, of course, was the local agent.

The Company gave Winthrop a thousand pounds in capital and a work crew of indentured servants, many of whom ran away when they heard they were going to the wilds of America.

Thomas Morton: An Early Swinger Who Really Swung

He came with Capt. Wollaston aboard the good ship "Unity", a gentleman lawyer fond of quoting Latin, possibly on the dodge from an embezzlement charge, with an eye for the dusky ladies and an opportunity to make a fast quid.

He departed a lonely exile aboard the "Handmaid", despised and feared by Pilgrim and Puritan, with the smoke rising behind him from the righteous fires that were searing from the face of the earth the scenes of his revelries.

His name was Thomas Morton of Clifford's Inn, gent., and for a brief time in the 1620's he made a certain hill overlooking Quincy Bay synonymous with Sodom and Gomorrah - in the view of Pilgrim and Puritan at least.

Morton was one of a small band of adventurers who arrived in June, 1625, with Capt. Wollaston and 30 indentured servants to establish a trading post and make their fortunes swapping trinkets with the Indians.

It didn't turn out that way immediately so Capt. Wollaston, whose first name has been mislaid in history, skipped off to Virginia to recoup by selling off a few of his servants into virtual slavery to the tobacco planters.

A man named Fitcher was left in charge of the party that remained on the hill the Indians called Passonagesit and he proved to be no match for Morton, who was "gent", in name only.

"Which one of you is going to be sold in Virginia next?" he asked the seven indentured servants who had been left on the hill.

"I, having a part in the plantation, will receive you as my partners so you will be free from service and we will converse, trade, plant and live together as equals and support and protect one another."

The servants, of course, bought the scam, shipped the hapless Fitcher off to Plymouth and Morton got down to business, which was making money, having fun and outraging the Pilgrims in approximately that order.

He was an instant success as an Indian trader. While others gave them colored cloth and beads for their furs, Morton gave them what they really wanted - guns and booze. The trade value of colored cloth and beads dropped sharply.

Indians with firewater didn't bother the Pilgrims all that much. They liked a glass of beer themselves once in a while. But the thought of an Indian roaming the forest with a loaded firearm was something else again.

New England was like this in the year 1626:

About 200 people lived in the metropolis, Plymouth. The second city, Wessagusset, [Weymouth] was smaller. Scattered families lived around Shawmut [Boston] and on Thompson's Island in the Harbor. Some traders were at Nantasket, Cape Ann and Portsmouth.

The Indians of the coast were a pretty scruffy lot, decimated and beaten down by the plague. But who knew what breed of savages lived in the western wilderness and what manner of conspiracies they were hatching.

Guns in the hands of Indians?

Morton's crowning achievement came on May Day, 1627, when he renamed his hill "Mare-mount" [mountain by the sea], or simply "Merrymount" [he loved the play on words] and then...but let Morton himself tell it:

"They prepared to set up a maypole upon the festival day of Philip and Jacob and therefore brewed a barrel of excellent beer and provided a case of bottles to be spent, with other good cheer, for all comers on that day.

"And upon May Day they brought the maypole to the place appointed with drums, guns, pistols, and other fitting instruments for that purpose and there erected it with the help of savages that came thither of purpose to see the manner of the revels.

"A goodly pine tree of 80 feet long was reared up, with a pair of buck's horns nailed on somewhat near unto the top of it, where it stood as a fair sea mark for directions how to find out the way to Maremount.

"They had a poem in readiness, which was fixed to the maypole, to show the name confirmed on the plantation.

"There was likewise a merry song made, which was sung by a chorus, every man bearing his part, which they performed in a dance, hand in hand about the maypole, while one of the company sang and filled out the good liquor, like Ganymede and Jupiter."

Morton called himself "mine host of Maremount". What the Pilgrims called him was not printable in William Bradford's family journal.

"Pouring themselves into all profanities," muttered Bradford. "Inviting the Indian women for their consorts, dancing and frisking together [like so many faeries or furies rather], and worse practices."

The Pilgrims asked him to cease and desist. Morton told them to mind their own business. So, in May, 1628, Capt. Myles Standish and an army of eight

The tale of the Paul Revere Bowl . . .

"Paul Revere" Sons of Liberty Bowl

The original Bowl was made by Paul Revere, a great patriot and skilled silversmith, in the year 1768. Later, an exact replica was ordered by the Fifteen Sons of Liberty whose names were engraved around the original Bowl and it memorialized the vehement protest of the Massachusetts General Court to the Government in London against their oppressive and arbitrary acts. The British ordered our court to rescind their protest but they refused to do so by a vote of 92 to 17. The Bowl was used at every meeting of the Sons of Liberty for many years.

The purchase of the original bowl from a private source was made possible by contributions from school children, private parties and by the Museum of Fine Arts of Boston, Mass., where it is now on public exhibition in the main rotunda.

An exact replica of this Famous Bowl is now available with the original inscription

To the memory of the glorious ninety-two members of the House of Representatives of Massachusetts Bay, who, undaunted by the insolent menaces of the Villains in Power, from a strict regard to Conscience and the Liberties of their constituents, on the 30th of June, 1768, voted NOT TO RESCIND.

Thomas Morton An Early Swinger

Pilgrim fathers were dispatched to Merrymount to make Morton an offer he couldn't refuse.

The ensuing Battle of Merrymount was Gilbert and Sullivan farce, no matter which version you buy.

Standish's army appeared at Morton's log house in the early morning. He demanded the surrender of the three men inside. One of them was scared out of his wits. Another was coked out of his mind. Only Morton was ready to fight. And willing, too.

"Mine Host" charged out the door. He took aim at Standish but one of the Pilgrims knocked his gun up. Morton's drunken follower ran into a Pilgrim sword and cut his nose, the only casualty.

That was the Pilgrims' version.

When Standish [or Capt. Shrimp, as Morton called him, for he was short and inclined to reddon about the face when angry] appeared with his army, Morton surrendered readily only to be beaten up by the cowardly Standish.

That's the way Morton told it.

Whatever happened, Morton was captured, taken to Plymouth and shipped back to England on the earliest boat and the traders of Plymouth, with their colored cloth and beads returned to full value, breathed a collective sigh of relief.

Morton returned in 1629 but old Merrymount was not the same. For one thing there were Puritans living in Boston now and their Massachusetts Bay Colony held jurisdiction over the hill by the sea. The Puritans made short shrift of Mine Host.

He was arrested, tried summarily, set in stocks and ordered deported to England. As his ship pulled out of the harbor, a brand was touched to his house and all his possessions in Merrymount and he was forced to watch it burn.

Morton, who must have been something of masochist, was back a third time in 1644 but the old fire was gone. The unforgiving Puritans jailed him, fined him and deported him to Maine, where he died about 1646.

By then he had sunk so low, it was reported, that he was "content to drink water."

Quincy Shipyard: Watson's Other Invention

7-Masted Schooner To Nuclear and Super Ships

It began with a 50-horsepower marine engine painstakingly constructed by the new firm of F. O. Wellington & Co. for a small passenger steamer out of Damariscotta, Maine, in the early 1880's.

The latest was a 939-foot super tanker built by General Dynamics Quincy Division for Burmah Tankers Ltd. of England, capable of transporting 125,000 cubic meters of liquefied natural gas across the Atlantic Ocean. In the intervening 90-odd years, more than 1,000 ships, including one of the mightiest battlewagons of them all, USS Massachusetts, has gone down the ways from what is known locally as the Fore River Shipyard.

Quincy, with its more than 27 miles of waterfront and deepwater channels, has been in the forefront of American shipbuilding since 1696 when the ketch "Unity" was built at Ship Cove, the site of the present shipyard.

The 116-foot "Massachusetts", in its time the largest merchant vessel built in North America, was launched for the China trade in 1789 at the shipyard of Daniel Briggs in Philip's Head at Germantown.

Unfortunately, she started life as a jinx ship when a soothsayer, Moll Pitcher of Lynn, forecast that the ship and all her crew would be lost. It took three tries to fill her complement for her maiden voyage.

Massachusetts reached Canton without mishap, Moll Pitcher notwithstanding, and was sold for $65,000 to the Danish East India Co.

Deacon George Thomas turned out 32 clipper ships over 23 years from his shipyard at Quincy Point, the last of them the graceful 2,200-ton "Red Cloud", launched in 1877 when Thomas was 82 years old.

It was in the early 1880's that Thomas A. Watson, relaxing from his labors with Alexander Graham Bell on the telephone, began making marine engines in a little machine shop on the Fore River in Braintree in partnership with Frank O. Wellington.

It was struggling along as the Fore River Engine Co. until the USS Maine blew up in Havana Harbor and the Spanish-American War of 1898 placed a premium on naval vessels.

Fore River Engine Co. landed contracts to build the torpedo boat destroyers "Lawrence" and "MacDonough" and, late in 1899, the 3,100 ton cruiser "Des Moines".

In order to launch "Des Moines", the Fore River Engine Co. moved two miles north on the river to Quincy Neck where the stream was wider and deeper. The Shipyard remains there today.

It became the Fore River Ship and Engine Co. in 1901, the Fore River Shipbuilding Co. in 1904, and a subsidiary of the Bethlehem Steel Co. in 1913.

Bethlehem's first great vessel was the battleship "Nevada", launched in 1914, which survived badly damaged both the Japanese attack on Pearl Harbor and the atomic bomb tests at Bikini in 1946. She had to be sunk by naval gunfire.

As the Fore River Plant of the Bethlehem Shipbuilding Corp. during World War I, the Yard and its affiliate, the Victory Plant in Squantum, turned out more destroyers than all the other shipyards in the country combined.

But it was in World War II that the Fore River Shipyard won its international spurs.

On a visit to Quincy in the summer of 1941 as war clouds gathered on the Atlantic and Pacific horizons, Admiral Ernest J. King exhorted workers at the Yard: "You build 'em and we'll fight 'em!"

And build 'em they did!

Between Pearl Harbor and V-J Day [Aug. 14, 1945], the Fore River Shipyard launched 92 ships. Three of them, including the light cruiser "Pasadena", were delivered in one day [June 8, 1944]. HMS Reynolds was built in a record 24½ days.

At its peak of wartime employment on Jan. 15, 1943, the shipyard employed 32,000 men in Quincy and its auxiliary yard in Hingham. The U.S. Navy gave it five consecutive "E" [for excellence] awards.

Among the ships launched at Fore River:

The battleship Massachusetts, 35,000 tons, launched Sept. 23, 1941, a full 15 months ahead of schedule; sank the French giant Jean Bart at Casablanca in her first action; logged 225,000 wartime miles and 35 engagements without losing a man.

The aircraft carriers Lexington II, Wasp II, built in 20 months from keel to launch; Bunker Hill, John Hancock, built and delivered in a record 14½ months; and Philippine Sea, which went to Antarctica with Admiral Richard E. Byrd in 1947.

The cruiser Quincy II, launched June 26, 1943, which supported the invasions of Normandy on D-Day, 1944, and southern France, and transported President Franklin D. Roosevelt to the summit conference at Yalta in 1945.

The Yard also claimed to have originated that most mysterious of World War II graffiti, "Kilroy was here!"

Seems there was a checker named Jim Kilroy, whose job it was to go around and count the number of holes filled by each riveter, who was paid by piece work. Each rivet Kilroy counted was checked off so that it would not be counted twice.

Some wily riveters discovered that if they erased Kilroy's check mark, the counter on the next shift would credit them again. So, instead of a mere check, he would scrawl on the ship "Kilroy was here!"

The Yard was turning out ships so fast that there was no time to paint over the words and Kilroy's name began popping up in the most unlikely places all over the world, to the delight of soldiers and sailors everywhere.

After the war, the Fore River Shipyard turned out an amazingly diverse number of ships.

There were the twin passenger and cargo vessels, Constitution and Independence, for American Export Lines; the nuclear subs Sunfish and Whale; the Apollo tracking ships Vanguard, Redstone and Mercury.

There was the world's first nuclear-powered surface vessel, the Long Beach; and the 108,500 ton super tanker, SS Manhattan, the largest merchant ship built in the United States, capable of carrying 38 million gallons of oil at 18 knots.

The Shipyard was purchased by General Dynamics in 1964 and, after a brief slump in the shipbuilding market, began a comeback with the recent launching of the first LNGs designed to transport liquefied natural gas from Algeria to the States.

The yard now has a $1 billion backlog of contracts which will keep it busy into the 1980's.

The shipyard's multi-million dollar annual payroll is an economic mainstay for Quincy and the South Shore and vital to the entire state.

It was the darndest looking contraption that many among the distinguished gathering had ever seen.

Each of the three wagons had four wheels, 6½ feet in diameter, surmounted by a smaller gear wheel which was used to raise and lower the cargo platform that was slung low between the wheels.

It rode on foot-high wooden rails, topped by iron plate, which rested on stone sleepers or cross ties, placed eight feet apart and firmly supported on crushed granite to a depth beyond the frost line.

On Saturday, Oct. 7, 1826, the wagons were laden with 16 tons of the finest Quincy granite and the opening day guests were properly amazed when a single horse moved the whole thing with ease more than three miles to a special wharf on the Neponset River.

The granite blocks, a particularly hard and weather-resistant stone capable of taking a brilliant polish, were enroute to Charlestown, where they were building a monument to the Battle of Bunker Hill.

The Granite Railway, the first such commercial venture in the United States, was built specifically to transport stone for the Bunker Hill Monument.

That it became successful, and a model for others around the country, is a tribute to three vastly dissimilar men, the engineer Gridley Bryant, the architect Solomon Willard and the financier Col. Thomas Handasyd Perkins.

Bryant, who grew up poor down the coast in Scituate, was 37 at the time, but already an engineer of note. He once described his boyhood thusly:

"I was generally at the head of the young urchins of our neighborhood and, when there was a fort to be constructed or a cabin to be built in our plays, I was always appointed chief engineer by common consent."

INCLINED PLANE was designed by Gridley Bryant to bring granite from the tip of the quarry down an 80-foot vertical to the level of the railway by means of an endless chain.

He was apprenticed to a Boston builder at 15, his own man at 21 and a success from the start.

He invented the eight-wheeled railroad car and, when a fellow named Ross Winans of Baltimore sued to establish a patent on it, Bryant was able to prove his claim to the satisfaction of the U.S. Supreme Court. Nevertheless, he died broke.

Willard, then 43, left the family farm in Petersham in the wilds of central Massachusetts for Boston to learn carpentry, which led to wood-carving, then to stone-carving to drawing to architecture.

From all accounts [no likeness of him exists] he was a bear of a man, gentle, obliging, industrious and thoughtful to a fault. Frivolity, it was said, was alien to him and he was never known to run. He could be crotchety, too.

When Perkins, who well knew the value of a dollar, suggested that he might be spending too much money, Willard quit in a huff and refused to come back until Perkins ["the most unfit person on earth"] was eased out as secretary of the Bunker Hill Association.

Perkins was the autocratic, 52-year-old merchant king of Boston who was said to have been offered the post of Secretary of the Navy by Takes the guesswork out of Microwave cooking.

Eliminates Overcooking or Undercooking.

G.E.'s Automatic Chef makes microwave cooking truly automatic for many foods. This revolutionary idea in microwave cooking lets you cook by temperature. The Automatic cooking control senses the internal temperature of food as it cooks, and turns the oven off automatically and signals you when the food is done. No guesswork, no pot watching!

G.E.'s JET90 offers automatic cooking that lets you prepare roasts, casseroles, soups with carefree ease, because you don't have to rotate or turn these foods or guess at cooking times.

President George Washington, and turned it down with the observation that he owned more ships than the Navy.

It was Perkins who lobbied the Railway's charter through a puzzled and obstinate Massachusetts Legislature, which had never been called upon to incorporate a commercial railroad before.

He invested in the Granite Railway reluctantly at first, then gradually bought out most of the other stockholders when his business sense told him the Railway had itself a captive customer, the Bunker Hill Association, in which he was also an officer.

"I think I may safely call it my road," he once said, "not only because I set it a-going, but because I own three-fifths of it."

Some of Perkins business acumen rubbed off on Bryant and Willard, too.

Exploring the hills of West Quincy, they came across a ledge of seamless granite that Willard deemed just right for the monument and Bryant bought it cheap with borrowed money [$250] because the owner thought it worthless since it was so far from transportation.

Later, Bryant sold the rights to the quarry to the Bunker Hill Association for $375 - a $75 profit.

Even in its early days, the Granite Railway was a tourist attraction of some magnitude.

Daniel Webster, who used to stop off for a pick-me-up in Quincy enroute from Boston and Washington to his home in Marshfield, viewed it and decided that it would never succeed because of the frost that would form on the rails in the winter.

A group of men from Maryland came to look it over one day and they must have decided it was good because two years later they broke ground for the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad.

The President of the United States, a local boy named John Quincy Adams, visited in August, 1827, got caught in a thunderstorm and took shelter in a shed where Willard's stonecutters were hacking away at monument granite.

A group of visitors was riding up the Railway's incline in an empty car on July 25, 1832, when the chain broke and catapulted them over a 40-foot cliff. One was killed in what may have been the first railroad fatality in the United States.

About halfway from quarry to river, at a place where the railroad crossed the Plymouth Road, a quarry town sprang up almost overnight. It was called Railway Village and, when the railway was no longer a novelty, it became East Milton.

On a Saturday night, it assumed the aspects of a Western cowtown as the stonecutters of West Quincy marched down the road to the Hotel Milton in Dorchester Lower Mills to cut the granite dust in their throats with a few stiff draughts.

The building of the Bunker Hill Monument, as it turned out, was a long-running production for the Granite Railway.

The Association went broke in 1829 only to revive four years later when the Massachusetts Charitable Mechanics Association, proprietors of the Mechanics Building in Boston, came through with a $10,000 grant.

It foundered again in 1840 and was saved by a $30,000 donation from a month-long fair run by a group of civic-minded ladies.

The monument was finally dedicated on June 17, 1843, precisely 20 years and 10 days after the Association was formed to build it.

The Granite Railway Co. survived until 1870 when most of its track was taken over by the Old Colony Railroad which in turn became a division of the New York, New Haven and Hartford.

Today much of the roadbed, over which freight moved commercially on rails for the first time in America, is buried under the macadam of the Southeast Expressway.

THE FIRST PARISH CHURCH, in Quincy Sq., towers over Hancock Cemetery in foreground. It is known as the "Church of Presidents" because Presidents John and John Quincy Adams and their wives are entombed in the structure's crypt. Built in 1828, this is the fourth edifice of the church which dates back 340 years. One of its early ministers was Rev. John Hancock, father of the patriot and first signer of the Declaration of Independence.

The Gravestones At Hancock Cemetery Tell Their Own Stories

Even now, the words engraved on the tombstone intrigue visitors to Hancock Cemetery, the Old Burying Ground of colonial Quincy.

They read:

"Erected to the memory of John R. Grieve: Died Nov. 12, 1850, age 22 years, and Hannah Banks, his wife, died Nov. 12, 1850, age 15 years. Both of Zanesville, Ohio. Deluded by the writings of A. J. Davis."

The mystery of John and Hannah has never been fully solved.

They came to Quincy in 1850, not as man and wife, but as male cousins, John Green and George Sands. They obtained work in a shoe factory on Baxter St., but rarely left their lodgings on Elm St., spending long hours reading books on spiritualism.

Co-workers thought that George Sands looked frail, almost effeminate. It was widely suspected that "he" was a girl. A scheme was devised to test the theory.

One day at lunch one of the shoe workers tossed George an apple. A man would catch it by closing his legs; a woman by spreading her skirt. Guess what "George" did!

Humiliated, John and Hannah never went back to the factory. Nor did they ever return to the house on Elm St. Their frozen bodies were found the next spring by rabbit hunters on Penn's Hill, locked in a loving embrace.

Several months later, the father of John Grieve arrived from Ohio to bury the young couple. It was he who directed the words to be chiselled on the headstone. He explained no further.

It was believed that A. J. Davis was Andrew Jackson Davis, a spiritualist, hypnotist and faith healer then practicing in Boston. His connection with John and Hannah was never established.

Among their belongings found in the Elm St. lodging house were these words, written by 15-year-old Hannah Banks:

"To the oppressed and downtrodden, to the suffering and afflicted, I would cry out ... Death is only an event, only a circumstance in the eternal life experience of the human soul. Death is simply a birth into a new and perfect state of existence."

Not far from the grave of John and Hannah is a tomb bearing words that cry out of an earlier injustice:

"Three precious friends under this tombstone lie

"Patterns to aged, youth and infancy.

"A great mother, her learned son, with child,

"The first and last went free. He was exiled.

"In love to Christ, this country, and dear friends

"He left his own, cross'd seas and for amends

"Was here extoll'd, and envy'd, all in a breath.

"His noble consort leaves, is drawn to death.

"Stranger changes may befall us ere we die,

"Blest they who will arrive eternity.

"God grant some names, O thou New England's friend.

"Don't sooner fade than thine, if times don't mend."

The tomb with its cryptic epitaph contains the family of the Rev. Leonard Hoar, third president of Harvard College, a man too liberal for his times.

He was forced by the General Court of the Massachusetts Bay Colony to resign at the instigation of religious opponents and jealous colleagues for permitting Harvard to "languish and decay." Eight months later, in November, 1675, he was dead at 45.

Only last winter, the same General

Court, now of the Commonwealth of Massachusetts, righted the 301-year-old wrong done to the Rev. Mr. Hoar by "proclaiming and confirming his innocence of any misdeeds while president of Harvard College."

They are but two of the more than 800 graves in the old cemetery beside City Hall.

The oldest is that of the Rev. William Thompson [1666], first minister of the Church of Christ at Mount Wollaston; the newest that of Annie Evelyn French, who died in 1948 at age 90.

Presidents John and John Quincy Adams, and their wives were buried there briefly but later moved to crypts in the First Parish Church across the street.

Steel Industry Born Here

Jail was better than that!

When, after a search from Maine to Plymouth, he decided to locate in Quincy, Winthrop was also granted 3,000 acres of land, with subsidiary land rights elsewhere in the colony, and a 21-year monopoly.

The operation was deemed of such importance that the iron workers were given exemption from militia duty, this at a time when war was imminent with the Narragansett Indians and with Ninigret, sachem of the Niantics.

The first iron was turned out in 1644, but young Winthrop was fired the next year, to be succeeded by Richard Leader. It is interesting to note that one of America's earliest industrial magnates toiled for a salary of 100 pounds a year.

The ore from which iron was blasted on the banks of Furnace Brook came from the swamps and bogs. It was not a high quality product. Water power from a dam thrown across the Brook was inadequate. Quincy iron proved to be more expensive than the imported kind.

The Company of Undertakers appealed for fresh money in 1646 and apparently there were enough investors ready to send good money after bad because the furnace was still in operation in 1650 when the Scotch Prisoners arrived.

The Scots were rugged Highlanders, soldiers in the army of the future King Charles II who were captured by Oliver Cromwell at the Battle of Dunbar. They suffered the fate common to most 17th Century prisoners of war.

Cromwell shipped 272 of them to New England, cheap labor in an effort to make the Quincy iron works a paying proposition. It didn't work. The Company of Undertakers went bankrupt in 1653 and "the Woods" went back to the bear and the deer.

Meanwhile, with the same Richard Leader as agent, construction began on a second iron works on the North Shore in Saugus in 1646. When it was completed in 1650 it was recognized as the first integrated iron industry in America.

The pantheon-like interior of the United First Parish Church is superb - acoustics are almost perfect. The church reflects the simple yet elegant nature of the people in 19th century Massachusetts. Designed by Alexander Parris, famous contemporary architect, the 1828 church remains in service. The Presidents Adams and their wives are entombed in the building's crypt.

Adjacent to the altar in the nave of the First Parish Church are memorial tablets to Quincy's Presidents - John Adams and John Quincy Adams. The Italian marble tablets testify to the Presidents' service to the community and the nation.

Candidates File For Sept. 14 Election

4 Challenge Brett For State Representative Seat

Four candidates filed nomination papers Tuesday to challenge veteran State Rep. Joseph E. Brett for the Third Norfolk District seat he has held 18 years.

The primary election will be held Tuesday, Sept. 14, with the final election on Tuesday, Nov. 2.

As filing deadline for state representative passed at 5 p.m. Tuesday Brett found himself with a quartet of contenders:

Michael W. Morrissey of 88 Colby Rd., Atlantic; Alley E. Melanis of 37 Shoreham St., Squantum; John L. McIntyre of 40 Ocean St., Squantum, and Jens E. Thornton of 14 Orchard St., Squantum.

Quincy's other three State Reps., Thomas Brownell in the First District, Robert Cersoli in the Second and James A. Sheets in the Fourth, were unopposed, as was State Sen. Arthur H. Tobin in the First Norfolk Senatorial.

Attorney Joseph Killion of Quincy, who was reported to be gathering signatures for a run at Tobin's post in the Senate, had not filed by the deadline.

"I don't intend to file in Quincy," he said, "but I am still considering running."

Killion reportedly took out nomination papers in Braintree and collected an estimated 2,000 signatures.

The Sun checked both Holbrook and Braintree, which with Quincy comprise the senatorial district.

The Holbrook town clerk's office reported Killion did not file there. The Braintree town clerk's office reported it does not keep records of the return of nomination papers but sends them out to the Secretary of State's office.

Others filing in Quincy prior to the deadline included:

District Attorney: William D. Delahunt of 43 Myopia Rd., Wollaston, the incumbent; and Louis Goldstein of Milton.

Governors Council: Patrick J. [Sonny] McDonough of Boston, and Rodney S. Brooks of Dorchester.

Clerk of Court: John P. Concannon of Braintree.

County Commissioners: George B. McDonald of 133 Grove St., West Quincy; James J. Collins of Milton; Edmund P. Harrington of 73 Pleasant St., [Cont'd on Page 25]

State Strike Cause

Nut Island Raw Sewage May Close Beaches

Quincy was faced with the loss of its MDC beaches Tuesday night as some 60 workers at the Nut Island Sewage Treatment Plant joined a general strike of state employees leaving raw sewage going out into the Bay.

A spokesman for the MDC said the commission was taking water samplings of the Bay and as soon as pollution reaches a certain level the beaches would be shut down.

Actually, it was a question of the beaches remaining closed since they did not open Monday and Tuesday due to the lack of life guards.

The walkout at Nut Island on Tuesday left the plant manned by four management workers who were able only to chlorinate the sewage as it went through into the Bay.

If the strike of state employees continues beyond today [Thursday] the Nut Island sewage treatment plant may wind up in federal custody.

City Councillor Dennis E. Harrington said that he and Councillor Leo J. Kelly will meet with MDC Commissioner John F. Snedeker to determine if personnel at the plant are able to treat and chlorinate the sewage properly.

"If not," said Harrington, "we will ask Gov. Dukakis to declare a state of public health emergency so that federal personnel can step in and run the plant."

Harrington said that he and Kelly went down to the Nut Island plant Monday to determine if the 3 p.m. and midnight shifts were sufficient to continue the operation of the plant on the first day of the strike. They were.

"The 7 a.m. [Tuesday] shift was not sufficient," said Harrington, "but Mr. Snedeker conferred with the union and he was assured that the union would cooperate fully in maintaining operation."

"If the strike persists, however, or if there is a lot of rainfall, they will not be able to cope with the situation and we will have raw sewage flowing out into the bay."

$38,096 For Street Lighting

The City Council Monday night appropriated $38,096.09 to promote better street lighting in all sections of the City.

The money will come from a budget category called "overlay, 1973 credit balance."

Auditor Charles L. Shea

explained it as money raised by taxes in 1973 to cover such things as abatements and court suits but never had to be used.

After a certain period of time, it can be used for unforeseen expenses.

Gannett Rd. Traffic Pattern Changes Considered

The Traffic Commission is considering some changes in the traffic patterns on Gannett Rd., Adams Shore.

City Council resolutions, offered by Councillor Paul D. Harold, would:

- Make Gannett Rd one way with "do not enter" signs at the intersection of Sea St.

- Place "no parking" signs on Gannett Rd at the intersection of Sea St.

Daly Remembers When People Thought Trade School Was For Misfits

MAURICE J. DALY

By TOM HENSHAW

It was called Quincy Trade School, a sort of step-child of the public school system, back in 1940 when Maurice J. Daly joined the faculty to teach auto mechanics.

"We were in a wing out in back of the high school," Daly recalls. "The faculty only had 12 members. There were about 200 students. People thought of it as a school for misfits who couldn't do academic work."

This month, Daly, 66, retired as assistant superintendent for occupational education, boss of the $7.5 million Quincy Vocational Technical School with its 72 teachers and an enrollment of 1,180 students. "We gave $2,500 in occupational scholarships last year," he says with a touch of pride. "That was unheard of in 1940."

"It's very competitive just to get into the school now. We have long waiting lists. The whole tenor of the times has changed. Employment training is fast turning into the mainstream of education."

Although he spent most of his 36-year teaching career in Quincy, Daly's reputation in vocational education is nationwide, even worldwide.

Twice he was called away from Quincy, once in 1943 to supervise teacher training for the Mass Department of Education and again in 1950 as Program and Policy Development Specialist in the U.S. Labor Department during the Korean War.

He was instrumental in the development of the so-called "cluster" or "family of occupations" concept of vocational training which has become a model for Vo-Tech schools throughout the country and the world.

Under it, for example, a student of plumbing gets a basic education in all the trades of the piping family [steam fitting, heating, refrigeration, etc.] before specializing in plumbing alone.

Delegations from all over the world have visited Quincy to study the workings of the Vo-Tech School, the $7.5 million facility that stands as a monument to Daly's educational skills and ideas.

Twice he had opportunities to go abroad for the Ford Foundation to develop a teacher training institute in Argentina in 1965 and later to set up an industrial education program in the new African nation of Zambia.

He turned both of them down, he explained, "primarily on the fact that it is my desire to follow through with the continuing

Brownell Says Seawall Obstructing Quincy Bay View

Is the sea wall that the MDC is installing along Quincy Shore Drive near Caddy Park spoiling the view of Quincy Bay?

Rep. Thomas F. Brownell [D-Quincy] thinks so and he has a lot of complaints from constituents to back him up.

"It seems that many people are disturbed that the sea wall is obstructing the scenic view of the bay which has been enjoyed by many people who utilize the Drive on a regular basis," Brownell wrote to MDC Commissioner John Snedeker.

"I would like to know if anything can be done to alleviate the obstructed view within the current specifications of the existing contract.

"It is my suggestion that if the grade of the road is increased much of the obstructed view will be restored without creating a safety hazard."

$93,125 In New Wiring

The Department of Wire Inspection issued 91 permits for wiring estimated to cost $93,125 during May, reports Wire Inspector William H. Pitts.

Major wiring projects for the month were a four family town house at 115-121 Martensen St., and a clubhouse for apartments at 175 Quincy Shore Drive.

The department collected $2,062.50 in fees.

8 To Be Cited At Grossman Park Ceremonies Sunday

The annual commemoration program and presentation of certificates of commendation by the Park and Recreation Board and the Conservation Commission will be held Sunday at 2 p.m. at the Reuben A. and Lizzie Grossman Park, Quincy Shore Drive and Fenno St., Wollaston.

Eight certificates of commendation will be presented in recognition of outstanding individual contributions to the improvement of the environmental quality of the city.

Receiving awards will be: Dorothy Kelly, Grace Saphir, Adams Shore IGA Supermarket, Wilma Schields, Elizabeth Lawrence, Alpheus Sloan III, M. Joseph Sweeney and Richard J. Koch.

Invocation will be by Rabbi David Jacobs. Speakers will include James F. Donahue, chairman of the Conservation Commission; Richard J. Koch, executive secretary of the Park and Recreation Board; Mayor Joseph J. Laria; Julia Broderick O'Brien, director of planning of the MDC, and Nissie Grossman, representing the Grossman family.

Presentation of the commendations will be followed by a band concert by the Milton Band under conductor Kenneth Lodge.

A nature walk on the Quincy Salt Marsh Trail will be conducted by Melissa Bedor.

Refreshments will be served at the Beechwood Knoll School at the end of the program.

Board Denies License Requests For 2 More Sub Shops

By TOM BRADY

The City Licensing Board Tuesday, denied two licenses for submarine sandwich shops in the city, verbalizing a new policy to attempt to limit the number of such eating places in the city.

Police Chief Francis X. Finn expressing the sentiments of the rest of the Board said "We are taking a harder look at fast food places, pizza and sub shops because we feel the city is saturated with them."

Fire Chief Edward Barry, noting a "trend to put one on every corner," said he would oppose the two sub shop license requests that came before the board Tuesday. Building Inspector Allan MacDonald asked the board to "decide how many of these you want in the city."

The two license requests which were denied were from Anthony D'Arrigo and Bruno Mastrocola for a common victualers license for Quincy Deli and Subs at 52 Franklin St., South Quincy, and from Mr. and Mrs. Biagio Gregori for a pizza and sub shop at 245 Franklin St., South Quincy, opposite the Adams Birthplaces.

The board denied both requests saying the two locations were not the proper place for those kinds of eating places.

A request from Andreas Zenatos and Nikolaos Regas for a common victualers license for the Olympic House of Pizza at 57 Granite St. in Quincy Center was continued one week because the owners did not appear at the hearing.

In other action, the Licensing Board granted a cabaret license to John's Constitution at 85-89 Franklin St. in South Quincy to allow live entertainment there six days a week and granted a request for John's to open at noon on Sundays.

A request from James C. Short, seeking approval as gas station manager at the Scavuzzo and White Garage at 248 Willard St. in West Quincy was continued one week so Short can provide the board with more information about his plans for the station which he intends to lease.

Short, former city official, was before the board last week seeking a permit to operate a car and boat body repair shop, but withdrew the request when he was told it would require zoning board approval before it could be license.

The board granted a temporary four month second hand license to Mrs. Catherine T. Dahill to operate a used furniture shop at 7 Brook St. in Wollaston.

A request from Leonidas Kambanis for a common victualers license for the Island Seafood Restaurant scheduled to open June 28 at 306-308 Quincy Ave. in Quincy Center was approved by the board pending the approval of the city health, fire, police, and building departments.

The board restricted the hours of the restaurant to 6 a.m. to 9 p.m. citing complaints from people living near the restaurant concerning trucks left running near another restaurant which was previously located on the same site.

The Licensing Board granted one day liquor license to the Wollaston Yacht Club for socials to be held in the club house at 692 Quincy Shore Drive July 3 and Aug. 7, and granted a license to the Renegade Drum and Bugle Corp to conduct a tag day on July 9.

A request from Joseph Vissa and Sons for a transfer of a gasoline and repair shop license from the MacInnis Corp. at 18-20 Furnace Ave., West Quincy, was continued one week when no representative of Vissa and Sons appeared at the hearing.

Harold Proposes Unpaid Consumer Advisor Commission

City Councillor Paul D. Harold has proposed an unpaid Consumer Advisor Commission made up of seven residents of Quincy appointed by the Mayor to "educate, advise, investigate, research and report on" consumer affairs.

The city had a consumer advisor paid out of federal CETA funds until recently, Harold pointed out, but the post has been vacant since the money ran out. Brockton he said, has a very successful commission.

He recommended that the commission be made up of a housewife, a retired senior citizen, an attorney, a member of a labor union, a representative of the retail stores and two others.

The proposal was referred to the City Council's Ordinance Committee.

Eyes Met Audition

Former Quincy Girl Makes Solo Debut With San Francisco Symphony

By POLLY DREDGE

Louise DiMattio, formerly of Quincy, made her singing debut in a recent solo performance with the San Francisco Symphony and the symphony chorus.

It came months after an unexpected presentation of a grant from the San Francisco Arts Commission to study voice at San Francisco State University.

"I was singing with a civic chorus when I heard about the auditions for the grant," she said in a Quincy visit. "I auditioned against 100 or more people for the grant, and when I heard the difficult arias they were singing, I said to myself, 'Louise, go home. You'll never make it.' My piece [Calm as the night] was very simple, but I won!"

A grant for $1,500 for one year, plus a $501-month stipend was awarded to one man and one woman whose voice showed potential.

A vivacious and ambitious 25-year-old, Louise, who now lives in San Francisco, plans to make her first audition with the world-renowned Metropolitan Opera next spring. "No one ever expects to be chosen for the Met," she said, "but you hope someone from a smaller opera company attending the auditions will approach you."

During a short visit with her mother, Mrs. Betty Houston of 33 Puritan Dr., Quincy Center, and her sister, Nancy, 22, of Salem St., West Quincy, Louise performed for 30 or 40 relatives and friends at her mother's home.

Her mother is secretary to Quincy School Supt. Dr. Lawrence Creedon.

With the accompaniment of pianist Rachel Hult, she sang 12 selections — a repertoire for beginning sopranos.

She is also the daughter of Russell DiMattio of Norwell, a salesman at Quincy Motor Co., Quincy. Louise says her singing talent comes from her father who has a good voice.

Her brother, John DiMattio, 19, is currently in the Army, stationed in El Paso, Texas.

Although Louise's grant from the arts commission expired at the end of this spring semester, she has applied for other scholarships and grants. "Since I won the grant, I realized there must be some potential there [in my voice] and it would be stupid not to at least try [to develop it]." She has already been awarded a full-tuition scholarship to continue studying voice, music theory, and composition at San Francisco State University under her teacher, Dewey Camp.

But college is becoming old hat to Louise. A graduate of Fontbonne Academy, she holds a degree in theology from Webster College, St. Louis and a degree in nursing from Forest Park College, also in St. Louis.

She taught theology at Fontbonne for a year, then moved to San Francisco where she worked part-time as a psychiatric nurse at the Alameda County Hospital, Oakland, Calif.

Before her experience with the civic chorus in San Francisco, the spinto soprano had only sung as a hobby with the Fontbonne Glee Club and the Madrigal singers at Webster College.

Now she is a member of the Lamplighters, an American version of a London group that performs Gilbert and Sullivan operas. Last February and March, Louise held the role of Phoebe in the Lamplighters' production of "Yeoman of the Guard".

"There's such a high in performing—it's nothing like emptying bedpans on a ward all day! There's such excitement!"

Computer Vs. Magazine

Q. I read your column regularly and would appreciate it if you would answer a question for me. Two charts have been done for my daughter, one by a computer service, another by one of the monthly astrology magazines. They disagree on the position of the moon and I am hoping that you will tell me the correct placement as it involves two different signs. Her birth date is September 30, 1964. She was born at 4:20 A.M. in Methuen, Mass. Could you please tell me a little bit about her also?

V.M.

A. On that date in Mass., Daylight Savings Time was in effect. At 4:20 A.M. E.D.T., the Moon was in twenty nine degrees and forty one minutes of the Sign of Cancer. One of the charts done for her may have been calculated for 4:20 A.M. Eastern Standard Time which would then show the Moon in Leo. There is one hour difference between E.S.T. and E.D.T. Since the entire state of Mass. was on Eastern Daylight Time, it then is necessary to deduct one hour from E.D.T. to obtain E.S.T.

Her chart shows Jupiter in Taurus; Uranus in Aquarius; Neptune in Scorpio; Sun in Libra; Mars and Venus in Leo; Mercury, Pluto and Uranus in the First House in Virgo which Sign was on her Ascendant. These usually indicate an ability to understand the feelings and needs of others perhaps much better than others are apt to understand her.

There is a tendency to seek peaceful solutions since discord and arguments are likely to upset her considerably. Basically she is a rugged individualist and while she may appear to be flexible she is strong willed and once she has made up her mind she is not likely to change.

She will probably attract many friends and acquaintances in life but they seem to come and go, very few remain for a great length of time. Praise and appreciation for that which she does well is important to her and that is needed when correcting her since she is hypersensitive.

For question to be answered through this column, mail the year, month, day of the month, city of birth, time of day if known and question to Ask Oscar, Box 114, Canton, Mass. 02021. Please sign your name which will not be published. Selected questions can only be answered in this column.

Cassandra Martin, Stephan DiMattio Wed In Bicentennial Ceremony

By POLLY DREDGE

Mr. and Mrs. Stephan J. DiMattio were married Tuesday evening in Wollaston Congregational Church with all the trappings and trimmings of Colonial times.

The bride and groom, the two officiating ministers, the entire wedding party, the families of the bride and groom, and some guests were all dressed in colonial costumes in commemoration of the bicentennial.

Mrs. DiMattio is the former Cassandra R. Martin, daughter of Rev. and Mrs. Martin of 20 Marion St., Wollaston. A graduate of North Quincy High School, she is employed by Kelley Girl.

Mr. DiMattio, the son of Harold DiMattio of 250 Billings St., North Quincy, and the late Mrs. DiMattio, is a graduate of North Quincy High School, and is attending Massachusetts College of Art.

The couple were married by Rev. Charles McEachern, and the bride's father, Rev. Lloyd Martin.

The candle light ceremony was also in remembrance of the weddings of the bride's parents and paternal grandparents which were held on the same date.

The church bells pealed about 20 minutes before the ceremony began in keeping with an old practice to announce to the townspeople something was happening.

Simple bows decorated the pews in the church, and blossoming rosemary plants decorated the reception hall. Rosemary was used in colonial and Revolutionary times as a symbol of remembrance. The maid of honor, Shelly Cedar, and brides maids Carol Capano and Janine McKenna wore sprigs of rosemary on their left wrists, and the bride carried rosemary in her bouquet.

Bridesmaids also carried small baskets of marigolds, tulips, small carnations, and other garden flowers probably found in Colonial gardens at this time of year.

Best man was Gordon Martin, and ushers were James McKenna, Jerry Welch, Steve Yancey and Greg Capano.

All music performed during the ceremony was composed during the 18th century, with the exception of two contemporary pieces. More than 115 guests attended the wedding and reception.

The wedding cake was made from a recipe found in an old cookbook in Williamsburg, and other foods served at the reception were made from old favorite family recipes.

After a wedding trip to Maine, the couple will live in Boston.

Cynthia Norton Attending Sorority Convention In California

Cynthia Norton of Quincy, president of Kappa Kappa Gamma at the University of Massachusetts-Amherst, will represent her chapter at the sorority's national convention this week.

The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph A. Norton of 41 Silver St., Quincy Point, she will receive a bachelor of fine arts degree in architectural design in May, 1977.

The sorority's 51st convention will be held in Coronado, Calif., today [Thursday] through Wednesday, June 30.

Kappa Kappa Gamma has contributed $1.5 million toward advancement of higher education for women since its foundation in 1870.

4 Quincy Representatives Attending Girls State

Four Quincy girls have been selected by four American Legion Auxiliaries in Quincy as representatives to the Massachusetts Girls State being held this week at Bridgewater State College.

Sheila Burke, representing Quincy Legion Auxiliary, Enid Braveman, Morrisette Legion Auxiliary, Judith Timcoe Houghs Neck Legion Auxiliary and Diane Senter, Wollaston Legion Auxiliary, will be among more than 250 representatives from Massachusetts to participate.

Misses Burke, Braveman and Timcoe are Quincy High School students and Miss Senter is a North Quincy High School student.

The girls are selected on the basis of potential leadership qualities to participate in the week-long study of local and state government.

Three girls from the Massachusetts Girls State will be selected to represent the girls of Massachusetts at Girls Nation to be held in Washington, D.C., in late July, under American Legion Auxiliary sponsorship.

S.S. West Mental Health Board Elects Officers

Lloyd E. Wilkie of Milton was re-elected President of the South Shore West Mental Health and Mental Retardation Area Board at its annual meeting.

Wilkie has served as president for the past year when the South Shore Area divided into East and West Boards.

Mrs. Mollie Hirschberg of Quincy was elected first vice-president, Kathy Groon of Brockton second vice-president, Mrs. Anne Kane of Quincy, secretary, Arnold Rinkofsky of Milton, treasurer and Mrs. Bella Krovitz of Quincy, member at-large.

The area board is the mandated citizen advisory board of the Department of Mental Health for the communities of Quincy, Milton and Randolph. The members review the services and budgets of all mental health and retardation programs both for children and adults.

The Commissioner of the Department of Mental Health has given new authority and responsibility to the Area Boards as DMH moves towards more community based programs.

In his acceptance speech Wilkie pointed out some of the new services which are now available to families living in Quincy, Milton and Randolph. He emphasized, however, that there is still a serious need for residential programs and emergency in-patient services.

New members to the Area Board are: Mrs. Ruth Pavan, Mrs. Francis Bellotti and Richard Koch, all of Quincy, and Joseph Welch and Bruce Laing of Randolph.

'Sundae Parties' At Quincy Diet Workshop

The Quincy Diet Workshop is featuring free "Sundae Parties" this week in all classes for members and their guests.

The public will also be welcome to participate.

The sundaes are made with ice milk and tasty, low-calorie toppings such as chocolate mint sauce and strawberry sauce. The recipes will be given to all attending the "Sundae Parties".

A special summer program has been planned again for active members. There will be "diet" recipes for picnics and backyard barbecues and tips for vacationers.

Michel Zumwalt Wins HN Post Flag Essay Contest

Michel Zumwalt of Snug Harbor School, a former resident of Vietnam, was awarded a $50 savings bond as first prize in the Houghs Neck Legion Post flag essay contest during Flag Day exercises held at the Post Home last week.

It is the second year in a row that a student from Snug Harbor has won the contest.

The flag essay trophy will remain on display at the school for another year.

Winners of the contest who received $25 savings bonds were: Lianne Groen of Snug Harbor School; Jacqueline McLaughlin of N.S. Hunting School; Ellen Deedy of Atherton Hough School; Denise Wright, Merrymount School and Holly Morris, Great Hill School.

Main speaker was Alexander Crombie, sergeant-at-arms of the post. He spoke on flag etiquette to students, teachers and parents.

The first prize savings bond was donated by Mrs. Elinor Deveau, a legion member, in memory of her husband, past commander Ernest T. Deveau.

Contest chairman was Mary Timcoe, commander-elect.

Jim Sheets: Is There 'Yes, Yes' In His Eyes?

By HENRY BOSWORTH

Your lips tell us "No, No," but is there "Yes, Yes" in your eyes? The lyrics of a popular tune went something like that some years back and they might just fit the political feelings of one James A. Sheets today.

If you ask Sheets if he is running for mayor, he'll tell you "No." And he's telling you the truth, those close to him say.

But he has that look about him—in the eyes—that makes you think he could change his mind. It's a sort of painful look.

Those close to him say he really has no desire to run for mayor. But, they add, he is pained by the negative image the city has taken on the past few months.

It is not just the bickering between the mayor's office, and the City Council and School Committee, but the fact that Quincy isn't moving ahead. It's standing still—or inching backwards—in the eyes of many.

If this continues, it could bring Sheets into next year's mayoral contest. Even though as of this week, he has no plans to run and as far as he is concerned, he is not a candidate for mayor.

But it's that look in his eyes...

CITY HALL MYSTERY: Jack Salenius, Mayor Joseph LaRaia's executive secretary, is mystified at reports still circulating that he will be leaving the administration. He'd like to know who started the rumors—and why. He plans very much to remain with LaRaia.

NICE GESTURE DEPT: A couple weeks ago The Sun carried a story about Tim Cahill, the outstanding Quincy High School wrestler who has been invited to the U.S. Olympic Wrestling Camp next month.

The story noted that Cahill needs $300 to get him there. First response came from a former opponent of Tim's, Ricky Smith of North Quincy High School.

Ricky, as a member of the Atlantic-North Junior wrestling team lost to Tim who was then a member of the Sterling team.

Ricky sent Tim $5 and wished him the best of luck. Tim's coach, Carmen Mariano thought it was a nice gesture. So do we. Tim, incidentally, now has more than $100 for the trip. And a number of pledges have been received.

YOU MIGHT SAY that Danielle de Benedictis is giving the 11th Congressional District a little style. Her committee is sponsoring a men's and women's fashion show fund-raiser Saturday at 8 p.m. at Monatiquot Village, Braintree. Also dancing, refreshments and door prizes. Tickets at $7.50 per may be obtained by calling 696-0200.

COUNCILLOR AT-LARGE Paul Harold made his TV debut on the Channel 2 Auction. He auctioned off a table of items donated by merchants from the Quincy - South Shore area.

NORFOLK COUNTY Dist. Atty. William Delahunt who launched a cost-cutting campaign in his office some months back, is getting to be a real penny pincher. He's still using envelopes with George Burke's name on them.

REMEMBER KAY KYSER? He had one of the top bands during the "big band era" and, of course, was one of early TV's stars with his "College of Musical Knowledge".

Well, the ol' Perffessor who hails from Chapel Hill, N.C. is right here in Boston now. He is manager of film and broadcasting for the Christian Science Center in Boston.

After the big bands began to fade, he turned to religion and became a Christian Science teacher.

Too bad someone couldn't get him to do a concert for old times sake. Maybe for a worthy cause.

You might not know it, but Kyser one year made more money than even Glenn Miller when the latter was close to or at his peak.

HERE'S ONE: School Committee Vice Chairman John Sullivan recently attended the 40th anniversary reunion of his Charlestown High School Class of 1936. The committee came up with novel name cards so everyone would be sure to remember one another: a photo of the student as he—or she—looked that graduation year 1936. Taken from the class year book.

General Dynamics Shipyard This Week's 'Young Ideas' Topic

By CATHY CONLEY

What's an LNG? How fast does it go? How many wheels on that flat car? What does that gigantic crane do? What are those things that look like quonset huts?

These, and a hundred other questions, were shot at Clyde Perry, industrial relations representative, as he took a school bus full of sixth graders from Great Hill School, Houghs Neck, through the huge General Dynamics Shipyard.

Their questions, his answers, and the students' reactions to the tour are the subject of this week's "Young Ideas", special children's pull-out section on pages 13, 14, 15 and 16.

Our guest editors are Edward Pettinelli and Lynne Nightingale's sixth graders. The guest editors give us a child's eye view of the Quincy shipyard and the LNG supertanker through puzzles, games, artwork and photographs.

In one feature, several children tell what they would like to be if they worked at the shipyard.

This week's "Young Ideas" is sponsored by General Dynamics Quincy Shipbuilding Division.

LaRaia Plans To Revive Industrial Authority

Mayor Joseph J. LaRaia is planning to revive the Quincy Industrial Development Finance Authority to issue tax-exempt municipal bonds to finance new industrial development and expand the old.

"The bonds would not be issued on the credit of the city," said the Mayor, "but on the credit of the company involved. The company would pay less in interest than it would on the corporate bond market."

Permission to establish such an authority was granted by the State Legislature in 1967. Quincy had one during the administration of Mayor James R. McIntyre but has since been dormant, the Mayor said.

"I have directed Community Development Coordinator Paul Anderson to reach out to attract new development and expand the old," said LaRaia.

He said he will appoint five members to the authority, subject to approval of the City Council.

N.Y. Man Named Quincy Red Cross Director

Daniel C. Pritchard, 29, of Elmira, N.Y., has been named executive director of the Greater Quincy Red Cross Chapter, it was announced by Chapter Chairman Stephen T. Keefe Jr. He succeeds James T. Gartland, who is retiring July 16 after 30 years with the Quincy chapter.

Pritchard, a graduate of Cornell University with a degree in sociology, has been executive director of the Chenango County Red Cross Chapter in Elmira for the past year.

He also has been a division representative for the Rochester, N.Y., Regional Division and field representative for the Youth Services Program of the Rochester-Monroe County Red Cross Chapter. He also worked with the United Way of Rochester.

He is married and has one son.

Hearing To Be Held On Badger's Quarry Filling

City Councillor James A. Sheets said Monday night a public hearing will be held within a week on a proposal to fill Badger's Quarry in West Quincy.

Sheets said the hearing was hastened by two incidents that happened in the area in the past few days.

● A youngster had 50 stitches taken as a result of being struck in the face by a broken bottle.

● A 14-year-old was knocked off his bicycle and the vehicle stolen by an older youth who was swimming in the quarry.

"There is no way to remove these hazards short of filling in the quarry," said Sheets.

development of the forward-looking education programs that are being developed in Quincy."

Daly was born in Quincy, first cousin to Maurice J. Tobin, former Mayor of Boston and Secretary of Labor.

"My father, Timothy Daly, and his mother were brother and sister," he says. "We were both named Maurice Joseph, after the same grandfather."

He left what was then [1939] a good job as service manager of Quincy Motons to teach auto mechanics at the old Quincy Trade School.

"I considered it a step forward," says Daly. "I like teaching. I prepared myself for it. I went to Fitchburg State Teachers College, as it was called then, and later I took guidance and psychology at BU and Harvard."

Once he settled down, his rise in the Quincy School System was rapid. He became assistant director of the Trade School in 1954, director in 1957 and finally assistant superintendent of schools for vocational-technical education in 1964.

It was in the late '60's that he initiated "Project Able," a five-year study program in collaboration with the American Institutes for Research from which developed the "family of occupations" theory of vocational education.

In retirement, Daly plans to be almost as active as ever.

"I'm going to travel a lot," he says. "I'm planning the first trip to Ireland to look up some relatives. Then I'll visit my daughter in California."

"I'll do some writing if I can squeeze the time in. I'll stay busy in the field of education by doing some consulting work."

"And, of course, I'm still a mechanic at heart. I love woodworking and mechanical things. I'll do some gardening, too."

He and his wife, Mary, plan to live in Quincy, "or not far away." They have two children, Mrs. Margaret Pats of Altadena, Calif., and Joseph, an attorney who lives in Hanson, and five grandchildren.

22-Week Shipyard

Strike Settled By TOM HENSHAW

Members of Shipbuilding Workers Local 5 began returning to their jobs at the Fore River Shipyard following a 22-week strike that was settled when a new three-year contract was signed covering eight East Coast yards of the Bethlehem Shipbuilding Co.

James McGonnigal, executive secretary of Local 5, predicted that between 1,500 and 2,000 workers would never return to the Fore River yard since they have obtained other jobs during the long walkout.

The shipbuilders received a 25 cents an hour increase in wages spread over three years and increased pension, insurance and sick pay benefits under the new contract. Strikers were given 10 days to return to their jobs.

Mayor Amelio Della Chiesa said the strike cost the city of Quincy an estimated $255,969 in veterans and welfare benefits and police service, representing a $1.43 increase in a future tax rate.

RAIL BRIDGE FIRE

Freight trains between Boston and Quincy were forced to take a long detour through Canton, Stoughton, Taunton and Middleboro after a spectacular nighttime fire destroyed the New Haven Railroad's trestle over the Neponset River.

The fire, believed to have been started by sparks from a defective brake shoe on a freight train, tied up traffic on Hancock St. and Quincy Shore Boulevard as motorists paused to watch the flames. Damage was estimated at $150,000.

CIVIL DEFENSE FUROR

Thirty five members of the Quincy Civil Defense Unit's Citizens Radio Patrol announced plans to resign after Director Laurence Mattie fired 12 members who were involved in the chase and capture of a stolen car.

They pursued the stolen car with three youths inside and finally caught them on Independence Ave., South Quincy.

Police, who were unaware of the car theft and the chase, charged that the members of the patrol had interfered with police business. The 12 said Mattie ordered them into the chase. Mattie denied it.

SALARY BOOST AT HOSPITAL

The City Council authorized a $2,000 salary increase for Dr. John Fletcher to enable him to remain as assistant pathologist and director of medical education at Quincy City Hospital for $18,000 a year.

Councillors Charles L. Shea and James S. McCormack questioned Hospital Business Manager Walter Smith's contention that Dr. Fletcher's leaving would bring on an emergency at the Hospital.

"No one man can constitute such an emergency," said McCormack.

WATER BAN

The Quincy Water Department imposed a ban on watering lawns between 4 p.m. and 9 p.m., following announcement by the MDC that Quincy was one of 30 Greater Boston communities facing an emergency water shortage.

General Foreman Lino Ponti said water pressure in Quincy during the past week had dropped to 61 pounds from the normal 72.

A REGIONAL ECONOMY

By ERIC SWIDER

Let's Handicap Everyone?

The process of determining whether Logan Airport will be allowed to continue evening operations is now being conducted in the Board Room at Massport.

Surveys and questionnaires have been developed and will be distributed to almost everyone who might be impacted by the decision.

At their last meeting of the special task force appointed by the Governor to study this question, representatives of the airline industry were present to discuss their perceptions of how an evening curfew would impact on them and Logan operations.

The picture they painted was not pretty. Because of time zone differences and the proximity of Logan in the nation [tucked up in top right hand corner] eliminating service here for eight hours per day makes us inaccessible to some parts of the country for practical purposes for 16 hours per day.

One of the proponents for evening curfews suggested that the airlines estimated impacts were exaggerations, since most of the really necessary freight and passenger activity could be diverted to New York or Connecticut airports. Airline officials argued that an evening ban at Logan would undoubtedly spread over a period of time to a nationwide ban, and that Massachusetts officials, if they were to impose one, had better hope that such a thing happen.

They argued that a curfew at Logan would make Massachusetts so uncompetitive to firms who are desirous of or need evening service, that the only way to save those companies for Massachusetts would be to similarly handicap every other major market in the country.

Noise, the spokesman pointed out, is a direct function of economic activity. Ghost towns, we were reminded, are practically noise free.

Providing similar handicaps to other major markets as those "enjoyed" by us in Massachusetts, was, in my book, the major idea that came out of that meeting.

We've read recently in Business Week how the second war between the States, in the form of shifts in economic growth, is being won by the Southeast and Southwest, mostly at the expense of New England.

Many of the liberal types around here suggest that within two or three decades those southern locations will have the same burdens in social legislation and other public costs that have made us sluggish; and at that point, Massachusetts will share its stigma as being anti-business with the rest of the nation. My personal experience with Southerners is that two or three decades is an ambitious estimate. Southerners will move as slow on solving our problems for us as they are reputed to be. No, instead we must take the initiative here to provide them with the problems quicker than they would deal with them if left to their own devices.

One way is to seek nationalization of many of our heretofore state giveaway schemes. A national welfare standard, a uniform tuition schedule for all state universities and colleges, a similar unemployment benefits program for every jurisdiction, national rates for fire, police, teachers and other public employees, and most importantly, a national environmental standard are a few of the goals we might encourage be pursued by our Congressional delegation.

You immediately get the feeling that this idea comes from a mind that was impoverished from oxygen at birth. You also recognize that this scheme would, while aiding Massachusetts, both up the rest of the Nation and probably make the United States seriously uncompetitive in the world marketplace.

The other alternative we have is, in my opinion, the more difficult of the two, and that is to repeal all of our legislative mistakes, revise our formulas for aid to be reasonable but not excessive, and to accept National regulatory standards as they are devised rather than "improving" upon them.

The Logan Airport Curfew Study raises some interesting ideas for the future. Let's hope that it helps to raise the level of economic awareness among the proponents for change so that the change they seek will be the kind that will improve our region's competitive stance.

[Eric Swider is Executive Vice-President of the South Shore Chamber of Commerce.]

Lydon Wants FB Golf Course On 50-Year Lease

City Councillor John J. Lydon Jr. wants to place on a sound legal footing an informal 50-year arrangement under which the city uses Furnace Brook Golf Course as a recreational area for $1 a year plus forgiveness of taxes.

State law forbids the city from entering into a lease for longer than one year so the agreement between Quincy and Furnace Brook Golf Club has been carried on a year-by-year basis.

Lydon asked the City Council Monday night to petition the State Legislature for a special bill to permit a 50-year lease.

The agreement originally was entered into a half dozen years ago when Furnace Brook Golf Club was in precarious financial position and faced with the possibility of having to sell the course to a developer.

The City agreed to the 50-year lease arrangement to keep the land open.

"It is not advisable to have the lease come up for renewal each year," Lydon told the Council. "There is nothing to prevent Furnace Brook from saying, 'We are now financially solvent. We don't need the arrangement with the city any more.'"

Councillor John J. Quinn proposed that Lydon's plan be amended to read 45 years with the further stipulation that greens fees to Quincy residents be 50 per cent of the customary charges or $4, whichever is lower.

Auditor Charles L. Shea said the leasing arrangement cost Quincy $22,400 in lost taxes last year. At the rate of $23,000 a year for 50 years, he said, it would cost the city $1,150,000, at which time the city would own the golf course.

Councillor Warren A. Powers suggested that the city obtain an appraisal of what it would cost the city to purchase the land outright rather than lease it for a long term.

The proposal was referred to the Council's Park and Recreation Committee for study.

Meet On Nursing School Phase Out

School and hospital officials were scheduled to meet yesterday [Wednesday] morning to see what can be done for 52 girls who were admitted to the Quincy City Hospital School of Nursing only to find it phased out in an economy move.

Eighteen of them are from Quincy.

"The City Council is concerned with the ethical question," said Councillor Rep. James A. Sheets, one of the movers of the conference. "We have a certain responsibility to them since it is now too late for them to get into another nursing program."

The Wednesday meeting was to be attended by representatives of the Hospital Board of Managers, the chairmen of the Council's Finance and Hospital Committees, an emissary from the Mayor's office, President Edward Pierce of the Junior College, School Supt. Dr. Lawrence P. Creedon, and Mrs. Avilda Schulze, director of the School of Nursing.

The school is to be phased out once the current sophomore class graduates in the spring of 1978.

"We want to explore the possibilities of handling the incoming class for one year," said Sheets. "After that, the problem can be resolved individually."

Parker St. Landtaking Studied

The Planning Board is studying a plan to take some 500 square feet on Parker St., Quincy, in order to widen the street so that fire trucks can move on it.

The land is owned by Redmond G. Sullivan who, said City Councillor John J. Lydon Jr., "is in parts unknown."

$323 Dinner To Thank Senior Volunteers

The City Council Monday night appropriated $323 for the Director of Recreation to pay for a special dinner for senior citizens who volunteered their time to work for the city. The money comes from the out of state travel account of the Mayor and the Council.

Special City Council

Meeting June 30

The City Council will hold its special meeting to deal with the close of the fiscal year at 5 p.m. Wednesday [June 30] in the Council Chamber at City Hall. The Council schedule for the summer calls for meetings to be held when needed.

At Least 10 Church Choirs

Fourth Of July Ecumenical Service To Be Held In Quincy Sq.

Words of the "founding fathers" will alternate with scriptural passages on moral integrity and the responsible community in an ecumenical service of praise and remembrance, to be held on the evening of July 4th in Quincy Sq.

Sponsored by Quincy Heritage and the Quincy Clerical Association, the service is for all residents of Quincy and its neighboring towns. It will start at 7:30 p.m., directly in front of the United First Parish Church.

Seating will be provided for senior citizens in a reserved section.

Combined choirs of at least 10 churches, supplemented by individual singers from other choral groups, will be heard in three anthems: "The Battle Hymn of the Republic," "Old Hundredth Psalm Tune," and "Thanks be to God" by Handel. Robert J. Howard, head of the music department at Eastern Nazarene College, will be the director of the chorus.

In addition to the celebration of the nation's bicentennial year, the ecumenical service will mark the 150th anniversary of the day of John Adams' death.

There will be no sermon or address, but representatives of Jewish, Muslim, Roman Catholic, Greek Orthodox and Protestant groups of Quincy will read from the scriptures. The congregation will be invited to share in the singing of four hymns and the national anthem.

A litany in which statements of the patriots alternate with complementary passages from the Bible will be led by School Supt. Dr. Lawrence Creedon, president of Quincy Heritage.

The invocation and a welcome will be given by Mayor Joseph LaRaia.

Presentation of the colors will be by the Houghs Neck Legion Post.

A brass ensemble, directed by Robert L. Brown of the music department of Eastern Nazarene College, will play the prelude and postlude.

37 Youngsters Receive Diplomas At Dr. Djerf Center

Thirty-seven three and four year olds received Master of Rhyme diplomas from the Dr. Charles Djerf Child Development Center, Faith Lutheran Center, 65 Roberts St.

Dr. Samuel Solomon Named 'Health Provider'

Health Commissioner Dr. Samuel Solomon has been named a "health provider" member of the South Metro Health Council, an advisory group to the Health Planning Council for Greater Boston.

Dr. Solomon was designated to represent the public agency category.

Dr. W. P. Ridder of Quincy was appointed in the physician category and Nurse Ruth S. Dobbie was named in the nursing category.

The "provider" members, 10 in all, will serve on the Council with 18 health consumer members who were elected in April. The Council covers Quincy, Braintree, Hull, Cohasset, Milton, Weymouth, Hingham, Norwell, Randolph and Scituate.

It is one of five such groups acting as advisors to the health Planning Council which is developing an overall health plan for the Greater Boston area.

Atherton Hough

School Wins Award

The student body of Atherton Hough School has earned a Presidential Environmental Merit Award.

Paul G. Keough, Director of Public Affairs of the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency, said the students earned the award for "Operation Clean-Up", an anti-litter campaign conducted on the school grounds.

The students received an Award of Excellence for their outstanding achievement in environmental protection services.

The Information Gap

The public lacks sound knowledge about too many things . . . and funeral service is no exception.

General Dynamics Quincy Shipbuilding Division Presents

Assistant Editors --
Mr. Pettinelli and Miss Nightingale's
6th graders at Great Hill School

Editor, Cathy Conley

A NEWSPAPER BY AND FOR THE CHILDREN OF QUINCY

Artwork by Jeannie Holler, 12

A Visit To to the Quincy Shipyard

How many times have you gone over the Fore River Bridge, looked down at the huge ships in the General Dynamics shipyard, and wondered how these giant tankers were built and repaired?

Well, the two sixth grade classes at Great Hill School had the chance to tour the shipyard. It was fascinating.

Mr. Clyde Perry, an industrial relations representative from General Dynamics, was our guide. He took us on a tour which showed how huge flat pieces of steel eventually became parts of the supertanker, the LNG.

First we saw the pieces of steel lifted up by a giant electrical magnet crane with at least 25 magnets. The sheets were put on rollers and carried to the place where they were cut and bent into many different shapes. In another area these shapes were then put together into sub-units and units. These were carried by gigantic flat cars to the construction site, in the shadow of the 30-story high crane called Goliath. "Guess how many wheels there are on those flat cars. Forty-eight," Mr. Perry said. "I'd hate to have to fix a flat," one of the sixth graders said.

Then we saw the finished product—LNG number 41. The huge tanker will soon carry liquefied natural gas all over the world. It's overall length is 936 feet—the biggest ship ever built at the Quincy shipyard. It's so big in fact, that when it's launched later this year, there will only be five feet on either side as it goes through the Fore River Bridge. "If we ever build a bigger tanker, we'll have to build a bigger bridge," Mr. Perry told the sixth graders.

If I Worked at the General

I'd like to be a guide and show people around the shipyard like Mr. Perry. He told us he was an industrial relations representative. He said the shipyard is 190 acres big and he sometimes goes to every corner in a day. He seemed very proud of the shipyard. Lynne Lydon, 12

I'd like to be a painter of the LNG tanker. Mr. Perry explained that it carries enough liquid natural gas to heat 250,000 homes for a month. The part I like the best is the thing that looks like a quonset hut on top. That's like a giant thermos bottle holding the liquid gas. Karen Keeler, 12

I'd like to be a welder. I'd like to wear the face mask and the gloves and use a big torch. It would be fun to know I was helping put a ship together. I love ships and I love the ocean. Joey Crane, 12 [left]
I'd like to operate the fork lift in the shipyard. On our tour I saw lifts picking up huge crates and welding rods. Imagine operating the gears all by yourself and picking up things so heavy. I've loved trucks since I was a kid. Dick McManus, 12

The Quincy Shipyard

Joanne Crombie, 12, interviews Mr. Clyde Perry of General Dynamics.

Mr. Perry, how old is the Quincy shipyard?
Believe it or not, the shipyard has been one of the leading shipbuilding centers in the United States since the early 1800's.

When did General Dynamics buy it?
In 1964, Joanne.

What kind of ships have you been building since then?
We've delivered 18 ships to the Navy, Joanne, - 4 nuclear submarines, 2 ammunition ships, 6 oilers, 2 submarine tenders and 4 landing ship docks. Also, 3 Apollo tracking ships were delivered to the National Aeronautics and Space Administration.

Why is the LNG so important now?
Because of the growing energy crisis, Joanne. As you know the LNG tanker is designed to carry liquid natural gas. We're the first shipyard in the country to sign contracts to construct LNG tankers.

Where does the tanker carry the gas?
The gas is under those tanks that look like quonset huts. They are like giant thermos bottles which keep the gas at 260 degrees below zero. It is at this temperature the gas become a liquid.

How fast does the LNG go?
The fastest the LNG can go is 20 knots an hour. It takes a 1/2 mile to stop the ship.

Eric Swider Appointed To U.S. Chamber Committee

Eric M. Swider, executive vice president of the South Shore Chamber of Commerce, has been named as a representative to an advisory committee of the U.S. Chamber of Commerce.

Swider was notified of his appointment to the Local Chamber of Commerce Advisory Committee by Herbert S.

Richey, Chairman of the Board of the National Chamber.

Richey noted that the committee on which Swider will serve has already given the national Chamber much useful input and that it is essential to work together to reach mutual goals.

"As a member of this committee, and as a Massachusetts representative," Richey said, "you will be giving our federation more of the kind of input we need on the development of tools, program and publications toward goal accomplishment."

CAROT Reduces Telephone Office Circuit Trouble

Circuit trouble at the Quincy office of New England Telephone has significantly decreased since a mini-computer system was installed to test telephone circuits during the night.

CAROT [Centralized

Automatic Reporting On Trunks] reviews about 14,000 circuits each night from 10 p.m. to 7 a.m. and tests them for transmission volume and noise on the line.

Louis Scrocco, network staff supervisor in charge of the CAROT system for New England Telephone says the system has no effect on calls being placed on a line, and will not interfere with telephone service or the privacy of conversations.

Free To Eligible

Deadline June 30 For Atlantic

House Fixup Applications

The deadline is approaching for low and middle income residents of Atlantic to sign up to have their one or two-family homes fixed up for free under the Atlantic Self-Help Home Improvement Program.

Applications will be accepted at the Atlantic Neighborhood Center, 150 East Squantum St., from 9 a.m. to 12 noon and from 7 p.m. to 9 p.m. on Monday, Wednesday and Friday during the month of June only.

Atlantic residents who live in an area encompassed by Hancock St., Billings Rd., Quincy Shore Drive and Aphorpe St. and have incomes ranging from $7,700 a year for one person to $15,450 for a family of eight may be eligible.

"All information remains confidential," says Mrs. Joanne Condon, chairwoman of the program. "We urge all Atlantic homeowners to participate in this program by applying before Wednesday, June 30."

The Program, which is funded through the Federal Housing and Community Development Act in conjunction with the Mayor's office, has painted and repaired nearly 50 homes in Atlantic during the past two years.

Plant Care Among Center Activities

Joe Clancy of "Earth Plants" will be on hand next Friday [July 2] at the Atlantic Neighborhood Center, 150 East Squantum St., at 1 p.m. to give instructions on how to take care of plants. Plants also will be on sale.

Other events on next week's program at the Center:

Monday - Norma Barriere, community educator, will give information on women's health from 9:30 a.m. to 12 noon.

Tuesday - Tom Mullin,

Kenneth Crowley

receives Franklin-Marshall Degree

189th annual commencement in Lancaster, Pa.

Crowley, who majored in English and Government, is the director of the Rent-a-kid program, will explain the program to youngsters 13 to 18 years old who are interested in summer jobs. A four-week carpentry clinic will hold its first session at 7 p.m.

Wednesday - Senior citizens day with knitting at 10:30 a.m., lunch [bring your own bag lunch] at 12 noon, and bingo at 1 p.m. Seniors may also sign up for a trip to Danvers Mall on July 8.

Thursday - The first 100 youngsters who have already signed up will be taken on a cruise of Boston Harbor at 8:15 a.m. Children may sign up for arts and crafts anytime during the day.

Applications are available for anyone interested in sending a child to camp.

Youngsters will be taken on a trip to Trilside Museum in Milton at 9:30 a.m. July 6, and to the South Shore Music Circus on July 8.

2 Special Programs

At North Quincy Library

Ann Aronson, adult services supervisor of the North Quincy Branch of the Thomas Crane Public Library announces two programs to be held at the branch library this month.

On Monday, June 28, at 7:30 p.m., Judy Luce will lead a discussion about the Birthday group. The group is composed of women who have joined to provide support resources and referrals for women looking for alternative birth experiences.

Tuesday, June 29 at 2 p.m. the New England Aquarium's Travelling Tidepool will bring sea cucumbers, starfish, sea anemones, algae, scallops and other sea creatures.

Both programs are free and open to the public.

4 Quincy Boys Among YMCA Wrestling Winners

The Quincy YMCA recently sponsored a New England high school wrestling tournament in which 173 schoolboys participated.

Eight boys who work out at the Y on Monday and Wednesday evenings won medals.

Quincy High's Joe Moran won the 158-pound crown and teammate Tim Cahill was third. Karl Knudsen of North Quincy High won the heavyweight title.

Gary Oriola of Quincy was second in the 135-pound class, Ed Beck of North third in the 108-pound class and Rich Schiarizzi of North third in the 115-pound class.

The other class winners were Tom Kelly, North Andover, 101; Phil Beati, Lowell, 108; Jac Yong Ko, Watertown, 115; Dana Rasmussen, Tewksbury, 122; Jim Watson, Framingham North, 129; Bob Pettingill, Westfield, 135; Gerry Oliver, Thayer Academy, 141; Scott Bateman, Triton, 148; Jim Gorman, Waltham, 170, and Phil King, North Reading, 188.

NORMAN COLLIER, volunteer wrestling coach at Quincy YMCA, watches Quincy's Tim Cahill and North Quincy's Karl Knudsen work out before the N. E. high school meet at the Y. Knudsen competed in the heavyweight class and Cahill in the 158-pound class.

Rasmussen won the Joe Streadwick Award for the most falls.

Meet officials included Norm Collier, volunteer Y coach, chairman; Y coaches Streadwick and Vaughn Lowejoy; North Quincy Coach Art Fallon, Quincy Coach Carmen Mariano, Francis Gantley and Jack Johnson of Brockton.

ENC To Conduct Gym, Basketball Schools

Eastern Nazarene College will conduct the Wollastont Gymnastics School for those in grades 1 to 6 from July 19 to 23 and the Wollastont Basketball School from July 26 to 30 for those in the 7th and 8th grades [12-14 years of age] and from August 2 to 6 for fifth and sixth graders [10-12 years old].

Both schools will be conducted at ENC's beautiful Lahue Center on the college campus.

Outstanding college and high school coaches in the Quincy area will provide expert professional instruction during an intense week of classes and competition.

"Not all parents can afford a resident camp," said Jim Smith, ENC athletic director and basketball and baseball coach, who will be one of the basketball coaches along with Eddie Miller, North Quincy High, assistant coach and former North Quincy and Boston State standout.

"We have developed a day camp which will provide all the instruction any boy or girl would receive in a resident camp at a savings of about $100. A student cannot find a better or more qualified coaching staff."

Instructors for the gymnastics school will be Nancy Detwiler, ENC professor, gymorama director and physical ed specialist, and Ken McPhee, assistant gym coach at North Quincy High and also a physical ed specialist.

They will be assisted by Debbie Alessi, premier gymnast from North Quincy High, and Susan Cooper, balance beam specialist, also from North Quincy High. Guest instructor will be Hildegard Kiel, champion of Ostriesland, Germany, who trained with the British Olympic team.

WALK-IN SERVICE

Stay Alive!

By Jack Silverstein

SAFETY-CONSCIOUS SKIPPER

If you're one of the 8,000,000 small-boat owners who will chauffeur passengers on the water this summer, study these warnings.

Carry a Coast Guard-approved flotation device for every person aboard. Make sure weak swimmers and non-swimmers wear them at all times. EVERYONE should wear the safety device when weather conditions are hazardous.

Don't overload the boat with passengers, and don't overpower the craft with horsepower that's unsafe for the size of the boat. In a small-boat passengers shouldn't stand or sit on the gunwales when the boat is under way. Running lights are necessary for nighttime operation. Take a battery-operated radio along to keep posted on changing weather conditions.

Most boats won't sink if swamped or capsized. Stay with the craft until help arrives unless you are in dangerous or extremely cold water. In that case, try to get to shore if you're close enough.

Mezzetti Fires No-Hitter, Police Club Wins 3 More

The Quincy Police Boys Club won three more games during the past week and leads the Quincy National Babe Ruth League with a 9-2 record.

The Police walloped Hancock Bank, 10-1, with Fran Donovan pitching four-hit ball, striking out five and walking four. He also had three hits. Gary DiNardo drove in two runs with a bases loaded single and Tom Brennan, Kevin McKinnon, Bill O'Connell also drove in runs. Dave King had two hits for Hancock.

Bob Mezzetti pitched a no-hitter facing only 24 batters over the seven-inning route in a 6-0 win over Granite City Electric. He struck out six and walked four. Donovan had three hits, Brennan a double and single, Larry Baker two singles and Mezzetti, Billy Oakes and Bob Cronin a single each. Cronin, one of the league's best catchers at 14 years old, caught a perfect game and threw out three runners in as many attempts to steal.

Police also romped over Sons of Italy, 11-4, with Brennan pitching all the way with a five-hitter. He struck out eight and walked five.

Baker had a double and single and also having run-scoring hits were Donovan, Brennan, O'Connell, McKinnon, Mezzetti and Oakes. Bob Hayes and Don Perdios had two hits each for Sons of Italy.

Firemen Local 792 paced the American League with a 9-2 record and has won eight of its last nine games. In their latest outing the Firemen walloped Sons of Italy, 9-3.

Winning pitcher was Ray Coscia, who hurled a five-hitter. All three runs off his fast ball were tremendous home runs, two by Bob Hayes and one by Don Perdios. Coscia struck out nine and walked three.

Coscia also had a triple, Greg Madden had a double and Roberts a run scoring single. Madden at third base and catcher Steve Notorangelo came up with excellent defensive plays to aid Coscia.

The Firemen scored four runs in the first inning, then scored the winner in the sixth as they edged Gino's 5-4. Greg Oriola's walk with the bases loaded forced in the winning run. Dave Austin picked up his third straight win with a four-hitter.

Firemen blanked Granite City Electric, 3-0, with winning pitcher Greg Madden allowing six hits, striking out five and walking only two. Both teams played outstanding defense with no errors.

Gino's edged Bryan Post VFW, 3-2, in a well-played game as Bob Cuervels pitched a three-hitter. With the score tied in the fourth inning Paul O'Toole struck out but reached when the catcher dropped the ball. He stole second, third and home to put Gino's ahead, 2-1. Cuervels, John Newcomb, Bob Lindenfelzer and Brian Donovan had singles for Gino's and O'Toole had a double. Bill Mullaney drove in the winning run with a line shot to center in the bottom of the sixth. Gordon Spencer had a double for VFW.

Gino's also breezed past the Elks, 12-1, behind the two-hit pitching of O'Toole. Bob DuBois had a single and double for the only Elks hits.

O'Toole, Steve Buckley, Cuervels and Lindenfelzer had two hits apiece for Gino's. Anthony Twohig stole home after reaching on a fielders choice and advancing to third on Bob Howlett's single.

Bryan VFW, following its close loss to Gino's, walloped Golden Pint, 12-3, and then topped Barry's Deli, 10-8, to move close to the Firemen in the American League.

Against Golden Bob Thomas pitched a four-hitter while he and his mates collected 14 off John Todd and Mike Quinn. Mike Trubiano, Leo Doyle, Harry Donahue and Bobby Beniers had two hits apiece for VFW, one of Trubiano's being a triple, while Gordie Spencer, Paul McConville, Pat Ennis, Andy Dorrock, Thomas and John Keane had one each, Keane's being a home run and Ennis' a triple. Mike Hale had two of Golden's four hits, one a triple, while Steve Picot had a triple and Todd a single.

In the Barry's game Donahue pitched his second win for VFW, outlasting Gary Earle and Billy Deutch. VFW had only eight hits but took advantage of 10 walks. Donahue gave up nine hits, struck out five and walked four. Trubiano, Donahue and Keane had two hits each, Spencer had a triple and Doyle a single.

Billy Deutch had three hits and brother Jimmy two for Barry's. Mike Abboud, Earle and Jimmy and Rich Travers had one hit each.

Houghs Neck edged Hancock Bank, 2-0, on Joe Waterhouse's no-hit pitching. He had 10 strikeouts and his name will be placed in the Baseball Hall of Fame in Cooperstown, N.Y., in a special section set aside for Babe Ruth League records. Dave Nagle, Ed Beck and Leon Frazier made fine defensive plays and Jeff Connerty drove in the winning run.

The French's Babe Ruth Pennant Awards held last Saturday at Adams Field will be continued Saturday at 9 a.m. This was made necessary because there were ties in 12 events.

Saville, Jones Elected

Cross-Country Co-Captains

John Saville, one of the top sophomore runners in the state this spring and the Class A two-mile champion, and Donald Jones have been elected co-captains of next fall's Quincy

Central Edges A-N For Junior City Swimming Title

The new junior high school intramural swimming program in Quincy, operating since March, was highlighted last week by the first city-wide championships at the Lincoln-Hancock Community School pool.

The meet was featured by many close and interesting events with some outstanding times and some excellent diving performances. Central barely nipped Atlantic-North, 106-105. Broad Meadows had 35 points and Sterling 19. Point failed to score.

Atlantic-North won the boys' 200-yard medley relay with Mike Conley swimming the backstroke, Pete Rizzo the breaststroke, Ed Melanson the butterfly and J. Buckley the freestyle. The winning time was 2:41. Central was second at 2:56.

Joe McKenna and Rich Miller of Central were 1-2 in the boys' 50-yard butterfly. McKenna's time was 46.8, Miller's 47.0.

Mike Connolly of Broad Meadows won the 50-yard backstroke 38.6, followed by Bill Concannon, BM; Bob Dullin, Sterling; Tom McCue, A-N; Tim Roche, Central, and David Mead, A-N.

Missy Verrochi of Central won the girls' 50-yard backstroke with a 42 second effort, followed by Jill Sweeney, A-N; Eileen McKenna, Central; Mary Tenney, A-N, and Bris Bevin of BM.

Winner of the boys' 50-yard breaststroke was John Gorczya of Central, with a timing of 47.9, followed by Rizzo, A-N; Roche, Central, and Kevin McCormack, Central.

Cathy McDonald of Central won the girls' 50-yard breaststroke at 46.5, followed by Tracy Bowe, Central; Laura Clarke, BM, and Joan McLaughlin, A-N.

Andy Crevier of A-N won the 50-yard freestyle with a 30.7 timing, followed by Peter Tautvaisis, Sterling; Tom Gorczya, Central; Peter Greene, A-N; Mike Connolly, BM, and McCue, A-N.

In the girls' 50-yard freestyle it was Donna Marcin of Central winning at 28.5, followed by Patti Howe, Sterling; Carolyn O'Toole, A-N; Marie Carey, Central; Eileen McKenna, Central and Gracy Bowe, Central.

Melanson of A-N won the 100-yard individual medley with a 1:18.0 timing, followed by teammate Rizzo.

In the girls' 100-yard individual medley Donna Marcin of Central won at 1:19.2, followed by Cathy O'Toole of A-N and Patty Howe, Sterling.

Atlantic-North won the 200-yard free relay with Crevier, Greene, McCue and Page with Central second.

Central won the girls' 200-yard free relay at 2:16.7 with L. Greene, Eileen McKenna, Marie Carey and Donna Marcin. A-N was second and BM third.

In the coed diving Crevier was the winner with 50 points, followed by Cathy McDonald of Central, Peter Greene of A-N, Melanson of A-N, Connolly of BM and Steve Burns, A-N.

Bill Walker, Lincoln-Hancock pool director and North Quincy High coach, was the meet manager with Elaine Murphy, Quincy coach, assisting.

Officials, all from the Quincy and North Quincy High swim teams, included Ed Fenby of Quincy, starter; Lisa Colletta and Barbara Toland of North, scorers; Jim LaHive of Quincy, stroke and turn; Peter Sullivan, LaHive and Neil Rodberg of Quincy and Jack Lydon, Kevin Greene, Danny Fowkes and Thor Hellested of North, timers; Lydon, Greene, Janice O'Toole of North, Rodberg and Ed Regan of Quincy, diving judges.

The junior high students have been working out daily under the direction of the high school coaches, who have been aided by members of their teams.

A large number of relatives, friends and teachers watched the meet, which, hopefully, will be an annual event.

Large Crowd Pays Tribute

Many Former Players Among Those Honoring Bob Nolan

Many of his former players were among the large crowd who turned out last Thursday night at Bryan Post VFW at 'Knobby's Knight' to honor Bob (Knobby) Nolan, who recently resigned as North Quincy High basketball coach after 11 successful seasons.

Co-chairmen of the affair were Ed Miller, Nolan's assistant coach for the past several years, and Jerry Ridge. Other committee members included Gus DeBoer, Paul Bregoli, John Magnarelli, Ken Rickson, Leo Tyrall, Tom Mullany and Bill Roberts.

Plaudits were heaped upon the popular and highly-respected "Knobby," who was noticeably touched by the tributes. Watching proudly were his wife Rosemary, and their children, Rosemary (Rory) Siobhan, Sheila, Erin and Robert Jr. Bob, a native of Winthrop, graduated from Winthrop High, Cushing Academy and the U. of Massachusetts.

He took over as North's basketball team in 1965-66 when the Raiders won the first of his four Greater Boston League championships. Pete Varney, now a catcher for the Atlanta Braves, was one of North's co-captains.

Miller, who later starred at Boston State, was one of his co-captains in 1966-67. The 1967-68 team upset undefeated New Bedford and won its last five games to qualify for the Tech Tourney.

The 1968-69 team again won the GBL title, losing only to Malden in league play. The following year North won two squeakers over Quincy, 49-48, and 49-47, to make it seven straight wins over the Presidents.

BOB (KNOBBY) NOLAN, honored last week at a testimonial dinner upon his retirement as North Quincy High basketball coach after 11 successful years, is flanked by Jerry Ridge (left) and Ed Miller, co-chairmen of the affair. Miller was Nolan's assistant coach for the past several years.

North missed the Tech by one game in 1970-71 and the following season won its third GBL crown and was only the fourth team in league history to finish unbeaten in league play. The overall record was a brilliant 20-1. The 1972-73 team won nine out of its last 10 games to qualify for the tournament and the following year, its last in the GBL, tied Medford for the title.

Last year, North's second in the Suburban League, it missed the Eastern Mass. tourney by just one game and finished up with a great win over league champ Rindge Tech.

Nolan leaves an impressive coaching record at North. His overall mark was 143-64 including a 101-33 record in the GBL, a 20-16 Suburban League mark, a 22-15 non-league record and a 14-8 edge over Quincy. His teams, in addition to winning four GBL crowns, made the Eastern Mass. [Tech] Tournament seven times.

Nolan, who was Ken Rickson's assistant for three years before taking over as head coach, was also an assistant football coach at North and in 1966 was backfield coach on the first and only undefeated team in the school's history. He ended a 20-year career as a football player and coach to devote full time to his duties as head basketball coach.

Bob will continue in his post as a work study counselor at Quincy High, which he has held for three years.

North Quincy is not only proud of Knobby Nolan, for his successful teams but also for the integrity, honesty and sportsmanship he has instilled in each of his players.

He is extremely proud of the fact nearly every one of his players during the past 11 years has gone on to college or prep school.

And, you can't top that.

Quincy Track Club To Hold Registration, Workout Saturday

The Quincy Track Club will hold registration Saturday at 10 a.m. at Veterans Memorial Stadium with a workout following under the direction of Frank Kelly.

Anyone nine years of age and over is eligible to join the club. Last year the club, now starting its third season, had 400 members equally divided between boys and girls. The club has been strong in the 10-13 age group and won the New England championships, both boys and girls, in this bracket.

The QTC, in conjunction with the Boston Youth Activities Commission, will sponsor two meets at Veterans Memorial Stadium on Tuesday, June 29, and Thursday, July 1. Winners will qualify for the U.S. Youth Games for which Boston will be the host Aug. 19-23, at Harvard.

Boys and girls must not be over 15 on Aug. 31 to qualify for these meets and must live within a 10-mile radius of Boston.

The QTC will begin their weekly summer meets at the stadium on July 8. Meets will be conducted every Thursday evening throughout the summer

Minutemen Host Seattle Here Sunday

The Boston Minutemen of the North American League, playing excellent soccer but not attracting the crowds, will host the Seattle Sounders Sunday at 5 p.m. at Quincy Veterans Memorial Stadium.

The Minutemen, with wins in their two Quincy appearances, have won three in a row including a big 3-2 decision last week in New York over the Cosmos and the fabulous Pele.

Last Saturday the team looked good in topping the Minnesota Kicks, 5-2, at the Stadium before an estimated 1,500 fans, about 400 more than attended the opener two weeks ago. Boston is now 6-4 and in third place in the league.

Rookie forward Bert Bowery and defender Peter Nover of the Minutemen were named last week's Players of the Week following outstanding efforts against the Cosmos and Kicks.

Bowery and veteran Geoff Davis had two goals and two assists each against the Kicks. Bowery now has six goals and six assists, leads the team in scoring and is sixth in the league.

Ade Coker had the other goal last Saturday.

Mid-June does something to the Minutemen. On June 13, 1974, the first year team was 4-5, won three in a row and won the league's Northern Division title.

Last year on June 14 the team was only 3-7 but again won three in a row and captured another division crown.

This year the three straight wins during the past two weeks apparently has the team again in the running for the division championship. Although in third place, the Minutemen have three games in hand over second place Chicago and two over first place Toronto.

Legion Baseball

Quincy Poses Big Problem For Morrisette Title Hopes

Morrisette Legion baseball team is seeking its 20th Zone 6 championship this season but it appears it will have to beat out Quincy Post's strongest team in years if it hopes to repeat.

Morrisette, 3-1, lost last week to Quincy, which now has a 4-1 mark following its first loss Monday night to Randolph, 3-2.

Wollaston, with one of the youngest teams in the zone, is having troubles and, following a 5-2 loss Monday to Weymouth, has an 0-3 record but has given everyone trouble. Wollaston has only a few high school varsity players, while Morrisette and Quincy are loaded with varsity players and a few college players.

Friday Morrisette hosts Randolph at 8 at Adams Field, Sunday Quincy is home to Cohasset at 8 at Adams, Monday Wollaston will face Braintree at 8 at Adams, and Morrisette will be at Weymouth at 6. Tuesday it will be Wollaston and Quincy at 8 at Adams and next Wednesday Wollaston and Morrisette will clash at 8 at Adams.

Quincy took a 2-0 lead over Randolph in the first inning Monday but that was all it could do against Randolph ace Scott Yanow, who this spring pitched three straight one-hit shutouts for Randolph High. Paul Vespaziani handcuffed Randolph until the last inning when the winners scored their three runs. Quincy filled the bases with one out in the bottom of the seventh but the game ended suddenly when the Randolph right fielder cut down the tying run at the plate with a perfect throw to complete a double play.

Despite its slow start, Wollaston Coach Bob Jordan expects his team to improve as the season progresses.

"We have a really young team with nine 16-year-olds, four 17-year-olds and only five 18-year-olds," Jordan said. "There are only four players with any high school varsity experience. Our main objective is to come up with a good defensive team and try to win some of the close games."

Junior League Baseball

Keohane's Rolls Along, Kiwanis Close

Keohane's kept rolling along in the Quincy Junior Baseball League with three more wins to stay in first place in the National League with a 13-2 record.

Keohane's nipped Remick's, 2-1, in its latest game with Brian Reale winning his sixth game in a row with a four-hitter. He struck out 10. Billy DeMatteo pitched well for Remick's allowing only one bloop hit by Scott Thompson, which drove in a run. The other run was unearned.

Keohane's topped Elks, 7-4, as John Balzano pitched all the way, gave up two hits and struck out 11. Three of the four Elks runs were unearned. Balzano also drove in the winning runs with a bases loaded double to break a 3-3 tie. Pat King had two hits as did Balzano. Tom Cortis, Charlie Jaehning and Thompson had RBI singles and Reale had two hits.

Earlier Keohane's had defeated VFW, 6-3, with Reale pitching a five-hitter and striking out 11. He also had two hits and four RBIs. Corliss had two hits and Balzano, Jaehning and Thompson also had hits. Mathew Tobin was the losing pitcher.

Kiwanis, 3-1, 4-1, right on Keohane's heels by winning two from Sears, 3-2 and 1-0.

In the 5-2 game Sam Martin led the attack with a two-run homer over the right center field fence and he also was the winning pitcher over Paul Earle, giving up only four hits. Fine running catches by Larry Lamphere, Bobby Jaffarian and Mary Holleran preserved the win. Alert base running by Matt O'Brien and John O'Connell also helped out. Kyle Morton had two hits.

In the 1-0 win Lamphere pitched no-hit ball for five innings but tired in the sixth and gave up two hits, one a bunt. Martin took over and struck out Earle for the final out. Earle was a hard-luck loser. Keith Smith drove in the winning run with a single. Pat Connolly made several fine plays at third base.

'Olde Quincy Country Faire' Saturday, Sunday At Squaw Rock

An Olde Quincy Country Faire will be held Saturday and Sunday from 10 a.m. to 7 p.m. at Squaw Rock, Squantum with a variety of crafts, music, dancing, refreshments and other events.

More than 30 craftspeople will participate in the two-day fair which will include the demonstration and sale of their crafts.

The public is invited to attend the fair free of charge.

Bus transportation for senior citizens will be provided on both days between noon and 12:30 p.m., from the following locations:

Oceanview
1000 Southern Artery
Pagnano Towers
Fenno House
Clay Street
Wollaston Manor
Martensen St.

Some of the many events planned include:

Marcia Hood, owner of Eg'Stravaganza, will display egg craft-tiny landscape scenes constructed inside open eggs.

Gerald Lavoie of Methuen will glassblow Christmas ornaments, vases and miniature hurricane lamps.

Edward Rice of Bennington, Vt., will etch portraits and landscapes on old pieces of slate.

Charles Ross of Quincy will demonstrate woodcarvings of birds.

The Quincy Art Association will display and demonstrate oil painting.

Blacksmith work on horseshoes using an anvil and selling small horseshoes for 10 cents each.

Other craftspeople make quilts, calico cloth dolls, dolls made of corn husks, apples and dried flowers.

Others will demonstrate shell crafts, stencil quilting and thevrem painting which is stenciling on velvet.

The Hay Fever Farm Circus will present performances in the center ring on both days at 11 a.m., 1:30 p.m. and 3:30 p.m. There will also be riding demonstrations and a side show which will consist of pigs, chickens and the only miniature donkeys, 36 inches high, in New England. Children will also be able to feed and pet the animals.

An old pioneer wagon pulled by two huge Belgian draft horses will provide rides for children around the fair grounds.

Monti Granite Company of Quincy will demonstrate the carving of a granite statue.

Refreshments will be organic natural foods prepared by ECHOE (Earth Campaign Against Hunger and Overeating), a non-profit group involved in educating the public on the wholeness and health enjoyed by eating organically grown natural foods such as vegetables, grains and fruits.

The food will be a picnic-type package consisting of "Yankee Doodle" burgers, corn on the cob, pastries from whole grain wheats and natural sweeteners, watermelons and "smoothies" - a blend of fruit.

On Saturday only there will be a free puppet show for children at 1:30 p.m. Eleanor Boylan, will present a show featuring fairy tales and Aesop's Fables.

Hingham militia will perform at 3 p.m. with a small maneuver of arms and salutations.

On Sunday only, the Vagabonds, a dance club dressed in gowns and coats of Colonial America will perform dances of that period at 1:30 p.m.

Intermission will include songs from Marilyn LeBlanc of Quincy.

75 Indian Guide Members Hold Spring Campout

Seventy-five members of the Y Indian Guide Massachusetts Nation of the Quincy YMCA travelled to Camp Hayward in Sandwich recently for its annual spring campout.

Joining the Quincy "nation" was a group of fathers and sons from the Needham YMCA. Events included softball, hiking, fishing, scavenger hunt, and swimming. The weekend was highlighted by a campfire. This gives the fathers and sons a chance to be together to tell stories and sing songs.

Y Indian Guides is a national program with over 600,000 big and little braves involved each year. It enables both father and son (age 6-8) to participate together in different activities in small groups known as tribes. Tribes meet together in bi-monthly meetings. The Massachusetts Nation currently has nine tribes in the South Shore area.

Those interested in joining the Quincy nation are asked to contact William Johnson at the YMCA (479-8500).

Candidates File For Sept. 14 Election

[Cont'd from Page 1]

South Quincy: Paul E. Barry of 30 Dyars St. Quincy; and James J. Heggie Jr. of Canton.

Registrar of Deeds: Barry T. Hannon of Braintree; and Norman B. Cohen of Brookline.

The filing deadline for Congress and Statewide offices is not until next Tuesday [June 29] in the State House but as of last Tuesday the following had their signatures validated in Quincy:

Congress, 11th District: James A. Burke of Milton;

Danielle de Benedictis of Milton; Patrick H. McCarthy of Randolph; and Joseph F. Timilty of Mattapan.

U.S. Senator: Edward M. Kennedy of Barnstable; Albert J. Onesimo of Somerville; and Robert O. Underwood of Easthampton, Republican; and H. Graham Lowry of Dorchester, Labor Party.

Several presidential and vice presidential candidates also surfaced with the filing of signatures at City Hall. They are: President: Gus Hall of New York, Communist; Peter Camejo, Socialist Workers; Eugene McCarthy of St. Paul, Minn., independent; Lydon H. Larouche Jr. of Lynn, Labor Party.

Vice president: James Tyner, Communist; Willie Mae Reed, Socialist Workers; Randy Wayne Evans of Michigan, Labor Party.

Assistant City Clerk Thomas Burke pointed out that failure to file in Quincy does not mean that a candidate is not in the race, since papers can be filed in any community in the district.

Buckley's Recreation Job Saved By Councillors

For a couple of hours Monday night, Lionel H. [Shine] Buckley was in danger of losing his job as supervisor general in the Park and Recreation Department.

The Park-Recreation Board voted to recommend that the Mayor abolish the job but the timely arrival of four City Councillors, riding like Lochinvars out of the West, convinced the Board to change its mind.

The four Councillors were Arthur H. Tobin, John J. Quinn, Dennis E. Harrington and Leo J. Kelly.

"After we obtained some new knowledge of the situation from the Councillors," said Board Member Jerry Colletta, "we reconsidered the vote. We agreed unanimously that the position was necessary."

Buckley, who holds a masters degree in health, physical education and recreation, has been employed by the Park and Recreation Department for 28 years, the last 11 of them as supervisor general. The job pays $5 an hour.

Buckley said his hours were cut from 40 to 26 a week last Feb. 23 and then to zero in mid-April. He was restored to 20 hours a week at the end of the month when it was determined the job was covered by Civil Service.

Council Transfers Monies To Meet City Payroll

The City Council spent most of Monday night moving sums of city money around like chess men so that the various departments can meet the next payroll.

$23,000 was taken from the Excess and Deficiency Fund so that the Police Department could be paid through yesterday [Wednesday].

Auditor Charles L. Shea said another $83,000 police payroll would have to be met next Wednesday when holiday and educational money is due to be paid.

$34,000 was taken in sums ranging from $200 up to $10,000 from nine other accounts for the Fire Department.

$1,675 was appropriated from Quincy Heritage income to meet Heritage payrolls through June 30.

$92,330 was coughed up by 28 different department accounts to make up deficits in eight other departments.

$589 came from Recreation's personal services

[payroll] account to pay for transportation of youngsters with cerebral palsy and for a senior citizens' trip to the Music Circus in Cohasset.

Even with all the transfers, Shea said, the city still has to pay another $257,000 in bills by June 30.

Harold DAV Convention Secretary

Joseph R. Harold of Quincy will be convention secretary at the 55th annual state convention of Disabled American Veterans being held today [Thursday] through Saturday in Hyannis. State adjutant of the DAV, Harold has served as convention secretary for the past 25 years.

PICKETS march with their signs in front of the Mass Department of Employment Security on Hancock St. as a strike of state employees began Monday.

HAPPY HOUR

Gridley Bryant Fifth Graders Visit Quincy Sun

Ten fifth graders from the Gridley Bryant School, West Quincy visited The Quincy Sun recently, to view the workings of a newspaper firsthand.

The students are: Mary Ann Higgins, Julie Hannon, Joseph Madden, James McSweeney, Sandra Harris, Ann Mulligan, Brenda McCormick, Lisa Belmonte, David Shannon, George Gardiner, Billy Goon, Steven Porzio, and Robert J. Burelli.

The students were accompanied by a teacher, Mrs. Diane Darr.

The students first visited the editorial and advertising departments of the newspaper.

They then toured the production department where they saw a story of their visit set into type on an IBM computer system. They also saw news headlines set on a Compugraphic 7200 photo typesetting machine.

They watched a paste-up artist fix their story and headline into proper position on paste-up boards.

Robert O'Brien In Wheelchair Competition

Robert O'Brien of Quincy, a paraplegic from New England Rehabilitation Hospital, Woburn, will compete in the annual Bay State Wheelchair competition at Boston University Friday and Saturday, June 25 and 26.

Six quadruplegics and another paraplegic from the hospital will enter the competition.

'Scrap Stifling Laws'

Harrington Sees 5 More Years Of Economic Troubles For Mass.

Massachusetts must scrap its "stifling" environmental laws and take a realistic view of costly social programs if it wants improvement in its troubled economy.

799 Hancock Street, Quincy, Mass. 02170
Tel. 471-5953

That was the message delivered last week to some 250 members of the South Shore Chamber of Commerce by Senate President Kevin B. Harrington.

Speaking at a Chamber breakfast meeting in the Sheraton Tara in Braintree, Harrington said:

"Massachusetts has at least five more years of very serious economic trouble ahead. There is no easy recovery.

"We are lagging behind the nation, and even the national economic recovery picture is not all that good.

"We were lulled into security during the affluent 60's by defense contracts and by what we thought was a constantly booming economy.

"So we passed every conceivable social program. We didn't begin to feel the pinch until the bills came in and we began to pay the price of the mounting social legislation."

Harrington also criticized certain moves by environmental groups which he said are stifling to the economic growth of the state.

"In the face of a rapidly eroding economic base," Harrington said, "we continue to pass environmental legislation that is detrimental.

"It is virtually impossible today to build an industrial complex or a shopping center because of the restrictions imposed and protests by some environmental groups.

"We can't build nuclear power plants and we can't burn coal, or even dig it, despite the fact that we have one of the highest fuel bills in the nation.

"We are going to have to change the climate of environmental laws, scrap them and follow the federal models as most other states have done.

"We should be able to burn coal and conduct intelligent and knowledgeable research on nuclear power to find out once and for all if it's safe and feasible."

The Salem Democrat emphasized that no informed person is in favor of despoiling the rivers and streams of this region.

"The importance of true wetlands and the role they play in our ecology is fully recognized. And most everybody is quite aware of the cost and effort needed to clean up our environment once pollution has taken hold.

"What we do ask is a sensible and reasonable approach to environmental legislation."

Touching on other Bay State economic ills, Harrington said a great danger is the movement of our business firms to New Hampshire where there is a more favorable business climate.

"Also, it will be a long time before we can attract new business to Massachusetts," Harrington said, "Many of the new businesses being established are locating in the southern sun belt states because of the low energy costs and more favorable tax structures.

"Right now, we must concentrate on retaining those businesses we do have and in helping them to survive."

Harrington pointed out that although he appeared to be painting a very dark picture, we are not without hope, that the state still has unparalleled opportunities.

"We have one of the best airports in the country in Logan, if we don't destroy it," he said. "We have a good port which needs to be upgraded and we need to work on an intelligent network of roads and mass transit."

Harrington said that there must be full realization by the legislature, the executive branch of the government and everyone else of the seriousness of our economic problems.

"Only when everyone realizes the extent and seriousness of the situation will there be a solution. We can't recover if a large number of the population believes we will stumble onto good times."

Burke Re-election Candidate, McIntyre Files Papers, Too.

Congressman James A. Burke [D-Milton] announced for re-election in the 11th District Tuesday, but not before his friend, former Mayor-Senator James R. McIntyre of Quincy, had filed papers for the same post.

McIntyre said he gathered the nominating signatures just in case Burke decided not to run.

Another who filed papers in case Burke pulled out of the race was State Sen. Joseph F. Timilty of Mattapan, who ran unsuccessfully for Mayor of Boston against Kevin H. White in 1975.

Others who filed papers for the 11th District Seat at Quincy City Hall before the deadline Tuesday were Danielle de Benedictis of Milton, Patrick H. McCarthy of Randolph, Joseph M. Tierney of Boston and Richard L. Wainwright of Brockton.

Filing in the race for the U.S. Senate seat held by Sen. Edward M. Kennedy were:

Kennedy, Albert J. Omessimo of Somerville, Robert Q. Underwood of Easthampton, Frederick C. Langone of Boston, Bernard P. Shannon of Stoughton, Robert Emmet Dismore of Milton and Michael S. Robertson of Berkeley.

Quincy has offered the 323-acre site of the former Squantum Naval Air Station as the location of the proposed National Solar Energy Research Institute, a facility that could mean 800 new jobs and pour an estimated $60 million into the local economy.

The proposal, outlined in a 40-page report spelling out the advantages of Quincy to the Solar Energy Research Agency, has received high commendation from Edward King, executive director of the New England Council.

"We emphasized the versatility of the Squantum site with reference to the existing buildings totaling almost 400,000 square feet of usable space, ideal of housing such a research facility," said Paul Anderson, Quincy community development director.

"We included all pertinent data relating to our proximity to major educational institutions and technology corporations.

"And we placed great stress on the geographic setting on a peninsula which juts into the ocean, thus providing virtually a perfect environment for studies on wind, tidal and ocean thermal energy."

Water and electric power are already present, Anderson added, thus reducing Salenius Leaving Post?

No! No! No! No! (They Insist)

Jack Salenius was "fired" again last week.

This time the rumor mill went so far as to name Pasquale S. [Pat] DiStefano as his successor.

And this time the report got on the radio.

Salenius, who is the Mayor's executive secretary, denied it.

DiStefano, who is Veterans' Services director, denied it.

Mayor Joseph J. LaRaia denied it.

And Michael Peatridge, the Mayor's information officer, denied it, too, just in case someone wasn't listening to the first three.

"I don't know how these things get started," said LaRaia of the rumor that was making the rounds for the second time in three weeks.

"Jack is a very conscientious and dedicated worker, the kind that employers like to have on their staffs. I feel the same way about Jack. He is, in effect, the Mayor when I'm not here.

"Any changes that are made any place in the future will be based on a person's skills and how best to apply them. No changes are contemplated now."

Until May, Salenius doubled as the Mayor's executive secretary by day and law student at New England Law School by night. He dropped his law studies, at least temporarily, after completing his first year.

Buccini Elected Chairman Of Rent Grievance Board

Guiliano Buccini of 10 Clark St., North Quincy, has been elected chairman of the Quincy Rent Grievance Board.

Elenda Lipsitz of 40 Harriet Ave., Montclair, was elected vice chairman, and Janet Gosselin of 4 Dunns Hill Rd., West Quincy, recording secretary at the Board's first meeting of the month.

In addition to Buccini, Lipsitz and Gosselin, other new members of the Board are Rene Lumaghini, 690 Willard St., West Quincy; Carol Albert, 280 Water St., South Quincy; Mary Gethin, 178 Highland Ave., Wollaston; Timothy Cardwell, 76 Presidents Lane, Quincy; Harold Page, 76 Clement Terrace, Montclair; and Jane Reikard, 51 Miller Stile Rd., Quincy.

Reikard, who was appointed by the Mayor Feb. 2, is executive secretary to the Board, its only funded position. Lumaghini represents the Code Enforcement Office for Quincy.

Members of the current Board who served on the Board before it was reactivated by Mayor Joseph J. LaRaia on May 25 are:

Ann Gaffey, 173 North Central Ave., Wollaston, a member of the Board since it was created 12 years ago; Thelma Rogers, 56 Yardarm Lane, Germantown; and Inez Shamey, 143 Quincy St., South Quincy.

Howard Rock of 165 Washington St. has been appointed legal advisor to the Board.

$249 For Appeals Board Advertising

The City Council has appropriated $249.24 to pay for additional legal advertising for the Board of Appeals.

Auditor Charles L. Shea said the board has received more appeals than anticipated when its budget was made out.

The money comes by transfer from the personal services account of the Engineering Dept.

LEGION HONORS - The Quincy Sun was presented the American Legion's top media "Fourth Estate Award" during state pre-convention luncheon in Springfield. From left are Massachusetts Department Commander John P. Comer of Quincy, Sun Publisher Henry W. Bosworth, Judge Advocate Paul A. M. Hunt of Wollaston and Richard C. Sullivan of Braintree, chairman of the Public Relations Committee.

For 'Outstanding Coverage'

Quincy Sun Receives American Legion's Top Media Award

The Quincy Sun has won the Massachusetts American Legion's "Fourth Estate Award" - its top media award.

Presentation was made to Publisher Henry W. Bosworth at a state pre-convention luncheon at the Marriott Hotel in Springfield last week.

The Sun was cited for "outstanding news coverage of American Legion programs on local and national levels."

Also receiving the award were the Boston Herald-American, Malden News, Medford Mercury, Melrose News, Lynn Post, Canton Journal and radio station WMNB in North Adams.

The presentations were made by John P. Comer of Quincy, Department Commander, and Richard C. Sullivan of Braintree, chairman of the public relations committee who served as toastmaster.

The 58th annual state convention wound up with the election of officers and a huge parade through the downtown streets of Springfield.

Dominick Genetto of Bedford was elected State Commander succeeding Comer. Vice Commanders elected included, Joseph Genduso of Worcester, Mrs. Mary Hinds of Leominster, Reed Ross, Malden, Alvan Fuller, New Bedford and Ernest Poscosolido, Newton.

Others elected included Adjutant John Swift, West Roxbury, Treasurer, Phil Carey, East Bridgewater. Paul A. M. Hunt of Wollaston was unanimously re-elected Judge Advocate for the Department.

Next year's Convention will be held in Pittsfield, June 23-26. More than 8,000 Legionnaires and their families attended this year's convention.

A Bicentennial prayer written for the Legion by Mrs. Clara Place Swan of Quincy was read at the service. Mrs. Swan, who has 12 grandchildren, is a member of the Veterans Committee of the Milton Women's Club.

Among the resolutions passed was one that deplored the actions of the Democratic State and National Conventions in recommending complete amnesty for Vietnam draft dodgers as part of the Democratic Presidential platform. The resolution was introduced by Commander Comer.

The annual Memorial Service for deceased veterans and those missing in action in the Vietnam war was held at historic First Church.

Rev. Mrs. Charles Fox of Vermont, widow of Lt. Charles Fox, one of the four chaplains who went down with the USS Dorchester during World War II was guest preacher. The Legionnaires and auxiliary members paraded from the Marriott Hotel to the church.

Educators

Praise Burke

Cong. James A. Burke (D-Milton) has been praised by the National Education Association for his voting record on behalf of "school children, parents, educators and your constituency."

It came in a letter from NEA President John Ryor.

The NEA's Political Action Committee for Massachusetts also praised Burke for his "continued support for sound school legislation as evidence by your voting record on educational and related issues."

To Allow Freshmen To Graduate

LaRaia To Seek $63,000 To Keep Nursing School Open

Mayor Joseph J. LaRaia is going back to the City Council to ask for an additional $63,000 to keep the City Hospital's School of Nursing open a third year to permit an incoming freshman class to graduate.

The Board of Managers directed on June 15 that the three-year school be phased out in 1978 after the current two classes are graduated. The dissenters to that order Board Members Dennis Ryan and Mrs. Syria Mayo.

Monday night, however, the Board reversed itself by a 7-1 margin with Jack Williams dissenting.

The decision means that the School of Nursing will admit at least 40 of the 56 persons who applied and were accepted for the Class of '79 prior to the vote phasing out the school.

But first the City Council has to appropriate the money and that may be a tough job.

Councillor John J. Quinn, chairman of the Council's powerful Finance Committee, is against it on grounds that the School would be subsidized by the hospital's patients.

The Board of Managers name... nber "blue ribbon" committee, co-chaired by Ryan and City Councillor James A. Sheets, to study the feasibility of transferring the Nursing School to an academic setting like Quincy Junior College.

Also appointed to the committee were Mayor Joseph J.

LaRaia, City Councillors Dennis E. Harrington, Quinn and Arthur H. Tobin, School Committeemen Frank Anselmo and John J. Sullivan, School Supt. Dr. Lawrence P. Creedon.

Hospital Director Harlan Paine, Quincy Junior College President Dr. Edward Pierce, Mrs. Mayo, Mrs. Martha Zenopolous, hospital director of nurses, Dr. Edward Gordon and Rosemary Roberts.

Harold Seeks Float

At Houghs Neck Landing

City Councillor Paul D. Harold has asked Public Works Commissioner Vincent LoCicero for immediate action in setting out a float at the public landing in Houghs Neck.

If the old float is not available, said Harold in a telegram to LoCicero, then the city should n... one for the rest of the swimming season.

"Traditionally, the float is used by hundreds of citizens throughout the city for swimming and fishing," said Harold. "Whereas the season is at hand I requested that the commissioner give this matter his immediate attention."

"It was unfortunate that last year the float was not put out until August. There is no need for such a delay this year."

July 3rd until Sept. 11th we're taking Saturdays off.

Community Center Offers Parent-Toddler Program

South Area Jewish Community Center Nursery School will offer its parent-toddler cooperative program for the third consecutive program year this fall.

The program affords parents and children an opportunity to play and learn together in a supervised educational setting under the leadership of two early childhood education teachers.

Activities consist of gross and fine motor activities, visual motor activities, language activities, communication skills and experiences with materials and people.

Further information may be obtained from Carole Neitlich at the SAJCC, 773-3000.

Registration is limited to 12 children per group to maximize the child's individual and group experience.

Janice O'Brien, Barbara Foley Friends Of Library Leaders

The Friends of the Thomas Crane Public Library held its first organizational meeting with members of the Library's administration recently to map plans for a summer membership drive.

Janice O'Brien and Barbara Foley were named to head the group whose purpose is to create a broad base of community support for the library and so serve as a liaison between the library and the community.

Members of the Friends will receive the regular news bulletins of library activities and library issues.

The summer membership drive will culminate in a fall general meeting Sept. 30 at 7:30 p.m. in the main library at which by-laws will be presented and activities outlined for the fall.

The Friends also will have a library booth at the annual Sidewalk Bazaar in Quincy Square during July.

Today's Women

New Officers Elected

Trudy Buckley, Mary Weafer Head Mayor's Commission On Women

The Mayor's Commission on the Status of Women held the final meeting of its second year at the Barnside Restaurant, Assinippi, elected new officers for 1976-1977.

Elected were:

Chairwoman, Trudy Buckley, 22 Doane St., Germantown, a stockbroker with Weeden and Company; co-chairwoman, Mary Weafer, 16 Gilmore St., Wollaston, an urban planner with the town of Brookline; recorder, Ann Aronson, 64 Houston Ave., Milton, director of Adult Services for the Thomas Crane Public Library; and correspondent, Rhonda Merrill, 193 South St., Quincy, assistant secretary to the City Council.

Alicia Coletti is outgoing chairwoman.

The commission was established two years ago by the Mayor and City Council "to address itself to the needs of women so that they might participate more fully and productively in the life of the city." To fulfill this purpose, members divided themselves into task forces on employment, education, community services and workshops for women.

The Employment task force of Mary Weafer, chairwoman, Carol Leman, Rhonda Merrill and Deborah Merrill put together a pamphlet called "Employment Aids for Women" - a directory of job programs and counseling available for women who wish to return to work. It has been distributed through libraries, City Hall, the Division of Employment Security and the Job Fair at State Street South.

The Education task force of Carol Mahoney and Christina Morrison, co-chairwomen, Patricia Toland and Jane Ford sponsored a Career Night for junior high school students in conjunction with the Quincy Public Schools. Over 40 women representing 14 different career areas led discussions about job opportunities for women in their particular field. More than 300 students and parents attended and showed great enthusiasm for the chance to become aware of careers opening up for women.

Because many women in the city had expressed their ignorance of health services available to women in Quincy, a Community Services task force was set up to put together a directory of such services. This task force consisting of Eleanor Tanofsky, Rose Toye, Mary Vallier, Adrienne Clarke, Trudy Buckley and Arloa Webber has recently compiled a pamphlet entitled "Where Do I Turn?" The booklet will be published by the Quincy Public Schools in early fall and will be available through City Hall, the Health Center, the libraries, community centers, etc.

The task force, Workshops for Women was comprised of Ann Aronson, Toby Felton, Jeanne Evans, Marilyn LeBlanc and Eunice Allman. The workshops began with a showing of the award-winning film "Antonia" and continued with meetings on alcoholism, assertiveness training, legal rights, and employment and career guidance. All of the workshops were extremely well attended.

A Commission member, Jeanne Evans, authored a booklet on "Human Services for Pre-Schoolers", a directory of Social Resources in Quincy. This publication is a followup to last year's booklet, "Pre-School Facilities". Both were printed by the production department of the Quincy Public Schools and are available generally in the same places as previously mentioned publications.

In February, the Commission under Shirley Dunbar, sponsored a training session on the State Equal Rights Amendment, which trained the participants to speak about the ERA before various groups. Many of the Commission members are presently working with the Norfolk County branch of the State Committee to Ratify the ERA in order to aid passage in November.

The members of the Mayor's Commission on the Status of Women believe they have just begun to scratch the surface in answering the needs of women in Quincy and solicit help and advice from women who are interested in participating in the work of the commission.

50 Dolls Dance Through 200 Years Of American History

Some 50 young ladies, ages 3 to 5 years, danced through 200 years of American history recently during the final dance recital of Diane Flanagan's dance students at the Quincy YMCA.

The program opened with song and dance by Kimberly Highfield, Kim Marie Tierney, Karen Mauriella, Caitlyn O'Brien, Kathie Beth Callahan, Carol Callahan and Kerry Ann DeaRoches.

Solos were performed by Lauren Bina, Sarah Mildrin, Diedre Cornell, Lyn Doyle and Bev Giarusso; duets by MaryAnne Doherty and Sharon Copp, Kieko Huose and Julia Crader, Kathy Stempkowski and Mary Dever.

Joe Doyle, Janet Gilmartin, Sandra MacIsaac, Kathleen Stempkowski, Mary Dever and Karen Grant danced as Pilgrim Maidens.

In the "Crimolin Days Era" number, six riverboat queens were Cheryl Benck, Jennifer Koch, Melissa McGee, Theresa Bonani, Janet Morell and Wendy Stirling who sang about the Old South and danced to Lazy River.

Jacqueline Molloy, Lauren Morgan, Andrea Smith, Karen Lindstrom, Jennifer Bono, Lissa Morrell, Holly Rendie, Sarah Lash and Melissa Sullivan danced as "American Dolls".

A ballet was performed by Tracy Panushchka, Heather Bissett, Christine Price, and Michaela Chase.

A covered wagon era novelty number was danced by Jennifer Callahan, Kristen McGhee, Eric McDonagh, Robin Prescott and Kellie Ann McDonagh.

In the finale, Diane Flanagan and her students demonstrated the latest dances in a "Disco Party".

Music was directed by Christine DeLucca, a Quincy School music teacher, accompanied by drummer Paul Collins, a North Quincy High School student.

For High School girls and women, Ms. Flanagan is offering dance classes at the "Y" this summer, including belly dancing I and II and a new course combining discoteque and jazz technique.

Ms. Flanagan is in her third year of directing the dance program at the "Y" Dance School. She trained under her aunt, Phyllis Cuneo, a well known dance teacher on the South Shore for 40 years.

Musical Desires

Q. Your column really sparks an interest in knowing more about one's horoscope. I was born in Somerville, Mass. on June 19, 1932 just before midnight. I was told that if I have been born any later I would have been a June 20th baby. I seem to be a true Gemini only intensified. A latent wish is emerging, the desire to learn to play a musical instrument well. I wonder if my interest will carry through the long period of concentration and practice. It would be expensive, but I would love the challenge. What do you think?

A. J.M.B.

"We are the music makers
We are the dreamers of dreams—
We are the movers and shakers
Of the world forever, it seems."

Arthur W. E. O'Shaughnessy

You are one of those who are blessed with fine possibilities to develop skill with a musical instrument. At the time of your birth, Daylight Savings Time was in effect giving you Pisces on your Ascendant and it's ruler Neptune in very Favorable aspect to the planet Mercury in Cancer in your Fifth House, as well as in Favorable aspect to Venus, also there. Music should prove an ideal means of expressing your inner feelings as well as "food for the soul".

Earlier in life your Gemini Sun indicated a certain nervous restlessness with varied interest but it being in your Fourth House, also in Favorable aspect to Neptune, it indicates that during the latter half of your life, you could settle down. Your Moon in Capricorn indicates an ability to control this restlessness and concentrate on your objectives and achieve your ambitions.

Your Uranus on the cusp of the Second House [money] in Favorable aspect to Jupiter in Leo "ruler" of your Tenth House, in your Sixth House, usually indicates that you should have little difficulty taking care of expenses. In fact unexpected gain is possible. You can do it if you will, so go to it!

For questions to be answered through this column, mail the year, month, day of the month, city of birth, time of day if known and question to Ask Oscar, Box 114, Canton, Mass. 02021. Please sign your name which will not be published. Selected questions can only be answered in this column.

The Quincy High School Class of 1922 is planning its 55th anniversary reunion to be held Wednesday June 22, 1977 at noon at the Neighborhood Club, Quincy.

The class recently held its 54th anniversary reunion at the Neighborhood Club. About 70 classmates were present and six from the class of 1921.

Bicentennial colors decorated the tables and programs. There were four teachers present Mrs. Jordine Davidson Day, George Wilson, and Mr. and Mrs. Winthrop Webb.

Mr. Wilson rang an old fashioned hand school bell calling all the former students to the reunion. Highlight was the presence of Mr. Webb, history teacher after 54 years. He read an appropriate poem for the occasion written by classmate Charles F. Palmer of Hingham.

Three teachers, unable to be at the reunion were, Miss Margaret Tuthill, Mrs. Gertrude Twombly Quinn and Miss Edith Coulman who was on a trip to England.

Members of the reunion committee are Mrs. Jean Brown Young, class vice president; Mrs. Dorothy Locke Carter, class secretary, Miss Helena F. McCormick, reunion chairman, Clifford P. Randall, reunion treasurer, Miss Bessie Aronson, Mrs. Eleanor Bruton Donovan, Miss Florence M. Cavicchi, Mrs. Caroline Field Chapman, Miss Harriet Couch, Mrs. Esther Jensen Paulsen, Miss Elizabeth Marentz, Mrs. Mary Marr McLennan, Mrs. Euphemia Rennie McGowan, Charles F. Palmer, Mrs. Hazel Schools Usher, P. Malcolm Thatcher, James Walsh, Mrs. Barbara Wells Randall and Miss Ethel Wiley.

Road Race Sunday

Battle Of Lexington-Concord

Re-enactment At Squantum Monday

Squantum's 67th consecutive 4th of July celebration will begin Sunday, July 4, at 1:30 p.m. with a 2 1/4 mile road race, starting from in front of the Squantum School on Huckins Ave.

Any Squantum resident, age 12 and over, may participate.

The annual flag raising ceremony and flag distribution will take place Monday July 5 at 9 a.m. in front of the Daniel Gilbert Memorial under the direction of the Nickerson Legion Post. Music will be by Milton American Legion Post Band.

Promptly at 10:30 a.m. July 5th, the parade will step off with Gordon Nelson, life-long Squantum resident and local historian, as grand marshal. There will be nine marching units, flatbed floats decorated by Squantum residents, and costumed, marching children.

The Weymouth Militia Minutemen and the 5th Boston Regiment a Foot will re-enact the Battle of Lexington and Concord at the Squantum School playground immediately following the presentation of parade prizes Monday.

A children's art exhibit, by students of Doris Ferrara's Art Studio, will be held July 5 in the parking area adjacent to the Art Studio, during and immediately following the parade awards.

Other events include the doll carriage and bicycle parade at 2 p.m. directly behind the new school addition; field events starting at 3:30 p.m. for those between 4 and 15 years of age; and pony rides from 3:30 to 6 p.m. at the playground.

Souvenir Booklet Marks NQHS 50th Anniversary

Remember when James Collins retired after 30 years as headmaster of North Quincy High School?

And the "Fun and Guns" show sold 600 war stamps during World War II?

And how Yakoo, the little Indian, was chosen to be the school's mascot?

All of those things are recalled in "A Doorway to the Past", a souvenir booklet published on the occasion of the 50th anniversary of the opening of the original North Quincy High School building.

It was researched and edited by a group of North Quincy parents, Mrs. Doris Dolbec, Mrs. Ginger Jackson, Mrs. Mary Livingston, Mrs. Carol Seltzer and Mrs. Lee DiPiero and Bernard LaCouture, a teacher at North.

The project began as a series of "pictures of the past" for the last issue of the NQHS Newsletter but it blossomed into something more than that with pictures and stories of the most memorable events of the past half century.

The 24-page souvenir booklet is available for 50 cents at the NQHS office.

Morgan O'Regan Retires Badge No. 1--But Is Still No.

MAYOR JOSEPH LA RAIA makes presentation of his own special plaque to Morgan O'Regan, holder of Badge No. 1, at surprise farewell party given him by the Hancock St. Gang as he retired after 39 years service with the Quincy Police Department--the past 10 on the upper Hancock St. beat. Behind them, from left, are Nick Panarelli, Fire Chief Edward Barry, Lt. Francis Mullen, Police Chief Francis Finn and Herbert Reppucci.

Bob Colman Photos

NOT MANY PEOPLE have put anything over on Morgan O'Regan but he was taken by complete surprise as he stepped from police cruiser in Colman's parking lot and found himself the guest of honor.

BOUQUET OF FLOWERS is presented to Morgan O'Regan's wife, Grace, by Peter Panarelli Jr., son of owner of Peter Pan flowers. Standing beside Morgan is son, William.

SON WILLIAM affectionately pats his father's shoulder as the overwhelmed guest of honor dabs at eyes with a handkerchief. Morgan's wife, Grace, holds bouquet.

POLICE CHIEF Francis Finn presents citation to Morgan O'Regan, commending him for his 39 years outstanding service. As left in rear is Lt. Francis Mullen.

SUNBEAMS

Adams Unsung Hero Of 'Declaration'

By HENRY BOSWORTH

Sunday marks the 200th birthday of this nation and the 150th anniversary of the death of a local boy who helped make it all possible.

When you think of the Declaration of Independence, Thomas Jefferson and Quincy-born John Hancock usually get top billing.

Jefferson is credited with being the author of this most precious document and Hancock as being the first to sign his-well-his John Hancock.

But another local boy, John Adams played a key-if not as glamorous a role-in putting the Declaration together.

Jefferson himself praised Adams as "...the most efficient agent in procuring a public Declaration of Independence."

★★★

AS A PATRIOT, Adams was up there among the best. But as a prognosticator, he apparently was just so-so.

He played a major part in making July 4th America's freedom birthdate. But he predicted July 2nd would be celebrated down through the years instead.

Adams made that slightly erroneous forecast in a letter to his wife, Abigail, here in Quincy July 3, 1776.

"The second day of July, 1776," he wrote, "will be the most memorable epoch in the history of America."

Adams apparently thought this because the Declaration of Independence was adopted by 12 states on July 2. But, it wasn't signed by anyone until July 4.

ACTUALLY, only two of the 55 signers affixed their signatures on the Fourth. They were Quincy's John Hancock, and Charles Thomson.

Hancock got to sign first because he was President of the Second Continental Congress. He signed with a flourish-according to history-so "King George III can see it without his spectacles."

Most of the others signed the document Aug. 2. But six signed after that. One of them, Thomas McKean of Delaware was a real straggler. He didn't get around to it until five years later.

★★★

SUNDAY, as everyone should know by now, marks the 200th anniversary of the U.S. And, ironically, the 150th anniversary of the deaths of both John Adams and Thomas Jefferson.

Both died on July 4, 1826, - the 50th anniversary of the Declaration of Independence.

Adams collapsed here in Quincy in a wing chair in his second floor study in the "Adams Manion"-the summer White House of its day-now a National Historic Site.

He was just three months and 15 days from his 91st birthday. His last words: "Jefferson survives."

Unknown to him-without TV and radio to flash the word-Jefferson had died that same day before him at age 83.

The pair who had been close friends during those early years working together to give this nation its freedom, had a falling out that lasted for sometime. Jefferson defeated Adams in his bid for a second term - Adams refused to go to Jefferson's inauguration.

But they were reconciled eventually, thanks largely to Abigail who served as peacemaker.

★★★

ABIGAIL ADAMS is still a rarity among women. She is the only woman to be the wife of one President and the mother of another.

But she never saw her son, John Quincy, elected to the White House. She died Oct. 28, 1818 at 74. John Quincy was elected in 1825-seven years later.

John was 28 and Abigail, 19, when they were wed Oct. 25, 1764. Apparently fathers of brides haven't changed much down through the years.

John and Abigail were married by her father, Rev. William Smith of First Church of Weymouth.

According to one account, the good Reverend wasn't too impressed by his new son-in-law. He didn't think the then Quincy farmer would amount to much in life.

Thank God, he was wrong.

★★★

JUST FOUR DAYS before he died, Adams was asked to give a holiday toast to his fellow Quincy residents. And, the old man replied:

"I will give you independence forever."

Asked if he would add to that, he declared:

"Not a syllable."

Sunday is a good day to remember his words.

Bennington People's Favorite

Patriotism And Flag Sales Up As Bicentennial Approaches

By TOM BRADY

Patriotism and flag sales are both up as the country's 200th birthday approaches.

No one has noticed it more than those who manufacture and sell the one necessary ingredient for flag waving, Old Glory, in various shapes, sizes and styles.

At Eagle Flag Co. in Wollaston, business has reached new heights as people from around the South Shore, look for flags of various varieties to hang in honor of the Bicentennial.

W. Edward Wells, owner of Eagle Flag, says one particular flag has emerged as the favorite. It's not the 50-star modern flag or the new Bicentennial flag which was created by the nation's Bicentennial Commission.

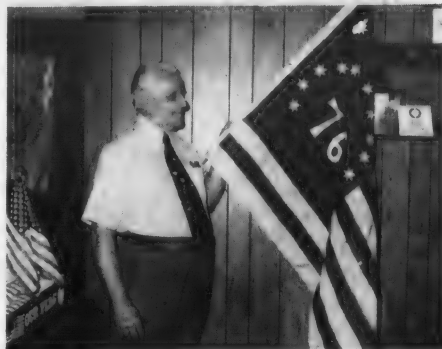

The most popular flag, which Wells says has become the unofficial flag of the Bicentennial, is the Bennington flag, which has red and white stripes like the modern flag, but the numbers "76" surrounded by a semi-circle of stars in the traditional blue field.

This flag was flown by troops from the Vermont Militia during the Battle of Bennington on Aug. 16, 1777.

The official Bicentennial Flag, a completely white flag with the symbol of the Bicentennial Commission in the center has not sold as well as expected. In fact, Wells said he has sold about 10 times as many Benningtons as Bicentennials.

"The Bicentennial Flag has not been accepted by the public," Wells said, "This started last year in this area at the time of the big celebration at Lexington and Concord. At that time the popularity of the Bennington began to take hold, not just here, but across the country."

"Now, when we get a phone call asking for the 'Bicentennial Flag', we have to ask them which one, the white one or the one with the 76," Wells said.

THE BENNINGTON FLAG, which has become the most popular flag of the Bicentennial period is displayed here by W. Edward Wells of the Eagle Flag Co., Beach St., in Wollaston.

According to Wells, the popularity of the Bennington is related to the "76" it carries, but he said it is interesting to note that no one knows what the 76 stood for in the original version. It could be the year 1776, but it could also be the number of one of the Vermont Militia's companies.

All the other American Flags in Eagle Flag company's selection are selling well too, Wells said. So well in fact that the factories that manufacture them can't keep up with the demand.

Wells said that Eagle Flag has sold more than 10,000 small [12 inch x 18 inch] flags this year. And, he and other flag dealers across the country have sold so many miniature [4 inch x 6 inch] flags that the manufacturer is three months behind in deliveries.

Some of the historical flags that are being repopularized this year include the Betsy Ross Flag, with a circle of stars on the blue field, the Grand Union flag, which has a miniature British Union Jack replacing the blue field, and the Star Spangled Banner, the 15 star flag that inspired Francis Scott Key during the bombardment of Fort Mchenry in 1814.

The increased sales of flags is due to the increased patriotism the Bicentennial has aroused in the American people. But Wells credits different government agencies and other organizations with building up this patriotism.

"There's been a promotion of patriotism and flag display through a variety of sources, both national and local," Wells said. He cited a 21-day flag display period proclaimed recently by Mayor Joseph LaRaisa and Flag Day ceremonies held throughout the country.

More than 2,000 flags, many provided by Eagle Flag were carried by marchers in the recent Koch Club Flag Day Parade in Quincy.

The manufacturers of flags have responded to this increased patriotism with increased flag production and since the demand has outstripped the supply, they have decided to continue into next year the production of many of the historical flags that have been popular this year.

Merrymount To Hold 53rd Fourth Of July Parade

The Merrymount Association, Inc., will hold its 53rd annual Fourth of July Parade Sunday [July 4], including such traditional events as the 2½-mile road race, selection of Miss Merrymount and the Junior Olympics on Merrymount Beach.

The third annual road race around the perimeter of Merrymount will take place Saturday [July 3] at 6:30 p.m., open to Merrymount residents in separate age groups under Bob Seamans of 20 Moreland Rd and Paul Hussey of 10 Hobomack Rd.

Miss Merrymount will be chosen at 7:15 p.m. Saturday on Merrymount Beach from among the girls ages 13 to 16 who have registered with Dot and Jim Mulcahey of 109 Assabet Rd.

Saturday events will conclude with a band concert.

The parade itself will get underway at 12:30 p.m. Sunday with the Bugle Call and Parade Assembly at Merrymount School. It will feature horribles, bicycles, doll carriages, floats, street competitions and a special Bicentennial prize.

Jack Kelly will be grand marshal, assisted by Marshals Bernie Coleman, Art Boyle, Si Tutunjan, Don Murray and Patsy Coleran.

Marching groups will include the South Shore Shriners, the Lancers from Randolph, Clan McGregor Pipe Band from Quincy, Milton American Legion Post, Scituate VFW, George Bryan VFW Post color guard, plus antique cars and state and city officials.

The Junior Olympics will begin at 8:40 p.m. on Merrymount Beach under the direction of John Molloy.

Field events at 9:30 p.m. will include buddy races, wheelbarrow races, a softball throw, shot put and basketball under Joe McConville and at 10:30 p.m. a pie-eating contest under Si Tutunjan.

QUINCY'S YESTERDAYS

July 1 - 7, 1876 - 100 Years Ago This Week

How Quincy Celebrated 4th 100 Years Ago By TOM HENSHAW

Hancock and Washington Sts. were literally alive with people in the glare of the new calcium lights, tended with infinite care by Supt. Nathan A. Brickett in the belfry of First Parish Church.

Particularly the fine decorations were noted at the homes of the leather merchant E. B. Pratt on Hancock near Adams St., where the trees were hung with gaily colored lanterns, and Deputy Sheriff Washington M. French on Washington M. French on Washington near Temple St.

As the clock struck midnight, cannon roared and the flag went up the pole at the Hose House on Washington St. amid the rockets red glare and the Fire Company sang the Star Spangled Banner under the direction of Galen Bowditch, the expressman.

It was July 3, 1876, in Quincy, the eve of the Centennial of American Independence.

Independence Day, 100 years after, began at sunrise with the ringing of church bells and a salute fired from 50 guns.

The parade formed at 5 a.m. on the new road that ran from the Poorhouse on Sea St. to Greenleaf St., and shortly after 6 a.m., the marchers stepped off down Greenleaf led by Wash French and a platoon of mounted police.

Chief Marshal Edward Whicher was at the head of the line in a chariot drawn by four horses and the First Division featured a float with a large axe marked "Father, I cannot tell a lie. I did it with my little hatchet".

The parade wound down Greenleaf to Hancock to South Quincy, turning at the corner of Water and Pleasant Sts., thence to Quincy Ave. and Washington St., and back to the Square to disband at the Stone Temples.

The main event took place in a 115-foot by 85-foot tent pitched in a field off Granite St. across from the home of the late Capt. Lewis Bass. The audience was admitted at 1:30 p.m. and soon the 1,000 seats were filled.

James H. Slade, a stenographer from Quincy Point, presided and the Declaration of Independence was read by six selected grammar school girls: Nettie Crocker, Alice Spear, Amanda Sylvester, Ida Paine, Nettie Penny and Nettie Randlett.

By the time Charles Francis Adams Jr. began the opening address, a general review of the history of Quincy, it was sweltering hot and the audience was restless when School Supt. Col. Francis W. Parker rose to deliver a history of the city's public schools.

The speech-making droned on into the early evening, for what would the Fourth of July be like without the oratory of The Rev. Reginald Howe of Christ Church, Prof. William R. Dimmock of Adams Academy and Josiah Quincy.

The biggest applause of the day, undoubtedly, went to the Rev. Edward Norton and Insuranceman Charles H. Porter, who announced that they would not speak but gave tests of their orations to be printed in the weekly paper, the Patriot.

The oratory ended, mercifully, at 6:40 p.m. and everyone adjourned to the Fireworks Grounds at the rear of the railroad station in South Quincy for a band concert at sunset and a display of fireworks after dark.

A 'John Adams' July 4th

"The second day of July, 1776, will be the most memorable epoch in the history of America," predicted John Adams to his wife, Abigail, 200 years ago.

"I am apt to believe that it will be celebrated by succeeding generations as a great anniversary festival. It ought to be commemorated as a day of deliverance, by solemn acts of devotion to God Almighty."

"It ought to be solemnized with pomp and parade, with shows, games, sports, guns, bells, bonfires and illuminations, from one end of this continent to the other, from this time forward, forevermore."

Adams missed the date by two days but he was right on the button the rest of the way, at least as far as Quincy is concerned in this Bicentennial year.

Parades, games and bells are among the traditional fare but this year Quincy will have its first old fashioned bonfire in more than 20 years to herald Independence Day, 1976.

The 40-foot high bonfire will be touched off at 9:30 p.m. Friday night at Pageant Field, Merrymount, and sponsoring Quincy Heritage assures that it will be seen from Treasure Island on Quincy Shore Drive.

Parades will be virtually everywhere that there is a road, in Merrymount on Sunday (which is the actual 4th) and in Squantum on Monday (which is the legal holiday).

The bells will be rung from churches, schools and fire stations at 3 p.m. Sunday, the precise time the Declaration of Independence was proclaimed 200 years ago, as Quincy joins a nationwide bell-ringing effort.

The games and sports will include softball and tennis tournaments, sponsored by Quincy Heritage, and at least three road races in Squantum, Merrymount and one that starts and finishes at the YMCA on Coddington St.

It looked as though the weathermen were going to cooperate, too, since the New England Weather Service's long range forecast was for showers today (Thursday) followed by clearing tomorrow Friday by a fine weekend ahead.

construction costs.

Mayor Joseph J. LaRia emphasized that Quincy is aggressively seeking to obtain the Institute because of the tremendous impact it would have on the Quincy and South Shore employment and economic situation.

"The Institute will provide about 800 jobs for local workers, wherever the facility is located," he said. "It is estimated that the Institute would generate approximately $60 million a year for communities in its immediate area.

"The concomitant benefits would be even more enormous since the presence of the research facility would attract additional high technology industrial firms to the South Shore."

Council On Aging Moving To Cliveden St.

The Quincy Council on Aging is moving today (Thursday) from 1 Maple St., to cheaper and larger quarters on the third floor at 1 Cliveden St.

It's the first of several moves contemplated to consolidate some of the scattered city offices and, says Mayor Joseph J. LaRia, "save the city money in the long run."

The new quarters will cost the city $425 a month in comparison to $900 a month for the offices at 1 Maple St., he said.

"We considered several places to house the Council on Aging, including the JFK Health Center," said LaRia. "We chose the third floor at Cliveden St. because it is accessible and accommodating to the employees and the seniors."

"The Veterans Services office is nearby as is the Downtown Development office. We are contemplating moving the Rent Grievance Board there too."

The Mayor pointed out that there is elevator service in the building to whisk the senior citizens up three flights and the Municipal Parking garage is handy to Cliveden St.

An earlier plan to partition the auditorium at the JFK Health Center for the Council on Aging was abandoned, said the Mayor, because "it is used for so many worthy purposes now that we didn't want to interfere."

CETA, the federal job training program, is moving its offices out of the Public Works Department on Sea St. into the Kendon Building on Hancock St., opening more space in the DPW quarters. No city money is involved in the move.

Holiday Tennis, Softball, Road Race Scheduled For Weekend

A hectic five-day holiday weekend of sports is scheduled to begin today with the opening matches in a tennis tournament and continue through Monday [July 5] with a softball tournament and a five-mile road race.

The Quincy Bicentennial Tennis Tournament will get underway at 5 p.m. today with matches scheduled for the courts at Faxon Park and Quincy Vo Tech School. The finals will be played on the Vo Tech courts.

The schedule: Thursday 5 p.m. to 10 p.m.; Friday 5 p.m. to 10 p.m.; Saturday 9 a.m. to 10 p.m.; Sunday 9 a.m. to 10 p.m.; and Monday's finals from 12 noon to 6 p.m.

Competitive categories include men and women singles, men and women doubles, mixed doubles and senior men [40 and over] singles. Winners and runnersup in each category will receive prizes.

Some 21 softball teams, all registered with the Amateur Softball Association and including one club from Reading, Pa., will take part in the Quincy Bicentennial Invitational Softball Tournament. Seven teams are from Quincy.

The schedule: Friday at 6:30 p.m. at Rotary and Welcome Young Fields, Saturday at 9 a.m. at Rotary Field until 11 p.m. and LaBrecque Field until 8 p.m.; Sunday from 9 a.m. to 11 a.m. at Rotary Field; and Monday from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. at Rotary Field.

The finals will be at 7 p.m. Monday at Adams Field.

The outstanding pitcher of the tournament will receive an award from Double G Sub Shop, Braintree.

The five-mile road race, open to registered members of the AAU age 14 and over, will start Saturday at 9:30 a.m. in front of the Quincy YMCA. The Y's Physical Fitness Program and Quincy Heritage are the sponsors.

The race route includes Woodward Ave., Greenleaf St., Southern Artery, Hancock St., to Elm Ave., West Elm Ave., Quincy Shore Drive, Furnace Brook Parkway, Southern Artery [again] and Coddington St. to the finish at the Quincy YMCA.

Special awards will go to the first five finishers, the first three women finishers, the first three Quincy YMCA finishers, the first three Quincy resident finishers and the first three finishers in 12 age categories.

The Quincy Park and Recreation Board is also sponsor of some events and the Noble Sporting Goods of Quincy will provide the awards. Mayor Joseph J. LaRia and other public officials will take part in opening and closing ceremonies.

The public is invited to attend all the events free of charge.

Jordan Would Like To See 4 Local Legion Teams

By TOM SULLIVAN

Although his young and inexperienced Wollaston Legion baseball team is having a rough season with a 0-4 record, Coach Bob Jordan vehemently disagrees with those who think there shouldn't be three Legion teams in Quincy.

"People have said we shouldn't have revived baseball last year and some have even said there should be only one team in the city," Jordan said. "I heartily disagree with this. In fact I would like it if there were four teams. [Houghs Neck Legion considered fielding a team two years ago]. The more teams the merrier."

"After all, if there was only one team, there would be only 17 or 18 boys playing Legion ball in the city. What would our 17 players be doing if we didn't have a team? I am in favor of giving as many boys as possible a chance to play ball."

Jordan said he has lost some boys to other Legion teams in the past but this year the coaches and athletic officers of all three Quincy Posts agreed no players were to transfer from one team to another. Wollaston should be much stronger next year with this season's experience.

"We have only five 18-year-olds on our squad," Jordan continues. "We have four 17-year-olds and nine 16-year-olds. We have only four boys with any high school varsity experience, while Morrisette and Quincy are loaded with varsity players and some college players. Our young pitchers have done very well but we just haven't been hitting. We have given the stronger teams some tough games but have slipped in the late innings."

Monday night Wollaston errors handed Braintree five runs in the first inning and the game was even the rest of the way as Braintree won, 7-2.

Last week Wollaston trailed Hingham by only a 1-0 score after five innings only to have Hingham come back to win it, 7-1.

Wollaston had lost three straight 5-2 decisions and in each led until late in the game. Against Weymouth, with Nick Anastas pitching fine ball; it led, 1-0, after five but two errors in a row were followed by a three-run Weymouth homer and that was that.

The only players with high school varsity experience are Roy Widman, Quincy infielder; McLean, Abp. Williams pitcher; McBride, Abp. Williams infielder, and DiRico, Thayer Academy outfielder.

Other players are Nick Anastas, North Quincy pitcher; Tom LaBlue, Quincy pitcher; Steve Jaehrig, B.C. High pitcher; Bob Lambert, Quincy pitcher; Chris Carr, Quincy infielder;

John Houten, Quincy infielder; Josh Alberti, North Quincy outfielder; Bob Stevens, North Quincy outfielder; John Andrews, North Quincy outfielder; Al Cangemi, North Quincy infielder; Rich Marino, North Quincy infielder; Steve Cook, Abp. Williams catcher, and Mark Nagle, North Quincy catcher.

Gus Marino and Carl Widman are the assistant coaches, Bill Roberts the business manager and Brian O'Toole the official scorer.

Meanwhile, Morrisette leads Zone 6 with a 7-1 record, following a 7-2 win Monday over Weymouth, and Quincy is right behind at 6-2 after topping Cohasset, 4-2 Sunday.

Dave Rafferty pitched a strong six innings and Kurt O'Sullivan finished up in the Quincy win.

Last week Quincy defeated Braintree, 6-2, behind the six-hit pitching of Mike Kelley, who was backed up by an 11-hit attack including two hits each by Paul Southerland, Paul Vespaziani and Steve Bell.

Coach Gerry O'Leary, who is assisted by Dave MacMillan and Bobby Brill, has many top players from this year's Quincy High team, which made the Eastern Mass. Tournament. He has four good pitchers in Quincy's Vespaziani, Lew Fishman and Dave Rafferty and North Quincy's Mike Kelly. Vespaziani plays third and the outfield and Fishman shortstop when not pitching.

Steve Bell of North and Brian Jolley of Quincy are the catchers. Infielders are Mark DeLuca, Paul Southerland, Mike Murphy and Artie Davis of Quincy. Kurt O'Sullivan of North and Dave McLaughlin of Don Bosco are outfielders are Jim Duggan and Rick Giliboy of Quincy, Preston Carroll of Northeastern U., formerly of Quincy, Greg Zoia of North and Fred Kussman of B.C. High.

"This is our strongest team in recent years and I think we can make a run for the title," O'Leary said. "We have good pitching, good hitting and strong defense."

In its previous game Quincy had walloped Milton, 10-4, with Fishman and Rafferty pitching. Quincy edged Holbrook, 7-6, with Carroll having a home run and three singles, Vespaziani and DeLuca two hits each. Kelly won his second in a row and had only one bad inning, the fourth, when Holbrook scored five times.

George French is Quincy's manager and athletic officer.

The pitching of Tim Clifford and Pat Gibbons has sparked Morrisette as Clifford, with some outstanding efforts, has a 4-0 record and southpaw Gibbons a 3-1 mark.

Gibbons pitched a four-hitter to top Weymouth Monday as the 19-time Zone 6 champions finally had their batting shoes on. Paul Messina had a two-run homer, Paul Jackmaugh two triples, Steve McKinnon a triple and single and Dave Perdios and Gibbons a single each.

Clifford had a four-hitter last Friday as Morrisette stopped Randolph's four-game win streak, 6-2. Clifford struck out 10. His mates committed six errors and both Randolph runs were unearned.

McKinnon drove in four runs with two hits and Perdios also had two hits.

In its previous game Morrisette had walloped Milton, 9-4, with Gibbons pitching six-hit ball.

Clifford hit a home run, Gibbons drove in two runs and Chuck LoPresti, Dennis McGuire and McKinnon drove in one apiece.

Friday Morrisette will host Cohasset at 8 at Adams Field, Quincy will be at Hingham at 6 and Wollaston at Holbrook at 8:30. Tuesday Wollaston will be home to Randolph at 8 at Adams and next Wednesday it will be Quincy at Morrisette at 8 at Adams and Wollaston at Canton at 6.

McGilvery (1), Catalano (2) In St. Mary's Road Race

Joe Catalano, Quincy High winter track and cross country coach, was edged in St. Mary's 10-mile road race and finished second.

Catalano, one of the most active runners in the area, made a great bid to overtake the winner, Earl McGilvery, but made his move a little too late.

"I was gaining on him at the finish and I might have had a chance if the race was a quarter-mile longer," he said.

With two miles left Catalano trailed McGilvery of the North Medford Athletic Club by 200 yards but cut it down to 75 yards.

Catalano was followed by Chuck Riley of the Greater Boston Track Club. Mike Baxter of the BAA was fourth.

Of the 80 finishers 17 finished in less than an hour.

Jan Greaney of the Liberty Athletic Club was the first woman finisher, coming in 51st at 1:15:30.

● Babe Ruth Baseball Firemen Police Boys Club Continue To Pace Divisions

The Quincy Police Boys Club moved three games ahead of Gino's in the Quincy Babe Ruth League's National League with a 12-2 record, best in both divisions, following three wins during the past week.

Firemen's Local 792 still leads the American League with a 10-3 record.

The Police Club nipped Morrisette Post, 3-2, on a strong three-hitter by Fran Donovan, who walked three and struck out five. Donovan also had a double and single and drove in the winning run in the sixth inning. Larry Baker also had a double. Mark Messina had a leadoff triple and Fred Prezioso a double for Morrisette.

The Police squeezed by second place Gino's, 8-7, with Bob Mezzetti the winning pitcher. He also drove in two runs with a double. Leading, 8-1, going into the final inning, Police just held on with Mezzetti striking out the last batter with the tying run on third. Gino's scored its six runs in the inning on six hits including a double by Paul O'Toole and a triple by Buckley. Bob Lindenfelzer had a home run for Gino's. Donovan, Kevin McKinnon and Baker had run scoring hits for the Police.

The Police ran all over Houghs Neck, 25-0, with Tom Brennan the winning pitcher with a three-hitter. He is now 4-0 on the season. Baker and Mezzetti had three hits apiece. Brennan, Donovan and Gary DiNardo had two hits each and Billy Oakes, Bob Cronin and John Sullivan also had hits. Bill O'Connell walked four times and placed a strong game at second base.

In climbing to the top of its league, the Police Club has won seven straight games.

The Firemen nipped Barry's Deli, 1-0, in a fine defensive game between two strong teams. The lone run scored in the first inning when leadoff batter Artie Roberts walked, Greg Madden singled and Dave Austin doubled.

Austin was the winning pitcher, allowing only two hits, striking out five and walking only one. Madden, with two singles, Austin with a double and Steve Notorangelo with a single accounted for the four hits allowed by tough luck loser Gary Earle.

The Elks have started to move in on the Firemen and won three games during the week.

The first was a 9-2 romp over Firemen. Mike Crowley pitched outstanding ball and also led the attack with three hits. Steve Healy, John Connolly, Fred Palmer and Lou Mathews had two hits each and Eddie Marrella and Boddy Dubois also had hits.

This was followed by a 10-3 breeze over Granite City Electric with DuBois pitching a three-hitter and Connolly, Billy Foley and Rich Schaezel leading the offense.

The Elks also thumped Hancock Bank, 15-8, with Healy picking up his first win. Foley pitched well in relief and also hit a three-run homer. Palmer also had a home run, Terry Hogan and DuBois had triples and Crowley and Ted Shaw shone defensively.

Connerty, Venezia Win 9 Each

Undeclared White Sox Win

St. John's Little League Championship

Russ Connerty and Jim Venezia led the American League White Sox to an unprecedented 19-0 record and the St. John's Little League championship.

The White Sox clinched the title with 5-0 and 2-1 wins over the Giants, National League champions.

Connerty and Venezia each had 9-0 pitching records with three shutouts apiece. Both boys averaged more than 12 strikeouts a game while allowing an average of just two walks a game. The highlight of the regular season came when Connerty pitched a no-hitter against the tough second place Yankees, striking out 15 of a possible 18 batters.

Batting third and fourth respectively, Connerty and Venezia batted well over .500, each having four for four games. Connerty drove in eight runs in one game including a home run out of Faxon Field. Venezia led the team in extra base hits.

Roger Perreault at first base and David Church at second were defensive standouts and each batted more than .400. Perreault also pitched well when called upon.

Joey Burns was the starting catcher and brother Mike the right fielder. Danny Doherty, in only his second year of organized ball, performed brilliantly in center field. George and Mario Decesare played a steady left field and 10-year-old Joey Coloton holds promise for the future at third base. Connerty and Venezia played shortstop when not pitching.

Reserves included Gile Delancy, Wesley Paul, John

Kasares, Bill Eastwick and Mark Walsh, each of whom contributed his share.

The National League champion Giants, 13-4, proved to be formidable opponents in the playoffs.

In the first game Venezia pitched a four-hit shutout and struck out 12. Connerty's base-clearing double was the key hit.

In the second game Connerty, playing with a muscle pull in his right leg and requiring a courtesy runner, outlasted Mark Baker in a pitching duel and had 14 strikeouts in the 2-1 win.

Mark Baker, one of the best all-around players in the league, played outstanding defense as well as swinging a potent bat in a losing cause. Paul Leonard also performed well for the Giants.

50,000TH SWIMMER to use the year-old pool at the Lincoln-Hancock Community School during Recreation Department Swimming was Patti Schaub of Pine St., Wollaston [center], who was congratulated by Jeanne Anne Rathgeb, recreational swimming supervisor, and Barry Welch, assistant director of recreation.

Time Schedule For Court Reservations

The Quincy Park-Recreation Board announces the time schedule for tennis court reservations at various courts throughout the city.

Due to the large increase in tennis enthusiasts in Quincy, Recreation Director Robert K. Beniers advises obtaining reservation early. There are 15 courts reserved each evening for Quincy residents. Courts can also be reserved Saturday and Sunday at two locations.

To reserve a court, a program for Quincy residents only, they must produce satisfactory evidence of Quincy residence to the court supervisor on the day they wish to reserve a court.

Court supervisors are at the following locations:
Vo-Tech - Daily 5:30 p.m. to 10 p.m.; Saturday 10 a.m. to 10 p.m.; Sunday 10 a.m. to 6 p.m.

Fenno Street - Monday through Saturday 6 p.m. to 10 p.m.

Montclair [Bishop] - Monday through Friday 5:30 p.m. to 8 p.m.

Faxon Park - Monday through Friday 5:30 p.m. to 10 p.m.; Saturday 10 a.m. to 10 p.m.; Sunday 10 a.m. to 6 p.m.

Beginning July 6 the courts at Faxon Park can also be reserved each day from 10 a.m. until 5 p.m. in addition to the evening schedule. During the evening hours adults over 18 years of age will have preference. An adult may reserve a court and then elect to play with another adult or a minor.

HN Romps Over Keohane's

Houghs Neck and Keohane's lead the American and National League respectively in the Quincy Junior Baseball League with identical 13-3 records following Houghs Neck's 13-3 romp over Keohane's.

Tommy O'Connor pitched a fine game for HN and the team excelled on defense while it took advantage of some loose play by Keohane's. The losing pitcher was John Balzano.

WNAC-TV Salutes Massachusetts In Bicentennial Special

WNAC-TV salutes the state of Massachusetts and the people who have shaped its past and its present in an hour-long Bicentennial special, "Mass. Leaders: Their Visions of Our State," Thursday, July 1 from 8 to 9 p.m.

In a series of vignettes, more than thirty-five of the Commonwealth's leaders in the arts, education, government, and other fields, lend their individual perspectives to the question: Where has Massachusetts been...and where are we going? In cameo appearances throughout the program, six recent Massachusetts governors, [Leverett Saltonstall, Foster Furcolo, John Volpe, Endicott Peabody, Francis Sargent, and Michael Dukakis], talk about the 'state of the state' during their years in office.

Average citizens have a chance to air their views, too, [which sometimes differ markedly from those of their leaders], in on-the-street interviews conducted from Harvard Square to Roxbury to Chinatown.

"What we have attempted to do in 'Mass. Leaders,'" explains Executive Producer Don Ringe, "is to produce a kind of 'living history' of our state as seen through the eyes of the people who witnessed the events, were 'here when decisions were made, lived through the problems and participated in the solutions.' Some of the 'Mass. Leaders'" who appear in the program include:

Senator Edward M. Kennedy, who recalls politics as it was practiced in the Massachusetts of his youth. Arthur Fiedler remembers the first Pops Esplanade Concert, and 89-year-old feminist Florence Luscomb recalls as a child hearing Susan B. Anthony speak at an 1892 Suffrage Convention.

Red Sox pitcher Luis Tiant and Bruins' star Johnny Bucyk explain by Boston sports fans are "unique", and Black artist Dana Chandler gives his opinions about Black participation in the arts scene in Massachusetts today.

U.S. Congressman Thomas "Tip" O'Neill tells why he believes Massachusetts has produced more than its share of political leaders, and former Governor Leverett Saltonstall reminisces about one of them: James Michael Curley.

Julia Child describes a New England banquet, and Mrs. Malcolm Peabody, [mother of the former governor], recalls her night in jail following a 1964 Civil Rights demonstration in Florida. Black arts entrepreneur Elma Lewis remembers a childhood teacher who evaluated her as a 'non-achiever'.

Former Massachusetts Governor John Volpe, [now U.S. Ambassador to Italy], is interviewed in Rome about his past in the Bay State.

President Adams Crypt To Be Seen On CBS Sunday

As part of its day-long broadcast in celebration of the Bicentennial on July 4th, CBS News will present shots taken in early May at the burial crypt of President John Adams and President John Quincy Adams, in the First Parish Church in Quincy.

The broadcast, which will be shown on Ch. 7 locally will include a dramatic reading of the play "The Great American Fourth of July Parade" by Archibald MacLeish and several other dramatic and festive events taking place on the 4th.

The crypt shots will be used to illustrate the play which creates an imagined dialogue between Presidents Adams and Jefferson, looking back on America's history after their deaths. It can be seen Sunday July 4, between 8 and 9 p.m. on Ch. 7.

HEDGE TRIMMING MISHAPS

An electric hedge trimmer can inflict a deep wound, even slice off a finger. Accidents serious enough to require emergency room treatment happen 8,400 times a year, says the Consumer Product Safety Commission, most often when the operator takes one hand off the trimmer to push a branch out of the way or hold the cord away from the moving blade. If you have a hedge trimmer, follow these common-sense practices:

Use an extension cord connector that holds the trimmer cord firmly in the socket. Use a connector with a hood for hanging the cord on your belt, away from the moving blade.

Avoid hasty, careless movements with the tool. Avoid standing on a chair or ladder that may tip as you work. Clean and adjust the trimmer only when it is unplugged. Examine the cord regularly for cracks and breaks in the insulation.

If you are shopping for a trimmer, buy one with two handles and cutting guards that are close enough to the cutting teeth to prevent entry of a finger. The tool should be double-insulated or have a three-wire cord for grounding.

MacDonald Stalls Action On Point Car Lot License Request

By TOM BRADY

The city Licensing Board Tuesday continued until July 20, a request from Tom O'Brien, of Tom O'Brien Pontiac for a license to operate a car lot at 626 Washington St., in Quincy Point although the area's state representative, civic association and abutters to the property have expressed their approval of the plan.

With two members of the board absent from the meeting, Building Inspector Allan MacDonald refused to second a motion by Health Commissioner Dr. Samuel Solomon to approve the request saying that he did not believe a used car lot on that site would improve the entrance of the city.

"The board has to ask is this in the best interest of the long-range planning for the city," MacDonald said.

Because Fire Chief Edward Barry and Police Chief Francis X. Finn were not at the meeting, and because, according to Licensing Board rules, Chairman John Gillis is not allowed to second motions, MacDonald's refusal to second delayed the O'Brien request's chances of approval. The Board voted to continue it instead.

During debate on O'Brien's request, Ted DeCristofaro, representing the Ward 2 Civic Association said his organization approved of the plan. In previous testimony, Rep. Robert Cerasoli testified he and most of the abutters to the lot preferred O'Brien's plan to other possible uses for the lot.

The motion was continued to July 20, the next scheduled meeting of the Licensing Board.

In another matter, the Licensing Board approved a request from Jack Donahue for a permit to hold a rock concert in the Strand Theatre Aug. 16 from 7 p.m. to 11 p.m. after hearing reports that there was no trouble at a previous concert conducted there by Donahue.

The board approved Donahue's request subject to any stipulations of the Police and Fire Departments and required that he advertise the concert as "sold out" when all but 200 tickets to the event have been sold.

A request for approval as a gas station manager from James Short, former city official, was denied by the board when Short failed to appear at the hearing Tuesday.

The Board continued a request from Maguire's Cafe Inc., the owners of Brothers II, 619-627 Washington St., Quincy Point, for approval of a change in the corporate structure and a new manager for the restaurant. James L. Maguire, husband of a current owner, Mary E. Maguire, asked approval as half owner of the restaurant and Vincent Guarniere asked approval as manager.

The Licensing Board continued the request so police checks can be performed of the people involved.

Joseph Vissa and Sons, a construction contractor, received a gasoline storage and repair shop license transfer from the MacInnis Corp for 18-20 Furnace Ave., West Quincy, subject to a number of restrictions due to the proximity of an apartment building.

A hearing on a request from Albert A. Scavo for a permit to store 16,500 gallons of gasoline underground at 550 Willard St., West Quincy was filed

Record Visitors At Adams Birthplaces

Boston may be complaining about a smaller number of tourists than expected in this Bicentennial year but there is no dearth of them in Quincy.

In fact, more people have visited the Adams birthplaces on Franklin St. already this year than they did in all last year.

Mrs. Margaret O'Connell of the Quincy Historical Society reported these figures from the Birthplaces' visitors books:

Visitors, April 19-June 28, 1975 - 1,759.

Visitors, April 19-June 28, 1976 - 8,214.

Visitors, April 19-Sept. 30, 1975 - 8,190.

Mrs. O'Connell said 1,242 people visited the houses during opening week in 1976 compared to 124 in 1975 and the figures have since been running more than 400 per cent above last year.

"Probably the best reason for the increase was the Adams Chronicles on television," says Mrs. O'Connell. "It often comes up in conversations with visitors and they say, 'Oh, yes, we watched them.'"

Last year, said Mrs. O'Connell, three guides were on duty at the Birthplaces in the spring and the fall and three or four were on duty during the summer.

"Now," she said, "we have had four or five on at all times."

The visitors registers at other historic sites in Quincy were up too.

The First Parish Church, for the period ending June 20, showed 4,536 visitors compared to 2,877 for the same time a year ago.

The Adams Mansion [The national Historic Site], for April and May, had 9,290 guests, compared to 4,144 for April and May, 1975.

$33,000 State Aid Loss Seen

Library Budget Cuts Prevent Purchase Of New Books

The Thomas Crane Public Library will be unable to buy any new books this year unless the Mayor and the City Council act to restore some of the funds cut from the library budget this year according to Warren Watson, director of the library.

Watson confirmed that he told a special meeting of the Library trustees Monday that the $70,000 cut from the book buying budget by the Mayor and the City Council will leave only about $6,000 to purchase new books for the library. He indicated that cuts in the individual budget equalling five full time positions may force the library to cut back its hours.

He said the library annually has spent more than $6,000 a year to purchase paperback books alone, and the cuts would probably make it impossible for the library to purchase more than a few hardcover books for the year.

The library trustees have asked the Mayor to restore the $70,000 in book buying funds and one of the full time positions, Watson said. The special meeting was held Monday to discuss ways of coping with the other cuts in the library budget.

At that meeting Arthur Casey, the Mayor's administrative aid, told the trustees the Mayor "would respond to our requests to restore the funds," Watson said.

The cuts in the book buying budget, according to Watson, will mean that the library is unable to buy many new books for the library's collection this year, although continuing commitments such as subscriptions, microfilm and large type books would not be hurt since approximately $44,000 requested for these commitments was not cut.

Watson also said the cuts would cost the city's library system about $33,000 in state aid.

"By this reduction in the book budget," he said, "we fail to meet minimum state requirements which will cost the city $33,000 in state aid. That will be lost."

Watson said the library trustees will also have to consider changing the library's hours because of the personnel cuts.

"Knowing that we have to eliminate 150 hours of part time help and two full time positions," Watson said, "we have yet to determine whether all branches can function on the hours they have."

The library's original budget request for books was $120,000. The Mayor's office cut $20,000 from this and the City Council cut an addition $50,000. $44,000 is committed to continuing collections and subscriptions.

The library's total budget request of about $1.2 million was reduced to about $.95 million by the book, personnel and other cuts.

Ward 2 4th Celebration Monday At Fore River Field

The Ward 2 Civic Association will hold its Fourth of July Celebration Monday [July 5] starting at 10 a.m. at Fore River Field.

The field event will begin at 10 a.m. with sack, three-legged and wheel barrow races, followed by doll carriage, horribles and bicycle parades at 1 p.m. and the final field events at 1:30 p.m.

There will also be an egg throwing contest.

Free ice cream and soft drinks will be available and there will also be clowns, fire engine rides and floats.

Judge Kramer Concerned, Over Delays On In Trials

Judge Albert L. Kramer, presiding justice of the Quincy District Court, spoke of his concern for trial delays and their causes at a recent meeting of the Massachusetts Council for Public Justice.

The MCPJ is a non-political citizens group formed four years ago at a Citizens Conference on Improving the Administration of Justice. Harry Roemer, deputy probation officer in the Juvenile Division of Quincy court, is on the board of directors.

Judge Kramer also explained to the group some of his juvenile court programs in restitution [particularly the famed "Earn It" plan], probation, sentencing and rehabilitation.

Andrew Klein, Judge Kramer's court administrator, spoke on his research and study of court operated programs and new procedures and distributed literature explaining the changes.

The MCPJ voted to send a letter to Gov. Michael Dukakis asking him to speed up the selection and appointment of a Chief Justice for the District Courts succeeding Judge Franklin N. Flaschner.

"It is my fervent hope that the next district court chief justice has the energy and the ability that our Presiding Justice Kramer has," said Roemer.

$8,000 Freedom Park Grant

Rep. Thomas F. Brownell [D-Quincy] says that Quincy has been recommended to the American Revolution Bicentennial Administration for an $8,000 grant for Freedom Park, which was dedicated Monday.

Final notification should be made in about two weeks, Brownell said.

City To Receive $22,817 State Census Reimbursement

Quincy will receive a $22,815.50 check from the state within a few weeks to reimburse the city for taking the 1975 state census at a rate of 25 cents per person counted.

The census takers counted 91,478 people in Quincy but the city was reimbursed for only 91,270 because, a spokesman for the Secretary of State's office explained, the others were students domiciled in other towns.

QCBPA Seeks Synchronization

Merchants Complain Granite St. Lights Causing Traffic Tie-ups In Quincy Sq.

The Quincy Center Business and Professional Association is reviving a campaign to synchronize the traffic lights on Granite Ave. at Upland Rd. and Whitwell St., or possible eliminate those at Upland Rd. entirely.

"We have been getting a lot of complaints from merchants that the lights tie up traffic in the Square," said Austin Wickens, executive director of the QCBPA.

One of the most recent complaints came from Harold W. Slawsky, president of Capitol Super Markets Inc., whose main office is at 1360 Hancock St.

"The light at the base of Hospital Hill [Whitwell St.] makes a great deal of sense in controlling traffic flow off the hill and near the shopping centers," he wrote.

"However, the lights at Upland Rd extension are ridiculous.

"They are constantly backing up traffic heading towards and from the Square when relatively few cars are using Upland Rd other than during the rush hours.

"To operate these lights on Saturday is sheer folly.

"The timing of the lights is such that, more often than not, one gets stopped by all three lights - Hospital Hill, Upland Rd and Hancock St.

"I strongly urge you to ask the traffic department to examine the need of the Upland Rd light and its timing before Quincy Square loses more customers and retail stores."

The city requested two years ago that the lights at Whitwell St. and Upland Rd be synchronized but an engineering study by a consulting firm decided that it was not necessary.

At the time, the city was all for it.

"When these signals are operating during moderate traffic conditions, a traffic jam is created," said Police Chief Francis X. Finn and Edward F. Lynch, superintendent of signs and signals.

"A car proceeding east on Granite St. will encounter a red signal at the intersection of Whitwell St. He has to wait there for say, 50 seconds.

"He then proceeds 350 feet and encounters a red indication at Upland Rd. He waits its full extension, another 50 seconds.

"This means it takes him almost two minutes to get through this short area. In a very short time when the traffic is busy, both intersections run back into each other.

"It is definite to me that in our efforts to solve one problem, we have created one that is much worse.

"This road is a feeder to the Southeast Expressway from Quincy Square. Many times the traffic on this feeder is very busy and this situation presents an unnecessary obstruction.

"We strongly feel that the only way to move traffic along this roadway is to have these two sets of traffic signals interconnected so as they will work together as one system."

Long Island Good Spot To See Tall Ships

One of the choice spots to watch the parade of tall ships through Boston Harbor this weekend is Long Island - which means headaches for Quincy and MDC police.

Long Island, which is part of Boston, is accessible by land only by bridge from Quantum and Mooh Island.

Operation Sail will run

NQHS Work May Start Next Week

Early next week, North Quincy folks may see the first tangible evidence that there really will be a $13.5 million addition and renovation to their high school.

A construction management firm, Kent Corporation of Boston, was hired officially Friday to supervise the project.

"We are now reviewing the necessary changes in plans, principally putting in piles, removing oil tanks and shuttle buses from Quantum to Long Island starting at 8 a.m. Saturday, but details are vague.

Representatives of the Quincy and MDC police were attending a midweek conference to discuss traffic and parking problems that are sure to arise.

The parade of tall ships from Deer Island Light through the inner harbor and thence to South Boston is scheduled to start at 8:30 a.m. Saturday and continue until 2:30 p.m.

They will berth at the South Boston Army Base and be open to the public daily from noon to 6 p.m., Sunday through Wednesday.

They leave for home Thursday.

redirecting utility and sewerage lines," said Mayor Joseph J. LaRaia.

"I expect that the first of next week we'll see something being done."

LaRaia has not yet signed the bond issue for the work on the high school but, he said, "the only obstacle now is the time element needed to draw up the specifications for the bids.

"If it wasn't for that, work could start tomorrow."

Sand And Sandwiches

Beaching it — that all-American summer pastime — is taken up by thousands annually for the purpose of relaxation and body beautifying. The moment of truth may come when among all that suntan lotion and chaise longues, no one has thought much about lunch.

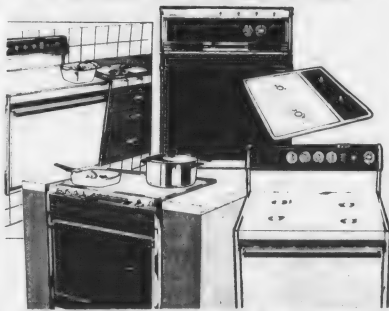

Next time you pack your beach bags, just tuck in a few cans of chicken spread and make a great baked-over-the-coals sandwich in minutes. If you wish, make the sandwich at home, wrap it in foil and carry it to the beach ready-to-eat.

Barbecue Chicken Sandwich

- | | |
|--------------------------------------|--|
| 1 loaf French bread
(15 inches) | 10 thin rings red onion |
| 2 4 1/2 ounce cans chicken spread | 8 slices sharp pasteurized
process cheese |
| 10 slices tomato | 8 green pepper rings |
| | 8 strips bacon, cooked |

Cut bread in half lengthwise. Spread each half with one can of chicken spread. Then layer sandwich with tomato, onion, cheese, pepper and bacon slices. Wrap sandwiches in foil and bake over hot coals or in 375° oven for 5 minutes. Cut each loaf into fifths. Makes 10 servings.

Women Volunteers Honored At YMCA Luncheon

A women's luncheon was held recently at the Quincy YMCA to honor the "Y" volunteers and part-time staff.

More than 150 women attended. Outstanding volunteer service and women's achievements in fitness were recognized.

Mrs. Berta Nota was presented with a silver bowl as "Outstanding Volunteer of the Year". Mrs. Georgette Nickerson was presented an award for swimming 250 miles this year.

The "Outstanding Volunteer of the Year Award" has been presented to Berta Nota of Randolph by the Quincy YMCA.

The award is given annually in memory of Benjamin F. Hodgkinson to a "Y" member for consistent and responsible involvement in the life of the YMCA through volunteer service.

Patty Lyons was awarded a trophy for having logged over 500 miles jogging this year.

Mrs. Janice MacArthur was recognized for being selected, along with Miss Sue Higgins, to represent Quincy on the Eastern Massachusetts YMCA All-Star Volleyball Team.

Berta originally joined the "Y" for two reasons, [1] she believed in the "Y" and [2], she wanted to learn how to swim! She worked hard and advanced from a beginner swimmer to a Water Safety Instructor.

Nine years ago she began to teach swimming and has been working hard as a volunteer ever since.

Rosemary Wahlberg Named To Health Post

Rosemary Wahlberg of the Quincy Community Action Program has been elected secretary of the Health Planning Council for Greater Boston, Inc., the newly designated health systems agency for 65 Greater Boston communities.

248 Volunteers Honored For 51,390 Hours Service At Quincy Hospital

Annual recognition and awards to Quincy City Hospital volunteers and Gift Shop workers are announced by Miss Emma Hassan, Director of Volunteer Services.

The 248 volunteers have given a total of 51,390 hours of service ranging from 100 to more than 10,000 hours.

Topping the group is Mrs. Z. Cranston Smith, retired Gift Shop chairman, who will receive a plaque for her record 20,000 hours of service.

"This outstanding accomplishment which truly exemplifies a dedicated volunteer would be hard to match," says Miss Hassan. "What can you say about such a remarkable achievement?"

Volunteers including Red Cross Production Workers, Women's Auxiliary and Retired Senior Volunteer Persons were honored at a dinner given by the Quincy City Hospital Board of Managers, and later at an afternoon tea.

Scholarships given by the Volunteer Services from funds raised through two cake sales were presented for the second consecutive year to Ruth Jones, Maureen Nestor and Carol Hatfield, students at Quincy City Hospital School of Nursing.

The Wohelo Medallion, highest award of the Camp Fire Girls, was received by Shannon Hardy, a Junior Volunteer with more than 200 hours' service.

In addition, 30 Junior Volunteers, including two males, received recognition from the Quincy Lodge of Elks for their civic contributions.

Forty-nine members of the Women's Auxiliary were recognized for work in the Gift Shop. They are:

Peace, Poise and Plenty

Q. I would greatly appreciate it if you would let me know what you think of my astrological aspects. I was born on 14th Street, New York City [at that time a respectable apartment house district] at five p.m. on May 8, 1902. A good part of my life is behind me but I enjoy excellent health, barring a tendency to too much avoidupois, and am still working at my job.

C.E.F.

A. I think your astrological aspects are just great. It is not only what is IN the chart that is important but also what is NOT IN the chart. The indications of stress, strain, tensions and pressures found in some horoscopes are NOT in yours.

The Air Sign of Libra, indicative of poise and calm deliberation was on your Ascendant [just rising]. Your Sun was in the Seventh House, a position similar to the Sign Libra and in Taurus. Sign of stability. The planet Mercury also in Taurus in very favorable aspect to Saturn in Capricorn, indicative of good concentration, the ability to keep your mind on that which you are doing or thinking. You can be serious without being morbid or depressing. You should have good physical energy and the ability to maintain considerable activity.

You have good control over what you say and know when to speak and when not to speak. You have rather steady nerves, not easily upset. All of these add up to being easy to get along with.

The Sun-Jupiter aspect in your chart indicates a need to develop moderation in all things but especially in food and drink, try not to over-indulge. Problems may develop from excess rather than from lack. Your horoscope figuratively shouts of PEACE. You want and need peaceful conditions and your great desire is for a friendly peaceful environment.

For questions to be answered through this column, mail the year, month, day of the month, city of birth, time of day if known and question to Ask Oscar, Box 114, Canton, Mass. 02021. Please sign your name which will not be published. Selected questions can only be answered in this column.

Stay Alive!

By Jack Silverstein

EXERCISE, CLEAN LIVING AND LONGEVITY

On the average, American men can expect to reach age 67. Women live longer, a bit over 75. Between 1948 and 1973, longevity increased five years for women and more slowly for men, three years, despite advances in medical treatment. Now a report from the University of California shows how common sense health rules, if adopted earlier in life, could add 11 years to the age of men and seven years to the age of women.

The habits common to the long-lived group: Eight hours of sleep for men; seven for women; a good breakfast daily, followed by two "nutritional meals at regular times; no snacking; regular exercise, usually in a sport; moderation in alcohol; no smoking and good control of weight. Of all the above attributes, medical authorities claim that physical and mental activity [exercising the brain and the body] is by far the most important ingredient of living to a ripe and healthy age. It's good for the heart, circulation and positive mental outlook.

Troop 211 Girl Scouts Receive Awards At Ceremony

Girl Scouts of Troop 211 recently held a rededication ceremony that included welcoming their sister Brownie Troop fly-ups and the graduation of three members into the future Cadette Troop that is being formed in the area.

All three troops are associated with the Great Hill School, Houghs Neck.

Receiving their Brownie year pins and Fly-up wings were Karen Hurley, Karen Whelan, Denise Loud, Nancy McDonald, Audrey McManus, Kelli Keefe, Nancy Mellyn.

Receiving Year Pin, Troop Camper and Skaters badges were Carrie Hallett, Cheryl Lundin, Lisa Lundin, Peggy McCourt, Debbie Mellyn, Nancy Mellyn, Maureen O'Hara, Diane Holler, Julie Robertson, Janice Schuerch and Karen Shaw.

Year Pin and Troop Campers badges went to Renee Ryan, Tina Ward, Julie Kohut, Lynn Lydon, Karen Chetwynd, Lauralyn Steen and Christine Walsh.

Cooking badges were awarded to Cheryl Lundin, Lisa Lundin, Julie Kohut, Peggy McCourt, Maureen O'Hara and Karen Shaw.

Housekeeping badges were presented to Cheryl Lundin, Lisa Lundin and Christine Walsh.

The Book badge was awarded to Julie Kohut.

The new Cadettes were awarded their Cockades and welcomed into their new troop by their new leader, Mrs. Marie Ward and the cadette leader Mrs. Mary Walsh.

The ceremonies were directed by District Coordinator Mrs. Mary Walsh, and the Service Representative Mrs. Ann McGivern. Brownie leader is Mrs. Rosemary Frenette, Junior Scout leaders are Mrs. Mary Ann Kohut and Mrs. Dorothea Lundin, and future Cadette leader is Mrs. Marie Ward.

All girls and women in the area who are interested in joining the Cadettes and helping to form two new Junior Troops in the Atherton Hough area are asked to get in touch with any of the leaders. There are special classes being organized for training purposes including a campers weekend in September.

Adams Bicentennial Tribute At Historical Society Tea

A Bicentennial tribute to the Adams Birthplaces will be a special feature of the Quincy Historical Society's annual tea and open house Sunday [July 11] from 3 p.m. to 5 p.m. at the Birthplaces.

QHS Historian H. Hobart Holly will explain the role the two farmhouses on Franklin St. played in the events of 1776 since the people who lived and visited there were key participants in the Revolution.

Special invitations to attend the open house have been extended to members of the city government in recognition of the cooperative effort between City and Society in preserving and presenting the Birthplaces to the public.

The City owns the houses, having received the deed from the Adams family in 1940, and the Society owns the contents and operates the houses for visitors. The Society has operated the John Quincy Adams House since 1897 and the John Adams House since 1950.

Special invitations have also gone out to presidents of neighboring South Shore Historical Societies.

Veterans Graves Being Checked For Markers

The Department of Veterans' Services has begun a program of reviewing all records of veterans interred in Quincy cemeteries to make sure that each grave has a veterans' marker.

Lawrence Carnali, the department's graves registration officer, and his assistant, Joseph Brooker, are currently revising and cataloging all veterans' graves on files and maps.

There are about 4,000 veterans interred in eight private or city-owned cemeteries in the city and it is possible that some of them are not registered with the Veterans Services Department.

Research is also being done on some 350 veterans of the Revolution, most of whom are buried in Hancock Cemetery, for the Bicentennial celebration.

Lost Parakeet Seeks Owner In Squantum

A lost parakeet has found a temporary home with Jill Karvian, 105 Bayside Rd., Squantum.

But the presence of Jill's cat means that the stay cannot be too long.

Jill discovered the bird, evidently young and with green and yellow feathers and four black dots, on her windowsill one day last week.

"He must belong to someone," says Jill, "because when I climbed up to get him he hopped right onto my arm."

After one narrow escape from the cat, the parakeet is now lodged in a hamster cage.

Thomas Fitzgerald Receives Marine Commission

Thomas W. Fitzgerald of North Quincy was commissioned a second lieutenant in the Marine Corps last week and will report for active duty to the Quantico basic school Oct. 1.

Fitzgerald graduated this month from the Northeastern University School of Criminal Justice. At Northeastern he played varsity hockey for three years and captained the freshman team.

He graduated from Mt. St. Charles High School in Woonsocket, R.I., where he played hockey, baseball and soccer.

His father, Tom, is dean of boys and assistant football coach at North Quincy High School.

3 NQHS Anthropology Students 'Dig' Peabody Museum

Three NQHS Anthropology students have been "digging" the "treasures" of the Peabody Museum of Anthropology at Harvard University.

The career opportunity program is directed by Bernard LaCouture, teacher of Anthropology and Archaeology at NQHS, Frank Leporini, Director of Project CLIC [Career Learning In Community], and Mrs. Fran Silverman, Registrar at the Peabody Museum.

Project CLIC was instituted this school year to give students an opportunity to experience work in their chosen field of endeavor.

The three students from NQHS are Barbara Burke, 194 Taylor St., Mary Donovan, 30 Willett St., and Denise Smith, 25 Conant Rd. They have been working in the museum on special exhibits to be placed on library display. Mrs. Silverman commented that, "we give them great responsibility in which they take an idea for a display and on their own, they research the exhibit from beginning to end," noted Mrs. Silverman.

This includes selecting the artifacts for display, setting up the arrangements, writing out the labels, doing the graphics, and the final job of setting up the exhibit in the library.

impressed with the ability of the students to take on a project, and with a minimum of explanation, produce a professional project.

The students worked on the "Eskimo Art" exhibit prepared for the Hingham Library. This exhibit included priceless and unique Eskimo sculptures autographed by their creators. A second and equally unique exhibit prepared by the budding Anthropologists was an exhibit of "Headwear From Around the World" which included priceless items from Tibet, Bali, Bali, Africa, Thailand, Australia, American Indian, etc.

This valuable experience for students of NQHS will be invaluable to them in their professional development, to the school for occupational planning, and to the Anthropology course for resource people. Additional students will be added next year.

'Clear It With Mike'

By HENRY BOSWORTH

City department heads are now under a sort of "clear it with Mike" order.

Mayor Joseph LaRaia has instructed municipal department heads to channel all news releases through Michael Peatridge, the mayor's information officer.

Some department heads—especially those who have never had any trouble getting news to the local media aren't too happy about the edict. They think it's a "gag order".

Not so, insists His Honor.

"There are two ways of looking at it, of course," says he. "But it's not intended to gag anybody. It's just a way of letting the public know what is happening in the city."

"We have been trying since January to have the departments do it on their own. They have been sluggish about it. Perhaps we'll have a better chance of getting information out by doing it this way."

Maybe not.

If everyone does start submitting releases to Peatridge, he could be buried under paper.

Department heads who know how to reach the media think the order will hurt them—not help them. They're afraid some of their news will get bogged down at City Hall.

It's a problem for the media, too. If a reporter has a question, he'll have to call Peatridge, who will have to call the department head who will then give the answer to Peatridge to give to the reporter, etc., etc.

Other mayors have proposed this system in the past. And up to now, it just hasn't worked.

DON'T LOOK NOW but doesn't former Mayor Walter Hannón seem to be getting around to a lot of city oriented functions? Like the way candidates do. Some close to him think he may stage a political comeback bid next year. Others [just as close to him] doubt it. But he sure seems to be making the rounds.

FORMER MAYOR Thomas S. Burgin is a patient at Massachusetts General Hospital's Blair House. He was admitted last week with a pesky skin disorder and may be there for a couple more weeks.

RED SOX hurler Ferguson Jenkins was in the downtown Quincy Sears store the other night buying a 10-speed bike. Fergie charmed store employees and customers who quickly recognized him. Signed autographs, then went out to his car and brought back some photos to distribute to them. "He's a real classy guy," says Sears manager Pierre Boulanger. "Very friendly and obliging."

A FUND RAISER for Patrick McCarthy, Democratic candidate for Congress in the 11th Congressional seat, will be held Saturday from 8 to midnight at Montello's, Quincy Point. Dancing and refreshments. Tickets may be obtained from Nancy Kelly [963-0627] and will also be available at the door.

FRIENDLY OPPONENTS: Jack Williams and Dennis Ryan, members of the Quincy City Hospital Board of Managers, got into a hot-worded argument over the Nursing School at the board meeting that eventually revived the freshman class.

The next day they lunched together at John's Constitution and, says Williams, at least 10 people came over to their table and expressed surprise to see them together. They said they thought Williams and Ryan were bitter enemies.

Explains Williams: "Dennis and I are able to leave our differences, no matter how heated, behind when we leave the board room."

NICE GESTURE DEPT: The Quincy Good Government Forum will sponsor a wine and cheese party Friday from 8-10 p.m. at the home of Councillor Paul Harold, to benefit the annual fishing trip for hospitalized veterans.

Tickets are $3 per person and are available at the door or from committee members Lyn Deady, Judy LeFort, Pat McLaughlin and Jeanne Myett. The annual fishing trip is sponsored by Harvey's Salt Water Fishing Club of Houghs Neck.

GUESS WHO DROPPED in to the Quincy Historical Society's Adams Academy museum the other day? John Quincy Adams.

Adams and his family were making their first visit to Quincy from their California home.

"I was stunned by his resemblance to early members of the Adams family," says William O'Connell, president of the Quincy Historical Society.

But the society was unable to trace him back to old Henry Adams who started the family in America.

Of course, someone with the last name of Adams may simply have the first names of John Quincy on the front.

But the visitor could well have been an Adams descendant. Not all the Adams families in the States can trace back to old Henry Adams since some of his brothers and uncles also came over from England later on.

Broadway Tickets Main Concern

Only Question At Democratic Convention: Who's No. 2?

By PAUL D. HAROLD

Who's on second?

With Jimmy Carter having the Democratic nomination guaranteed, next week's Democratic convention will focus most of its attention on the No. 2 spot.

Assuredly, Governor Carter will choose his own running mate, and the delegates only function will be to vote their approval.

The 1976 convention promises to be quite different from the 1972 convention in Miami, which saw Mayor Richard Daley of Chicago and other "big-wigs" tossed out and replaced by delegations which looked like the road company of the then popular musical "Hair".

Concern over tickets to Broadway shows seems to have replaced delegates concern over national issues. Instead of the number of mailings on various issues, this year's delegates are receiving from the Massachusetts State Committee, information on ticket reservations.

But the show at Madison Square Garden still promises to be more lively than the performances at the Lincoln Center. Despite the fact that Presidential and Vice Presidential nominations will be a fait accompli, Democrats, whenever they get together can be counted on to find something to argue about—especially when they are on national TV.

Fights over the platform will be minimal since Carter forces have more or less tailored a platform almost as non-committal as the candidate. Many minority planks won't even be discussed since they lack the necessary votes to get them on the floor.

Perhaps the major confrontation of "regulars" versus "new politics" people, will be over credentials.

State House sources report that the Massachusetts delegation may be challenged because it lacks the necessary proportion of women.

While no one can predict for certain what will happen at any convention, one thing is [perfectly] clear: the Democrats will produce a better organized and orchestrated gathering, to best project the image of a responsible and progressive alternative to the Republican administration. In effect, the Democrats will try to produce a winning image.

Specifically; 1. mince Carter will make his acceptance speech at prime time, Unlike Senator McGovern, whose 3:30 a.m. speech seemed geared for the TV audience in Guam.

Second, 1972 convention antics [such as nominating CBS newsmen Roger Mudd for vice president] and divisive resolutions [lettuce boycotts, etc.] will be severely limited.

Third, since there has been sufficient time to consider and screen vice presidential candidates, Governor Carter will avoid the last minute choice and subsequent embarrassment Senator McGovern faced with the Eagleton candidacy.

The Massachusetts delegation leaves for New York Sunday afternoon from South Station on a special train that will carry the whole New England delegation.

From Quincy, members of the Massachusetts delegation include Peter O'Neill of Merrymount and Paul Harold of Adams Shore. O'Neill, an aide to House Speaker Thomas McGee is an alternate pledged to Senator Birch Bayh. City Councillor Harold is an alternate pledged to Congressman Morris Udall.

Harold Covering Democratic Convention For Sun

Covering the Democratic National Convention in New York City For The Quincy Sun will be Paul Harold.

A former Sun columnist before his election to the Quincy City Council, Harold covered the 1972 Democratic National Convention in Miami and the 1974 Republican state convention for The Sun.

This year he will be wearing two hats, as both newspaper correspondent and alternate delegate.

Historical Society Extends Invitation To President Ford

President Gerald Ford couldn't make it to Quincy for the Fourth of July but the welcome mat is still out for him any time he wants to come.

William A. O'Connell, president of the Quincy Historical Society, extended the invitation over the holiday weekend.

"In your busyness," wrote O'Connell, "you cannot be with us during these holidays but the Quincy Historical Society does extend to you a cordial invitation to visit our city, which most of the nation's chief executives have visited at some time during their tenures."

O'Connell acknowledged the proclamation and Bicentennial message that Ford sent to Quincy by way of Cong. James A. Burke. He said:

"The good wishes of this body go forward to you on this our Fourth of July, 1976...from the City of Presidents, where today we rededicate ourselves to the next 200 years...where today our little corner of the world emanates a radiance and glow encompassing all mankind...where especially today we thank God for being citizens of these United States of America."

8 Girls Spruce Up Heron Playground After Holiday

Eight young girls from Adams Shore gave up a morning of fun and games Tuesday to clean up the Heron Road Playground.

The girls filled four trash barrels and one bag with the remnants of the Fourth of July celebration sponsored by the Adams Shore Community Association.

Under the supervision of Park Department playground leaders, the girls are:

Maureen Donovan of 21 Bittern Rd., age 7; Tracey O'Donnell of 32 Heron Rd., age

7; Jodi O'Donnell of 32 Heron Rd., age 5; Adrienne Pierce of 41 Seagull Rd., age 6; Stacie Nigro of 31 Pelican Rd., age 8; Susan Zeiba of 146 Palmer St. age 9; Kerry Bondarick of 124 Albatross Rd., age 5, and Rhonda Hegarty of 5 Bittern Rd., age 5.

Koch To Address S. Quincy Association

Richard J. Koch, executive director of the Quincy Park and Recreation Department, will be the featured speaker at a meeting of the South Quincy Civic Association Tuesday [July 13] at 8 p.m. in Walter Scott Hall.

The association, with Mrs.

Vincent Sacchetti as moderator, also will discuss formation of a UFO [unidentified flying object] committee and an Italian heritage unit.

Action Expected On Merrymount Park Land Return

There may be action soon on the city's request for return of 6.6 acres of land in Merrymount Park which was taken by the federal government in 1957 for use as the U.S. Army Reserve Center.

Mayor Joseph J. LaRaia said he has had communications from the office of Sen. Edward M. Kennedy recently which left him "very encouraged that we will soon see approval of our perpetual request for the return of the land."

"We are probably closer to realization of the return than we have been in the past," he added.

Sheets Asks MBTA To Restore Bus Stop

City Councillor Rep. James A. Sheets [D-Quincy] has requested the MBTA to restore the North Quincy Station stop on Bus Route 215 from South and West Quincy.

Since the stop was eliminated, Sheets said, riders from South and West Quincy have had to travel to Ashmont to catch trains for Boston.

"Quincy taxpayers are heavily assessed for belonging to the T system," said Sheets. "It is unfair to deprive Quincy Riders of the use of the Red Line."

"Loss of this stop also means those who work in the State Street South-Kemper complex have no bus transportation or any public transportation to their jobs."

I NOMINATE
ANDY JACKSON

The first presidential candidate to be nominated at a party convention was Andrew Jackson, nominated by the Democratic party at their national convention, which was held in Baltimore in 1832.

QUINCY'S YESTERDAYS

July 8 - 14, 1939 -- 37 Years Ago This Week

Topless Swim Suits (For Men) Banned At Wollaston Beach

By TOM HENSHAW

Health Commissioner Dr. Richard M. Ash warned that samples of water taken from Quincy beaches showed "a very serious condition of pollution from sewage exists at all times off the shores and frequently on the shores themselves."

"Due to the time required for analysis of the water it is impossible to take samples and have the results early enough to warn bathers that day," he added, "consequently, I advise extreme caution in checking the situation before bathing."

Relief from the pollution appeared to be on the way as the State House Committee on Metropolitan Affairs reported favorably on a bill that would earmark some $24 million to clean up Boston Harbor and Quincy Bay.

But pollution wasn't the only problem faced by Quincy bathers. MDC officials refused to lift their ban on topless bathing suits [for men] on Wollaston Beach despite the fact that Chelsea District Court Judge Frank D. Crowley ruled that it was no crime [for men] to go topless at Revere Beach.

UMPS ON STRIKE

Six members of the Southeastern Massachusetts Umpires Association went on strike against the South Shore Baseball League in support of their demands for a raise from $2.50 to $3 a game.

They were immediately suspended for the rest of the season by League President Fred Smith.

The striking umpires were George O'Rourke, Jack Kriss and Eddie McCarron, all of Quincy; Robert Dwyer of Milton, Calvin Blenis of Weymouth and Walter [Pete] Delorey of Braintree.

QUINCY BAY PIRATES

Quincy police were seeking a gang of Quincy Bay pirates responsible for the theft of 11 small boats, ranging from a 14-foot sailboat down to canoes and rowboats since June 1.

Capt. George W. Fallon, chief of the Bureau of Investigation, said members of the gang apparently stole into Quincy under cover of darkness, loaded the boats on a truck, then repainted them and sold them on the North Shore.

RAILROAD IN DANGER

A commission set up by Gov. Leverett Saltonstall reported that a New Haven Railroad proposal to abandon its South Shore lines on Sept. 24 would endanger the financial structure of the area.

The commission also cited the proposal as a danger to National Defense since the lines serve the Fore River Shipyard, the Hingham Ammunition Depot, the National Guard Camp in Bourne and the Cape Cod Canal.

Members of the commission included Lt. Gov. Horace T. Cahill of Braintree and Quincy banker Irving L. Shaw.

GOLF CHAMPION

Ted Adams, 18, of Quincy, who was born in a house opposite the 16th fairway at Wollaston Golf Course, became the first Quincy resident to win the Massachusetts Amateur Golf championship.

Adams defeated Ray Marad of George Wright Municipal in Boston, 6 and 5, at Tedesco Country Club, Swampscott, for the crown.

A REGIONAL ECONOMY

By ERIC SWIDER

Will The Bankruptcy Judge Be Kind?

DALLAS, TEXAS - You have to admire these Texans for their forthrightness. When they're thinking it they say it, whether it makes you angry or not. They've been giving me the business all week about how much better off Massachusetts will be after its reconstruction. They've reminded me how the first War Between the States resulted in the reorganization of the South--an how, over the long haul, that has really paid off for them.

I'm teaching a week long management course at the U.S. Chamber's Institute for Organization Management at Southern Methodist University. The Class participants are my colleagues from Texas, Oklahoma and Louisiana.

For the last 4 days, the 90 degree, 80 per cent humidity weather has been labeled a cold wave by the radio announcer. That was the sectional difference that I would have preferred to dwell on. Instead, my students were more interested in our other differences--like State employees that defy courts and stay out on strike, property tax differentials, and our bussin' problems.

One guy insisted that I owed him a drink since he spent five grand last year at Boston hotels and restaurants wooing local companies to Texas. He proceeded to name names and I was so pleased that they were all North Shore and 128 firms that he was messing with, that I complied with his request. He urged me to work hard to support efforts to close Logan at night. That would insure him at least one company moving to his town. He advised me that most of the industrial development types in the Southwest loved Logan Airport, however, for it was the gateway to New England, and New England is their industrial greenhouse.

I did extract a promise, however. Next time

LIVING TODAY

As I rolled onto Route 128 and set my cruise control at 50 mpr, cars were traveling at different speeds, on the left, the right, and some crossed over to make right turn-offs, some over to the left for a faster clearance. Some drivers seemed to be driving casually and enjoying the drive. Some appeared anxious, tense, hell-bent on getting wherever they were going. The speed limit is 55... a few exceeded it. Some traveled in the break-down lane. Today, there were no accidents. There seemed to be much freedom of driving choices within the limit and I thought as I cruised along... how very much like the highway of life this is... freedom within acceptable limits.

As on Route 128, there are people who are living at different speeds, different life styles, some with a calm assurance, some fraught with anxiety, some trying to gain the advantage over others by getting ahead of the other fellow, others letting them. There's a lot of freedom in living within acceptable and safe limits. We each decide what our lives are to be.

The problem with some people is that they are so timid that they do not claim their free rights on the highway of life... like the little old man creeping along Route 128 at 15 mpr. right in the middle lane, requiring all other cars to swing out to the left lane, or right lane to pass him. This little timid person jeopardizes other drivers on the highway as well as himself... using the lower limits of acceptable highway driving. This is the kind of person who will not speak up for his rights, just lets things happen to him, creating for himself and other people confusion and unhappiness. This person is jeopardizing health, personal relations because he is afraid to be open, honest and here they will use South Shore hotels and restaurants. One southerner helping out another, tis all.

As much as I'd like to dismiss all their wisecracking as Texas bull, the record of their accomplishments cannot be ignored. In fact, if anything, it should be an example to us of how to get organized, improve our confidence and step out and market our region with similar effectiveness.

We really have a better product. The climate is more reasonable, the landscape is more appealing and the people here don't "talk funny".

Senate President Kevin Harrington's speech to the South Shore Chamber membership two weeks ago was a blueprint for what we have to do. He suggested that we have to remain fiscally tough, repeal some of the costly and business-frustrating improvements we've made on federal laws, and aggressively pursue new, energy-related job opportunities.

The decisions on how we will do that must be made now by our current crop of elected officials. If they fail to make them, our state is a surefire candidate for bankruptcy, and if we do a dixie, the corporate officers will then be powerless to act.

The second War Between the States is too real. It could result in a corporation called the Commonwealth of Massachusetts doing its version of a Chapter 11. I'm not too sure we'd like the way a federally appointed bankruptcy judge would reorganize, reconstruct or liquidate us...but according to my Southern friends, in the long run we'd be better off.

[Eric Swider is the Executive Vice-President of the South Shore Chamber of Commerce.]

'Freedom Within Limits'

demand his proper rights.

On the other hand, here's the driver on Route 128 who keeps cutting in and out between other cars, trying to get ahead of the others, causing the other cars to have to slow their speeds, apply brakes, or swerve to avoid collisions. He exceeds the speed limit, uses the breakdown lane to shoot ahead, weaves from lane to lane. This driver is like the unstable man on the highway of life, who is frustrated, tension prone, searching for some kind of satisfaction in life, dipping in to this or that, and finally jeopardizing his health perhaps to the point of heart condition or digestive troubles.

But here's the person who has learned an inner peace, who drives moderately, who lives moderately, doesn't get upset by the dangerous driving, or the foolish living of people around him, but finds contentment day after day, comfortable relationships with people who are not hassling him, and an inner spirit that is at peace with himself, other people and God. No guilt to keep stabbing within... no fear to prevent him from taking his options of life... no weakness that makes him hang on to the old unworkable ways of the past. He is looking ahead to the greater fulfillment within himself, calmly, and peacefully doing the things he has always wanted to do in freedom.

The total man demands and takes his freedom. Do you?

Thomas Kelly Elected To Mass. Bay Executive Committee

Deputy State Treasurer, Thomas Kelly of Quincy has been elected by the Massachusetts Bay Chapter-March of Dimes to serve as committeeman for 1976-1977 Campaign.

Election of the new committee climaxed the March of Dimes annual dinner meeting held recently in Newton.

The meeting analyzed the results of the past year's campaign and kicked-off plans for next year's drive. Chapter Treasurer Harry Sher, delivered a report on the current fiscal year. Dr. Arthur W. Trott, Campaign

Director for 1976, discussed the March of Dimes role in the prevention of birth defects and cited the accomplishments of March of Dimes research, treatment and prevention programs.

Rubin Epstein, vice chairman presented awards to recognize those volunteers whose efforts had made possible the success of the 1975 campaign. Among those honored for outstanding support were Mary Lawlor, Herald American columnist and WRKO-Radio receiving an award for their sponsorship of last fall's walkathon.

'Giving Them More For Their Money'

Chuck Wagon Restaurant Reopens In Quincy Point

"The days of the 'fast food' restaurants are numbered," says David Chew. "The future lies in a place where people can sit down."

Backing up his prediction, Chew has just re-opened his Chuck Wagon Restaurant at 656 Washington St., the one that burned down in June 1975, with seating for 49 people.

"We're not a franchised restaurant," he says. "That means we can serve the public better by giving them more for their money. We don't have any franchise regulations to follow, no portion control."

"We cater to the people with families. The specialty of the house is the half pound roast beef."

In carrying out the Western theme of the dining room, one of the top items is called "the

Stampeder", a large portion of roast beef, bacon, lettuce, tomato, onions, melted cheese, french fries and pickles.

Other meals carry similar names: The Wrangler (ham), the Hombre (hot pastrami), the Bronco-buster (clams), the Pioneer (shrimp), the Homesteader (scallops), the Safari (fish and chips) and the Texan (mixed fish).

The Chuck Wagon is open seven days a week from 10 a.m. to 12 midnight. It is closed Christmas and Thanksgiving.

David Chew is a native of Quincy, class of 1958 at Quincy High. The family used to live on Saville St., Quincy Center. He now makes his home in Cohasset.

Chew began working at the Chuck Wagon in 1964 under a previous owner. He purchased the restaurant in 1969, operating it until the fire last year. He also owns the Dairy Queen next door at 652 Washington St.

Darrell Roberts Chairman Vo-Tech Advisory Committee

The Advisory Committee of the Quincy Vocational Technical School held its final meeting of this school year and elected officers for the school year beginning in September 1976.

Elected were: Darrell Roberts, chairman; Avidia Schulze, vice-chairman; Margaret Egan, recording secretary; Laurence H. Babin, administrative secretary, and Michael Golub, assistant administrative secretary.

Advisory positions representing the electrical and commercial graphic arts instructional areas have yet to be filled for the next year.

Chrystal Selected To Take Part In IDEA Seminar

The Institute for Development of Educational Activities, Inc.(IDEA), the educational affiliate of the Charles F. Kettering Foundation, announced that Richard K. Chrystal, director of staff development for Quincy Public Schools in Quincy, has been chosen as one of 600 American educators to participate in a week-long national seminar this summer.

The IDEA Fellows Institutes are designed to give participants a thorough grounding in some of the new and emerging problems and practices affecting elementary and secondary education.

The theme for the 1976 Fellows Program is "Education For Responsible Citizenship". The selection of this highly significant topic is based upon recent studies of school reform which concluded that schools could not be reformed substantially unless individual rights, which students have gained over the past few years, are balanced with individual responsibilities to the school and society.

An analysis will be made of the need for a new and more vigorous emphasis on citizenship and moral/values education, the responsibilities youth have to school and society, and the need for students to assume greater responsibility for their own learning.

In addition to reviewing a report of the National Task Force on Citizenship Education, 16 nationally prominent educational leaders will address the participants. They will include Dr. Ewald B. Nyquist, New York State Commissioner of Education; Dr. Leon Lessinger, University of South Carolina; Dr. Ralph W. Tyler, Science Research Associates, Inc.; and Dr. Wendell Pierce, Education Commission of the States.

Harvey's Salt Water Fishing Club will hold its 14th annual Veteran's Day Fishing Party Tuesday [July 13], leaving Harvey's Wharf, Houghs Neck, at 10 a.m. and returning at 2 p.m. for a roast beef dinner.

Some 45 veterans from the Chelsea Soldiers Home and 20 amputee vets will embark on a flotilla of about 20 boats, escorted by the Coast Guard and official boats, to the fishing grounds off Hangman's Island in Boston Harbor.

Chairmen of the various committees are:

Dave Levangie, dock master; Frank Lenardis and Dave Levangie, bait, hooks and lines; Larry McNeil, tables and chairs; Gerry Lyons, canvas and wharf; Dave Winners and Don Wallace, cooks; Frank Lenardis and Dick Kelly, boats; and Bill Halsen, secretary.

Frank Locke is president of the club, John Towle, vice president, Herbert Morgan, treasurer and Bill Riepk, secretary.

North Quincy Trackmen Honored At Banquet

The North Quincy High spring track team, Eastern Mass Class B champion, was recently honored at a banquet at Vallee's in Braintree.

The Raiders completed a sweep of 1975-76 honors with the spring crown. They had previously won the Eastern Mass crown in cross country and winter track.

Captains' awards, pen and pencil sets, were presented to Bart Petracca, Brian Doherty, Ken O'Brien and Dave Lorman.

Trophies went to Petracca, cross country and winter track MVP; Marty Levenson, cross country coaches award; Bobby Levenson, winter track unsung; O'Brien, winter track coaches award; Doherty, spring track MVP; Lorman, spring coaches award; Peter Hemphill, spring track unsung; Russ Chisholm, sophomore of the year, and Jerry MacKenzie, junior of the year.

A special award was presented to the squad's real "unsung hero", Mrs. Lou Tozzi, wife of the three-sports coach, by the four captains. She received a bouquet of roses.

The speaker was Ralph Colson, "Mr. Track", NEAAU chairman for 34 years.

Oilers Host Eastern Jamboree Sunday

The Randolph Oilers, with some Quincy players in the lineup, will host the Eastern Football League's Bicentennial jamboree Sunday at 1 p.m. at Randolph High School Field.

The jamboree will feature four of the league's top teams, the Oilers, last year's number one defensive team; the defending champion Rhode Island Kings, the Plymouth Rocks, last year's runnersup, and the Middleboro Cobras, the 1973 and '75 champs.

A reception will follow the game at Drinkwater's Grove to which the public is invited.

Zone 6 Race Between Morrisette, Quincy

The Zone 6 American Legion baseball race is coming down to a battle between two of Quincy's three entries, defending champion and 19-time titlist Morrisette and Quincy Post.

Morrisette had a 9-1 record following last Friday's 5-4 win over Cohasset, while Quincy, only team to top Morrisette, was 7-2 after rallying for six runs in the last inning to tie Hingham, 6-6. This game will be replayed.

Meanwhile Wollaston's young team, loaded with 16-year-olds, continues to find the going rough and was 0-8 following last Friday's 11-1 wallpating at the hands of Holbrook.

Friday Morrisette will host Quincy at 8 at Adams Field in the game which could just about decide the zone championship. Wollaston will play at Canton at 6. Monday it will be Morrisette at Braintree at 6 and Canton at Quincy at 8 at Adams. Tuesday Morrisette will face Canton at 8 at Adams and next Wednesday Quincy will play at Holbrook at 8:30 and Wollaston will be host to Milton at 8 at Adams.

Pat Gibbons made his record 4-1 and gained his second win of the week in the squeaker over Cohasset Friday. Cohasset scored a run in the seventh and final inning but Gibbons prevented the tying run from scoring.

After Cohasset had taken a 1-0 lead in the first, Morrisette scored twice in its half on a double by Chuck LoPresti, a walk to Steve McKinnon and a two-run single by Jim Roberts.

Cohasset took a 3-2 lead in the second but three errors and a walk to Dennis McGuire tied it in the bottom half. A sacrifice fly by Mike McCormack gave Morrisette the lead and it added the winning run in the sixth on an error.

Quincy appeared out of it at Hingham as Hingham's Frank DeLeo pitched one-hit ball over five innings. However, Fred Kussman opened Quincy's sixth with a walk, Paul Southerland reached when his fly was dropped and Preston Carroll hit a three-run homer. Lou Fishman, who had the only hit going into the inning, walked, went to third on Paul Vespaziani's single and scored on Jim Duggan's sacrifice fly. Pinch hitter Kurt O'Sullivan singled and Steve Bell reached on a fielder's choice. A walk filled the bases and the tying runs scored on another walk and a wild pitch. Carroll came up with the bases loaded but never got a chance when Southerland was caught off first base.

Mike Kelly was the starting pitcher for Quincy, Dave Raftery took over in the third and Fishman relieved him in the sixth and retired Hingham in the last inning.

Wollaston continued to have troubles at the plate and collected only four hits under the lights at Holbrook. The pitching, which had been good until late in the previous games, was hit hard in this contest.

Earlier in the week Morrisette topped Wollaston, 8-3, in another game in which Wollaston did well until the fifth inning. Wollaston led, 3-2, until that fifth when Morrisette exploded for five runs.

Morrisette Coach Ray Cattaneo gave three young pitchers their first chance, Brian Corcoran, Ron Donovan and McCormack. McCormack was the winner.

Morrisette had only six hits, two by Roberts, but took advantage of eight walks. Chuck McLean pitched for Wollaston until the fifth when he gave way to Nick Anastas. Wollaston again had only four hits.

Quincy also defeated Wollaston, 8-0, as Kelly and Vespaziani combined for a five-hitter. Quincy led by only a 2-0 score until the fifth when it added three runs and had another trio in the sixth.

Anastas pitched for Wollaston and, as usual, did well for four innings, then weakened. His mates also committed some costly errors. Wollaston hit the ball hard several times but fine defensive plays, especially by Carroll, foiled the batters.

For Quincy, which had 14 hits, Fishman and Bell had three apiece and Vespaziani, Duggan and Kussman two each.

N.E. Inter-Club Free Skating Competition Saturday

The Commonwealth Figure Skating Club will sponsor a New England Inter-Club Council open free skating competition, sanctioned by the USFSA, Saturday at 10 a.m. at Ridge Arena in Braintree.

There will be competition in several classes and if there are not enough entries in any of the classes the classes may be combined at the discretion of the competition committee. There will be competition in under 13 and 13 and over divisions.

Medals will be awarded to the first, second and third place finishers.

A skater must be a member of the USFSA and any skater who has placed first, second or third in any qualifying competition will not be eligible for these competitions.

Any skater winning twice in a category in an Inter-Club competition will no longer be eligible for that category. However, he or she will not be restricted from entering a higher category.

Any skater who has placed first, second or third in "little New England's" in a category cannot enter the same category in Saturday's competitions.

4 Recreation Leaders Promoted To Specialists

Recreation Director Robert K. Beniers, announces the promotion of four recreation leaders to specialist assignments for the coming playground season which commences the first of July and continues through August 29, 1976.

Promoted to nature specialist is St. Anselm student Michael McBride. The new archery instructor is Mark Dwyer who will enter Springfield College after attending Massachusetts Community College. Both McBride and Dwyer are former Morrisette Legion baseball stars. Maryann Gizzarelli, a Bridgewater State College graduate and Quincy teacher, and Steve Paolucci, a former Quincy Junior College student, will specialize in music and golf respectively.

Returning as craft specialists are Carol Mahoney, a student at Framingham State College; Debbie DiNardo of Bridgewater State and recent University of Mass. at Boston graduate Regina Kelly. Miss Kelly graduated with honors from the Boston school.

Back to handle tennis is John Franceschini, a student at University of Lowell. Edward Ahern of Boston State will again handle camping and ceramics will be taught by Andrea Quinn and Mary Anderson. Miss Quinn is a senior at Curry College and Miss Anderson attends Boston College.

Debbie Coose will again take charge of nature trips with Kevin McGinley transferring from tennis to bus driver. Debbie is a June Bridgewater State graduate while McGinley has just received a B.S. in Business Administration from Babson Institute.

Police, Firemen Continue To Set Red Hot Pace

The Quincy Police Boys Club and Firemen Local 792 continue to pace the National and American Leagues respectively in the Quincy Babe Ruth League.

Police has a 15-2 record, the best in either division, following three more wins during the past week. Firemen's record is 11-4-1 after winning, tying and losing a squeaker to the Police Club.

The Police Club, now holding a four-game lead over Gino's, nipped Bryan VFW, 7-6, thanks to strong relief pitching by John Sullivan, who took over for Fran Donovan, who came up with a sore arm in the third inning. Police collected 12 hits, three by Donovan, including a double. Billy O'Connell had two hits and Tom Brennan drove in two runs with a bases loaded single. Larry Baker, Billy Oakes, Bob Mezzetti, Bob Cronin, Kevin McKinnon and Gary DiNardo also had Police hits. Gordy Spencer had two hits for VFW.

Police topped Golden Print, 4-2, as Mezzetti pitched a four-hitter and walked three. Donovan drove in two runs with a two-out single in the second. Mezzetti singled and scored on McKinnon's single in the fifth. Brennan had a hit and played well in the field. For Golden Danny Sandanato had a triple and Steve Hale a double.

Police nipped Firemen, 4-3, as Brennan and Firemen's Dave Austin hooked up a good duel. Police won the game in the bottom of the seventh when DiNardo singled and Donovan reached on a fielder's choice as DiNardo beat the throw to second. Brennan beat out a perfect bunt to fill the bases and Baker hit one over the right fielder's head to bring in the winning run. Oakes and Cronin had other hits for Police and Bud LaFleur had three hits for the Firemen.

The Firemen topped Houghs Neck Legion, 8-3, with winning pitcher Greg Madden again showing perfect control with no walks. He allowed six hits. His mates gave him outstanding support, with Artie Roberts, Greg Oriola and Austin excelling on defense. Steve Notorangelo sparked the winning attack with three hits, driving in three runs and scoring two himself. For Houghs Neck catcher John Prescott was outstanding on defense and also had two doubles.

Firemen and Golden Print played to a nine-inning 1-1 tie in an outstanding game by both teams. Both pitchers, Ray Coscia of Firemen and Bob Maloney of Golden, went all the way. Coscia gave up five hits, two to Sandanato and one each to Chris Lamphere, John Todd and Dan Molloy. Maloney pitched a three-hitter, giving up two to Notorangelo and one to Madden.

Golden walloped Houghs Neck, 12-3, with Todd pitching a six-hitter. Dean Prescott started for Houghs Neck. Six different batters had the HN hits. Sandanato, Hale and Maloney had two hits each for Golden and Steve Picot and Molloy one apiece.

Quincy All-Stars Edge Southie, 4-2

The Quincy Babe Ruth League all-stars defeated South Boston, 4-2, in eight innings, with Gary Earle pitching a six-hitter to edge Southie's Bob Allen, who also allowed six hits.

Quincy scored a run in the third inning on walk to John Conley, who stole second and third, and a wild throw by the catcher.

Quincy led, 2-0, going into the bottom of the seventh,

Keohane's Racks Up Win No. 14

Keohane's continues to roll in the Quincy Junior Baseball League and has a 14-4 record after splitting two games during the week.

In its last game Keohane's was edged by VFW, 6-5, as Matt Tobin pitched a one-hitter for VFW. Four of Keohane's runs were unearned.

John Balzano pitched four innings for Keohane's and had nine strikeouts while giving only three hits but he was relieved by Pat King in the fifth when he encountered control problems.

King gave up three hits and two runs in the sixth to get the loss. It was his first loss after three wins. Brian Reale had the only hit for Keohane's.

In its previous game Keohane's had blasted Foley Chrysler-Plymouth, 9-0, as Reale won his eighth game with no losses. He gave up five hits and struck out eight. He also had two hits. John Keenan, Balzano and Scott Thompson had other hits for Keohane's.

Tommy Heffernan was the losing pitcher.

3 Local Teams In Good Sports Finals

Three teams of Quincy and Braintree coaches and athletes have advanced to the finals of the WBZ Good Sports competition and will compete for the top prizes Saturday, July 17, from 1 to 3 p.m. at Millis Field in Winchester.

The finals will be televised live over Ch. 4.

In the over 30 class, Joe Amoroso, Quincy High basketball coach, and Mo Connolly, Braintree girls' coach and physical ed instructor, will compete.

In the 17-29 bracket it will be John Skladany, Quincy assistant football coach, and Mary Delgado, Braintree girls' coach and physical ed teacher, and in the under 16 division it will be Mark Giordani, Quincy varsity hockey player, and Lisa Collins, Braintree athlete.

The teams had to qualify in the shot put, basketball free throw, punting, softball throw. 220 and 100 yard obstacle course to make the finals.

Navy's Jazz Band

To Perform Here Saturday

The Commodores, the U.S. Navy Band's jazz ensemble from Washington, D.C. will perform at Veteran's Memorial Stadium, Saturday at 8 p.m.

The 18-piece band combines jazz with popular and rock music to provide entertainment the whole family can enjoy.

Formed in January 1969, the Commodores were designated the official dance band of the U.S. Navy, and are in constant demand from the White House to high schools for concerts.

The program is sponsored by Quincy Heritage and is free to the public.

First American Comedy At Pageant Field July 15

"The Contrast", a play written by Royall Tyler and described as the first American comedy, will be staged by the National Park Service and the Adams National Historic Site Thursday, July 15, at 7 p.m. at Pageant Field.

It will be sort of a Bicentennial homecoming for Tyler, a 1776 graduate of Harvard, who was once engaged to John Adams' daughter, Abigail.

The public is invited to the play free of charge but, warns Quincy Heritage, there will be no seats available so if you want to be comfortable bring your own chair or blanket.

Renegades In Concert Friday Night At City Hall

The Renegade Drum and Bugle Corps of Quincy will present a concert Friday at City Hall at 6:30 p.m.

The program, a prelude to the July 16 "Spirit of '76" CYO contest at Veteran's Memorial stadium includes the presentation of Renegade booster awards to Mayor Joseph J. LaRaia and Win Bettinson of WJDA.

Mayor LaRaia has proclaimed July 9 as "Renegades Day" and will present the Quincy City flag and the state flag to the corps. Through their affiliation with the South Shore Chapter of Handicapped Inc. the Renegades will award Donna Smith of Braintree an honorary membership and a Renegade sweater.

Tickets for the July 16 CYO contest will be on sale during the program.

The many trophies and championship flags won by the Renegades since their debut in 1973, 61 in total, will be on display in the windows of the South Shore National Bank from July 2 to July 19.

Annual Koch Club Family Picnic Sunday

The 29th annual Koch Club Family Picnic, open to all Koch Club members, their families and friends, will be held Sunday [July 11] from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. at Pageant Field, Merrymount.

Each family should bring its own lunch but ice cream will be served to children in the afternoon and ice will be available for family coolers.

There will be informal ball games and activities between 10 a.m. and 1 p.m. after which races will be conducted at 1:30 p.m.

A home run hitting contest for boys and girls will be held at 2 p.m., mother and daughter and father and son softball games at 2:30 p.m. and, the highlight of the afternoon, an egg throwing contest between mothers and fathers at 3:30 p.m.

Day Care Camp Programs Open

South Shore Day Care Services day camp program opened its fourth season this week at Hale Reservation, Westwood with about 140 youngsters in attendance.

Boys and girls six to 14 years old from Quincy, Weymouth, Braintree, Milton, Randolph, Hull, and Marshfield will attend camp five days a week for eight weeks.

Planned activities include arts and crafts, archery, games, water sports, sailing, canoeing, hiking, environmental studies, and field trips.

Staff includes 19 experienced adults, three Neighborhood Youth Corps counselors, and four counselors-in-training.

Teen Age Volunteers Needed At Happy Acres Day Camp

Teen-age volunteers are needed to assist retarded campers at the Happy Acres Day Camp, announces City Recreation Director Robert K. Beniers.

The camp, located at Pageant Field, near Quincy Veteran's Memorial Stadium and Adam's Field, is sponsored by the Recreation Department.

The camp season begins at 9 a.m., Tuesday July 6, and will run for seven weeks through Aug. 20.

A training program for volunteers will be conducted at the camp, today (Thursday) and Friday from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. Information and registration forms may be obtained at the Recreation Department or at the camp.

Volunteers will be given assignments with various age groups and work directly with the campers under the supervision of professional staff members. The campers need individual attention to help them master the various skills necessary to a successful summer experience.

Camp activities include games, sports, crafts, nature, dance, drama, singing, field trips, overnights and special programs. Former volunteers are encouraged to assist at the training sessions.

Volunteers are asked to arrange for their own transportation to and from the training sessions. Lunches, including a beverage, should be carried. They should dress for vigorous activities, sturdy shoes, or sneakers are mandatory.

Earl Vermillion, special needs teacher in the Quincy Public Schools will again be camp director.

Happy Acres has won the Kennedy Memorial Award three years in a nation wide competition.

Cardarelli, Marine Vets Oppose Tokyo Rose Pardon

Leo P. Cardarelli of Quincy, in one of his last acts as State Commandant of the Marine Corps League, has written to President Ford in opposition to a move to pardon Iva Toguri d'Aquino, the notorious Tokyo Rose of World War II.

Mrs. d'Aquino, is an American of Japanese descent who broadcast propaganda for the Japanese government to American troops in the Pacific Theater. She now lives in Chicago.

Cardarelli, citing a resolution passed by the MCL's state convention in Hyannis, recalled in his letter that the President each year places a wreath on the Unknown Soldier's grave in Arlington Cemetery.

"We are sure in your heart," he said, "as you look at the rows of crosses of all the marines, soldiers and sailors that participated and died in World War II that you would not consider giving Tokyo Rose a pardon."

The Hyannis convention also resolved to oppose amnesty for those who left the United States to avoid service in the Vietnam War and those who favor restrictions in veteran's preference for state jobs.

Spelled out in the resolutions are Gov. Dukakis and the "Democratic Front Runner for President," apparently Jimmy Carter, and the Boston Globe for its "continuous articles against veterans and the Marine Corps and other veterans organizations."

The new commandant of the League, succeeding Cardarelli, is James T. Carlisle of Haverhill.

Lt. George Taylor Promoted To Captain

Lt. George Taylor, a resident of Quincy for 36 years and a member of the Quincy Fire Department since 1967, was sworn in as the newest captain in the department by Mayor

Joseph J. LaRaia Tuesday.

Taylor, a graduate of Franklin College, lives at 1186 Sea St., Houghs Neck, with his wife, Jill, and three sons, Robert, Craig and Graham.

Gridley Bryant Sixth Graders Visit Quincy Sun

Ten sixth graders from the Gridley Bryant School, West Quincy, visited The Quincy Sun recently, to view the workings of a newspaper firsthand.

The students are: Daniel Newcomb, Elizabeth Howe, Kevin O'Callaghan, John Sweeney, Jonathan Leung, Lorenzo Scarnici, Paul O'Connor, Cynthia Johnston, Arlene Cipolla, and Jamie Cucinatta.

The students were accompanied by the school principal, Louis DiMartino.

The students first visited the editorial and advertising departments of the newspaper. They then toured the production department where they saw a story of their visit set into type on an IBM computer system. They also saw news headlines set on a Compugraphic 7200 photo typesetting machine.

They watched a paste-up artist fix their story and headline into proper position on paste-up boards.

After a brief explanation of how The Quincy Sun is printed, the students asked questions about what they had seen on their tour.

Before leaving the office each student received a complimentary copy of The Quincy Sun.

Proposed Peddler Ban Runs Into Parade Definition Hitch

A bid by the City Council to ban peddlers and hawkers from within a quarter mile of a parade route foundered on the dictionary last week.

"What's the definition of a parade?" asked Councillor Dennis E. Harrington.

None of his fellow councillors had a ready answer.

The ban on peddlers along parade routes was one of a series of restrictive ordinances on street salesmen that came before the Council in its final meeting of the old fiscal year.

They were introduced at the behest of Council President Arthur H. Tobin and energetically supported by City Clerk John Gillis, who is also chairman of the Licensing Board.

"These people come in from outside the city and mess up the streets," said Tobin. "They take business away from tax-paying merchants. Since it costs the taxpayers to clean up the streets, why not let local organizations do the selling."

"These new ordinances give us the power to restrict outsiders," added Gillis.

An ordinance banning hawkers and peddlers from within 300 feet of a school or licensed food establishment went sailing through with only Councillor Paul D. Harold voting against it.

"It may be an unfair restraint of trade," said Harold. "I don't think we have the power to ban a peddler from doing business within 300 feet of a licensed establishment."

"Licensed establishments pay taxes," said Gillis. "Canteen trucks don't. If we can ban them from around a school why not a licensed establishment?"

Then came the parade route ordinance, which Harrington called "probably the first totally unenforceable ordinance I've ever had the opportunity to read."

It was sent to the city solicitor for a legal definition of a parade.

An ordinance change that would prevent anyone from setting up a stand "for the sale of fruit or other things" within a quarter mile of a parade route ran into similar problems. It, too, went to the City Solicitor for redrafting.

"We have to be careful," said Harrington. "We could be responsible for the arrest of an Avon Lady."

Broad Meadows Students Win Legion Awards

Lynne Powers of 334 Rock Island Rd., and William Burt of 224 Taffrail Rd., were awarded the 1976 American Legion Award during the recent ninth grade final assembly at Broad Meadows Junior High School.

The award, presented annually to the two most outstanding ninth grade students at Broad Meadows, was presented by William Merrill, commander of the Houghs Neck Legion Post.

Also on the program, a

40-minute slide and tape history of the class of '76 was presented by Joanne Stoker, Linda Deady, Lorraine Denvir, Carol Caramanica and Paula Lynch, under the direction of Mrs. Madeline Bernard.

Delano St. Traffic Signs Come 20 Years Too Late

It took 20 years but the people who live on Delano St., Germantown, finally got their "No Parking" signs—just in time to take them down.

An order calling for the removal of the signs came before the City Council last week when someone recalled that the signs had just gone up.

"They were requested in 1956," explained Councillor Paul D. Harold, reflecting the embarrassment of several generations of traffic commissioners. "But they were just put up. Now they find they don't need them anymore."

The following traffic measures were passed by the Council:

- No parking from the corner of Grossman St., South Quincy, 20 feet in from Water St.
- A stop sign at Florence and Fenno Sts., Wollaston.
- A stop sign at Copeland and Cross Sts., West Quincy.
- A stop sign at Davis and Gould Sts., Wollaston.

• Making Sachem St., Wollaston, one way.

• No parking signs on the southeastern side of Bartlett St., South Quincy.

• A stop sign at Clement Terrace and London Ave., Montclair.

• Pedestrian lights on Water St., South Quincy, at the Lincoln-Hancock School.

The following proposed traffic measures were sent to the Traffic Commission for study:

- No parking on the easterly side of Vine St., Quincy Point, 100 feet from Pond St.
- Stop signs at Willet St. and Rawson Rd., North Quincy.
- A stop sign at Hamden Circle and Willet St., Wollaston.
- No parking during June, July and August on a portion of the Strand, Wollaston.
- Making certain portions of Beach St., Wollaston, one way.
- Excluding commercial vehicles from Brook Rd., South Quincy, from Fort Square to Water St.

May Get $32,000 In HUD Funds

Joseph L. Houchins, area supervisor for the Department of Housing and Urban Development, has held out the possibility of a large allocation of funds, at least $32,000, to the city of Quincy in the next 90 days.

Houchins, who is responsible for management of HUD's 312 loan program, recently toured the Houghs Neck Community Development Area Program with Program Director William F. Huber. They observed every home rehabilitated by the loan program.

Houchins also visited at City Hall with Mayor Joseph J. LaRaia and discussed the future of the program.

"Before his departure," said Michael Peatridge, the Mayor's information officer, "Mr. Houchins mentioned a new allocation of $32,000 in 312 loan funds for the city of Quincy and the possibility of a large allocation of funds within 90 days."

THIS IS WHAT CAN HAPPEN WHEN YOU ARE THE ONLY SHOW IN TOWN

We decided that not everyone would be going out of town last Saturday and that some of you folks might need banking services—so we opened our usual hours for Saturday—from 10:00 a.m. to 2:00 p.m. But we never expected to have the busiest day in the history of our bank. From the minute we opened until we closed, our lobby was jammed with people. We did the best we could and we know the service was slow because we could have used many more tellers. But we took care of everyone—regular customers and some folks who had never been in before. To our regular customers, we express regret that our usual reasonably fast service was not possible; to first time customers, we say try us again on a more normal day.

We were the only bank open in Quincy Square on Saturday and when you are "the only show in town" it can get to a standing room only situation rather fast. Anyway, we were happy to see you all and we hope we helped. To our dedicated staffers who worked Saturday, we express our deepest gratitude. They kept to their posts and skipped lunch until the rush was over so that they could give you the best service possible under trying conditions. We are sure that Josiah Quincy, the man for whom our bank was named and who felt service was so important, would have liked what we did.

Incidentally—we are open every Saturday all year round.

5 Days Of Fun, Music, Bargain Buys

IT'S SIDEWALK BAZAAR FUN TIME

By TOM HENSHAW

It's Sidewalk Bazaar time again!

Once again, for the seventh year, downtown Hancock St. will be turned into a pedestrian mall featuring fun and values for three days starting today [Thursday] and running through Saturday.

The event is sponsored by the Quincy Center Business and Professional Association.

The highlight of the festivities will be the selection and crowning of Miss Quincy Bay, a Friday night outdoor gala in front of the Hancock Bank.

Some 30 booths, gaily striped and canopied, will dot both sides of Hancock St., displaying the wares and programs of downtown merchants, civic groups and fraternal organizations.

There will be music in the air, too, from Baron Hugo and his pageant orchestra, Buddy Burke and his Banjo Band, the Milton Band, and the Quincy High School Alumni Band.

Starting today [Thursday] at 7 a.m., Hancock St. will be blocked to traffic by wooden barriers placed at School and Granite Sts. The street will remain open for pedestrians only until 5 p.m. Saturday.

An unusual event this year will be an "artists' attic sale" which will take place during the art show in Hancock Plaza sponsored by the Quincy Art Association. There will also be a demonstration of oil painting.

Other events planned for the three days include:

- A pantomime show.
- Square dancing.
- A zoomobile.
- The famed Clydesdales.
- Ballet and tap-dancing exhibitions.
- Fire engine rides.
- Gymnastics exhibitions.
- A Fire Department rescue demonstration.
- Karate exhibitions.

On Friday evening, 18 young ladies from all over the South Shore will vie for the title of Miss Quincy Bay with its more than $1,000 in prizes.

The reigning Miss Quincy Bay, Jeanne Anne Rathgeb of North Quincy, will be on hand to crown her successor. The new queen will reign during Quincy Bay Race Week, Aug. 11-15, and will be involved in various QCBPA activities during the year.

Rain date for the pageant is Saturday at 5 p.m.

Mayor Joseph J. LaRaia has proclaimed Thursday, Friday and Saturday, Sidewalk Bazaar Days.

In his official proclamation he urged residents and organizations to participate in the event.

Most downtown stores will take part in the event which has become a summer tradition.

Merchandise, including many bargains, will be displayed on racks and at booths, along Hancock St.

DOWNTOWN HANCOCK ST. with canopied booths and fluttering flags takes on festive appearance during Sidewalk Bazaar Days.

Police Education Program Funding Problem To Be Solved

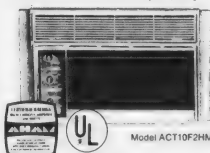

Funding problems in the Police Educational Incentive Program due to improper wording in a section of the state budget should be cleared up soon, Rep. James A. Sheets [D-Quincy] has assured Quincy police.

"There should be no disruptions in the program due to this misunderstanding," Sheets told the Quincy Police Betterment Association and the Quincy Police Superior Officers Association.

Sheets said the State Office of Administration and Finance is working on a redraft of the improperly worded section to be presented to the Legislature when it goes back into session Monday [July 19].

$25,000 Rehabilitation Program For Southwest Area

A comprehensive community rehabilitation program will get underway shortly in the Water St.-Southwest Quincy area, it was announced Tuesday by the Department of Planning and Community Development.

Cost was estimated unofficially at $250,000, including federal funds from the Community Development Block Grant and the Housing Rehabilitation Loan Program.

Planning Director Lars N. Lundin said the immediate objective of the program will be to correct those conditions that exist in the neighborhood which endanger the health and safety of the residents.

The long-term objectives, he said, are to improve the overall conditions and appearance of the neighborhood and to produce incentive for future private developments.

Like the successful rehabilitation program conducted in Houghs Neck, the Southwest Neighborhood Improvement Program will begin with code enforcement.

A sanitary code inspector will tour the area, inspecting each house. He will note code violations in his report and a copy of it given to the home owner who will be responsible for repairs.

The property owner is eligible to fill out an application for home rehabilitation funding aid, either a grant or a low interest loan.

There will also be a Paint Program under which the exterior of houses may be painted and minor repairs made at little or no cost to the homeowner whose income falls within specific brackets.

Seniors Activities Office

Marion Andrews, director of Senior Citizens Activities for the Quincy Recreation Department, has moved her office from 1 Maple St. back to the John F. Kennedy Health Center at 1120

Hancock St., where the Recreation offices are located.

Reservations for future events can be made by contacting Mrs. Andrews at 773-1380, extension 204.

Delinquent Taxpayers Owing $100,000 Face Property Liens

The city of Quincy will place liens against 108 parcels of land on July 29 unless some $100,000 in delinquent 1974 taxes is paid before that date.

The parcels and their owners are specified in an advertisement in The Quincy Sun this week.

The lien, in effect, makes the city a co-owner of the property which cannot then be sold until the city's claim is satisfied, said City Treasurer Robert E. Foye III.

If the delinquent taxes are not paid within six months of the lien date, the city can foreclose on the property, although it rarely comes to that. "By that time," said Foye, "they usually refinance the property or sell out."

'Needless Acts'

Powers Seeks More Police Patrols To Combat Beach Area Vandalism

City Councillor Warren A. Powers has requested increased police patrols to combat "needless acts of vandalism on streets leading to and from Wollaston Beach," particularly on Beach and Vassall Sts.

In a letter to Mayor Joseph J. LaRaia, Powers said:

"Since the advent of the summer season, there have been stonings of houses, six sections of 4-by-8 fencing torn down, many radio antennas broken off automobiles parked along these streets, beer bottles thrown on private property, and, on some occasions, through windows of dwellings.

"Street lamps have been broken and glass bottles placed under the wheels of automobiles parked along the roadway.

"The people, who in the past were able to enjoy the cool sea breeze sitting in front of their homes in the late hours of the evening, are now deathly afraid to sit in front of their homes and must, therefore, stay indoors on these hot, humid nights.

"I think that the residents of Wollaston have a right to enjoy peace and tranquility and not be harassed during the summer months by groups of unruly youths marauding the streets."

The vandalism usually occurs, he said, between 10 p.m. and 2 p.m.

Alley McInnis, Jr. Candidate For State Representative

Alley H. McInnis Jr., 38, of 37 Shoreham St., Squantum announces his candidacy for state representative in the Third Norfolk District.

McInnis, a registered Democrat is running as an Independent.

In his announcement McInnis declared:

"As a homeowner, family man and independent small businessman I have decided to seek the office of state representative for the following reasons. The Commonwealth of Massachusetts is in a terrible state, taxes, unemployment and the cost of living are at an all time high.

The working person and the person on a fixed income can no longer stand to have any more of their paychecks eaten up by these escalating costs. Our beautiful Quincy Bay is nearly polluted. Our incumbent state representative has been too long on Beacon Hill while these conditions have existed.

"I have decided to seek this seat as an Independent so as to allow both myself and the voter more time to fully study the issues and the candidates, and hopefully better and more communicative representation to the people of the Third Norfolk district. I plan on visiting every home in the district so that I may bring my message personally to every voter in the district."

McInnis is married to Ann [Sealund] McInnis. They have three children, Alley 15, R. Mitchell 13, and Jill Ann 6. McInnis, making his first bid for public office, is a member of the Quincy Zoning Board of Appeals, the Squantum Community Association, the Archbishop Williams Fathers club, Quincy Lodge of Elks and is a coach in the Quincy Babe Ruth League. He is president of the A. E. McInnis Jr. General Contracting Corp.

Michael Morrissey Candidate For State Representative

Michael W. Morrissey, 22, a lifelong resident of 88 Colby Rd., North Quincy, announces his candidacy for the Democratic nomination for state representative in the Third Norfolk District.

Morrissey is a graduate of the Quincy School system and the University of Massachusetts at Amherst, with a cum laude degree in history and government. He has been active in sailing circles on both the national and international levels. In 1974, he was ranked as the 10th best Junior sailor nationwide.

Morrissey was previously employed by the U-Mass Transit Service, the world's largest no-fare bus system, as a dispatcher and driver supervisor, and also by the Quincy Recreation Department.

Morrissey said he believes the North Quincy-Wollaston district "needs a strong full-time representative with a vigorous, open-minded, approach to state and city problems."

He said the area also needs a responsive and accessible representative to meet the needs of area people.

He said he will be actively campaigning through the summer and meeting the people of his district throughout the coming weeks.

Steven Parsons In Navy Operation

Navy Aviation Maintenance Administration Third Class Steven P. Parsons, son of Mrs. Dorothy Parsons of 67 Bay State Rd., North Quincy, is participating in Operation "Solid Shield '76" aboard the nuclear aircraft carrier USS Nimitz, homeported at Norfolk, Va.

The two-week joint exercise off the North Carolina and Georgia coasts involves 36 ships and more than 50,000 men and women from all branches of the Armed Forces.

The exercise will include air, surface and submarine operations and an amphibious assault. It is designed to test command and control plans and to provide training in the procedures for emergency evacuation of noncombatants from a simulated battle zone.

Don't Quit

Q. I am going into my senior year of college as a pre-med student and for a girl it does look like a long road to hoe. Should I continue or pursue another vocation? I would appreciate any help you could give me. Am I just temporarily discouraged? I was born on September 14, 1950 at 1:00 A.M. in Quincy, Mass.

M.K.

A. Daylight Savings Time was operative on your date of birth making 1:00 A.M. Eastern Daylight Time, 12 midnight Eastern Standard time. A horoscope calculated for that moment shows the Second Decanate of Cancer [Scorpio Decante] on the Ascendant, the Moon and Neptune in Libra in your Fourth House and your Sun, Mercury, Saturn and Venus, all in Virgo. Mars was in Scorpio; Jupiter in Pisces; Uranus was in the Sign of Cancer and Pluto was in Leo.

Your horoscope is indicative of one who can only achieve the fullest degree of self realization through the rendering of a useful SERVICE to others. You have excellent potentials for the medical profession since not only will you be inclined to be exacting and thorough, you will be very patient with your patients [no pun intended.]

You will not be satisfied until you have done everything you possibly can to diagnose and to treat your patients. You are not likely to resort to superficial methods. You would also be likely to develop what is known as an excellent bed side manner showing a warm sympathetic feeling and empathy that would be appreciated as well as benefit those indisposed.

You have what it takes, just keep at it and give yourself the time. There is a great need for physicians especially with your possibilities. In other countries there are a great many lady doctors who have made it and are doing good work. It is normal with serious work that requires much time and preparation to encounter temporary periods of discouragement but you can overcome this and be all the better for it.

9th Grade Awards Presented At Central

The first annual Hallem Haddad Memorial Award was presented to Richard Davis recently at the final assembly of ninth graders at Central Junior High School.

The award, a pen on an inscribed marble stand and a plaque with space for 15 names that will hang in the school, is given in honor of the late Hallem Haddad, a teacher at the school for 20 years who died recently.

Davis was one of his pupils. The American Legion awards went to Mark Roberts and Kathleen Mahoney for outstanding citizenship, courage and service to the school.

The Walsh Award [a savings bond] was presented to Lori McGrath, as the student whose dedication to service to the school and outstanding citizenship covered three years.

Twelve students received the Principal's Awards as all-around students. They were Thomas Dunn, John Francis, Francis LaPierre, Douglas Nickerson, Ellen MacDonald, Beth McCarthy, Sean O'Sullivan, Sarah Poole, Ralph Pickering, Peter Silverstein, Nancy Smith and Irene Stevens.

The awards were made by Principal Vincent Moscardelli.

The speakers, chosen from among the students who ranked highest scholastically, were Margaret Burchill, Thomas Dunn, Melissa McCauley, Nancy Smith and Robert Welch. They were coached by head Counselor Mary Catherine Iannoni.

The speakers were introduced by Class President Kathleen Mahoney.

Musical selections were presented by the Concert Choir under the direction of Catherine Camabuci, with a solo by Irene Stevens.

The flag salute and national anthem was led by Ralph Pickering, the mayor of the school, who also welcomed the class and its guests.

Marshals for the program were Mario Casali and Robert Saunders. Coordination of the assembly was arranged by Mary Catherine Iannoni.

SERVING SENIOR CITIZENS

The government will spend more money this year than in any previous year to bring medical and housekeeping services into the homes of elderly patients who might otherwise have to be sent to a nursing home or hospital. Congress passed amendments to the Older Americans Act that will expand such in-home programs as nursing, meals, transportation, shopping, therapy, and even legal aid and home repairs. Funding will come from a combination of federal and state appropriations. The rationale behind this move is that keeping the elderly at home is less expensive in the long run and, according to some psychiatrists, much more conducive to a happier outlook. The only requirement for most of the services is that a person be over 65 years of age and need assistance to stay in his or her home. Some benefits require supervision and certification by a doctor, others do not. For more information, contact your local government agency on aging or get in touch with the Visiting Nurses Association.

A Big Yawn

Democratic Convention 'Exciting' As Rained-Out Baseball Game

By PAUL D. HAROLD
Quincy Sun Correspondent

NEW YORK - This week's Democratic national convention has all the suspense and excitement of a rained-out baseball game.

As a matter of fact, during Tuesday night's session many Massachusetts delegates watched the all-star baseball game on TV instead of listening to Gov. Michael Dukakis present the party's national platform.

As a result, a number of unusual problems confront the people involved in the convention - those running it, those attending it and those covering it.

First, the Democratic National Committee is desperately trying not to bore the TV audience to death. Unfortunately, by spreading one day's work over four days it's a losing cause.

Second, the delegates are having trouble trying to survive four sessions in Madison Square Garden - where they can't hear or see the proceedings through the TV equipment and they can't even buy a beer to make their frustrations more bearable.

Third, the news people are frantic in their attempts to find something to write about. It's gotten so bad that many correspondents are sending in features about the 1924 Democratic convention, the last time the Democrats met in New York City. After 50 years, it's still more exciting.

Despite the cut and dried aspects of the convention a record number of guests and spectators were clamoring for passes.

With more than 200 requests for 30 passes, Massachusetts Chairman Charles Flaherty decided that a lottery was the only fair way to distribute them.

Of all the delegations in New York City, Massachusetts seems to be the most stubborn, with many delegates refusing to turn in their Jackson, Udall or Wallace buttons for the green and white Carter pins.

The nomination for vice president manages to spark considerable interest and, among Massachusetts people, two favorites are Sen. Adlai Stevenson of Illinois and before he withdrew his name, Cong. Peter Rodino of New Jersey.

Among those attending from Quincy are Kathleen O'Donnell, Democratic State Committeewoman; Michael Peatridge, the city's information officer; Raymond Dawe of North Quincy and David Kerman of Quincy Point.

Incidentally, former Quincy girl, Ann Yeomans [daughter of Clara Yeomans of the Conservation Commission] is conducting a tour of Brooklyn for delegates Thursday. Ann lives in the Big City now.

Council On Aging Publishes

'We Care' Booklet

The Quincy Council on Aging has published a booklet entitled "We Care", a guide to personal and family services available from city, state and federal agencies for senior citizens, veterans and people requiring social service counseling.

Among the topics covered are eligibility for social security benefits, medicare and medicare requirements, veterans benefits and benefits for widows, children and parents of veterans.

The booklet also describes various services offered by the Council on Aging, such as Dial-A-Ride, the Retired Senior Volunteer Program [RSVP], hot lunches, the Consumer Assistance Center and Senior Citizen discount cards.

"The title of this important booklet emphasizes our community concern for the well-being of all citizens," said Mayor Joseph J. LaRaia.

"All of us would prefer to follow the American tradition of personal independence, but the stresses and complications of modern life often make it impossible for an individual or family to maintain stability without assistance from outside sources.

"We believe this booklet will be especially helpful to the elderly who have undergone a major and perhaps traumatic change in their life status through retirement, through loss of a husband or wife or through the onset of physical disability which unfortunately is all too often part of the process of aging."

Guy Faiella Re-elected To County Board

Guy S. Faiella, chairman of the Quincy Board of Registrar, was re-elected to the Executive Board of the Registrar's of Voters of Norfolk County Association at a dinner meeting in East Walpole.

Other officers elected were president, Angelo N. Collastos; vice president, Robert B. Thibedeau; secretary, Nancy J. Preston and treasurer, Francis Manning.

Other executive committee members elected were Robert Bruynell, James McGovern, Jeanne Flemming and Guy S. Faiella.

The booklet may be obtained free of charge from the Quincy Council on Aging, 1 Cliveden St., Quincy, 02169.

The Great History of South Boston

This is a repeat ad from the national award winning series presented by the South Boston Savings Bank.

South Boston's tall ships and iron men.

The tall masts of clipper ships reached skyward at the foot of K Street. South Boston from 1847 through 1863, where the shipyards of E. & H. O. Briggs turned out the "greyhounds of the sea". The smell of tar and oakum, the sound of hammers, caulking mallets and chisels mixed with the sweetness of steamed oak and dried pine as the brothers Briggs and their shipwrights breathed life into a clipper that was to bring South Boston glory around the globe.

In 1851 the clipper Northern Light was launched from the Briggs' yard and two years later in a run from San Francisco to Boston electrified the maritime world by making the trip in a mere 76 days, 8 hours. In that era when the fastest ship meant the choicest of cargoes, and the whole world followed the names and times of ship crossings, the famed Northern Light from South Boston and her captain, Freeman Hatch were talked of in nations all over the earth.

Many leaders in the maritime industry resided in South Boston with Asa F. Baker of Baker & Morrill living at F and Broadway, Captain Fred Howes on Broadway near F and the Briggs' home not far from the shipyard on the hill at G Street.

Other famous ships which were born on the ways of the Briggs yard were the Asa Eldridge, Joseph Peabody, Alarm, Fair Wind, Cossack, Saracen, Boston Light and the troubled Golden Light which burned to the water's edge off Cape Cod on her maiden voyage.

Although Donald McKay's clippers from across the harbor in East Boston have become more heralded in stories of the sea, South Boston's Northern Light is still the record holder out of San Francisco around the "Horn" to Boston and carried the name of her "hometown" to glory.

An After Hours Tour Of J. Q. Adams Birthplace

By HENRY BOSWORTH

There have been more than 8,000 visitors at the Presidents Adams birthplaces so far this Bicentennial year.

This is as many that normally tour the two historic sites for an entire tourist season. So 1976 is going to be a real record breaker. It should easily pass the 10,000 mark.

But, not counted among this year's visitors are four who made an unusual "after hours" tour recently.

Two couples from New York State were driving through Quincy around 2 a.m., saw the birthplaces and stopped to look in the kitchen window of the John Quincy Adams birthplace.

They spotted a water pipe leaking.

Realizing the water could damage the home's floor and furnishings, they went to the next door birthplace of John Adams and rang the doorbell of the apartment of the caretakers, Mr. and Mrs. James Evans.

Because there had been prowlers around the houses the night before, the Evans' cautiously telephoned police, before answering the door.

Police quickly arrived and sort of took the New York good Samaritans by surprise.

When the visitors report to police the leaking water pipe, Evans shut off the water.

The police, knowing a good deed when they saw one, asked permission to escort the New York couples through the John Q. birthplace as a "thank you" gesture.

The Evans' agreed.

There is no telling how much damage would have been done if the leaking pipe had gone through the night undetected.

A rug in the kitchen was already wet.

TWO OF THE contestants in Friday night's Miss Quincy Bay Beauty Pageant will be trying to follow in their mother's footsteps.

Mary Pickering, 16, and Donna Tantillo, 17, of Glendale Rd. are the daughters of Mary Joyce who was Miss Quincy of 1957. Mary, still very much a beauty, is a cocktail waitress at Peter's Landing.

WHICH REMINDS US: One of last year's Miss Quincy Bay contestants who never got the chance to compete will try again Friday night.

Ann Marie Lopez, 21, of Hull was admitted to a hospital just before last year's pageant with blood clots in her leg.

But she has fully recovered and so Friday night she will try again.

SPEAKING OF TRYING again, Carole Ann McCole, 17, of South Weymouth, will do just that, too. First runner-up last year to winner Jeanne Anne Rathgeb of North Quincy, Carole has entered Friday night's Miss Quincy Bay Pageant.

MIKE PEATRIDGE, Mayor Joseph LaRaia's information officer, went down to the Democratic National Convention Sunday serving on the security staff for Gov. Michael Dukakis.

The Governor wasn't arriving until Tuesday so Mike and a couple of other staff members got to sleep in Dukakis' suite [Room 1810] at the Summit Hotel.

Mike found the opening night of the convention somewhat boring but thought Rep. Barbara Jordan of Texas "was tremendous" in her keynote speech.

NOTED THAT our man at the convention—Councillor Paul Harold—was at work on the floor. Caught a glimpse of him on TV. Harold is covering his second national convention for The Sun.

IT'S A SHAME that The Commodores, the U.S. Navy's jazz band from Washington, D.C. had to shift Saturday night's concert from Veterans Memorial Stadium to the Quincy Vo-Tech gym.

The 18-piece band could have blown the roof off the school. The acoustics just aren't good for music—it bounces off the floor and walls—and loses the real sound.

Too bad. Some of the numbers were good old favorites: "In The Mood", "Take The A Train", "Opus One", "I've Got My Love To Keep Me Warm". Played in the style of Glenn Miller, Duke Ellington, Tommy Dorsey and Les Brown.

The concert was shifted because The Minutemen had a soccer game at the stadium. The Minutemen, incidentally, still have all kinds of financial problems and don't look long for this world.

I GUESS I really am an old fashioned square. Saw "Yankee Doodle Dandy" on Ch. 56 the other night and I still think it is one of the greatest movies ever made. Jimmy Cagney, may be remembered for his gangster roles, but I think his portrayal of George M. Cohan was his best ever. And that Cohan music—well it still does things to me.

SMILE DEPT: Auto bumper sticker: "Kissing smokers is like licking ash trays."

The Cincinnati Red Stockings was the first professional baseball team. It played 56 games in 1869, its first year, winning 55 and tying 1.

READER SPEAKS OUT

Thanks All Who Made 200th 'Most Successful'

Editor, Quincy Sun:

I would like to prevail upon you to please save a little space somewhere in your excellent tabloid for a sincere thank you for all who participated, in anyway to make this 200th birthday a most successful one, even though considered by the experts to be one of the quietest, if not the quietest.

I'd like to have the money to buy a full page ad to express the thanks to all of those, young and old, big and small, the important ones, those who chaired the affairs, those who loaned tables for the chickens that were fried by the bakers, the guy who ran home and got more ice for the tonic or the beer, the guy in the background you never hear of, but who somehow always is there in the clutch, but never gets mentioned in the bouquets that are being given out at the breakfast dinner.

To the guy who throws in a buck, knowing full well he can't make the affair, and also knowing he really can't afford the buck, to those shy ones who can't serve on the committee, "because they just never did that type of thing before" but who bake brownies all day over a hot oven, or who supply the blueberry pies for the pie-eating contest, and for the guy who has to hand out the prizes to the winners of the land races or whatever, and his son, who lost, just can't be consoled because daddy didn't give him a prize.

And, finally to all the people who showed up and stayed with it through the fog and the rain, and the thunder and lightning, who were just not going to be denied the privilege of participating in this 200th birthday celebration. My most sincere thanks to them and my best to you for your fine efforts in the excellent coverage you have given to us over the years, and this goes, even if you don't find the space to print it.

Henry J. "Bud" McCaul
P.S. If anyone should ask you where I was on the 5th, I really did have to work. But I've been there before and I know the feeling of being thanked.

Deadline Extended For Summer Jobs

The deadline for applying for state-funded summer jobs has been extended from 5 p.m. July 9 to 5 p.m. July 21, announces the office of Sen. Arthur H. Tobin [D-Quincy].

Sen. Tobin said he requested the extension to allow the young people of Quincy more time to permit the State Department of Employment Security to process their applications.

There are between 150 and 300 jobs available in his district, Tobin said, and they will be handled on a first come, first serve basis.

"Too little effort has been directed to providing employment for the ordinary kid on the block who goes to school, helps his parents and is a good citizen in his community," said Tobin. "This summer program is a step in the right direction."

Signatures Certified For Plan A Referendum

By TOM HENSHAW

A City Hall source disclosed that 5,700 out of 7,500 signatures on Plan A petitions had been certified, more than enough to place the question on the referendum ballot for the Nov. 8 city election.

However, the Quincy Taxpayers Association announced that it would go ahead with plans to hire a handwriting expert to challenge the validity of the signatures. Needed to qualify: 4,599.

City Clerk Donald P. Crane said he would not release official word on the petitions until he returned from vacation in mid-August.

If Plan A proponents were successful in the fall, the new form of city government would go into effect in January 1958. Quincy operated under the Plan E type of government since 1950.

PLAYGROUND PLANNED FOR HOUGHS NECK

The Quincy Recreation Commission recommended that the city purchase 32,180 square feet of land on the Houghs Neck waterfront that the MDC deems no longer needed for the Nut Island Sewage Facility.

J. Ernest Collins, chairman of the Recreation Commission, told City Manager Donald H. Blatt that the land at Central Ave. and Chapel St. was needed for a playground. The MDC's asking price was $9,400.

Collins pointed out that Houghs Neck had only two playgrounds, LaBrecque Field and a smaller park for children ages 8 to 12.

Boa Constrictors, Alligators Zoomobile Stars During Bazaar

The Boston Zoological Society's "Zoomobile", an educational show-on-wheels, will be one of the top attractions for the small fry during the seventh annual Sidewalk Bazaar.

Members of the Society's staff will be on hand for two shows to explain the life and habits of animals and reptiles such as monkeys, skunks, alligators, and boa constrictors. The first demonstration will be held Thursday on a platform near the Quincy Center Business and Professional Association office from 1-3 p.m. A Saturday show will take place from 2-4 p.m. in the Cliveden St. area.

Youngsters and adults will be able to touch and pet many of the "stars" of the Zoomobile, who will be taken from their cages for the occasion. Members of the staff will also answer questions from the audience.

Gingham Swingers In Square Dancing Exhibition

The Gingham Swingers, led by their caller, Arnie Kanash, will give an exhibition of square dancing tonight (Thursday) at 8 p.m. in front of City Hall in conjunction with the Sidewalk Bazaar.

After the exhibition, those with nimble feet in the audience will be able to join the dancers in the fun until about midnight.

Kanash has been caller for the Gingham Swingers for the past dozen years. He is past president of the New England Calling Association and well-known throughout the New England area.

The Swingers, who have an active membership of more than 200, are based in Kramer's Hayloft in South Weymouth. Some 70 of them will take part in the exhibition tonight.

THE GINGHAM SWINGERS will swing into their Square Dancing tonight (Thursday) at 8 p.m. in front of City Hall.

Quincy Art Association Exhibit, 'Attic Sale' During Sidewalk Bazaar

The Quincy Art Association will hold an exhibit of paintings and an "artists' attic sale" in the Hancock Plaza at the corner of Hancock St. and Cottage Ave. during the three days of the Sidewalk Bazaar.

The paintings, some oils and some water colors, will be on sale for less than $50 [some as low as $4].

Art work on exhibition, which will include pastels and charcoals as well as oils and water colors, also will be up for sale at slightly higher prices.

Artists will be on hand to demonstrate oil painting techniques for those shoppers and browsers who are more interested in the production than in owning the final product.

Mayor Proclaims Sidewalk Bazaar Days

Mayor Joseph J. LaRaia has proclaimed today (Thursday), Friday and Saturday "Sidewalk Bazaar Days" in Quincy, urging everyone to participate and support the three-days of festivities.

The text of the proclamation follows:

WHEREAS, the American standard of living is recognized as the highest in the world and is due, in great part, to the abundance and high quality of the products of our competitive enterprise system and their forthright identification by trademarks submitted for the free choice of the consuming public, and

WHEREAS, American tradition of independent enterprise is as old as our society itself and from humble beginnings small business has grown into one of the principal economic forces in this, the world's greatest industrial nation, and

WHEREAS, if downtown Quincy retailers are to realize their full potential in the years ahead, they need and deserve wholehearted support from the citizens in the business community as a whole as well as the strong encouragement it already receives from national organizations and the local government, and retailers are joining this week with various civic and business groups in providing the citizens of Quincy and the South Shore unsurpassed retailing opportunities.

NOW, THEREFORE, I, Joseph J. LaRaia, Mayor of the City of Quincy, do hereby proclaim July 15, 16, and 17, 1976, as SIDEWALK BAZAAR DAYS, and encourage all citizens and public organizations to join with me during this week in paying tribute to the accomplishments of small business in helping it toward continued strength and success.

Joseph J. LaRaia,
Mayor.

FIRE ENGINE RIDES given by South Shore Shrine Club are always a hit for youngsters.

Shriners Fire Engine Rides For Youngsters

Youngsters will be able to achieve their hearts' desires, a ride on a real fire engine, during the seventh annual Sidewalk Bazaar.

The engine, sponsored by the South Shore Shriners Club, will traverse Hancock St., Chestnut St., Cottage Ave., Revere Rd., Elm St., the Parkway and the Grossman's area on all three days.

Rides will be given Thursday and Friday from 6:30 - 9 p.m. and Saturday from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m.

Hancock St. To Be Closed For Sidewalk Bazaar

Once again Hancock St. from Granite to School Sts. will be closed to vehicular traffic Thursday through

Pantomime Shows

Pantomime Artist Ann Warren is the newest addition to the impressive list of entertainers who will be on hand for the seventh annual Quincy Sidewalk Bazaar.

Miss Warren brings to life in pantomime such stars as Judy Garland and Jimmy Durante through the skillful use of records and a quick change of hats.

A specialty for the younger set is her version of Sammy Davis Jr. doing "Candy Man".

She will appear today [Thursday] from 2:30-3:30 p.m. on a platform near Colman's and Friday at the same time on a platform near the QCBPA office.

A native of Quincy, Miss Warren now lives in Milton.

Saturday during Quincy's Sidewalk Bazaar Days.

The street will be blocked off with wooden barriers at Granite and School Sts. from 7 a.m. Thursday and about 5 p.m. Saturday making Hancock St. a pedestrian mall for the annual three days of festivities.

Police Lt. Jack Flaherty said cars can get around Hancock St. by way of Chestnut St. on the easterly side and via the Ross Parking Way on the westerly side.

18 To Compete For 'Miss Quincy Bay' Title Friday

Eighteen South Shore girls will compete for the title of Miss Quincy Bay of 1976 and more than $1,000 in prizes Friday night as the high-light of the annual three-day Quincy Sidewalk Bazaar.

The top winner and four runners-up will share in the prizes and each contestant will receive a jewelry gift souvenir memento.

The new queen will have the honor of reigning over Quincy Bay Race Week Aug. 11-15.

The selection will be made at a colorful 9:30 p.m. pageant on a portable boardwalk in front of the Hancock Bank in downtown Quincy. In the case of rain, it will be held at 5 p.m. Saturday.

The new Miss Quincy Bay will be crowned by last year's winner, Jeanne Anne Rathgeb of North Quincy.

Henry Bosworth of The Quincy Sun is pageant chairman, Kenneth P. Fallon, Jr. of WJDA is co-chairman and will be the emcee.

The event is co-sponsored by the Quincy Center Business and Professional Association and the Quincy Bay Race Week Association.

Judges will be:

Music for the pageant will be by Baron Hugo and his orchestra.

The contestants will be judged in evening gown and swimsuit competition and for beauty and poise. They will be escorted on stage by commodores of the Quincy Bay Race Week associated yacht clubs.

The contestants are: Cheryl Ann Affsa, 18, of Presidents Lane, Quincy.

Nancy J. Anderson, 22, of Pine St., South Weymouth.

Susan M. Coffey, 20, of Governor's Rd, Milton.

Anne Campbell, 18, of Presidents Lane, Quincy.

Elaine Cirillo, 18, of Faxon Park Rd, Quincy.

Karen L. DeLeo, 19, of Mark's Rd, East Weymouth.

Mary Dowling, 17, of Pope St., Quincy.

Virginia Fillios, 17, of Andrew Lane, Hanson.

Elizabeth A. Gabriel, 20, of Winter St., Norwell.

Ann Marie Lopez, 21, of Bates St., Hull.

Budweiser Clydesdales In Return Appearance Friday

The world renowned Budweiser Clydesdales will be back to tour Quincy Friday as an attraction for the city's seventh annual Sidewalk Bazaar.

The team of eight horses, driven by two uniformed men and drawing a wagon, will assemble at 10 a.m. in the southwest corner of the Hancock Parking area.

The public is welcome to watch the hitching and "dressing" of the horses.

From the parking lot, the team, drivers and wagon will tour the following route, making brief stops so that youngsters and adults can get a closeup view of the famed horses:

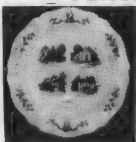

- Left onto Chestnut St., around the First Parish Church to City Hall.
- Down Hancock St. to Granite St.
- Right on Granite St. to Turnstyle area.
- Back to Granite and Hancock Sts. to Remick's.
- Proceed up Hancock St. and circle back to Parking Area.

Baron Hugo To Play At Pageant, Give Concert

BARON HUGO

Baron Hugo, the Quincy boy who was the King of the Totem Pole Ballroom in the heyday of the big band era, is back to provide the music for Friday's Miss Quincy Bay Beauty Pageant.

Hugo, who now lives in Milton, will direct the band through a two-hour pre-pageant concert beginning at 7 p.m. on a bandstand set up near the South Shore National Bank.

In addition to old-time big band favorites and modern tunes, the band will also play requests for all-time favorites from the audience. After the pre-pageant concert, Hugo and his band will take a half hour break, then begin anew at 9:30 p.m. for the Miss Quincy Bay Beauty Pageant in front of the Hancock Bank.

Hugo grew up in the Brewer's Corner section of West Quincy and got his start in music in 1923 at Malmati Hall in South Quincy.

He performed in many Quincy dance halls which have long since passed out of existence, such as the old Wisteria Bungalow, Electra Hall and Taylor's Ballroom, now a roller skating rink in Hough's Neck.

Sidewalk Bazaar Committee

George White of The Patriot Ledger is coordinator for the seventh annual Quincy Sidewalk Bazaar.

The committee includes:

Burt Cook, Tag's; Jason Feldman, Jason's Luggage; Pierre Boulanger, Sears Roebuck; Remo DeNicola, South Shore TV; Ken Fallon Jr., WJDA; Henry Bosworth, The Quincy Sun; Jack Kerrigan, Baskin Robbins; Bob Colman, Colman's.

Sumner Cohen, Kincaide's; Lt. Jack Flaherty, Quincy Police; Kathie Clifford, QCBPA; Bernie Reisberg, Modern Formal; Don Johnson, Quincy Savings Bank; Elliot Cohen, Cummings; and Al Colella, Quincy's retail store coordinator.

Civil Defense Unit To Light Up Hancock St. For Beauty Pageant

Hancock St. will be flooded with light Friday night for the 1976 Miss Quincy Bay Beauty Pageant thanks to Kenneth Walsh, director of Quincy's Civil Defense Unit and a volunteer CD squad.

The lighting will have the same luminosity as during last year's pageant, for a total of 6,500 watts of lighting hooked up to three CD generators.

Included will be a 2,000-watt spotlight, a 1,500-watt spotlight, and six floodlights of 500-watts each.

Manning the spotlights will be Jordan Cohen, Robert Peters, Peter Williams and Thomas Joyce.

They will be assisted by CD auxiliary police officers.

Milton, Banjo Bands In Music From Gay Nineties To Today

Buddy Burke's popular six-piece banjo band will be back to entertain tonight (Thursday) with old favorites from the Gay Nineties and the Roaring Twenties during Quincy's Sidewalk Bazaar.

The 25-member Milton Band, under the direction of Ken Lodge, will add a touch of the modern with renditions of present day songs for the shoppers strolling among the booths.

The Banjo Band will circulate through the bazaar area covering Hancock St., the Parkingway and Grossman's from 6-10 p.m.

The group has been together for more than 20 years with three banjos [Burke, Joseph Fahey, and Edward O'Brien], two trombones [Mike Tulysewski and Dick Brown] and a clarinet [Joe Ryan].

Among their numbers are such old-fashioned tunes as "Baby Face", "Just Because", "Down Yonder", "If You Knew Susie" and others.

The Milton Band will march from St. John's Church at 7:30 p.m. down Hancock St. to Granite St. where they will play selections.

Then they will go to a location near Colman's, the Quincy Center Business and Professional Association office where they will perform in concert until 9 p.m.

Brownell Seeks To Prevent Raw Sewage During Labor Disputes

Rep. Thomas F. Brownell [D-Quincy] has asked the MDC and the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency to review contingency plans to prevent raw sewage from being dumped in Quincy Bay during labor disputes.

Some 50 million gallons of sewage which had received only minimum treatment was discharged into the harbor two weeks ago when workers at the Nut Island Treatment Plant briefly joined a strike of state employees.

Said Brownell in a letter to John A. S. McGinnon, regional administrator of the EPA:

"To prevent future pollution of our harbor, I feel it would be useful to review what contingency plans and personnel can be resorted to in the event of another sudden work-stoppage.

"I have been deeply disturbed by a recent report that the discharge of over 50 million gallons of minimally treated sewage into Quincy Bay could have been avoided by a request for available federal technicians from your agency to assume positions of striking employees at the Nut Island Treatment Plant.

"Consequently, I would very much like to verify whether or not personnel from your agency was available to assume operation of our sewerage treatment system."

Kennedy, Burke Endorse $1 Million Grant For Harbor Transportation

Senator Edward M. Kennedy and Congressman James A. Burke have endorsed efforts by the South Shore Chamber of Commerce to enlist support of an application for a $1 million demonstration grant for high speed harbor transportation craft.

Chamber President Jack Conway, announced he has received letters from Kennedy and Burke in response to his recent request for greater backing of the application submitted by the Massachusetts Port Authority.

Conway, in a letter to Gov. Michael Dukakis, pointed out that Massachusetts stands to lose the federal money from the Urban Mass Transportation Administration unless Massport's application is strongly supported. Copies of the letter were sent to the legislators and others.

Senator Kennedy told Conway that high speed craft for "Boston Harbor commuting purposes is certainly needed" and that he has made known his support of the Massport application to Robert E. Patricelli, Administrator of the Urban Mass Transportation Administration.

Kennedy said he told Patricelli that "specially designed commuter boats, providing fast and frequent service, are necessary to relieve the over-capacity pressure on the Southeast Expressway. Commuters from the South Shore, an area which is rapidly growing in population, are subjected to unbearable traffic jams and limited mass transit facilities."

Congressman Burke, in his letter to Conway, said: "I wholeheartedly agree that this concept has a great potential and should be encouraged."

Burke said his staff has already discussed the commuter boat proposal with Massport's Washington representative and that he has talked with Patricelli to "make him aware of my endorsement."

Conway, in his plea for support of the demonstration grant, emphasized that Massport is competing for the federal money with New York, San Francisco, Seattle, and Honolulu.

"A self-supporting water transportation system for Boston Harbor can be achieved with a well balanced combination of peak and off-peak uses, Conway said.

"A harbor commuter boat service eventually would provide shopping service to Boston, high speed water travel to Logan Airport, other waterfront facilities and would be a two-way avenue serving both Boston and South Shore interests."

A REGIONAL ECONOMY — By ERIC SWIDER Sunrise To Sunset

Sunset laws and zero-based budgeting are an exciting, new, refreshing wave of thinking that is sweeping across the nation. I hope that soon they will become a topic of conversation and legislative action on Beacon Hill.

Basically, zero-based budgeting is an evaluation technique for governmental agency budget proposals by which the agency under review has to start at zero and account for every penny it is requesting. It is also called a sunset law because one method of implementing the system is to provide an automatic termination date for all programs, say every four or five years, and those that can't prove they deserve to be kept — aren't.

The obvious benefits of these evaluation techniques are that they have the potential for eliminating the deadwood. It's sort of the governmental equivalent of the private sector bankruptcy.

Presidential candidate Jimmy Carter initiated such a system of control and evaluation during his tenure as Georgia's governor. He proposed to apply similar measurements to the Federal bureaucracy. Colorado has a sunset law on the books and Florida has just passed an ingenious variation on the same theme.

The Florida law, called the Florida Economic Impact Disclosure Act of 1975, requires state agencies to justify their actions, in cost-benefit terms, before taking them. According to the WALL STREET JOURNAL, "the new law requires that the agency issuing a new rule first determine ... that it has selected the lowest cost method of achieving its purpose, that the cost-benefit ratio has been analyzed ... that resources used can be more effectively employed through the public sector than the private sector and that the action will improve rather than impair market competition. Further, it must determine whether the action will hinder or improve the open market for employment and how the costs and benefits will be distributed among various individuals and groups."

In other words, it's the economic equivalent of an environmental impact statement, for a government agency.

The Colorado law sets automatic termination for 13 of 39 agencies every other year. Before the agency is dismantled, the law mandates public hearings at which the agency shall have the burden of demonstrating a public need for its continued existence ... "Agencies that pass the test can then be restructured or renewed for up to six years."

The first batch of terminations are due to occur next year in Colorado and according to Common Cause, the law is already having the desired effect by getting these agencies to shape up.

In a time when the public perception of "big government" is negative and there is a justifiable feeling that politicians many times approve proposals without understanding their impact, zero-based budgeting has a lot of election year pizzazz.

Undoubtedly, the evaluation techniques are bound to be cumbersome and uncomfortable for bureaucrats who have been used to assuming that their agency's existence is justified by its existence and that their major administrative responsibility is to expand the size, budget, staff and programs of their operations.

Each year, most businesses go through intensive sessions of developing "profit plans" which are bottomline oriented. Voluntary organizations like the Chamber of Commerce, who live and die based on their program's relevance, are by their very nature "sunset" oriented. If it can't be justified and if it has no potential for return, we simply don't do it.

Massachusetts, to the best of my knowledge, has no zero-based budgeting proposals under active consideration and that might be enough of an editorial comment in and by itself.

The ad says, "We're starting to run this State like a business," so zero-based budgeting is a natural for us.

[Eric M. Swider is Executive Vice-President of the South Shore Chamber of Commerce.]

4-H Mini Projects At Playgrounds

The Norfolk County 4-H Extension Service will offer 4-H Mini Projects in the summer recreation programs in the Quincy parks and playgrounds.

Children, ages 9-12, are invited to attend the programs which are offered free of charge.

Oceanography will be first on the summer agenda, beginning Monday, July 19 and running for the entire week. There will be two, two-hour sessions for each group. The program is based on the concept of discovery learning. Children will participate in experiments which demonstrate the fundamental concepts of Oceanography.

The following week, Nature Week, 4-H will offer a session in Heritage Crafts. The children will be made acquainted with various types of crafts which were popular when the nation began. At this time the group will have the opportunity to make a corn husk doll.

Aug. 2 - 6, Embroidery lessons will be given in cooperation with the arts and crafts department of each park. Basic embroidery stitches will be taught and everyone attending will make a sampler.

At the conclusion of the Oceanography program all those who have completed the course will receive a certificate of Achievement in 4H. Also anyone completing three Heritage Craft projects will receive a Certificate as well as having the opportunity to enter one of their craft projects in a competition which will be judged by 4H personnel. Each entrant will receive a 4H award.

The programs are offered free of charge, but registration is necessary because there is a limit to the number of people who can attend each session. All interested are asked to register at their local playgrounds. Information regarding time and place of programs will be given at that time.

For further information regarding 4H, call Ellen Jones at the Norfolk County Agricultural School, Walpole, 668-0268 or 762-8333.

50 Youngsters Volunteer To Assist At Happy Acres Day Camp

More than 50 Quincy youngsters have chosen to give up their summer vacations to serve as volunteer assistants to the professional staff at Happy Acres Day Camp, sponsored by the Quincy Park and Recreation Board for handicapped children.

The camp opened last week at Pageant Field, Merrymount, with more than 60 campers greeted by the 15 staff members under the Camp Director Earl Vermillion, a special needs teacher in Quincy schools. It continues through Aug. 20.

The camp's activities are similar to those of most day camps, except that they have been modified to meet the needs of the handicapped, including retarded, cerebral, epileptic, deaf, blind and autistic campers.

The volunteers work with the campers on a one-to-one basis or in small group situations to help them achieve their desire to participate in the same activities as other youngsters in their age group.

All major sports are offered as leisure-time activities, chiefly to give the children an appreciation and knowledge of the sport. Favorites are an adapted form of cricket and trampoline, which helps in coordination and body control.

Swimming, both as a leisure-time activity and for instructional purposes, is scheduled when the tides are convenient. A therapeutic swim program also is offered for selected campers.

Other enjoyments include singing and folk dancing, arts and crafts, cookouts and field trips to such places as the Trilside Museum in Milton, the Stoneham Zoo, Logan Airport, Cape Cod, the USS Constitution, Boston Common and the Children's Zoo.

Parents interested in enrolling their handicapped youngsters in the camp can contact Earl Vermillion at the camp, daily from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. or by calling 479-8683.

South Metro Health Council To Meet July 20

The South Metro Health Council, a citizens advisory group sponsored by the Health Planning Council for Greater Boston, will meet Tuesday, July 20, at 7:30 p.m. in Quincy.

Rosemary Wahlberg of Quincy, chairman of the Metro Health Council, said members will meet at the Shipbuilding Workers Hall, 480 Quincy Ave., Quincy Point. The public is invited.

At the meeting members will discuss assignments to 13 regional "working committees" which will conduct planning, educational, and evaluation programs on various health care topics. The working committees will study the following topics: ambulatory, primary, and preventive health care; acute inpatient care; post acute care; mental health and mental retardation; occupational and environmental health; health manpower; school health and health education; health care finance; and health care legislation.

The South Metro Health Council represents consumers and health providers from 11 local communities, including Braintree, Cohasset, Hingham, Holbrook, Hull, Milton, Norwell, Quincy, Randolph, Scituate and Weymouth.

Interested persons may phone Joanne Agababian at the Health Planning Council for Greater Boston at its Brighton office at 787-5800 for details.

Granite City's McCormack Fires No-Hitter Against HN

The Police Boys Club and Firemen continue to lead the Quincy Babe Ruth League's National and American Leagues respectively, but Granite City Electric, last place team in the National League stole the thunder last week with three impressive wins.

Thirteen-year-old Bob McCormack pitched a no-hitter to spark Granite City to a 9-1 romp over Houghs Neck Legion. Bob struck out 12 and walked four and lost a shutout on a throwing error.

Granite City also defeated Bryan VFW, 4-1, behind the two-hit pitching of Sean Murphy. Harry Donahue pitched well for VFW and struck out 14. Steve White had a home run for Granite City.

Granite City topped Golden Print, 18-12, with White pitching an eight-hitter. Gary Stack put the team ahead with a homer in the first inning. Successive singles by White, Dave Flaherty and Joe Crifo accounted for another run. Golden tied it in the third with two runs but Granite City scored four runs in the third. McCormack hit a home run in the fourth.

The Police Club, 4½ games ahead of Sons of Italy, had an eight-day layoff following a close win over the Firemen and came back to edge Barry's Deli, 3-2.

Tom Brennan of Police and Barry's Gary Earle hooked up in a fine pitching duel with Brennan gaining his sixth win with no losses. He gave up four hits and two walks, while Earle yielded only three hits and three walks. Brennan also had two of his team's hits with Billy O'Connell having the other, which drove in the winning run. Earle scored both Barry's runs. The win was the 11th in a row for the Police Club.

Gino's topped Golden Print, 5-1, with Paul O'Toole pitching two-hit ball and striking out nine. Mark Millane had two singles and a triple, with Bob Ceurvels, Bob Lindenfelzer and John Newcomb having other Gino hits. Danny Sandanato. Golden's catcher threw out four runners and he and Mark Roberts had the only hits.

Sparked by the one-hit pitching of Dave King, Hancock Bank defeated Gino's, 7-0. Richie King, Bob Biagini, Shaun Donaghey and Mike Hatfield did some timely hitting. King retired 17 straight batters, giving up the only hit in the last inning. He struck out six.

Hancock, in winning four of its last five, played errorless ball. The team moved to within a half game of third place and a game of second in the National League.

The Elks defeated Barry's, 6-1, with Mike Crowley pitching a three-hitter. Ed Marella, Fred Palmer and John Connolly had two hits each and Crowley, Billy Foley and Bob DuBois one apiece. Marella did a fine job catching. Losing pitcher Billy Deutsch allowed nine hits and struck out nine. Jimmy Deitch, Earle and Bob Kenny had the only hits.

Playoffs Berths Still Wide Open

With the playoffs scheduled for the end of this month, several Quincy Softball League teams are still in the running for playoff berths. The first four teams in each division will qualify.

The regular season ends July 23 with the following week allotted for rescheduled games.

Both leagues have red hot battles going on for first place.

In the American League Wells Grille defeated K. of C., 7-2, and Alumni Cafe, 15-7, during the past week. Wells scored five runs in the final inning to top K. of C.

Rouillard's, battling Wells for first place, also won two, topping Tom English, 15-3, and also defeating Walsh's.

In the National League, Palmer Pub is battling for the fourth playoff spot but dropped

Debbie Coose, Michael McBride, Recreation 'Leaders Of Week'

Debbie Coose and Michael McBride are the Quincy Recreation Department's outstanding leaders of the week. They are nature specialists in the summer playground program.

The pair received the honor for the assistance they have given in not only orienting the children in various facets of nature but also the campaign they have conducted on litter and environmental beauty of the playgrounds. They enlisted the aid of the children through scavenger hunts and cleanup walks in promoting the appearance of various play areas.

Debbie is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Coose of Willard St., West Quincy and has just graduated from Bridgewater State College with a degree in elementary education.

McBride is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert McBride of Curtis Ave., Quincy Point and is in his second year at St. Anselm's College. He is majoring in Business Administration.

Morrisette May Win Title, But Quincy Feels 'We're The Best'

By TOM SULLIVAN

If Morrisette Legion's baseball team wins its 20th Zone 6 championship, Quincy Post's players can't be faulted for feeling the second best team is the winner.

Morrisette, after Monday's 9-5 win over Braintree, leads with an 11-2 record, followed closely by Quincy, which is 8-3 after a comeback 6-4 win over Canton Monday.

Quincy handed Morrisette both its defeats, so the Quincy players have good grounds for feeling "we are the best."

Wollaston's young team had its best chance to get its first win Sunday, leading Milton, 9-4, but fell apart in the field enabling Milton to pull out a wild 11-10 decision in nine innings. This game, Milton's home game, was shifted to Adams Field for a night contest for the benefit of a fund being raised for a former Milton player, Colin F. MacDonald III, captain of Thayer Academy's team, who was killed recently in an auto accident.

Friday Quincy hosts Milton at 8 p.m. at Adams Field and Wollaston plays at Cohasset at 6 p.m. Monday it will be Weymouth at Wollaston, 8 p.m. at Adams; Morrisette at Holbrook at 8:30 p.m. and Quincy at Randolph at 6 p.m. Tuesday Quincy hosts Weymouth at 8 at Adams and Wednesday it will be Milton at Morrisette at 8 at Adams and Wollaston at Hingham at 6.

Tim Clifford made his record 5-1 Monday in the Morrisette win at Braintree. He allowed five hits, three of them infield hits, and struck out 10. Morrisette, leading by a run, clinched the win with three runs in the seventh. Dennis McGuire had two hits and drove in three runs, Dave Perdios had two hits and drove in a run, Steve McCinnon drove in with a single and Mike McCormack, Chuck LoFresti and Lenny Picot had run scoring hits.

At Adams Field Quincy was held hitless for five innings and trailed, 3-0. But it took advantage of two Canton errors to open the sixth and went on to score all six of its runs.

Following the errors, Preston Carroll drove in a run with a double. A walk filled the bases and Lou Vespaziani cleared them with a triple. Mark DeLuca hit a long triple to right and Steve Bell lined a hit to right to end the scoring.

Low Fishman, who relieved starter Dave Rafferty in the seventh, continually got himself in hot water but made a fine stab of a high bouncer for the final out with the bases loaded.

More than $250 was collected for the MacDonald fund in the Wollaston-Milton game Sunday. Milton paid two of the umpires, Wollaston paid one and Quincy Post paid the other. The umpires then turned the money over to the fund. Morrisette Post also contributed $25.

Jack DiRico continued his hot hitting for Wollaston with two triples, a double and a single, and Nick Anastas had two hits. Wollaston's record dropped to 0-10.

Last Friday in the big game in which Morrisette would have just about clinched the title with a win, Quincy's Mike Kelly pitched outstanding ball to defeat the defending champs for the second time, 3-1, and hand Tim Clifford his first loss after four wins.

Kelly was superb as he pitched five-hit ball and struck out eight.

"We played a flawless game," O'Leary said. "It was definitely Kelly's pitching that won it."

Morrisette averted a shutout with a run in the fourth, driven in by Mike McCormack. Morrisette didn't have another hit until Chuck LoFresti's single in the seventh.

Quincy scored in the first on Preston Carroll's triple and Lew Fishman's single. The winners scored the winning runs in the seventh on Paul Vespaziani's bases loaded single.

Winless Wollaston played one of its better games but bowed to Canton, 4-2, to drop its record to 0-9.

Earlier last week Morrisette paraded over Hingham, 13-0, collecting 16 hits while Pat Gibbons pitched two-hit ball to make his record 5-1.

Leading the attack were LoFresti and Jim Roberts with three hits each, Steve McCormack, Paul Messina and McCormack with two apiece. Gibbons struck out seven and walked four.

Quincy blew a 4-0 lead when Braintree exploded for seven runs in the sixth after two runs in the sixth and went on to a 10-6 win.

For Quincy, Vespaziani had three hits and Carroll and Jim Duggan two each. Starting pitcher Dave Rafferty was the loser.

Wollaston had its best hitting night of the year with nine hits but bowed to Randolph, 7-3.

Jack DiRico had three hits for Wollaston and Roy Widman and Nick Anastas two each. Chuck McLean was the losing pitcher.

Over 200 CompeteMcCarthy, Burns
Quincy Track Club
Quadruple Winners

The Quincy Track Club's first inter-club meet of the season produced two quadruple winners in Karen McCarthy and Shaun Burns.

Each won the 100 and 220 yard dashes, the long jump and they anchored their winning spring relay teams in the girls' and boys' 12-13 year old divisions.

In a special match race at 50 yards, Karen nipped Shaun in a close contest.

Scott Campbell in the 9-11 group and Vin Lorenzano in the 14-15 division were triple winners. Campbell won the 50, 100 and relay, while Lorenzano won the 100, open 220 and long jump.

More than 200 competed in the meet, while other club members ran at White Stadium in preparation for today's [Thursday's] Youth Games, in which winners will represent Boston in national competition against other cities at Harvard Stadium, Aug. 19-23. About 50 Quincy Track Club members are expected to compete.

Senior members ran at the Dedham NEAAU meet in which Janice Kelly won the 16-18 year old 100 and Linda Cellini placed second in the 440.

Quincy Summer Scene To Present Four One-Act Plays Thursday

Quincy Summer Scene will present a series of four one-act plays, featuring some 30 students ranging in age from grades 7 through 12, tonight [Thursday] at 7:30 p.m. in Broadmeadows Junior High School.

Frank Moffett, theater arts teacher at Quincy High School, will supervise all four plays with a student assistant directing each one.

Moffett started the theater arts division of Summer Scene three years ago with the help of Louis DiMartino, who is coordinator of the Summer

Scene program.

The plays and their casts include:

"The Great Choice", directed by Linda Viegas, featuring Karen Bishop, Dawna Andronico, Katy Carlisle, Matthew Warner, Sarah Poole, Jim Martorano, Geoffrey Chamberlain and Noe McHugh.
"Once Upon A Playground", directed by Dawna Andronico, featuring Michelle Desaulniers, Donna Madden, Ellen Coleman, Maureen Walsh, Janice Malvesti, Anne Marie Nigro, Linda Kelleher, Richard Shea, Tricia Mullen and Anthony Andronico.
"No Why", directed by Peter

DelVecchio, featuring Jim Martorano, Doron Ezickson, Sarah Poole, Kathy Curtin, Michelle Desaulniers, Tom Dunn, Matthew Warner, Joe McHugh, Elan Ezickson.

"Black Comedy", directed by Doron Ezickson, featuring Peter DelVecchio, Carol Loughlin, Janine Mugee, Geoffrey Chamberlain, Anthony Andronico, Elan Ezickson, Beth Grant.

The four plays were written by Fred Eastman, Jack Frake, John Whiting, and Peter Shaffer.

LEGAL NOTICE

INVITATION FOR BIDS

The City of Quincy, the Awarding Authority, acting through its authorized agent, Vincent R. LoCicero, Commissioner of Public Works, will receive sealed bids for Miscellaneous Work, at the North Quincy High School, Quincy, Massachusetts in accordance with the plans and specifications prepared by Coletti Brothers, Inc., Architects, 10 Industrial Park Road, Hingham, Massachusetts 02043.

Separate bids will be received for the following classes of work:

1. Demolition.
2. Miscellaneous Filling and Site Work.
3. Piling.

Bidding procedures shall be in accordance with Chapter 149 of The Massachusetts General Laws, as amended.

Sealed bids for the Contracts will be received by the Awarding Authority at the Office of the Commissioner of Public Works, Sea Street, Quincy, Massachusetts until 2:00 P.M. local time, on July 27, 1976, at which time all bids will be publicly opened and read aloud.

The Bidders may obtain one [1] complete set of plans and specifications at the office of the Commissioner of Public Works, upon deposit of the following amount:

1. For Demolition - $20.00.
2. For Miscellaneous Filling and Site Work - $10.00.
3. For Piling - $25.00.

in the form of cash or by check made payable to the City of Quincy for each complete set, after 12 o'clock noon on July 15, 1976. Additional sets may be obtained at the cost of reproduction. Copies of the FORM FOR BID are available at no cost at the Architects office and at the office of the Commissioner of Public Works. The full amount of deposit will be refunded to all persons returning plans and specifications in good condition within ten [10] days after date of general bid opening.

The Contract Documents may be examined at the office of the Architect, Coletti Brothers, 10 Industrial Park Road, Hingham, Mass.; at the office of the Commissioner of Public Works, Sea Street, Quincy, Massachusetts.

Every bid shall be accompanied by cash or a certified check on, or a treasurer's or cashier's check issued by a responsible bank or trust company, payable to the City of Quincy. The amounts shall be as follows: [a bid bond will be accepted]

1. For Demolition - $2,500.
2. For Miscellaneous Filling and Site Work - $800.
3. For Piling - $6,000.

The successful bidder will be required to furnish a performance bond and also a labor and materials or payment bond for 100% of the Contract price.

Attention is called to the fact that no less than the minimum wage rates as set forth in the schedules contained in the specifications must be paid on this project.

The bidder shall indicate in his bid the total time necessary to complete the work of this bid.

The Awarding Authority reserves the right to reject any or all bids and to waive any informalities in the bidding if it be in the public interest to do so, provided such rejection or waiver be in conformance with Section 44A to 44L inclusive of Chapter 149, of the General Laws, as amended.

Renegades To Host 'Spirit Of '76' Competition Friday

The Renegades Drum and Bugle Corps of Quincy will host the "Spirit of '76" CYO drum and bugle corps competition tomorrow [Friday] at 6:30 p.m. in Veterans Memorial Stadium.

The program features both drum corps and drill team competition among entrants from Metropolitan Boston and the South Shore, including the Boston Crusaders, Holy Family Defenders of Lynn and St. Francis Sancers of Weymouth.

The senior Renegades Drum and Bugle Corps will perform in an exhibition.

Free Ceramic Instruction Program For Children Still Open

The Quincy Recreation Department free ceramic instruction program offered to children 8 through 16 at three different locations is accepting new children interested in ceramics crafts, announces Recreation Director Robert K. Beniers.

The program, under the direction of Andrea Quinn and Mary Anderson, utilizes two schools and the Fore River Clubhouse. Children receive instruction in cleaning and smoothing or fettling greenware, decorating or painting with glaze, stain, lacquer, antiquing with the instructors firing the various pieces the children complete.

On Monday and Wednesday the Quincy School and Fore River Clubhouse are used while the Lincoln Hancock Community School is used on Tuesdays and Thursdays. Children wishing to participate may enroll for this program at the local playground.

Quincy Loses Bid For Solar Research Institute

Quincy failed even to reach the starting gate in the nationwide race to secure the proposed National Solar Energy Research Institute.

The New England Council submitted the region's proposal last week, offering the Institute a temporary home in the MIT complex in Cambridge and a permanent site at the old Lyman School for Boys in Westborough. Last month, Edward J. King, president of the NEC, was reported to be high on the 323-acre site of the former Squantum Naval Air Station in Quincy as the location of the facility that could pump $60 million in the local economy.

In the final decision, though, the Quincy site didn't even come in second. The Davisville Naval Facilities in North Kingstown, R.I., which is already owned by the U.S. Government, was offered as an alternate site.

The final decision on where to place the Solar Energy Research Institute will be made in December by the Energy Research and Development Administration.

Cerasoli Urges Immediate Action On Town Brook Flood Control Project

Rep. Robert A. Cerasoli [D-Quincy] is urging state and federal authorities to get cracking on the proposed Town Brook Watershed Flood Control Project.

Cerasoli expressed his concern in letters to Congressman James A. Burke [D-Milton], Commissioner John Snedeker of the MDC and Col. Ralph Garver of the Army Corps of Engineers.

"The immediate and critical need of this project is obvious," he said. "The flood control improvement for the Town Brook watershed is a dire necessity for the public's welfare and safety, especially for the residents in the proposed South Quincy MBTA Station area.

"Irrelevant of whether the MBTA station is built or not this project is still a public necessity. On Dec. 11, 1975, the public meeting was held in Quincy to present preferred plans for flood control in the Town Brook watershed, and to incorporate public needs and desires in the plan formulation.

"The plan was supported by local citizen interest, and I made extensive testimony in favor of the MDC's preferred plan with suggested minor modifications.

"It is my belief that approximately $20 million must be spent to institute the above mentioned plan. This figure alone is indicative of the severe problems that must be corrected in the South Quincy area.

"I would like to be informed as to what stage the formulation of this project is in. It is imperative that a report be issued in the near future so that we can all work together to gain the release of funds necessary to correct flooding problems in the Town Brook watershed."

Equipment Donated

To Happy Acres Day Camp

Reports from Happy Acres Day Camp, the Recreation Department's facility for retarded and handicapped children at Pageant Field, are a little brighter these days.

A couple of weeks ago, Recreation Director Robert K. Beniers announced that the camp had been vandalized and much of the equipment stolen. Last week, however, Camp Director Earl Vermillion reported that newly donated equipment had improved the supply problem.

And, topping that, approval had been received from Long Island Hospital to transport all members of the camp to Long Island in camp buses to view the departure of the tall ships. The island was closed to most traffic.

LaRaia Plans Fight

South Quincy MBTA Station Approval Expected

Construction of the controversial South Quincy MBTA station was expected to get a federal green-light this week.

The federal Urban Mass Transit Administration [UMTA] was expected to announce its approval Wednesday or today [Thursday] in Washington.

Transportation Secretary William Coleman was to announce UMTA's blessing and funding to the tune of $21 million [80 percent of the total] at a news conference.

Meanwhile, Mayor Joseph J. LaRaia said Tuesday he was going to continue to fight the project.

"I've got my staff working on it," said Mayor LaRaia prior to the new conference. "We'll put up a defense against it. I can't reveal the details of what we will do right now but we're not going to give up on it."

The proposed South Quincy station on the Braintree town line, which is opposed by virtually every political figure in the two communities, is part of a $60 million extension of the MBTA's Red Line to South Braintree.

The station complex, including a 2,000-car parking garage and a ramp system to the Southeast Expressway, would cost some $26 million, with about $5 million already bonded by the State and the remainder to be funded by the UMTA.

Work on the right of way between the Quincy Center Station and South Braintree has been put out to bid but the town of Braintree has served notice that it may seek an injunction to block the work until an environmental impact statement is prepared.

Barring injunctions and other delays, work on the extension is scheduled to begin about the first of August. The line, with or without the South Quincy station, is expected to be ready for passengers in the summer of 1979.

Largest Private Gift In Years

Late Mayor Amelio Della Chiesa Bequeaths $140,000 To Crane Library

The Trustees of the Thomas Crane Public Library announce their acceptance of a bequest of $140,000 from the late Mayor Amelio Della Chiesa.

The gift comes through the Della Chiesa Library Trust which the former mayor established in 1969, with the South Shore National Bank as trustee.

Atty. Douglas A. Randall, attorney for the trust, said the income from the trust will be paid to the library in perpetuity and will be expended at the discretion of the library trustees for the purchase of books and related materials, which may include certain non-book or book-substitute items such as microforms.

Chairman L. Paul Marini, speaking for the Library Board at a special meeting of the Library Trustees called to accept the gift July 9, termed the Della Chiesa Trust the largest private gift to the library since the Crane family gifts which occurred over a period of years.

Marini added: "I am sure, that this son of an Italian immigrant, who received no extended formal education and a plumber, by trade, fully realized the vital importance of a library to a city. This surely is a lasting monument, to his memory."

The new trust further provides that, with the approval of the trustee [the South Shore National Bank], the library trustees may, if they wish to do so, apply part or all of the principal toward the cost of construction of a branch library in the vicinity of South Quincy, to be named the Lt. Walter A. Della Chiesa Branch Library in memory of the son of the donor.

Weights And Measures Dept. Testing Gasoline Meters

The Department of Weights and Measures is currently engaged in its annual project of testing and sealing the approximately 575 retail gasoline and gear lube meters in Quincy.

It is expected to be concluded in mid-August.

One day a week is allotted for inspection and reweighing of food packages put up for sale and inspection of unit pricing regulations.

NQHS Bids To Be Opened

Bids for initial work on the renovation and addition to North Quincy High School will be opened Tuesday (July 27), it was disclosed by Mayor Joseph J. LaRaia.

The work will consist of preparing the area behind the school for the driving of piles, including relocation of fuel tanks and sewer lines and some demolition of existing structures.

"This is one indication that we will be moving along shortly with the start of the physical work on the high school," said Mayor LaRaia.

Libra Stellium

Q. I was born on September 21, 1922 at 6 a.m. in Salem, Mass. My birth date comes under the Sign of Virgo but I have been told that I am Libra. Could you please answer this question for me?

B.H.

A. The Sun was in the Sign of Virgo on your date of birth but the planets Mercury, Jupiter and Saturn and the Moon were all in Libra, the latter two and your Sun were on your Ascendant. When several planets are in one Sign of the Zodiac at the same time it is called a STELLIUM and such accentuates the matters indicated by that Sign. In your case, basically you are a practical, realistic individual with a fine sense of what is right and what is wrong and you are discriminating in your tastes as indicated by the position of your Sun.

Your "Stellium" in Libra is indicative of your sense of fairness in your judgement of and dealings with others. Inwardly you may not approve of the attitudes or actions of others and you can be quite critical but you would be apt to express your disapproval very tactfully, if at all, since not only are you inclined to be considerate of their feelings but you definitely dislike quarrels.

Arguments, discord and noise can disturb you very much and you are apt to make every effort to maintain peace. You know how to "win friends and influence people" since you can be kind and gracious.

You have an excellent mentality, unusually good judgement and a desire to be fair and honorable. You should be able to reach conclusions by piecing together small details and weaving them into a whole picture, being able to be equally competent with abstract ideas as you are with material facts.

A word of caution, if I may, while you have the ability to control your energies and actions you may on occasion become impatient, overconfident or push your ambitions too far and this would be using poor judgement. Know your limitations.

For questions to be answered in this column, mail the year, month, day of the month, city of birth, time of day if known and question to Ask Oscar, Box 114, Canton, Mass. 02021. Please sign your name which will not be published. Selected questions can only be answered through this column.

THE DRUG STORE 1980?

No business can exist without making a profit.

We know the current wave of advertising prescription prices is temporary.

Once most of the small stores were put out of business, the chains then increased their prices. Now they are one of the most expensive states in the country in which to purchase drugs. This latest development will wreck havoc with many small drug stores in Massachusetts, exactly as it happened in California.

But now what happens when you need your local drug store for an emergency late at night, a delivery to an infant, invalid, or the aged, charging on occasion and countless other services.

Giving up some of these useful services in order to be competitive is economically unsound.

However, many small drug stores will still exist due to the understanding and loyalty of its customers. Let us hope they won't go the way of the small grocers.

In any event, the future of the drug store in this state that we have become used to, will certainly be changed.

deBenedictis Advocates Restructure Of Social Security

Danielle de Benedictis, running for Congress from the 11th District, has advocated restructure of the Social Security system to make it more equitable in providing uniform benefits for every person, regardless of sex.

De Benedictis, a former assistant attorney general from Milton who is in the race as an independent, spoke out on Social Security at a coffee hour recently held for her at the home of Mrs. Bernice Entin of Quincy.

"Under the present rules of the Social Security System," she said, "when a working couple retire, the wife must decide whether to receive her benefits or her husband's as she cannot receive both.

"Therefore, a woman can work all her life, pay thousands of dollars into the Social Security system and never receive her benefits if she opts for her husband's.

"The system further discriminates by requiring that a couple be married 20 years before the wife can receive her husband's benefits."

Mary Pickering No Woman Libber

Miss Quincy Bay: Following In Her Mother's Footsteps

For Mrs. Mary Pickering of 25 Glendale Rd, Quincy, a cocktail waitress at Peter's Landing, it was like reliving the Great Moment all over again.

Her daughter, Mary Pickering, 16, a senior at Quincy High School, won the coveted title Miss Quincy Bay of 1976 and all the nice things that go with it.

Mrs. Pickering knew what it was like.

Nearly 20 years ago, as Mary Joyce, she won a similar title herself, Miss Quincy of 1957.

"No, my mother didn't push me to enter and she didn't even coach me," laughs the new Miss Quincy Bay, a 5-foot-3, brown-haired beauty. "She just told me to do what I thought best."

"Actually, it was my sister who got me to enter. She said, 'If you enter I will.' So we both entered together."

Her sister, Donna Tantillo, 17, finished out of the money.

"But I think she was happier than I was that I won," says Mary. "She said, 'I'm proud of you. We're a big, close family.'"

The rest of the family consists of big sister, Kim, 18, and brothers, Ralph, 15, and John, 10.

Right now, Mary isn't looking much beyond her final year in high school and her 12-month reign as Miss Quincy Bay, including almost continuous appearances during Quincy Bay Race Week, Aug. 11-15.

"Am I a good student?" she HAPPINESS IS... Mary Pickering, 16, of Glendale Rd, Quincy, happily holds handsome trophy after winning Miss Quincy Bay Beauty Pageant last Friday night. At rear is her mother, Mrs. Mary Pickering, Miss Quincy of 1957. The trophy was presented by the Quincy Center Business and Professional Association.

laughs. "Well, I keep passing. And I'll be graduated next year. I'd like to go to college but I'm not sure what I want to take. Anything but secretarial, I guess."

She's looking forward especially to studying at the Carol McCole Fashion Models School and Agency under the $200 scholarship that is one of her prizes for winning the title. "I think I'd like to model," she says. "I'll try it. I'll try anything once."

She is not interested in getting married - not right now, anyway.

"You have to be really settled to get married," she says. "I'm not settled yet. That's in the late, late future."

And one thing more. It's Miss Pickering, not Ms.

"I'm not a libber at all," she says. "I like to be treated like a lady."

Miss [not Ms.] Pickering won the title Miss Quincy Bay of 1976 over a field of 17 other contestants, receiving her crown from Jeanne Anne Rathgeb of North Quincy, the outgoing Miss Quincy Bay of 1975.

First runnerup was Diane Maria Smith, 19, of Braintree; second, Lauren Segelman, 16, of Randolph; third, Jayne McLean, 19, of Quincy; and fourth, Cherie Anne Marie Martinelli, 16, of Quincy.

Other contestants were: Cheryl Ann Alfia, 18, of Quincy; Nancy J. Anderson, 22, of South Weymouth; Susan M. Coffey, 20, of Milton; Anne Campbell, 18, of Quincy; Elaine Cirillo, 18, of Quincy; Karen L. DeLeo, 19, of East Weymouth.

Mary Dowling, 17, of Quincy; Virginia Fillos, 17, of Hanson; Elizabeth A. Gabriel, 20, of Norwell; Ann Marie Lopez, 21, of Hull; Carole Ann McCole, 17, of South Weymouth; Donna A. Tantillo, 17, of Quincy; and Anita Willette, 16, of East Weymouth.

All 18 contestants received a necklace from the Quincy Center Business and Professional Association.

The judges were:

Dr. Edward Pierce, president of Quincy Junior College; Miss Carole Nashe, head of the Carol Nashe-Barbizon Model Agency, Boston; Miss Janice Lamparelli of West Quincy, Miss Quincy Bay of 1974; Bernard Reisberg, president of the Quincy Center Business and Professional Association; and Patrick Conroy, president of Quincy Bay Race Week Association.

The event is co-sponsored by the QCBPA and Quincy Bay Race Week Association.

Henry Bosworth of The Quincy Sun served as pageant chairman while Kenneth P. Fallon Jr. of WJDA was co-chairman and emcee of the program, which was held on a portable boardwalk in front of the Hancock Bank in downtown Quincy.

Winner, 4 Runnersup Share Over $1,200 In Prizes

Planning 30th Reunion

Wedding Dress Exhibit Planned At Historical Society

Wedding dresses from the collection at the Quincy Historical Society will be on display at the society museum from Sunday, July 25, through September.

Among the dresses to be included in the display entitled "Something Borrowed, Something Blue", will be a short dress from the 1920's worn by Mrs. W. Robert Kilbourn, the dress worn by Mrs. H. Hobart Holly and her grandmother, and the dress worn by Frank Remick's and Miss Margaret Remick's mother.

The groom's vest worn at the Holly wedding will also be on display.

Mrs. Frank Wiot, chairman, Miss Helen Johnson, assistant chairman, and Mrs. Rudolf

Oberg have mended and pressed the dresses, selected accessories, and crocheted replacement buttons for those lost or rotted through the years. They have also constructed paper mache mannequins to mount the display designed by Lawrence Yerdon, society director.

Mrs. David Day is refreshment chairman.

John McIntyre Candidate For State Representative

John L. McIntyre, 49, of 40 Ocean St., Squantum, a food service management executive, has announced his candidacy for the Democratic nomination for State representative in the Third Norfolk District.

In his announcement, McIntyre said:

"If one were to declare any one issue that is paramount to the district, it is the issue of the professional legislator's unwillingness to listen to the voice of the voter.

"In a time when voter apathy, voter distrust and voter disgust runs rampant with our legislature, we find the professional politician catering to the special interests, carrying the so-called secret ballot, fostering the inefficiency in bureaucratic heads of departments and driving business out of the state.

"The head of this state government demands economy at the expense of the state worker and a cut-back in services, yet does nothing about his own overstaffed, high salaried administration staff.

"It is my intent to support

Brian Howley North Adams Graduate legislation that will establish a direct procedure for the recall and removal of public officials by means of petition and referendum process.

"Thoroughly investigate the auto insurance mess, the abuse of the welfare system, and the judicial that promotes the breakdown of law and order and eliminate the title of 'Taxachusetts' from our state motto."

McIntyre, who has graduated from Boston English High School and attended Boston University School of Business Administration, has been regional district manager of a food service management system for the past 20 years.

He is also consultant to Data Intelligence Service Corp., a computer service to the food-management industry, and a member of the Automatic Merchandising Association.

He and his wife, Emily, have three children, John 23, Patricia 21, and Chris 17. He is a veteran of World War II and the Korean War and is a member of the Squantum American Legion Post.

A graduate of North Quincy High School, he received a bachelor of arts degree in history and political science.

Temporary Workers Hired To Pick Up Wollaston Beach Trash

Beach, adjoining walkways and the parking strip.

"The problems of refuse disposal on MDC beaches is a major problem as you point out in your letter," said MDC Commissioner John F. Snedeker in a letter thanking Brett for his "worthwhile suggestions".

"There are approximately 250 barrels at Wollaston which have been placed both on the beach and the sidewalk area. In an attempt to educate the public on this very serious problem, signs on the barrels read, 'Please use rubbish barrels', and 'For people who care'.

"Metropolitan District Police patrol the area on a 24-hour basis.

"Your suggestion of temporary workers to walk along the beach, adjoining walkways and parking strip with containers picking up refuse is presently implemented."

Sidewalk Bazaar Gives Downtown Business Shot In Arm

Last week's Sidewalk Bazaar gave downtown retail business its annual July shot in the arm. Most stores reported sales up over last year's same three-day period although some did better one or two days but not as well on the third day.

All seemed to agree, however, that the annual Sidewalk Bazaar, sponsored by the Quincy Center Business and Professional Association brings crowds into downtown who ordinarily would not be here.

And it helps ring cash registers that might-considering the time of the year-ordinarily be quiet.

Comments of businessmen during a random Quincy Sun survey:

"We had a substantial increase over last year," said Pierre Boulanger, manager of Sears Roebuck. "Thursday was a great opening day. Friday was not so good. But Saturday bailed everyone out."

Burt Cook of Tags Sleep and Lounge Shop said his store experienced a drop of some 40 per cent in business. Otherwise he echoed Boulanger.

"Thursday was fair," said Cook. "Friday was a disaster. Saturday bailed me out. Without Saturday I could have had a 60 per cent drop in business. I'm happy we had the Sidewalk Bazaar. Without it, I might have done nothing."

Jason Feldman of Jason's Luggage and Music Shop called business for the three days "excellent...the best we ever had."

"Last year was an off year with us," he said. "The best year we ever had was the year before last and this year we were 10 per cent above that."

Cecilia Letorney of Bottoms Up termed it "fantastically phenomenal...the best in my three years in business."

"At one time I had 20 girls stationed at the two booths outside," she said. "We must have been 37 per cent ahead of last year."

Albert Salhaney, owner of the Big J Sandwich Shop, said business at his stand was 5 per cent better than last year.

"It was very good," he said.

"Beautiful."

Remo DeNicola of South Shore Television and Appliances said business was up about 10 percent over the previous year, thanks to an unusual Saturday.

"Saturday afternoon usually peters out about 2 or 3 o'clock," he said. "This year, however, there were still people around right up to 5:30 p.m. We had Saturday people coming back to see what was left."

"I'm happy with the whole thing."

Sumner Cohen of Kincaide Furniture said business was off in his store but, he added, the fire a few weeks ago in the Kincaide warehouse might have had something to do with it.

"The fire destroyed a lot of the little pieces that we would have had on sale during the Sidewalk Bazaar," he said. "You might say our mistakes were burned in the fire."

"We did move some big things but the dollar volume was not as big. Saturday pulled us out. We closed at 5:30 p.m. and we still had people in the store at 6:15. Other years we died at 4 o'clock."

"The last two hours on Saturday we did big business." Olde Colony Stereo experienced a drop from last year.

"We had a lot of traffic," said Mike Davey, the manager. "We filled out a lot of slips but the quality was not what we expected."

"There was a severe drop off in the quality of the stuff offered at this end of the street. Most people stopped at Sears. There weren't enough stores participating at this end of the street."

CAP Cadets Serve As Ushers At Pageant

Senior and Cadet personnel of the Quincy Composite Squadron, Civil Air Patrol, participated in the Miss Quincy Bay Pageant Friday night as ushers assisting in crowd control. Warrant Officer Paul C. Daly was officer in charge of the detail while Cadet First Lt. Paul D. Eldridge Jr. served as cadet in charge. The others included:

Cadet First Class John A. Cunningham, Cadet Airman Shiela Killion; Cadet Tech Sgt.

Patrick Murphy Champion Bean Counter

Patrick S. Murphy, 13, of 31 Bicknell St., Germantown had the luck of an Irishman last week when he guessed within 12, the number of beans in a jar at the Friendly Family Center during the Sidewalk Bazaar.

A student at St. Joseph's

School, Patrick counted a little bit, and then asked if there was a baseball in the middle. They said no so I just guessed there were a thousand and a half at least.

He guessed there were 1532 beans in the jar and there were actually 1,544.

The second youngest of five children, he is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Patrick Murphy.

He was awarded a $20 gift certificate to the Friendly Family Center, 1453 Hancock St., Quincy Center, which has had already given to his mother.

Gloria Dooley Wins Bicycle

Gloria Dooley, 26, of 345 Water St., South Quincy, was the winner of the bicycle awarded in a drawing by the South Shore Council for Neighborhood Schools during Quincy's Sidewalk Bazaar last week.

Police officer Harry Williams drew her name from a hat. The bicycle was donated by the Charlestown Information Center.

Carl L. Leinonen, son of Mrs. William E. Leinonen of 8 South Junior Terrace, South Quincy, has been named to the dean's list for the second semester at Bowdoin College, Brunswick, Me.

Frank Kelly:

His Heart Was Big

By HENRY BOSWORTH

The day before he died, Frank Kelly dropped by The Sun office with a news release about the Quincy Track Club.

He was full of enthusiasm as he talked about the youngsters and how some of them looked like future track stars.

In his free hours, he was all wrapped up in the track club as founder, director and coach. He loved the kids and couldn't do enough for them.

He thought so much of them that he even worried about them moments before he died after being stricken with a heart attack.

In fact, among the last words he said to his wife, Irene, were "Take care of the Track Club."

You know, there were some people who may not have been overly fond of Frank. But they didn't know him. Not really.

Frank was hardly a shrinking violet. As a newsman if he had to push to get a photo or a story, well-he pushed. Timid newsmen wind up reading the story they were supposed to get in someone else's newspaper.

Frank was a generous person. He'd literally give you the shirt off his back and go home and get another one for you if you needed that one, too.

I knew him perhaps better than most people. We worked together as a news team at The Boston Traveler—and spent a lot of time together. And came up with some pretty good news stories together. Frank had his faults. But so do I. And, so do you.

But he was a good family man. A good newsman. He loved Quincy. He was always interested in what was going on in Quincy as a parent, resident and taxpayer.

The guy had a heart as big as Veterans Memorial Stadium, where his beloved Quincy Track Club competes.

I only hope that someone will step forward to help Irene "take care of the Track Club."

The kids need someone like Frank Kelly.

QUOTE ATTRIBUTED TO Mayor Joseph LaRaia in the Boston News Digest: It is "the people you have to deal with that create the most problems. I'm referring to the newspapers, or the news media and elected or appointed officials who deal with you."

Does that mean, Your Honor, that everyone else is wrong and you're right?

As for the press, it wasn't too long ago that a couple of guys named Nixon and Agnew were telling everyone not to believe what they read in the papers.

And if it weren't for the papers, those two birds would still be around today giving you the same baloney.

The day the press stops causing politicians problems, will be the day this country has got problems—real problems.

COMMENT: The day the press stops giving politicians trouble—whether it's at the municipal, state or federal level—will be a sad day for America. It wasn't very long ago when a couple of pols by the name of Nixon and Agnew were whining about the press. And they had good reason as it later turned out. May the press forever cause politicians problems.

ROBERT MCCARTHY, former press aide to Mayor Joseph LaRaia and assistant director of Quincy Heritage, has a new job. He's been named public affairs director for the New England Interstate Water Pollution Control Commission. Friends are happy that the popular McCarthy, landed the job after being dropped by the LaRaia administration. McCarthy, incidentally, is now living in Quincy.

A POOL PARTY-reception for Norfolk County Commissioner George McDonald will be hosted by former Norfolk County Dist. Atty. George Burke at his home, 174 Warren Ave., Wollaston, Friday night from 7 to 9 p.m.

THE ONE-PIECE swimsuit has done it again in the Miss Quincy Bay Pageant. This year's winner, pretty Mary Pickering, 16, of Quincy, wore a one-piece black suit.

Last year's winner, Jeanne Anne Rathgeb, Janice Lamparelli, 1974 queen, Patty Kelley, 1973, all wore one-piece swimsuits but white.

Bikini's and two-piece suits just don't seem to impress the judges.

SPEAKING OF Patty Kelley, you might say she's really going places. She's now an Eastern Airlines stewardess.

MONDAY WAS VISITOR'S from-abroad-day for Councillor Paul Harold. In the morning he lectured to a group of 40 French students at City Hall on American government. That afternoon he gave a tour of the Adams Birthplaces to his counterpart on the Glasgow city council, Mrs. Ellen McCulloch, councillor from the 5th (Easterhouse) Ward. William Flavin took the students on a tour of First Parish Church.

To-date, we have had only one left-handed President—James Garfield!

Unity But Coolness And . . .

Some Fear Carter Could

Be A Democratic Tom Dewey

By PAUL HAROLD
Quincy Sun Correspondent

NEW YORK -- At the conclusion of last week's Democratic National Convention all of Jimmy Carter's primary opponents appeared on stage with him to show their support for the Carter-Mondale ticket.

It was a nice display of unity. But on the convention floor, however, many delegates were still somewhat "cool" towards the Carter candidacy.

"I'll work for Carter, but I don't know if I'll vote for him," was a typical remark from the Massachusetts delegation.

Of course some Massachusetts delegates were still pouting because they had put it on the line in March for what turned out to be a losing candidate.

Francis Meany, the Brookline lawyer who headed up the Carter organization in Massachusetts, attributed much of the grumbling to bias against southerners.

Because Carter didn't place heavy emphasis on the Massachusetts primary, Bay State Democrats had little opportunity to get to know Carter.

"When they do, they will be tremendously impressed with the guy," Meany said.

As to the nomination of Senator Walter Mondale as Vice President, the Massachusetts reaction was extremely favorable. Towards the end there was hope that fellow New Englander Senator Edward Muskie would get the nod, but most accepted Mondale.

First, because he was already nationally known for his progressive leadership in the Senate. Second, as a favorite of organized labor he would help draw that reluctant wing back into the party [the AFL-CIO hadn't endorsed a Presidential candidate since 1968].

Third, he helped balance the ticket ideologically and geographically. Fourth, most importantly, for all the above reasons - he could help ensure a Democratic victory in November.

And a victory is what the Democrats want and need so badly. So badly in fact, that all factions were willing to stop feuding long enough to nominate one candidate and then go forward to elect him.

The universal opinion seems to be that this is a Democratic year and that Carter should steam-roll President Ford, the apparent Republican nominee. The greatest fear, however, is that Carter will become another Thomas Dewey.

Dewey, the Republican nominee in 1948 looked like a sure winner. So much so that he acted like he already was President.

Dewey was so over-exposed that many people voted for the incumbent Harry Truman, because they thought it was "time for a change."

As a matter of fact, the orderliness of the convention might have hurt Carter in a way no one could have anticipated.

Since there was nothing happening on the floor, the delegates didn't produce very interesting interviews. The result was that all three TV networks, instead of interviewing delegates - seemed to fill prime-time with interviews of people from Plains, Georgia [Carter's home town of course!]

At first, all this was very cute. To hear home folks tell about Jimmy in Sunday school, in the peanut fields, etc. But four days straight of this was more saccharine than a Shirley Temple Film Festival.

Enough is enough. Some advisors are recommending that the whole Plains, Georgia theme be put on the back burner for fear that the American voter will reject Carter, just because they're sick of hearing about every detail of his life.

And whether he wants to or not, Jimmy Carter is going to have to put on the front burner a discussion of the issues. It was possible to side-step issues during the primary free-for-all and gain support on personal appeal. But the general election is a completely different ball game.

The Republicans, and fairly so, will force Carter to decide once and for all where he stands on national issues. What all the national newspaper and TV correspondents have been unable to do for the past seven months, the Republican nominee will do in two months.

And after all, isn't that what our two party system is all about!

LaRaia Names 7-Member Committee

To Review Election Process

Mayor Joseph J. LaRaia has appointed a bi-partisan committee of seven to review the election process in Quincy and make recommendations that would prevent recurrence of irregularities that marred last fall's municipal voting.

Members of the committee and their political affiliations are:

Leo Meady, Arthur Chandler and Charles Hedges, Republicans; Beverly Operach, Independent; Mary Collins, Joan Picard and Dr. Saul Goldstein, Democrats.

City Clerk John Gillis was named an ex officio member to advise the committee.

Appointment of the committee was suggested by Presiding Justice Albert L. Kramer of Quincy District Court last May in his 12-page report of the ineffectiveness of the election.

Judge Kramer found no criminal wrong-doing but he was critical of many aspects of the election in which a shift of 600 votes in blocks of 50 turned an apparent victory for then-Mayor

Walter J. Hannon into a win for LaRaia in a recount.

LaRaia said members of the committee were selected because they had "shown some interest in the election process in the past and also expressed interest in serving on the committee."

He said the committee will hold its organizational meeting within a week and probably would report back by the end of August. His recommendations could be put into effect in time for the September primary, he said.

THE READER SPEAKS OUT

Enjoyed Visit To Mayor's Office

Editor, The Quincy Sun:

A week ago, I entered the outer office of Mayor LaRaia. I had called his office a few days earlier hoping to get an appointment and to my surprise I did.

Sitting there I thought for a moment how politics influenced my life and nothing would interfere or change my choice in not voting for many years in State or City government. I would familiarize myself with the candidates before elections studying their positions and most of all evaluating their effect on me as a citizen. They put me in cold storage.

Suddenly a voice asked me and others who had come in, if we would like a cup of coffee. This I thought was a new twist but there was sincerity in that voice. Was it tact or diplomacy? I looked around and studied the two young ladies. I began to converse with one of them, Elaine Schratz, and found that she took her responsibilities seriously and most important to today's complex society, she caring for others, thus being able to strike a happy balance between both.

Mayor LaRaia entered the office saying "Good morning" to his staff and again to the ones waiting to see him. He informed us he would see us shortly.

I was the first appointment and his secretary led me to his chambers. He greeted me and asked me to be seated. We spoke and he showed genuine interest. When I left, my feelings were and are as of now, it is a changing world. How much only time and conditions will tell.

To Elaine Schratz and to the rest of the women actively involved in the Mayor's office, I firmly believe we would have a more harmonious society with people such as you are, in the business world.

Houghs Neck Loses Bid For Woman School Principal

By TOM HENSHAW

Houghs Neck residents apparently lost out in their bid to have Miss Elizabeth Garrity, a teacher in the Quincy school system for 42 years, named principal of the newly enlarged Atherton Hough school.

The Quincy School Committee refused to reconsider its appointment of H. Forrest Wilson to the post and Committeeman Col. Warren E. Sweetser proposed a resolution that only men be named schoolmasters.

There were two other women principals of Quincy schools, Miss Margaret Sweeney of Gridley Bryant School and Miss Lucy Hennigar of Willard School.

FRANCHISE SURVIVES

The Quincy franchise in the Boston Twilight Baseball League barely escaped dissolution when the Board of Directors anted up $1,300 to help meet a growing $2,200 deficit brought about by poor attendance at Fore River Field.

On the field, Manager Sid Paterson's club was an artistic success, adding the Two League's first hall title to its 1928 flag.

Francis Tansey allowed three hits in a 1-0 win over Reading. Quincy got only one hit, a leadoff double in the second inning by Buck Freeman, who went to third on an error and scored the lone run on a squeeze bunt by Walter McQuinn.

Despite the fine fill-in efforts of Jerry Shanahan and Leo Bracken, the Quincy team was still seeking a replacement for shortstop Blondy Ryan, who left Quincy to play for Osterville in the Cape Cod League.

CRIME RATE DOWN

Police Chief Ernest H. Bishop, speaking over Radio WNAC in Squantum, proudly announced that Quincy has less vice and liquor traffic than any city of its size in the country.

"We have had very few serious crimes in the last few years and it is a saying among the crooks that you had better keep away from Quincy," said Bishop.

"We claim that Quincy is free of vice and liquor trafficking than any city of our size in the country, and this claim is endorsed by federal officials."

MEN WITH TAILS?

Everyone was talking about the reports of men with tails brought back from the Philippine Islands by Lt. William F. Malnati of 60 Bedford St., Quincy, who spent 13½ months with the U.S. Geodetic Survey in Luzon.

Malnati said he saw men with tails six to eight inches long but he denied it was evidence that man descended from monkeys.

He received support from Chalmers F. Rose of 837 Sea St., Houghs Neck, a former Marine, who said he saw pictures of the men with tails while serving with the Marines in the Philippines in 1926.

FORE RIVER UNAFFECTED

Secretary of the Navy Charles Francis Adams said that President Hoover's order to suspend construction of cruisers applied only to government shipyards and would have no effect on the $11 million cruiser slated to be built at Fore River.

Meanwhile, the John A. Boyd Camp of United Spanish War Veterans was spearheading a campaign to have the new cruiser named "Quincy" in honor of the city in which it was to be built.

A REGIONAL ECONOMY — By ERIC SWIDER

Let's Limit Government To 8.3%

It's about time that we, the voters of Massachusetts, took the initiative to limit the size of State government by putting a lid on the State's annual budget.

Calling it a budget is the most facetious thing about it anyhow; for if you and I were to manage our households or our businesses in the manner that state government does their affairs, we'd soon end up in the bankruptcy court and jail.

Up until this point, no one has given our state leaders a set amount of money to spend. They have been their own judge and jury, and their own banker and loanee. They not only decide what programs we need, but how much to spend on them; and constantly look at us taxpayers as a bottomless well which needs draining. No one has come up with an effective way of cutting them off, shutting them up, or establishing guidelines for their action up until now.

Alas, out of Michigan comes an effort that, if successful, should next be tried in Massachusetts.

Efforts are underway there now, with the help of Chambers of Commerce statewide, to gather signatures to get an initiative petition on the ballot that would limit the size of their state government to 8.3% of the total personal income of Michigan citizens, provide for tax refunds if state tax revenue limits are exceeded, require state government to fund any programs it mandates for local communities, and make it necessary for local governments to gain voter approval before it can levy any new taxes.

Tentative figures I have obtained from the Research Department at the First National Bank of Boston suggest that a similar proposal, if adopted now in Massachusetts at an 8.3% vote, would pretty much mean no cuts in the size of state government here as it currently exists, or the elimination of any of our taxes.

It would mean, once and for all, a clamp on the growth of government as a percentage of our state's gross product and a mandate to our elected officials, both state and local, that the electorate is sick and tired of reckless spending and cavalier giveaway programs.

Chances are that state government's budget would grow, but for altogether different reasons. The State would then have the incentive to attempt to increase total personal income of Massachusetts citizens, knowing full well that to do it an 8.3% commission in it for them to do it 8.3% more to spend on state services and health, welfare and education programs. 8.3% more for state employees' salaries and public works projects.

They'd also know what the total pie was, and the job at budget sessions would not be one of media manipulation but the serious division of the 8.3% for the most necessary programs.

We would soon find how unwise some of our heretofore "necessary" programs are. We would see an increased emphasis on legislation that promotes private sector investment in plants, equipment and jobs. We would recognize that some of our liberal welfare programs, as they are currently constituted, are really a step backward for they not only stifle initiative, but paying for them drives from the Commonwealth the very same employers who would be providing those welfare recipients jobs.

The idea of forcing state government to stop mandating local programs to be paid for by local government from the local property tax is classic. Most Finance Committee members in local South Shore towns feel that they are totally powerless to cope with mushrooming local costs because of the actions previous state legislative sessions have taken in the cause of doing their thing.

Massachusetts would still undoubtedly have the power to readjust the way it raises the 8.3% it is going to spend so it could increase fees, college tuitions, broaden the sales tax and reduce income tax, if it wanted.

We could also decide to spend less on health, education and welfare and more on public works and job development.

When a business establishes a budget or when you and I establish a household budget, it is for one important reason — we know how much "within reasonable limitations" is coming through the front door during the year and we plan on it.

State government currently has no need to think that way. In fact, they do it just the opposite — they decide what they want to spend it on, and then how to get it. Government should operate like your household and mine — they should know what's coming in first, and then divvy it up.

8.3% sounds fair and reasonable. And as you and I make more, they get more.

What do you think?

[Eric Swider is Executive Vice-President of the South Shore Chamber of Commerce.]

Citizens Association Urges Kennedy, Brooke To Help Halt South Quincy MBTA

The Quincy Citizens Association has issued an 11th hour appeal to Sens. Edward M. Kennedy [D-Mass.] and Edward W. Brooke [R-Mass.] for their help in halting the proposed South Quincy MBTA station.

The Urban Mass Transportation Administration is expected to give a go ahead to the $25 million project momentarily.

In letters to Kennedy and Brooke, the QCA said:

"We exhort you to exert as much pressure as possible on the UMTA to cancel plans for a South Quincy station and instead design and fund an MBTA line to service other South Shore communities who are in dire need of public transportation."

The letters, signed by Dorothy C. Kelly, the QCA's secretary, noted that spending money on the extension rather than the station would cut traffic on the Southeast Expressway "thereby saving millions of gallons of gasoline daily used by automobiles driven into the city."

"The environment, residential character and air quality of Quincy will certainly be protected and improved with a reduction of through traffic commuting," said the letter.

Noting that virtually every public official in Quincy and Braintree has expressed opposition to the station, the QCA said, "outsiders are trying to force on the residents of Quincy and Braintree an MBTA station complex that they and their elected officials vehemently oppose."

The QCA also dispatched a letter to Congressman James A. Burke [D-Milton] asking his "good offices to convince UMTA to extend rapid transit beyond South Braintree to accommodate commuters from the South Shore rather than cramming a fourth station in Quincy."

"If, in future years," the letter to Burke added, "it appears a South Quincy station is desirable, the matter can be reconsidered in light of conditions, but for the present all funds available should be used for extension of the line to communities not presently serviced."

Lydon Seeks To Keep Whitwell St. Playground Open

City Councillor John J. Lydon Jr. has asked the Park and Recreation Board for a formal vote to keep the Whitwell St. playground open.

Recreation Director Robert Beniers recommended Monday night that the Board close the playground because of vandalism and minimal use. The Board tabled the recommendation pending results of a neighborhood survey.

Lydon said he met with members of the Hospital Hill and Cranch Hill Association and the Mount Ararat Association Tuesday and they "uniformly oppose any closing of the playground."

He said a telephone survey of the neighborhood showed that "the playground is highly used, especially by the younger people who use the swings and slides area."

North Quincy Firm Low Bidder On Braintree MBTA Extension

The Quincy Corp. of North Quincy, low bidder at $205,569, has been awarded the first construction contract for the extension of the MBTA's Red Line to South Braintree.

The contract is for site work along the right-of-way of the former Old Colony Railroad between Quincy Center Station and South Quincy and site work at the location of the South Braintree Station.

It also calls for removal of railroad track as far as the West Quincy branch.

The work is scheduled to be completed by the end of 1976.

Services Held For Frank G. Kelly, 61

A Funeral Mass was celebrated Friday at St. Ann's Church, Wollaston, for Frank G. Kelly, 61, of 65 Copley St., Wollaston, former Boston news photographer and job developer with the Quincy CETA program, who died Tuesday, July 13, in Quincy City Hospital.

Mourners included Mayor Joseph J. LaRia, former Mayor Walter J. Hannon, City Council President and Sen. Arthur H. Tobin, Rep. Joseph E. Brett and Paul Ricca, head of CETA in Quincy.

Also former associates at Boston newspapers, including Herald American cartoonist James Dobbin; Ralph Long, assistant managing editor of the Herald American; Henry Bosworth, publisher of The Quincy Sun, William DeLangy, retired Boston American photographer-reporter and Laban Whittaker, former news photographer, now with the Braintree School system.

Also attending were members of the Quincy Track Club, to whom Mr. Kelly devoted much of his free time during the past three years. He was founder, director and coach of the club, whose members honored him with a cookout last summer.

Mr. Kelly began his newspaper career with the old Boston Post in 1946, moving to the Traveler when the Post went out of business in 1956. He was with the Herald Traveler when that paper went out of existence in 1972.

He won a number of news photography awards in his career, during which he covered both the inauguration and funeral of President John F. Kennedy and made the first pictures of Mayflower II after it crossed the Atlantic.

He leaves his widow, Irene [Mudron] Kelly; a son, David of Quincy; three daughters, Maureen, Janice and Andrea, all of Quincy; and two brothers, Michael G. Kelly of Quincy, and John J. Kelly of Hyde Park.

Burial was in Mount Wollaston Cemetery.

Funeral arrangements were by Keohane's Funeral Home.

First Lutheran Woman Pastor To Speak At Good Shepard Church

Rev. Elizabeth Platz, the first woman ordained in the Lutheran Church in America will be guest preacher at the Lutheran Church of the Good Shepherd, 308 West Squantum St., North Quincy, Sunday at 9 a.m.

Rev. Platz was born in Pittsburgh, Pa., in 1940, and received her B.A. degree from Chatham College in Pittsburgh and her divinity degree from Gettysburg Seminary, Pennsylvania in 1965. For five years she was an associate in campus ministry at the University of Maryland. In 1970, she became the first woman ordained in the 3,000,000 member Lutheran Church in America. She continues as Lutheran pastor at the university to the present time.

Rev. Darrel Urban, pastor of Good Shepherd said that Rev. Platz is preaching at the church

REV. ELIZABETH PLATZ in conjunction with the national convention of the Lutheran Church in America held in the Hynes Auditorium this week. All are invited to the service with a coffee hour immediately following.

Continental Singers, Orchestra In Concert At United Presbyterian

The Continental Singers and Orchestra, will present a concert of contemporary Christian music Sunday at 10 a.m. outdoors at the Fort Square United Presbyterian Church, 16 Pleasant St., South Quincy.

Their two hour performance, "A Celebration of Musical Praise", includes anthems, spirituals, hymn arrangements and contemporary gospel music. Also, they will feature selections from "The Apostle" and other Cam Floria musicals, plus a stirring American Bicentennial production - "Here's Life, America!"

The Continental Singers have been on tour each summer since 1963. In addition to performing in all 50 states, they have toured throughout Europe, South America, Australia, New Zealand, South Africa, the Orient, the Caribbean Islands and Canada. Last summer they spent six days in the Communist countries of Poland and East Germany singing to over 12,000 people.

Brad Holmes, who directs the Continental Singers and Orchestra, is now in his third year with the Continental Singers. He served as assistant director for the 1974 group to the Caribbean, and the 1975 tour that traveled extensively in the United States and Canada.

Senior Citizens To Help Make Veterans Memorial Wreaths

The Quincy Department of Veterans Services and the Council on Aging are getting together on a unique project that promises to save the city money while decorating its veterans' memorials with floral wreaths.

Instead of purchasing the wreaths at an annual cost of more than $1,000, the Veterans Department will provide the materials, artificial flowers, ferns and ribbons, and the Council on Aging will muster its Senior Citizens to put them together.

Pasquale S. DiStefano, director of veterans services, said the savings to the city "could exceed several thousands [of dollars] over a two-year period. The Veterans Services Department has purchased sufficient materials to make 50 wreaths as a pilot project and a crafts instructor has been assigned by the supply firm to conduct a two-hour instructional seminar at the Council on Aging office.

The assembled wreaths would be stored by the Veterans Services Department for use on Flag Day, Memorial Day, Veterans Day and other patriotic observances.

● Babe Ruth Baseball Police Club Clinches N.L. Title

The Police Boys Club clinched the Quincy Babe Ruth League's National League championship with a 12-1 romp over Elks, one of three wins during the past week. Police has a 19-2 record.

Bob Mezzetti was the winning pitcher against the Elks, hiking his record to 6-1. He gave up only two hits and struck out three. Larry Baker and Tom Brennan had two hits apiece and Fran Donovan, Kevin McKinnon and John Sullivan also had hits and scored runs. Bob Cronin had a run-scoring triple. Billy Foley and Du Bois had the hits for Elks.

The Police also walloped second place Sons of Italy, 11-2, with Donovan and Billy O'Connell combining for a two-hitter. Donovan gained his fourth win. He also hit a home run and triple. Cronin a bases loaded triple and a single, Brennan, Baker and O'Connell two hits apiece and McKinnon a run-scoring single. Paul McDermott and Bob Hayes had the only hits for Sons of Italy. Granite City Electric forfeited to Police when it couldn't field a full team.

The race for the American League title remains hot and Saturday's 10 a.m. game between first place Firemen Local 792 and Morrisette at Adams Field will have a direct bearing on the crown. This week's games will determine the three top teams which will represent the league in the city playoffs.

Firemen walloped Granite City Electric, 10-1, behind the one-hit pitching of Dave Austin. His mates gave him good support and also collected 10 hits.

Gino's defeated Firemen, 7-5, with Bob Ceurels pitching five-hit ball. Steve Buckley had a double and single for Gino's, Bop Lindenfelzer had two singles and Bob Howlett, Brian Donovan, John Newcomb and Bill Cooke also had hits. Paul O'Toole reached four times with a single and three walks. For Firemen Austin had a single and two walks and pitcher Artie Roberts also reached three times.

Gino's also topped Bryan VFW Post, 6-4. O'Toole pitched four-hit ball and struck out 12. He helped his own cause with a triple and double. Howlett had a triple and Donovan a double. For VFW Harry Donaghue had a double.

Golden Print outslugged VFW, 15-13. John Todd was the winning pitcher with outstanding relief help from Bob Maloney in the final inning. Pat Ennis was the loser. Al Singh had three hits and Steve Picot, Chris Lamphere and Danny Sandomato two each for Golden. Mike Quinn was outstanding in the outfield. Donaghue, Dom Canavan and John Keaney paced the VFW.

Spotted Jim's Talents Early

Mele Rice's No. 1 Booster--And Helper

SAM MELE

By TOM SULLIVAN
Quincy Sun Writer

Some people were surprised last summer at the rapid improvement of Jim Rice as an outfielder, but don't include Quincy's Sam Mele, Red Sox scout and trouble shooter in that group.

"I never worked with a more dedicated player than Jim," said Mele, who is credited with improving the batting and fielding of many of the younger Red Sox players. "When we had him in the Florida Instructional League, he would come to me and ask me to hit grounders to him over and over again. Usually, I have to ask a player to stay and work on his fielding or hitting, but not Rice.

"He was always a natural hitter but he knew he had to work on his fielding and would ask me to stay after the games to work with him. We wanted to keep him out of some games but he insisted on playing, so we made him the designated hitter. I knew, the way he worked at it, he would come along in the field and he proved it last summer."

Sam explained that he saw Rice play in high school and Legion ball three times with Scout Mace Brown, who signed Jim for the Sox.

"We went to Sparta, North Carolina, to see a young pitcher," Sam said. "We first saw the kid riding in a pickup truck with a pig between his legs and holding a rifle. The truck hit a bump, the rifle went off and the bullet pierced his pitching hand. We still went to see him pitch but he was unable to hold the ball, so we made the 300-mile trip to Anderson, South Carolina, to scout Rice.

"Two other teams had the chance to sign him before we did. But when he showed up in the second inning of a Legion game, one scout lost interest, saying Jim couldn't want to play too badly, showing up late, but Mace and I checked it out and found, he was working in a small store and the boy who took over for him was late in reporting for work and, not wanting to leave the owner in a bind, Jim stayed until the other boy arrived.

"The other scout was told by his team to check into a motel and sign Rice right up but he then was told the team had signed another player, leaving a clear field for us. It didn't take long for Mace to sign him up."

Mele went on to explain that many times in the minors, pitchers hit Rice intentionally but he never complained and the next time he would come up he would hit the ball "a mile".

Sam also cited an incident which prompted veteran American League umpire Nestor Chylak to go to Sox owner Tom Yawkey and tell him what a gentleman Rice is.

"In one game Rice went after a fly ball and he and Fred Lynn felt a fan had interfered with the ball. They ran in to complain to Chylak, who sent Lynn back to the outfield and talked it over with Rice. He asked Jim what he thought and then told him how he saw it and how he called it. Without complaint, Jim went back into the outfield and Chylak later told Yawkey what an unusual young man Rice is."

Jim is very conscientious and plays hard at all times," Mele said. "He is faster than he looks, slides hard to break up double plays and is durable. He would play every game if he could."

Sam recalled that when playing for the Instructional League team, Rice once had to go home because of illness in the family. The team struggled while he was gone but when he returned he hit one "a mile" his first time up and he gave the team a big lift.

"I honestly can't see either Jim or Fred Lynn being hit with the so-called sophomore jinx," Sam said.

Sam also worked with Fred Lynn, who captured nearly every honor last summer. "He was the complete player and the only thing I found wrong was his pulling the ball all the time," Sam said. "I told him he could hit to all fields and not to pull all the time. You saw the results of this."

Sam, one of the most valuable members of the Sox staff, works nearly all year round. In the spring he directs the minor league training camp in Winter Haven, seeing things run smoothly, taking care of all problems and helping relieve many of the headaches for Minor League Director Ed Kenney.

Sam then goes all over the country to scout high school and college players and prepare for the June draft.

After that he goes to the Sox Elmiria team of the New York-Penn League and coordinates their training together with Frank Malzone and Charley Wagner. Sam does a lot of work improving the players' batting and outfielding.

JIM RICE

Mele then visits all the Red Sox minor league teams, Rhode Island [formerly Pawtucket], Bristol, Winter Haven, Winston-Salem and Elmira again, working with the players on all these teams. In September Mele takes over as one of the coaches of the Boston team's entry in the Florida Instructional League, which operates until just before Thanksgiving.

Mac Rider manages the team with Wagner and Johnny Podres as coaches along with Sam. Malzone reports later to work with the infielders and Coach Don Bryant handles the catchers. Johnny Pesky also has joined the staff during the past couple of years.

The Sox team won the league title last fall with Kansas City second. As usual, the Red Sox team was the youngest in the league.

Patti Miceli Qualifies

In Junior Olympics Shotput

Patti Miceli, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Miceli of 9 Rice Road, Wollaston, and a student at Central Junior High School, represented the Quincy Track Club and qualified in the shotput [14-15 year old class] in the Junior Olympics recently in Randolph.

Patti had a toss of 29 feet, 3 inches, and was invited to the AAU district trials in Syracuse, N.Y.

Saville 3rd In Junior Olympics 2-Mile Race

Quincy High's John Saville, one of the top sophomore runners in the state last year, made an outstanding showing in last week's Region 1 Junior Olympics two-mile run at Syracuse, N.Y.

Saville finished third and qualified as an alternate for the National Junior Olympics Aug. 20-23 in Memphis, Tenn. If either of the top two finishers in Syracuse, both high school graduates, is unable to run in the nationals, he will be replaced by Saville.

The winner in oppressive heat was Tim O'Connor of New Jersey, who finished in 9:38.6. Second was Tom Dalton of Syracuse, with a 9:39.8 timing. Saville's time was 9:48.5.

"John ran a fine race and I think it was an outstanding performance for him to finish third in a strong field," said his coach, Joe Catalano. "He was the youngest runner in the race but led at the three-quarters mark. The more experienced O'Connor and Dalton overtook him but it was a tremendous effort by John to win the bronze medal."

Oilers Open Season Sunday

The Randolph Oilers, who boasted the best defense in the league last year, will open their Eastern Football League season Sunday when they host the Manchester, Conn., Riflemen in a 2 o'clock game at Randolph High School Field.

Among Randolph's players are former Quincy High quarterback Ted Meyer and Quincy's Kevin Cotter, a guard who played at B.C. High. Both played prominent roles in helping the Oilers gain the playoffs a year ago.

Morrisette Opens Lead Over Quincy

Morrisette Legion baseball team has opened up a two-game lead over Quincy in the Zone 6 title race which has come down to a two-team fight.

Morrisette raised its record to 13-2 Monday night with a 7-0 win at Holbrook, while Quincy made its mark 11-4 with a 12-1 trampling of Randolph on the same night.

Friday Morrisette plays at Randolph at 6 o'clock and Wollaston hosts Quincy at 8 at Adams Field. Monday Morrisette meets Weymouth at 8 at Adams and Wollaston plays at Braintree at 6. Tuesday it will be Hingham at Quincy and Morrisette at Cohasset at 6 and Holbrook at Wollaston, 8 at Adams. In the final regularly scheduled games next Wednesday Morrisette and Wollaston will clash at 8 at Adams and Quincy will be at Cohasset at 6.

Morrisette Pitcher Tim Clifford was at his best Monday at Holbrook, pitching a two-hitter and striking out 12. He fanned every Holbrook batter at least once. The win raised the big righthander's record to 7-1.

Morrisette had only five hits but took advantage of six walks. Dave Perdios had two hits and drove in three runs, Paul Messina drove in two and Jim Roberts one. One of Perdios' hits was a two-run homer in the seventh inning.

The three-hit pitching of Mike Kelly and the tremendous batting of Paul Vespaziani paced Quincy's easy win. Kelly had nine strikeouts and three walks.

Vespaziani drove in six runs with a first inning single, a grand slam homer in the fourth and a triple. Preston Carroll had a double and single, Steve Bell two singles and Lew Fishman one. All drove in runs.

Last Friday Milton handed

Burke South Coach In Agganis All-Star Game

North Quincy's Dave Burke will be one of the South coaches in the annual Harry Agganis schoolboy all-star game Aug. 6 at Manning Bowl in Lynn and he will have four of his Suburban League champions with him.

Burke, who will be joined by Walpole's John Lee and Newton's Norm Walker, will Quincy's title chances a jolt, breezing by a surprising 13-2 score.

Quincy's pitching and hitting both faltered. Preston Carroll continued his torrid hitting with two triples, but otherwise Quincy's attack was shackled by relief pitcher, Joe Garrity, who was outstanding.

Winless Wollaston had a typical night as it led Cohasset, 6-2, after five innings only to have two costly errors enable Cohasset to tie it up and go on to win, 7-6.

Nick Anastas pitched well again only to have his defense let him down. Wollaston, which has been improving at the bat, had nine hits, with Tom McBride and Roy Widman having two apiece.

Earlier in the week Morrisette hiked its record to 12-2 with a 6-2 win over Canton as Pat Gibbons pitched four-hit ball to make his record 6-1.

Morrisette, which had 12 hits off Mark Sullivan, son of Red Sox Vice President Haywood Sullivan, scored three in the first and added a single run in the third and two in the sixth.

Chuck LoPresti and Jim Roberts had three hits each for Morrisette and Paul Messina had two.

Quincy topped Holbrook, 6-3, as Mike Kelly pitched seven-hit ball and struck out 12. Kelly gave up all three runs in the bottom of the seventh.

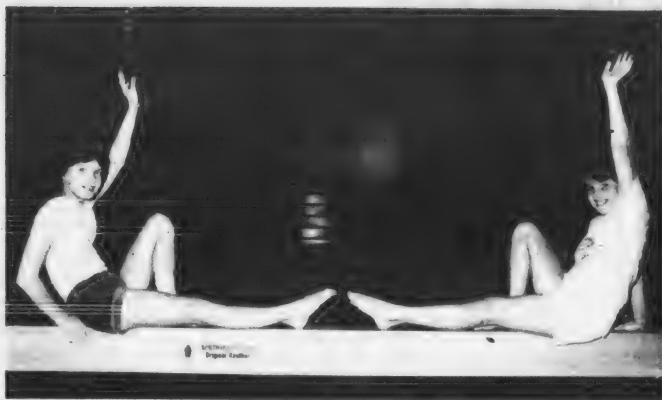

Paul Vespaziani had two hits, Carroll drove in two runs with a hit, Mark DeLuca drove in a run with a long triple and Jim Duggan also had a run-scoring single.

Wollaston bowed to Milton, 5-1, trailing by only 2-1 after four innings. Steve Jaehnic and Anastas held Milton to six hits.

Wollaston had only five hits, two each by McBride and Widman.

have the Raiders' Brian Doherty, Cooper Jordan, Matty Constantino and Jack Hatfield, plus Quincy's John Riggs.

The annual game pits the South Shore All-Stars against the North Shore stars and proceeds go to provide college scholarships.

Austrian Wrestlers To Meet YMCA Team Here

Twenty Austrian wrestlers will make Quincy their first stop on a two-week tour of New England when they come here from Aug. 3 to 6.

The Austrian grapplers from the Wals-Salsburg Athletic Club of Salzburg will stay at the homes of Quincy wrestlers during their stay and will tour Quincy and Boston and hold workouts the first two nights of their stay in preparation for the Aug. 5 showdown with the Quincy YMCA wrestling team.

The high school-age wrestlers are coming as part of an exchange program sponsored by the AAU and US Olympic Wrestling Committee.

Jim Rendle, physical director at the Quincy Y, said, "The reason they are coming here is because of the push we are making in this area for wrestling. Quincy and North Quincy High schools are just starting to build wrestling programs and a lot of people are pushing it at the Y. The AAU officials were impressed with the program we have."

Following its stay here, the Austrian team will go to Lowell and to Maine.

The Quincy Y program currently boasts 40 members who practice three or four days a week under Coach Norm Collier. It will be interesting to see how the Quincy boys, most of whom wrestle at Quincy and North Quincy High, do not only in free-style wrestling, but in Greco-Roman which will also be part of the Aug. 5 match.

"We are giving them a crash course in Greco-Roman now, it is something new to them," Rendle explained.

In preparation for the Austrian match, the Quincy Y team will travel to Maine Saturday to face a group of wrestlers who wrestled Greco-Roman in Austria last year.

Sears Edge Keohane's As Earl Hurls 4-Hitter

In one of the best pitched games of the season, Sears edged Keohane's, 2-1, for its 15th Quincy Junior Baseball League win.

Sears is in the thick of the battle for the American League title, and Keohane's is one of the favorites in the National League.

Paul Earl pitched four-hit ball for Sears to edge hard-luck loser Brian Reale, who suffered his first loss. Reale, dropping to 9-1, allowed only two hits, one each by Jim Austin and Bob Flynn. Earl struck out 11 and walked only two.

A double play by Sears ended Keohane's threat to tie the game. With the tying run on third and one out, Brian Deitsch caught a fly and threw to catcher Dean Zola to catch the runner.

Fluffy Bunny Bluebirds Visit Quincy Sun

Bluebirds from the Fluffy Bunny group visited the office of The Quincy Sun recently, to view the workings of newspaper firsthand.

The girls, all of Wollaston, are, Nancy Pujalte, Nancy Johnston, Nancy Amendolare, Debbie Borden, Tracy Tower and Karen Runge.

Ann Amendolare, group leader, accompanied the girls on their tour. Susan Amendolare, Campfire Girl assistant and Jane Amendolare, mascot of the group, also attended.

Sponsor and assistant leader of the girls is Elinor Pujalte.

The girls visited the advertising and editorial offices of the newspaper. They then toured the production department where they saw a type telling of their visit set into type on an IBM computer system. They also saw news headlines set on a Compugraphic 7200 photo typesetting machine.

They watched a paste-up artist fix their story into proper position on paste-up boards.

After a brief explanation of how The Quincy Sun is printed, the girls asked questions about what they had seen on their tour.

Before leaving the office, each girl received a complimentary copy of The Quincy Sun.

Licensing Board Report

La Cucina Restaurant Gets Approval For Sidewalk Cafe

By TOM BRADY

The owners of LaCucina, a Quincy Center Restaurant received permission to open a sidewalk cafe in front of the restaurant at 79 Parkingway at a meeting of the City Licensing Board Tuesday.

Thomas LeVangie, an owner of LaCucina said the new cafe would be a European style restaurant serving European food as LaCucina currently serves, but out doors on private property in front of the restaurant under umbrellas.

The Licensing Board granted the request, but limited the number of seats available to a total of 40 at 10 tables. The board also approved a change in the corporate structure of the restaurant in which Nicola DiLibero replaces David Cohen as the company's treasurer.

The board also approved a long running request from Tom O'Brien Pontiac Sales for permission to extend the current dealership license to include a new location at 626 Washington St., Quincy Point.

In two previous meetings, Building Inspector Allan MacDonald blocked the approval of the request although all other parties involved had sought approval.

However, at this meeting, MacDonald agreed to the request after Rep. Robert Cerasoli and several others appealed to him to keep the site from becoming a gas station or bar, two possible alternatives which are opposed by the abutters.

MacDonald said his change of mind was "not because I approve of used car lots, but because the abutters want it."

The board approved the motion subject to restrictions including screening, landscaping and the removal of a current license for the property which allows the retail sales of gasoline.

The board also heard complaints from residents of the area around the DeMatteo Construction Co., 200 Hancock St., North Quincy, concerning the condition of the lot and various kinds of work being performed in the open disturbing the residents.

One resident, John Pickrell of 8 Price St., which borders the side of the lot complained that the junk in the yard has been continually piled up and that DeMatteo workmen have spray painted, sand blasted, and performed other similar work in the open directly across the street from his home.

Pickrell said the paint and sand from such operations have covered the homes and residents.

City Councillor Dennis Harrington, speaking for the residents, asked the Licensing Board to try to exert some pressure on the DeMatteo Construction Co. to get the lot cleaned and the disturbing work halted.

Atty. John Flavin, representing DeMatteo, told the board that he had not heard the specific complaints until the board meeting and said he would investigate them and advise his client to respond to the requests.

Flavin asked the board to continue the hearing until the next board meeting and the board agreed, directing him to return to the board on Aug. 17 with a response from DeMatteo.

In other action the Licensing Board:

- Granted a license to operate an auto body shop and store 500 gallons of inflammables at 489-495 Hancock St., North Quincy, to Robert and Patricia Crosby subject to a number of restrictions on wrecks and tow trucks in front of the building and subject to the approval of the fire department.

- Approved a change of name and manager for Maguire's Cafe Inc., 619-627 Washington St., Quincy Point, which will now do business as Shamus's Pub under the management of Vincent Guarniere.

- Granted a license to Firestone Stores, 2 School St.,

Quincy Center to store 500 gallons of gasoline in tanks of cars to be repaired.

- Continued until Aug. 17 a hearing on a request for a common victualers license from Mrs. Mildred Egan to open a sub shop called Rick's at 723 Washington St., Quincy Point, because another license for the site exists.

- Continued until Aug. 17 a request from Paul Mantia owner of an Exxon gas station at 671 Washington St., Quincy Point for a permit to store 8,000 gallons of gasoline in addition to present storage. The board indicated that an inspection of the station by the entire board would be undertaken before the license request is approved.

- Continued until Aug. 17 a request for an auctioneer's license from Raymond Rivera of 243 Newport Ave. Wollaston.

- Granted a license to St. Boniface parish, Germantown, for a carnival to be held Aug. 11-14 on the parish grounds at 26 Shed St., subject to approval by the building inspector.

- Granted a permit to Mass. Fair Share to conduct Tag Days July 23, 24, 30 and 31, as part of its drive to lower electric rates.

- Granted a permit to the Quincy Track Club to conduct a Tag Day Aug. 7 to raise funds to support the club.

- Approved a request from the Sagamore Grill Inc., for permission to install a pinball machine at 78 Sagamore St., North Quincy.

- Approved a request from Sully's Spa, 28 Chestnut St., Quincy Center, for permission to install a pinball machine.

Historical Society Opens Library-Museum Friday

The Quincy Historical Society will officially open its Library-Museum in the old Adams Academy Building, 8 Adams St., at 3 p.m. Sunday [July 25].

Members will be admitted upon presentation of membership cards while others will pay a nominal charge to view exhibits that will feature

Quincy history in the South Room and wedding dresses in the North Room.

Lawrence J. Yerdon is director of the Library-Museum.

Among those assisting in gathering and interpreting the Quincy exhibits were: Gordon Carr and Henry Nilsen, granite; Hobart Holly, maritime; George Horner, Germantown glass and Indians; and Larry Yerdon, Adams Academy.

Commemorative china was loaned by the family of William Edwards Jr.

The Quincy history exhibit is designed to be permanent with changes being made from time to time from the Association's collection of memorabilia.

Mrs. Rudolf Oberg, Mrs. Frank Wiot and Miss Helene Johnson assisted Yerdon in preparing the exhibition of wedding dresses from the QHA's large costume collection.

Fundraiser Planned For Michael Morrissey

A fund-raiser for Michael W. Morrissey, Democratic candidate for state representative in the Third Norfolk District, will be held Tuesday, July 27, from 7:30 p.m. to midnight at the North Quincy Knights of Columbus.

There will be dancing with music by "A Touch of Class". Refreshments are planned. Tickets may be purchased at the door or by calling 328-6039.

Paul Donnelly Attends Conference

Paul Donnelly, son of Mr. and Mrs. William F. Donnelly of Squantum, attended the National Future Farmers of American Bicentennial Conference recently in Washington, D.C.

Donnelly is a member of the Norfolk County FFA Chapter at the Norfolk County Agricultural High School, Walpole.

Mandated By State

Next Bad News: The Sewer Tax

The LaRaia Administration and the City Council have taken the first steps toward laying a new tax on the long-suffering people.

But there is not much they can do to avoid it since it's mandated by state and federal law, and, once the full impact of it is sorted out and understood, it may result in reduced real estate taxes.

It's called the "sewer users charge" and it operates something like the water user charge currently in effect and if Quincy does not have one by Dec. 31, 1977 then the MDC is empowered to slap one on itself.

An order to implement the sewer users charge surfaced at the City Council meeting Tuesday night but the Mayor's office has been exploring it since the first of the year and the consulting firm of Metcalf and Eddy has been studying it for the city for a month.

The sewer users charge was mandated by the state for all cities and towns in the MDC system under legislation passed last December. The receipts go toward expenses of the MDC sewer system.

Most of the sewer expenses currently paid by the city would be taken over by the MDC with a good deal of that reimbursed by the federal government, which could mean a reduction in city taxes.

In order to obtain the federal reimbursement, however, certain changes might have to be made in existing facilities to meet clean water standards.

And, of course, once a tax becomes a users charge it is lost to the taxpayer as a deduction on his or her income tax.

It's that complicated - and it has to be accomplished by Dec. 31, 1977.

QHA To Receive $242,000 For Repairs

Congressman James A. Burke [D-Milton] announces that the Quincy Housing Authority will receive $242,000 in federal funds to help pay for the residing of the exteriors of several QHA-owned buildings.

The money comes from the Federal Modernization Program, administered by the Department of Housing and Urban Development.

Delahunt Names Kelly Youth Service Officer

Dist. Atty. William D. Delahunt has appointed City Councilor Leo Kelly as a youth service officer in his Juvenile Diversion Program.

"I am most pleased to have secured the services of Mr. Kelly for a program which I feel confident will be a success in terms of both immediate benefit to the juveniles and as a method for relieving the congestion in our juvenile court system," Delahunt said.

According to the Norfolk County Treasurer James Collins' office, the post currently pays $12,373.

Kelly was a co-founder and a former president of the Gresham Youth Center in Houghs Neck. He also was the first vice president of the South Shore Council for Children and was primarily responsible for the division of that council into two separate and distinct agencies, which resulted in increased funding for the council's programs dealing with youth in the South Shore.

Kelly was an active consultant to the South Shore Council on Alcoholism and was especially involved in the creation of its adolescent division. Delahunt noted that the use of alcohol by local youth has "increased dramatically" and said Kelly's experience in this area "would be vital".

Kelly was elected to the City Council from Ward 1 in 1973.

Delahunt, who initiated the juvenile program several weeks ago, said the initial response "has been most gratifying." He said that in the last calendar year, out of 1,000 cases heard in the juvenile sessions at Quincy District Court, only 14 resulted in commitments to the Division of Youth Services. In the vast majority of the remaining 986 cases, the youths were put on probation or the cases continued without a finding.

In the Juvenile Diversion Program, the juvenile offender is given the option of being placed under the supervision of the District Attorney's juvenile staff. If at the end of the period of up to one year the juvenile offender has complied with the conditions laid down by the District Attorney's youth service officer, the case will not be prosecuted. "This should dramatically reduce the case load in the Quincy District Court," said Delahunt, allowing judges more time for serious matters.

New Schedule At Fore River

Recreation Center

City recreation director Robert K. Beniers announces a change in the hours at the Fore River Clubhouse Recreation Center sponsored by the Quincy Park-Recreation Board.

The new summer hours will be Monday and Tuesday from 6 until 9 p.m. Wednesday and Thursday hours have been postponed.

The Youth Center is open for pre-teens and teenagers who live in Quincy. The program consists of pool, bumper pool, ping pong, ceramics and various crafts.

Assistant director Frank Brillo said the center will resume the postponed hours as soon as attendance warrants it. The center is staffed by Steve Paolucci, Joe Marani, Andrea Quinn and Cathy Ilacqua.

Would Aid NQHS, Public Works, Hospital, Recreation Projects City Could Get 'Several Million' In New Federal Funds, Says Tobin

By TOM HENSHAW

Quincy is eligible for "several millions of dollars" in newly appropriated federal funds for public works and City Council Arthur H. Tobin wants the city to move swiftly to get it.

The money, says Tobin, could be applied toward such things as the city's share in the cost of renovating North Quincy High School, additions to the Public Works garage and City Hospital, and repairs to streets, sidewalks and Little League baseball fields.

"These projects can be accomplished at no additional burden to the taxpayers of our city and will also create jobs for our construction and building trades and put people back to work," Tobin said in a letter to Mayor Joseph J. LaRaia.

He recommended that the Mayor call an immediate meeting of department heads and city councillors "to chart a course of action ... establishing priorities and concerns in order to be fully prepared and to act as expeditiously as possible" to get the money.

Tobin said that Congressman James A. Burke [D-Milton] has assured him that he is "willing and able to devote his energies in Washington to help Quincy and any other community in his district to obtain the maximum amount of money available."

The funds are part of the $3.95 billion public works and aid-to-cities bill which was passed by the House last Thursday over President Ford's veto. Proponents of the bill said it would create more than 300,000 jobs nationwide.

The amount of money available to each community will be determined by the speed with which it files applications, how soon the project can be completed and the number of unemployed persons it will put to work.

Tobin's letter to LaRaia said: "As you know, the Congress of the United States recently

Citizens Task Force Proposed

Business Leaders Hail S. Quincy MBTA, Opponents Meet To Plan Action

The MBTA made the peace sign to Mayor Joseph J. LaRaia Tuesday but the Mayor opted for at least one more review of his troops before agreeing to cooperate, reluctantly, with construction of the proposed South Quincy station.

MBTA Chairman Robert R. Kiley urged Mayor LaRaia to appoint a task force to work with the MBTA staff so "that we can confront the design and engineering problems before us and resolve them to the satisfaction of all concerned."

The Mayor told The Quincy Sun that he would have no comment on Kiley's request until after a meeting of "community leaders" scheduled for Tuesday night at City Hall "primarily to look for alternatives that would keep the station out of South Quincy."

But, he added, "we would be foolish not to consider how we would handle both outcomes. We will discuss Mr. Kiley's task force. We will prepare ourselves for either outcome."

Construction of the controversial South Quincy station, which has been opposed by almost every political leader in Quincy, became virtually inevitable last week when the Urban Mass Transportation Administration granted $21 million to build it.

At the same time, Dorel Steel Corp. of North Quincy began work clearing the right of way between Quincy Center Station

Raymondi Criticizes Mayor For Creating New Jobs

Ward 2 Councillor Daniel G. Raymondi has reaffirmed his opposition to new positions for which Mayor Joseph J. LaRaia is seeking City Council approval.

Raymondi declared:

"At our last council meeting July 20, there were 20 items on the agenda and nine of those items had to do with the creation of additional positions to the city payroll at a cost to the taxpayers of approximately $95,000;

"Three of the positions - Energy Coordinator and two Inventory Control Coordinators - were recommended by the Mayor to be established within the Purchasing Department at a cost of $37,500. However, there was no mention of these positions when the Mayor presented his budget to the council and there was no mention of the need for these positions when the department head testified before the council in open budget session.

"Furthermore, in a report sent to the council from the

Initial NQHS Bids Opened

Bids for the initial work on the planned $13.5 million renovation and addition to North Quincy High School were opened Tuesday and taken under advisement by Mayor Joseph J. LaRaia.

The lone bidder on demolition work was the Napoli Wrecking Co. of Boston, $59,242.

The only bidder on site preparation and filling work was Sylvestre A. Ray, Inc., of Marshfield, $24,689.

Other bids covered two different types of pilings.

Frankl Foundation Co. of Boston was sole bidder to furnish compacted concrete piles with a bid of $242,000 plus $9,000 for each pile load test conducted.

There were two bidders on pre-cast, pre-stressed concrete and structural piles.

Low bidder was R. A. Francoeur, Inc., of Salisbury, Mass. $348,500 plus $14 per lineal foot for pile footage over or under the base quantity and $9,800 for each pile load test conducted.

Second bidder was Carter Pile Driving, Inc., of Natick, $383,790 plus $15.75 per lineal foot for pile footage over or under the base quantity and $11,300 for each pile load test conducted.

Starlings No Fine Feathered Friends To Quincy Point Residents

Starlings that roost under Fore River Bridge are anything but fine feathered friends to nearby Quincy Point residents.

In fact, the pesky birds have become one big Excedrin headache - multiplied a thousand or more times.

Rep. Robert A. Cerasoli in response to complaints is trying to solve the problem but at the moment, the birds still have him up a tree.

Cerasoli has told State DPW Commissioner John J. Carroll that "thousands of these birds roost under the Fore River Bridge presenting a continual annoyance to the residents in the area of the bridge and Whiton Park."

"Every evening at approximately 7 p.m. thousands of Starlings descend into the trees around Whiton Park and gather there for approximately a half hour. Thus, the surrounding houses become covered white with bird droppings. The birds then descend into Whiton Park to feed and then descend to their overnight roosting place under the Fore River Bridge."

Cerasoli said one woman has already become ill as a result of the unsanitary conditions caused by the birds and that many of the houses have to be washed down with hoses each week.

"Five years ago the DPW combated this problem and eliminated it for a period of time," Cerasoli noted. But Carroll informed him that the DPW's 1975 proposals for a further pesticide program were overruled by the Environmental Control Group and this year the DPW is again filing a proposal to chase the Starlings away.

Cerasoli said he will now appeal to the U.S. Department of Fisheries and Wildlife and the Massachusetts Audubon Society for suggestions for a program to move the Starlings out without the use of pesticides that will adversely affect the environment.

Cerasoli Reminds Builders

$1 Million Available For Solar Heating Equipment

There is at least $1 million in federal funds available for the installation of solar heating equipment for housing and Rep. Robert A. Cerasoli [D-Quincy] feels not enough Quincy builders and housing officials are aware of it.

"This is an exciting opportunity for involvement in the development of solar energy as an alternative to fossil fuels," said Cerasoli. "I hope many building people and housing authorities will take advantage of the grant being offered by HUD."

Cerasoli said the types of construction eligible for the grants were outlined in a request for proposals received by Christine Sullivan, the state consumer affairs secretary, from Washington July 6.

"Applicants may include builders erecting homes as model homes for speculation, redevelopers who wish to place solar equipment in existing homes, and public housing authorities," he said.

"However, individuals may not receive grants for their own homes under this program."

Grant applications may be requested from the Department of Housing and Urban Development, 451 7th Ave., S.W., Room 8158, Washington, D.C. 20410, with the request marked to the attention of Mary Landis. Deadline for applications is Sept. 1.

Growth Policy Committee To Make Final Review Of Questionnaire

Members of Quincy's Growth Policy Committee will meet tonight [Thursday] at 7:30 p.m. at the Public Works Building, 55 Sea St., in the lower level conference room.

At the meeting the committee will conduct a final review of the city's completed growth policy questionnaire. The report will then be forwarded to Quincy's regional planning agency, the Metropolitan Area Planning Council, and to the State Office of Planning.

The committee will also discuss what future activities are required of it to comply with the State legislation which established the statewide project. In addition, they will discuss various activities the committee might want to pursue as a result of its research on Quincy growth and development issues.

Special Voter Registration Dates Set For Sept. 14 Primary

It's voter registration time again for the Sept. 14 primary elections.

City Clerk John M. Gillis issued the reminder this week, along with a list of times and places where unenrolled but qualified voters may sign up to cast their primary ballots.

The closing date is Tuesday, Aug. 17.

Registration may be made

Flood Control Includes Tunnel Under Downtown

The MDC is preparing its final report on the Town Brook Flood Control Project and the Army Corps of Engineers will recommend an early start on the work, which includes a tunnel under the downtown Quincy business district.

Rep. Robert A. Cerasoli [D-Quincy] said he was informed of progress on Town Brook in a letter from Col. John H. Mason of the Corps of Engineers.

"The report is scheduled to be completed and submitted to the Army Corps of Engineers by early September," said Cerasoli.

Col. Mason said he will recommend early construction. The project will include repair and utilization of the Old Quincy Reservoir, enlarged culverts, channel widening, new conduits and a deep-rock flood pass tunnel under the Quincy business district.

Not Like Aries

Q. I was born on April 16, 1936 at 3:05 A.M. in Worcester, Mass. So many times I have read my horoscope and it just does not seem that I am a true Aries. However, the date does not seem to indicate that I was born on the cusp of the month. Could you please tell me something about my Stars?

J.E.D.

A. As explained in previous articles in this column, the Ascendant, Sign rising in the East at the moment of birth, is very important. The Sun on your date of birth was in Aries as was Venus, but the sign of Pisces was rising at 3:05 A.M. E.S.T. and the planet Saturn was in Pisces in your First House.

While the position of the Sun shows your possibilities which are excellent, being aided by the very favorable aspect to the planet Jupiter in Sagittarius in your "midheaven", you will first need to learn to understand and master your inner self before you evolve to your full potential.

When I see Saturn in Pisces in the First House, I can think of no better advice than to quote William Shakespeare...

"This above all: to thine own self be true, and it must follow, as the night the day Thou canst not then be false to any man."

Your First House Saturn in aspect to Neptune in your Seventh House suggests that others cannot deceive you if you analyze your own feelings first so that you are not self-deceived. Early in life you may be inclined to worry at times and feel depressed or even feel like giving up some hope or wish or sort of "crawl within yourself."

In time you can develop into quite a friendly person interested in others and attract a large circle of friends and acquaintances. Jupiter in your Tenth House in favorable aspect to your Sun indicates as a general rule, employers or superiors think highly of you and are inclined to be of help.

For questions to be answered through this column, mail the year, month, day of the month, city of birth, time of day if known and question to Ask Oscar, Box 114, Canton, Mass. 02021. Please sign your name which will not be published. Selected questions can only be answered in this column.

Today's Women

Officers To Meet Aug. 2

Mayor's Commission On Women Planning New Season Activities

The Mayor's Commission on the Status of Women is planning activities for the coming season.

On Aug. 2, the outgoing officers, including Alicia Coletti, chairwoman, Jane Ford, co-chairwoman, and Carol Mahoney, recorder, will meet with the newly elected officers, Trudy Buckley, chairwoman, Mary Weaver, co-chairwoman, Rhonda Merrill, correspondent and Ann Aronson, recorder.

They will discuss general program areas and plan for the first Commission meeting in September.

This past year, Commission members have worked on a wide range of projects of particular concern to women, including community services, career guidance, employment, and education.

Projects have included a Career Night for Junior High School students, preparation of booklets on employment aids, community services for women, and human services for pre-schoolers, and a series of workshops on important women issues.

This year's activities may include a continuation of these programs as well as several new activities. Some possible new areas which the Commission may explore are programs with senior citizens and career opportunities for women interested in returning to work. Suggestions and advice for program activities from the community are welcome. All possibilities will be reviewed and discussed by the Commission in September.

The Commission is also now finalizing its membership for the coming year. Women interested in becoming involved in the work of the Commission should contact Mrs. Buckley.

Are You Getting Your Money's Worth At Food Counter?

It's a wise food shopper who knows what he or she pays for at the check-out counter, especially for processed meat and poultry products.

To help spread shopping wisdom to the public, the U.S. Department of Agriculture's Animal and Plant Health Inspection Service is offering a consumer reference list of over 200 popular meat and poultry products. The list briefly describes standards required of items federally inspected and specifies the amount of meat or poultry each product must contain.

To cite a few: Meat pies and chili con carne with beans must have at least 25 percent meat; a high meat dinner for babies must have 30 percent meat [65 percent for a meat and broth and brothy baby food item]; corned beef hash must have at least 35 percent meat and no more than 15 percent fat; condensed chicken soup must contain at least four percent chicken meat; and Sloppy Joe sauces with meat are required to contain at least 35 percent meat.

A copy of the complete Consumer Reference List may be obtained from: Information Division, APHIS, U.S. Department of Agriculture, 26 Federal Plaza [Room 1653], New York, N.Y. 10007.

Central Students Cited At Achievement Breakfast

A bicentennial motif featured the Annual Achievement Breakfast as Central Junior High School, honoring those students who, in the opinion of the ninth grade executive board and teachers, did the most for the school in the past school year.

This year's guests were:

Peter Silverstein, Joan Kenney, Nancy and Ellen MacDonald, Gary Wilcox, Francis LaPierre, John Francis, Mark Roberts, Debra Biagini, Lori McGrath, Deborah Belanger, Ralph Pickering, Kathleen Mahoney, Robert

Welch, Irene Stevens, Margaret Burchill, David Carboneau, Nancy Smith, Patricia Irvine, Joseph Venezia and Douglas Nickerson.

The breakfast menu included orange juice, pancakes, bacon, eggs, muffins, donuts, hot chocolate, coffee and milk.

It was prepared, cooked and served by members of the office staff, Principal Vincent Moscardelli, Carter Caudle, Joseph Ryan and Mary Catherine Iannone, guidance counselors, assisted by Mario Casale and Fred Crowther.

Financial host for the breakfast was the Central School-Home Association.

The Great History of South Boston

Another in a series presented by the South Boston Savings Bank

First American Olympic Champion South Boston's James Brendan Connolly

At Athens, Greece in 1896 the Olympic Games were revived for the first time in 1500 years . . . and a South Boston man became the first American Olympic champion. "Jim" Connolly won his event the hop, skip and jump with a leap of 45 feet. By winning in 1896 Connolly started the long list of Gold Medal winners that takes us right to Montreal in 1976 eighty years later.

When Connolly arrived in Greece he was 12 days late because the Greeks were still using the Hellenic calendar. Connolly figured to arrive in Athens March 23rd by the American calendar, but to his amazement March 23 was April 6 according to the Greek calendar the first day of the events. Instead of having two weeks to train he stepped right into action, with Prince George of England and Prince George of Greece as his line judges. Jim jumped 45 feet winning the event by three feet, three inches.

Following the Olympics of 1896 Connolly went on to world fame as author of adventure sea stories about the fisherman of Gloucester.

Teddy Roosevelt once said "If I were to pick one man for my sons to pattern their lives after, I would choose Jim Connolly."

Jim Connolly died at the age of 88 on January 20, 1967 after a fabulous career of writing and adventure and knowing he was the first man in modern history to win an Olympic event.

The South Boston Savings Bank salutes the former South Boston great and hopes that his inspiring story will shed some light on the youth of all cities and towns.

MONEY TALKS

Coming To Grips With Living After 65

By Philip J. Lawrence, President

Colonial Federal Savings and Loan Association of Quincy, Holbrook & Wareham

8-6 Weekdays

8-7:30 Thursdays

Ten years ago the Dow-Jones Index was moving upward toward the 1000 pinnacle, and economic conditions gave every reason for continued optimism. Yet President Johnson had called for a "war on poverty", and various informed sources were identifying poverty and deprivation as the plight of two-fifths of the nation.

Sociologist Michael Harrington summed up their appraisals in this un scholarly language: "There are a hell of a lot of poor people in America today."

Heavily hit were the over-65 persons, a growing proportion of the national population by reason of increasing life expectancies. Especially vulnerable were women of 65 and older, whose ratio in numbers to men was expected to climb from 134-100 to 150-100 by 1985. A Senate committee report showed that in 1966 six out of every ten aged unrelated women had incomes below the poverty line.

That was ten years ago. Little the present picture presents little that would show the war on poverty has been won.

A study by the Bureau of Labor Statistics provides benchmarks on what it costs a retired couple [husband 65 and wife] to live under today's inflationary conditions.

Its figures show that the costs for urban retired couples rose between 11.0 and 11.5 percent from autumn 1973 to autumn 1974. An urban retired couple [husband 65 and wife] could expect the cost of an average intermediate budget to be $6,041. Average cost of the lower-level budget amounted to $4,228, and the higher budget reached $8,969 per year.

Food costs were up 12.9% at the low level, 10.4% at the intermediate level, and 10.1% at the high level. These costs were based on daily expenditures of $3.63 for food for two at low level, $4.82 at intermediate level, and $6.05 at high level.

Annual housing costs ranged from $1,410 low and $2,043 intermediate to $3,199 high.

Metropolitan areas were more costly than non-metropolitan areas, reflecting differences in price levels, consumption patterns, climate and transportation, the Bureau noted.

Even with retirement some years away, these figures suggest that a couple would do well to project its anticipated after-65 income from Social Security, pension, and other sources and do what it can now to implement them with prudent savings programs.

Wollaston Youngsters Raise $34 For Muscular Dystrophy

Five Wollaston youngsters raised $34.28 for Muscular Dystrophy during a carnival held earlier this month.

The youngsters, Carol McMahon, Sheila Barrett, Patrice McDermott, Hugh McDermott and Paul McDermott, were under the direction of Mr. and Mrs. Paul McDermott of 74 Elm Ave., Wollaston. The carnival was held at the McDermott home.

Events at the carnival included a bean count, soak-the-duff, two raffles, dart throw, a white elephant table and refreshment stand.

Edward McCarthy Receives Navy Achievement Medal

Petty Officer Second Class Edward M. McCarthy, son of Mrs. T. McCarthy of 77 Bay State Rd., North Quincy has been awarded the Navy Achievement Medal.

Commander Daniel A. Desko, commanding officer of Antarctic Development Squadron SIX [VXE-6], made the presentation in ceremonies held recently at Pt. Mugu, Calif.

McCarthy received the award for superior performance of duties while serving as a member of a maintenance repair team recovering a severely damaged aircraft on an isolated antarctic plateau. "In effecting these repairs, he displayed exemplary dedication, technical skill, resourcefulness and initiative," the citation said.

As an Aviation Structural Mechanic, McCarthy maintains and repairs aircraft structures, surfaces, safety equipment and hydraulic systems.

You Can't Rig Beauty Pageant

Ordinarily when we get a letter like this one and the writer hasn't the courtesy—or courage—to sign his or her name, it usually goes into the round file.

But because of the accusation in this one, we'll make a rare exception.

THE LETTER: "I was a spectator at the Miss Quincy Bay Beauty Pageant and I would like to congratulate you and the others that worked so hard to make it a success. The pageant ran smoothly and I am sure a lot of thought went into the makings so that the girls participating would feel at ease.

"The one thing I object to is the girl that was chosen Queen. She had neither beauty nor poise. There were at least a half-dozen girls that had both beauty and poise and were not chosen for even the finals.

"It was quite obvious to me and others that this was all pre-arranged. It is too bad that politics has to enter a small intimate thing like a pageant. Isn't there anything left in this country that is honest anymore. The next time you pick a queen ahead of time make sure you start to choose finalists from different parts of the alphabet not two before the queen's name and two after. It was a dead give away.

"Would the editor of The Quincy Sun print this letter? I don't think so.

A Quincy Spectator.

COMMENT: Well, we just printed it. So that makes you wrong once.

And for you to claim the pageant was rigged, makes you wrong again. The fact is there is no way it can be rigged. The girls are judged in evening gown and swimsuit competition and for poise, personality and overall beauty. Each is awarded from one to 10 points in each of these categories by each of the five judges, who don't see the other judges' tally sheets.

The five girls with the most accumulated points become the five finalists. The five draw questions and points from one to 10 are awarded for the answers.

The girls with the most total points is the winner. The four with the next most points in order are the runnersup. The judges don't even know who the winners are until the names are announced.

The simple but fault-proof arithmetic system was devised by Leslie Brierley, retired Quincy banker. He and assistants add up the points when the judges' tally sheets are collected. But he doesn't have the names of the girls—only their numbers. He doesn't know who the winner is until the girl's number is matched to her name.

As for the names of the winner and the runnersup being close to one another, why is that so strange? The girls line up alphabetically. If someone was trying to rig the pageant, they certainly would have mixed the alphabet up a little, and not have the five winners so close alphabetically.

For someone to accuse the judges of rigging the pageant is ridiculous. They don't see the girls or one another until minutes before the pageant starts. They are reputable individuals of considerable community stature.

And to make the accusation is quite unfair to the winner and runnersup.

There will always be a difference of opinion about who is the prettiest of 18 girls—any 18 girls, or any two girls for that matter. That's only natural. In fact there were three girls I thought before the start of the pageant would be among the finalists. But because they were nervous and somewhat frightened, and walked too fast on the runway, they lost valuable points on poise, personality and overall beauty as the pageant proceeded.

I wasn't a judge, but think the winner has beauty, poise and a lot of personality. So have most of the girls. But there can be only one winner.

As the Quincy Spectator noted, a lot of work did go into the pageant. And it's too bad some people who disagree with the selection of a winner have to accuse everyone else of dishonesty and spoil what is intended to be a pleasant summer's evening for a few thousand people.

It reminds me of the pageant of four or five years ago when a loudmouth know-it-all spread the word around downtown that the pageant had positively been rigged for a certain girl.

The girl [it was supposed to have been rigged for] wasn't even entered in the pageant.

REP. JOSEPH BRETT, seeking his 10th term in the Third Norfolk District, says he again this year will not post political signs because "they detract from the appearance of the community." And asks all other candidates to do likewise.

But refraining from posting campaign signs, challengers argue, benefits incumbents.

YOUNG MIKE MORRISSEY, one of those challenging Brett in the Third District, is putting his heart and feet into his campaign, you might say. He estimates he has already been criss-crossing the district knocking on more than 1,000 doors.

City Could Get Federal Funds

[Cont'd from Page 1] passed a billion dollar appropriation bill to stimulate a sagging economy. Included in this appropriation package is approximately $1.2 billion for aid to local communities for employment, $700 million for water treatment, and approximately $2 billion for public work projects.

"My office has contacted officials in Washington, who have advised that local communities have within 60 days after regulations and guide lines have been established to file grant applications in order to be eligible for this federal money.

"The Washington officials also advised that the area in which these monies would be made applicable would be as follows: street and sidewalk improvements, water treatment, sewers, renovating public offices, libraries, recreation facilities, health facilities, fire, police and schools.

"Several of these categories are most apropos to the needs of our city.

"This would be an excellent opportunity to repair streets and sidewalks, to upgrade and improve Little League ball fields and other sports and recreation facilities for our school children, to consider construction of a multipurpose senior citizen complex, to apply for Federal monies for a new hospital addition, to consider construction of administration office space so the city will not be encumbered by additional rentals, to renovate and add on to the existing Public Works garage, and to seek Federal monies to be applied toward the North Quincy High School.

"These projects can be accomplished at no additional burden to the taxpayers of our city, and will also create jobs for our construction and building trades and put people back to work.

"I recommend that the office of the Mayor of our city call an immediate meeting of all department heads in city government and invite concerned members of the City Council to chart a course of action in meeting federal guide lines and regulations in establishing priorities and concerns in order to be fully prepared and to act as expeditiously as possible in filing these grant applications.
